Marrying Anne

A Short Story.

Anne stood in the doorway in a pink flowery kimono, and with her pretty hair in two long braids hanging down her back. Anne is always thus arrayed when she wants to "talk." I recognized the signs and I made a hasty reach for my gloves.

"I'm in such a hurry, Anne," I cried. "Dear me, where are those gloves—thanks. I'm going to the station and the train's in at 5 o'clock. Alice simply begged me to go to meet Jack Holland—"

"Yes, I know," interposed Anne gloomily. "Alicia said this morning she was going to ask you. I had thought perhaps she would ask me, but no matter. Oh, Nell, I'm so miserable!"

Her lips began to tremble and I was by her side directly. Then, with my arms around her, I led her over to my favorite chair beside the little log-wood fire.

"It's my awful money—and a man," she said. "I ought never to have come to Broad Lawns, but I did want to see Alicia married. I might have known he'd be here. You've been such good friends, all of you. I—I believe I'll go home—to-night."

"I believe you'll do nothing of the sort," I told her promptly.

"But I must go," insisted Anne fearfully. "Every time I meet him he treats me for all the world like a mere summer girl back in town for the winter, with just a nod, scarcely a word. And—and I try so hard to be nice to him. No, I don't mean that—it isn't difficult to be nice to him, Nell. It's all my horrid money—I hate it!" she flashed suddenly. "You remember last summer at the mountains how jolly and happy we all were—you and I and Alicia and Bob and Jack and Phil? Of course, you do. That was before grandmother left me her money. But now that I've so much and he has so little—"

"As if that mattered!" I cried quickly.

"It does to some people," Anne nodded. "You see, he won't ask me to marry him because of my money, and I can't ask him to marry me, Nell. So I thought, perhaps—" She hesitated and looked at me with her pretty head held high and walked straight over to the door. There she turned and faced me, her hands pulling nervously at the folds of her kimono.

"I'm sorry to have detained you, Nell" she began, "and I hope you won't miss Mr. Holland. And don't think any more about what I've said, please. Of course you can't understand. You have everybody—father, mother, a sister, brothers, while I have no one."

"Anne!" I cried, ashamed and sorry.

But she had gone. I hurried down the steps and away. I was ten minutes and so was the train.

Jack Holland came sweeping down the platform looking intently about him, very tall, very broad and well tanned. I saw him before he saw me.

"Er—Mr. Holland!" I called.

He saw me and came hurrying up, bowed his head and we shook hands.

"This is jolly good of you, Nell," he said and climbing up beside me, we started off up the road.

I didn't choose the shorter way—the other is much the better, really, and father spent a lot of money to build the new road. And then I couldn't help thinking of Anne and of father and mother and of the boys and Alicia. What in the world would I do without them? Why, Alicia's marriage was a tragedy to the whole Paget family!

If I was silent, so was Jack Holland; and no one has ever known Jack to keep quiet for two minutes at a stretch.

"It will seem strange at Broad Lawns without Alicia," I said presently, when the silence had got on my nerves.

"Langhorne's a lucky fellow," he returned, but without enthusiasm, I thought, considering that Alicia is called the loveliest girl in the country.

"We shall miss her terribly," I tried again. "I especially shall be lonely. You see I've five brothers, but only one sister and Alicia and I have kept together all our lives. But I suppose one can become accustomed to almost anything in this world, even losing Alicia. Now I should think you'd be lonely with only your pictures."

I held the reins tightly and looked straight ahead of me up the long, dusty road.

"Why—don't you marry?" I asked.

He laughed, but it wasn't the old laugh we have enjoyed together so often when he'd tell some deliciously funny little story. There was a harsh, ugly ring in it somewhere.

"Why don't I marry?" he asked. "A mere painter-chap, who just can't get the sky tints right, when she has a thousand dollars to my even penny! Nell, you might as well ask why the children believe the moon is made of green cheese."

"That's an easy one," I said triumphantly. "The children are taught to believe the moon is made of green cheese."

"The same as we are taught in America that a poor man may not ask a rich girl to marry him without being classed with the foreign invasion," he cried. "Oh, Nell, you mean well, but—"

But if the girl loves the man—what then?" I asked and my heart beat like a sledgehammer. Would he never answer?

"Even then the man's lips are sealed unless the girl lets him feel sure," he replied.

"Do you remember last summer, in the Adirondacks?" I asked presently.

"Yes."

"And the lovely times we had together—you and Phil and Bob and Alicia and I? And now Bob and Alice are to be married, while you and Phil and Anne and I—Anne is a dear pretty girl, not a great beauty like Alicia, but a dear," I broke off, lamely.

"Miss Beverley is very charming," he agreed.

Five minutes more, I could see the portico quite plainly now—Alicia and Bob were on the steps.

"I—I think you are doing a very foolish thing, Jack Holland," I said, and I felt the color creep into my cheeks. "Simply because she happens to have a little money—and she doesn't want it; not a penny of it—are you going to be silly, just silly? I know she does care more for you than for all the money in creation."

"—" then he took me in his arms and kissed me and said, "You darling!" before I quite knew what had happened.

"You mean it? Say again you mean it, Nell!" he cried. "Oh, you wonderful, wonderful girl!"

"But Anne?" I whispered and then I remembered and drew away my hand.

have patched it up? Billy, Nell!" he cried. "I tell you the Adirondacks last summer have a lot to answer for."

"Jack," I said weakly, "do you think Anne and Phil are in love with each other?"

"Why, I know it!" he laughed happily. "It's that blessed money her grandmother left that has caused all the unpleasantness. Phil's so confounded proud, you know. But it was bound to come right. I knew it all along!"

Then I just let him have the reins and I cried and laughed and laughed and cried and didn't care two straws if Alicia and Bob were on the porch and saw me. I've seen Alicia and Bob.

"Oh, Nell Paget, you little fool!" I said again and again.

"Don't say that another time, I forbid you to slander that lady," whispered Jack as he helped me down.

and Bob came forward and the three of them laughed and talked all at once, for Jack is to be Bob's best man and they had pulled at college together and all that just as Anne and I had done.

I thought Jack wouldn't see, and I tried to slip away quietly, but he did and he called me—with a new note in his voice he had never used before to me.

"But I will be gone only for a moment," I told him, with a glad little smile. "I want to speak to Phil Glenn—just a moment, Jack. You can surely wait that long when I've waited since last June."

Bob laughed and Alicia said "oh-h!" and Jack asked: "So soon?" What in the world do you want with Phil Glenn?" "I don't," I returned promptly. "It's Anne."

Stomach Troubles

OFTEN COME FROM WEAK, EXHAUSTED NERVES — GREAT RESULTS FROM USING.

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

When the nerves become exhausted the first sign of trouble often comes from the stomach. The nerves which control the flow of digestive fluids fail and the result is loss of appetite, indigestion, nervous headache and sleeplessness.

Opiates and narcotics cannot possibly do more than afford temporary relief, and aids to digestion are merely make-shifts. To get well you must get the nervous system back into condition by such treatment as Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food. Here is a letter which illustrates the point.

Mr. John McLean, 316 Hunter St., W., Hamilton, states: "My trouble was principally with my stomach. As a result of weak nerves my appetite was poor and I had severe attacks of indigestion. I found that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food relieved me and since using it regularly for some time my digestion is excellent, my appetite is good, my nerves strong and vigorous and I feel an altogether different person. I feel very grateful for the benefit I have derived from this medicine."

If you are in earnest about a cure why not make it thorough by using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food regularly and persistently until the whole nervous system is restored and you can know again the joys of living."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers; or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

GIVEN 3 LIFE SENTENCES

NEW ORLEANS, LA., SEPT. 28.—Three sentences of life imprisonment, the second to begin at the close of the first and the third to commence at the expiration of the two preceding, have just been imposed upon Garfield Kinchen, in the court at Amite, for participation in the murder of "Bussy" Breeland and his family, over six months ago.

Kinchen pleaded guilty to three indictments for murder in the first degree, and in imposing sentence the Court specifically provided that the sentences were to be consecutive and not concurrent.

On this decision statisticians now are busy. Thirty-one years of age at present, Kinchen may be expected to live 40 years longer, when the allotted three-score and ten will have been passed. Presuming that he died at the age of 71, he then will commence his second term, and here the mathematical sharps are at sea. Shall this sentence commence from the time of his new birth, in infancy, or shall it start at the age of 31 years, as in the first case, or shall it begin at 71 years, when he presumably will be dead?

Such, too, is the problem in the third sentence, and the courts may be questioned on the subject. In fact, the entire proceeding is open to legal elucidation.

ONE-THIRD OF CAT'S LIMIT

On the whole the tendency is to allow him forty years on each life sentence, thus making an aggregate of 120 years. This at least will cover one life period, and perchance a couple. Fortunately, there were only three indictments, otherwise the case would have been more complicated.

So, Kinchen now is wearing stripes in the penitentiary at Baton Rouge, whence he will soon be transferred to a State convict farm at Angola, there to remain for the balance of his three lives. Still, the pardoning power, which here is vested in a board of pardons, is almost as greatly overworked as by Governor Patterson in Tennessee, and Kinchen may breathe the air of freedom long before finishing even his first sentence.

The murders for which Kinchen has been punished were undoubtedly the most brutal ever perpetrated even in Tangipahoo Paris long notorious for homicides of the most cowardly description, and resulted in the formation of a vigilance committee, which has somewhat discouraged the playful pastime of treacherous homicide.

On his way to a new home, "Bussy" Breeland, an old man, was leading a cow along a lonely country road about dusk. Accompanying him, in a buggy, were his wife and daughter, whose husband had just been murdered, and his daughter's infant in his arms. None had any suspicion of danger, and none was prepared to resist sudden attack.

Suddenly, from the dark of the woods, shots from heavy guns rang out, and Breeland fell, mortally wounded, in his tracks. With the one man of the party disposed of, the murderers rushed on the two women and the baby, shooting the defenceless women dead and beating the infant's brains out against a tree. Then the assassins fled in the dark.

Just before he breathed his last, Breeland was found by a couple of farmers, and with his dying breath accused Avery Blount, Ben Kinchen, and Garfield Kinchen of the crime. Eventually Blount was convicted and hanged, Ben Kinchen was first convicted, but later acquitted, and "Gar" Kinchen escaped to the swamps, where he has hidden for months.

Almost dead from exposure, however, Garfield Kinchen recently surrendered, and within an hour had been sentenced "for life" in three indictments, as explained.

Incidentally, it may be stated that "life sentence" in Louisiana permits the release of a well-behaved prisoner in fifteen years, so that Kinchen may get out in forty-five years after all. Perhaps it is considered next to impossible for a man to live more than fifteen years in a Louisiana prison.

No murder has been recorded in "things is mighty dull," as the residents put it.

"Hyde! Tangipahoa next!"

HIS DAUGHTER KNEW THE RIGHT REMEDY

To Cure Kidney Trouble

The United States is all right, you know, but Uncle Sam's doctors have not found a cure for serious Kidney Trouble. When sick folks down there want to get well, they send to Canada for Gin Pills.

At least, that is the way Mr. H. S Ball, of Oxford, Ohio, was cured of a bad case of Kidney Disease.

Mr. Ball took the usual remedies prescribed by the doctors, and wore plasters, and was rubbed with liniments—but steadily grew worse. In a letter to his daughter, who lived in Canada, Mr. Ball wrote of his serious condition. His daughter immediately sent him two boxes of Gin Pills, which did him so much good that he knew he had found the right remedy at last.

July 25th, 1909.

"Find enclosed one dollar for which please send me two boxes of Gin Pills. My daughter sent me two boxes and I had a bad case and am getting well fast. I find lots of men down here in the same fix that I was in, and I shall surely recommend Gin Pills to everybody."

H. S. BALL.

Gin Pills are a product that every Canadian may take pride in, and one that thousands endorse. They are made by the largest wholesale drug house in Canada, who fully guarantee every box. In fact, Gin Pills are sold with a positive guarantee. If, after taking Gin Pills according to directions, you can honestly say that they have not done you any good, simply return the empty boxes to your dealer and your money will be promptly refunded.

For Kidney Trouble, for Irritated and Inflamed Bladder, for Pain in the Back, for Constipation and Biliousness which usually accompany Kidney and Bladder Troubles—Gin Pills are a certain and speedy cure. 50c. a box—6 for $2.50. ### Newspaper Artist Missing.

Montreal, Sept. 30.—Ralph Edward an artist, employed on the staff of The Morning Star, has been missing since Tuesday afternoon, and there is every reason to believe that he has met his death on Lake St. Louis. On Tuesday afternoon, Richard South, a boy employed by Henry Dobell at his summer home in Dixie, saw a man rowing up the lake in the direction of Dorval Island. An hour later he picked up the boat near the Dixie shore, where it had drifted. The former occupant of the rowboat had disappeared, and subsequent search established the fact that he was not on the island.

Hon. D. C. Fraser Buried.

New Glasgow, Sept. 30.—The funeral of the late Lieutenant-Governor, D. C. Fraser, took place yesterday afternoon with the simple ceremony of the Presbyterian Church. At the late Lieutenant-Governor's request, there was no official funeral, no display, but there was an outpouring of people from the surrounding towns. Gen. Drury, head of the Canadian forces in the maritime provinces, represented the Government and Governor-General, and Col. Page represented the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec. Acting Premier McLean and the members of the Government were present.

Bourassa Suspicious.

Montreal, Sept. 30.—The little Canadian named Henri Bourassa sees imperialism in everything. Now Le Devoir wants to know what the Quebec Government is going to do about the Strathcona Fund, as it will be remembered that some time ago the Canadian High Commissioner gave a quarter of a million for the instruction of the Canadian youth in military and physical drill.

Le Devoir reminds its readers that Lord Strathcona is an ardent imperialist, and says that this fund should be watched.

Change Not Wanted.

Montreal, Sept. 30.—Speaking for the Province of Quebec, La Presse says that Quebec does not want any part in the proposed modification of the B.N.A. Act, with a view to give to the smaller provinces a larger representation in the House of Commons. The French daily concludes thus: "When we sign a just and equitable arrangement, we are ready to support the consequences without complaint.

Acquitted on Shooting Charge.

Toronto, Sept. 30.—Victor Castilano, an Italian, was acquitted by the sessions jury of shooting with intent at Carle Ross in a row in a house on Chandos avenue, in August. There had been a general fight following upon a much mixed love affair, in which Castilano and another were rival suitors, and Ross an intending peacemaker.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—George W. Patten, the millionaire grain operator, who died Wednesday night of tuberculosis at the home of his brother, James A. Patten, in Evanston, left a fortune estimated at $5,000,000, the greater part of which, it is said, will be left to public charities, including a large donation for the furtherance of the anti-tuberculosis campaign.

Cholera Closes Port of Naples.

Naples, Sept. 30.—The work of the port has been suspended practically in consequence of the cholera epidemic in the poorer quarters of the city. All foreign steamship lines refuse to take on either passengers or freight.

Ancient Banks.

Banks existed in China, Babylon, Greece and Rome before the Christian era. The earliest records of European banks are those of Venice founded A. D. 1171.

To Annul Marriage

And Now Michael Fraser's Second Cousin Would Annul Marriage.

Barrie, Sept. 30.—The celebrated case of Catharine McCormick, to annul the marriage of her 80-year-old second cousin, Michael Fraser, on the ground of insanity, comes before Justice Britton to-day. The first shot was fired last night, while the jury were out in the McNulty murder trial.

John King, K.C., counsel for Fraser and his new wife (Miss Robertson), asked his lordship to excuse the old gentleman from coming down to Barrie.

"We object very strongly to having him brought from Orillia, as he is in a very serious state with 'arteris sclerosis.' Dr. Raikes, his family physician, has been attending him regularly of late, and has made an affidavit that it would be a very dangerous thing to move him down here for the examination for discovery, and it was taken to Midland.

"I suggest, my lord, that you go up there and interview him, as it would be too great a risk to bring him down here."

Judge Britton: "Would it be a greater risk to him to come here than for me to go to Orillia? I certain do not propose to take a trip of that kind."

Mr. McDonald, K.C., counsel for Mrs. McCormick, also objected.

"It has been my learned friend's tactics all through to delay. I am informed that Fraser has been out in a canoe lately, and he goes out driving and riding in an automobile."

"Are you going to advance canoeing as an evidence of his insanity?" laughed the judge.

"Well, I certainly do object to those affidavits."

Mgr. Fallon's Troubles.

Montreal, Sept. 30.—A member of the school board of Notre Dame du Lac, Walkerville, Ont., writes La Patrie as follows: "I am afraid that Mgr. Fallon cannot get away from the accusation that weighs upon his head for having forbidden the use of the French language in the schools of his diocese.

"As a matter of fact, the bishop's edict has caused trouble in all the schools of the County of Essex. We have, for instance, had an interview with the Sisters of Notre Dame du Lac, and we asked the superior who gave the order to suppress the use of French in the schools, and even forbid the language to be spoken. The directress replied that the mother superior of the Convent de St. Joseph, London, had been called to the bishop's palace in London, and had received her instructions from Mgr. Fallon himself.

"In fact, it is my duty to add that all the troubles the French-Canadians of Ontario are now having came from London."

Waiting Word From Ottawa.

Washington, Sept. 30.—The Department of State, under President Taft's direction, has made all preparations to act as soon as word is received from Ottawa indicating the intentions of the Dominion Government concerning the proposed reciprocity negotiations.

With the return of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the various Cabinet Ministers to the Canadian capital, and with the recent arbitration at The Hague, eliminating the Newfoundland fisheries dispute from all controversy, the ways have been cleared for negotiations for commercial agreements between Canada and Newfoundland respectively on one side and the United States on the other.

Hung Himself In Root House.

Wingham, Sept 30.—Yesterday Donald Ross, a young farmer of about 30 years of age, who resided with his mother and sister in the Township of Kinloss, near Whitechurch, committed suicide by hanging. The young man left home to assist a neighbor threshing, and being wanted, it was found that he had not been there. A search was instituted and the dead body was found suspended from a beam in the toothouse. He must have been dead some hours. No reason can be assigned, as he was of a very cheerful disposition.

Made False Reports.

Montreal, Sept. 30.—The ex-Convict Woods, who, with his chum, O'Sullivan, has been employed by Secretary Roberts of the Dominion Alliance to watch the hotels who sell whisky after hours, had a bad comedown yesterday, having been sent to the King's bench for trial, charged with making false reports against places they had never visited. It transpired that Woods had deceived his employers at every turn.

Preferred Altar to Jury Box.

Ottawa, Sept. 30.—A novel case came up before Judge Champagne in the Hull superior court yesterday, when a witness wrote that he could not attend because he was being married. In his letter he says he laid the case before his fiancee, but she only smiled and said: "I need you more than the judge does." The excuse of the witness was accepted, and he will not be made liable for contempt of court.

Imperial Temperance Conference.

ARE AFRAID OF "BIG STICK"

Special to The Examiner.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., SEPT. 30. There was much burning of midnight electric light by the leaders of the New York Democratic Convention here in an effort to settle the policy for the coming Governorship election. It was finally decided to fight for control of New York State on national issues, and make the high cost of living and tariff laws the big features. Charles Murphy, of Tammany, is still controller.

CELEBRATED 25TH YEAR IN PRIESTHOOD

Rev. Father McGuire, of Downeyville, Has Laboured For a Quarter of a Century in the Priesthood

FRIENDS' CONGRATULATIONS

(Lindsay Warder.)

Rev. P. J. McGuire, the popular pastor of St. Luke's church, Downeyville, celebrated his twenty-fifth anniversary in the priesthood on Wednesday last, Sept. 21st, by the celebrating of high mass at nine o'clock.

A very large congregation was present, Rev. Father McGuire being the recipient of many congratulations.

In the afternoon the children of the parish were present and spent a most pleasant day on the parsonage lawn indulging in games and sports of various kinds. Rev. Father McGuire was ordained twenty-five years ago, and since that time he has spent a year and a half as curate in Lindsay, eleven years in Muskoka and Parry Sound district, seven years in Hastings, and the past five years at Downeyville. His many Lindsay friends also congratulated him upon his anniversary.

Clark's Pork and Beans

People doing hard physical or mental work, find Clark's Pork and Beans admirable for restoring the vital forces. They are not only nourishing, but appetizing and digestible. Wm. Clark, Mfr., Montreal.

BIG GATHERING

Rexall Men Hold Big Banquet in Boston

BOSTON, MASS., SEPT. 30.—The most important convention of its kind ever held in the East ended here last night, when more than 1,800 stockholders of the United Drug Company, and some six hundred ladies, members of their families, attended the annual banquet, which marked the finale of three days' successful meetings, in which business and pleasure were enjoyably combined. It was the eighth annual banquet for those who stand responsible for the famous Rexall remedies, and it surpassed its predecessors in every way. During the convention President Liggett outlined what had been accomplished in the past year, showing that the number of stockholders had increased until there are nearly 4,000 druggists affiliated with the company, representing the leading ones of the United States and Canada, all working with the one idea of advancing Rexall remedies.

THE NEW BRIDGE

Bobcaygeon Structure is Now Nearly Completed

LINDSAY, SEPT. 29.—The new Little Bob bridge at Bobcaygeon is fast nearing completion, and a short while ought to see the structure open to traffic.

Yesterday Warden Tiers, several members of the county council, and County Clerk J. R. McNeillie, inspected the work done, and were well satisfied. The two steel spans have been placed and the concrete work finished but the approaches are as yet but roughly filled with stone. The bridge is going to be a credit to the enterprise of the county council when the final touches are applied.

TROUBLES IN CHINA

Cables This Morning Say That a Repetition of the Boxer Rising is Imminent—Friends of Missionaries Alarmed

WARSHIPS ARE READY

TORONTO, SEPT. 30.—There is a rush of inquiry to the Mission headquarters here concerning the safety of missionaries in the human provinces of China, where, according to this morning's cables, a repetition of the Boxer rising is imminent. From Manilla, in the Philippines, comes word that the United States warships and troops are under sailing orders. There is expectation of trouble. The feeling against the Manchu Dynasty is near the explosion point. The missionary leaders here express uneasiness, but have received no word.

MUSICAL EVENT OF SEASON

Will Be To-night's Concert in the Armouries by the 57th Regt. Band and Assisting Talent

SPLENDID PROGRAMME

To-night's concert by the 57th Regimental Band, assisted by the 57th Buglers and drummers, Miss Lavina Hallihan, Miss Katie Leary and the Ark quartette will commence with military precision at 8.15 o'clock sharp and there promises to be a record attendance. The programme should be one of the most popular of the year from an artistic point of view. Miss Hallihan will sing two numbers, the Ark Quartette will be heard in a selection and Miss Katie Leary will recite. The numbers by the band include Sousa's March, "Semper Fidelis," introducing the drums and bugles, "The Mill in the Black Forest," "Le Fremersberg," the overture "Semiramide" by Rossini, a medley of Harry Lauder songs and a sacred selection, introducing the chimes. The admission will be silver collection, (ten cents).

DELINE IS REMANDED

Appeared Before Magistrate Edmison This Morning For Preliminary Hearing, But An Adjournment Was Made Until Thursday Next

AWAITING REPORT

Hugh Deline, the Belmont township man, alleged to have caused the death of his wife, appeared before Magistrate Edmison this morning for his preliminary hearing, but Crown was not ready to proceed, and His Worship remanded the prisoner until Thursday morning next at ten o'clock, at the Peterborough Court House. It at that time the analysis of the clothes has been received from Toronto, an adjournment will be made to Havelock, where the preliminary proceedings will take place. Since the majority of witnesses reside in the vicinity of Havelock, the Crown deems it best to hold court there.

BOTH PRISONERS ARE SENTENCED TO BE HANGED ON FOURTEENTH OF DECEMBER

Thomas McNulty and Mary Dolan Condemned to Death by Mr. Justice Britton for the Murder of Their Child---"I Want You to be as Light as You Can on McNulty," Pleaded Poor Girl Before Sentence Was Pronounced

Special Wire to the Examiner.

BARRIE, SEPT. 30.—To be hanged on the fourteenth of December. This is the terrible sentence pronounced by Mr. Justice Britton this morning on both Mary Dolan and Thomas Mc Nulty, convicted of murdering their illegitimate baby and throwing it into the cold waters, coffined in a suit case. It is a sentence without precedent in the annals of Canadian Crimin al justice, inasmuch as the male prisoner never saw, much less laid hands on the baby, and he is condemned to die for murdering.

It was a strange scene in court this morning. The wife of the condemned man was there to show her tears in his defence despite his infidelity to her. The relatives of both prisoners were out in force. When everything was so quiet that you could hear a pin drop, his Lordship asked the convicted girl if she had anything to say. "I want to say," she said, "that all I said in this court room is true. I got a letter telling me to strangle the baby. I want you to be as light as you can on McNulty." His Lordship merely stated his sorrow for the poor girl and her past life. He omitted the black cap.

The words of the sentence fell like death bells on the audience. "You shall be taken hence on December 14th, 1910, and hanged by the neck till you are dead."

She shrieked and fell to the floor, and was carried out. McNulty, when called, again denied that he wrote the letter. The Judge advised him not to expect much mercy from the recommendation which he would forward to Ottawa. Then he pronounced the same sentence. The prisoner moaned and stumbled out with the assistance of the guards and followed by his faithful wife, who was stunned by the blow. There will be an appeal.

ROYAL COMMISSION ON TECHNICAL EDUCATION TO MEET HERE MONDAY TO HEAR LOCAL MEN

Word has been received that the Royal Commission on Industrial Training and Technical Education will meet in this city on Monday next October 3rd. The object of the visit of the Commission is embodied in the following letter to Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P., and afterwards turned over to Industrial Commissioner Duggan:

Dear Sir,—I have the honour to intimate to you that the Royal Commission on Industrial Training and Technical Education, proposes to visit places according to the itinerary outlined in the sheet which is enclosed herewith. On behalf of the Commission I am to express our earnest desire and hope that the work of the Commission may be fruitful of benefit to each of the localities which it is able to visit, as well as to the Dominion of Canada as a whole.

Our Commission will give particular attention to the manufacturing industries, to agriculture, to domestic occupations, to mining, to the fisheries, to the lumber interests, to the building trades, to the transportation services, as well as to the technical training required for commercial operations.

I should be grateful for any information or suggestions, or lists of names of institutions or establishments which you may kindly cause to be furnished for the use of the Commission, and which would doubtless assist it to ascertain the needs and present equipment of your locality respecting industrial training and technical education.

The Commission will also make inquiry into, (a) the needs of existing industries in respect of labour, (b) the quality of labour which is available, and (c) the needs of such labour for industrial training and technical education. The Commission will appreciate your co-operation in any manner which you may consider appropriate regarding any or all of these matters.

I have the honour to be, sir,
Your most obedient servant,
JAS. W. ROBERTSON,
Chairman.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept 1, 1910.

Members of Commission.

The members of the Commission and the departments of work which they take up particularly, are:

Jas. W. Robertson, C.M.G., L.L.D., Montreal, Chairman of the Commission.

Gaspard de Serres, Montreal, the artistic element in industry and transportation problems.

Gilbert M. Murray, B.A., Toronto, organization of industries and office management.

Rev. Geo. Bryce, M.A., D.D., L.L.D., F.R.C.S., Winnipeg University, and Technological Colleges and Bibliography of Industry.

David Forsythe, B.A., Berlin, Ont., Collegiate and Secondary Technical Schools, and relation of Public Schools to Manual Training.

Hon. John Neville Armstrong, N. Sydney, N.S., Relation of Industrial Training to Legislation.

A. E. Horton, Assistant Secretary.

The Royal Commission, it has been learned, will arrive here on Sunday night, and on Monday they would like to hear the opinions of the Principals of the Normal School and Collegiate Institute, the managers and foremen of the various industrial concerns, the Board of Education, and representatives of the Agricultural Societies.

MR. WILFRID HUYCKE WRITES OF THE EXPERIENCES OF QUEEN'S OWN RIFLES ON THEIR ENGLISH VISIT

Through the kindness of His Honour Judge Huycke, the Examiner is enabled to publish some most interesting letters from his son, Wilfrid, who went to England with the Queen's Own Rifles. The 1st of these appears to-day; the others will follow daily:

My dear Brothers and Sisters,—I don't know how long after the other letter I posted in Liverpool this will reach you, but I hope very soon, as I have neglected writing since Saturday, which seems an awful long time. I think I told you all about my experiences at sea up to very near Liverpool. We had a very nice voyage up the Mersey, and came in when the tide was out and the channel was rather shallow. There seems to be a long channel cut out from the ocean to the river mouth and on both sides are buoys and lightships to mark the channel. On each side there were breakers coming over the rocks, and the water was rather white. The docks are very large, and we saw the Mauretania in the channel, which was going to pull out that afternoon. There was an enormous crowd down on the dock, most of them to see Crippen, I think. After standing around the docks under full marching order for some time we debarked and lined up on the dock outside. We were standing there waiting to move off when a door in the ship's side was opened, a moveable gangway brought up from the deck, and several men and women started out. The door was just a little to one side of where I was standing, so I had a good view of everything that went on. As soon as they saw this party, the whole crowd

ANNUAL DISTRICT CONVENTION OF METHODIST W. M. S. WAS HELD HERE YESTERDAY

Three Interesting Sessions Took Place in Mark St. Methodist Church—Addresses Last Night by Judge Huycke and Rev. Mr. Couch.

THE BUSINESS TRANSACTED

The annual district convention of the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church was held yesterday in Mark Street Methodist church. At the morning session the chair was taken by the district organizer, Mrs. J. K. Moore, who gave a very interesting Bible reading, after the opening hymn of consecration. Rev. C. H. Coon led in prayer for the workers at home and in foreign fields.

After the appointing of a secretary, the reports were read from the different auxiliaries, circles and bands. There was throughout a ring of thankfulness for past blessings, and a feeling that the coming year will be one of even greater success.

From 11.15 to 12 a very impressive memorial service was led by Mrs. Allum of Charlotte Street Auxiliary.

After the singing of a hymn which was followed by prayer by several of the delegates, the names of those members who had died during the year were read. At the name of Mrs. (Rev.) Kenner, Mrs. Campbell spoke at some length of the qualities and lovable disposition possessed by the departed sister. Her life had been spent in service for others, and the great love she bore her Heavenly Master led her to take a very active part in all work pertaining to the advancement of His cause. Her name will long be remembered and revered by those who were more intimately acquainted with her. During her last illness she never murmured or repined, but felt resigned to her Father's will. Another dear departed sister was Mrs. (Rev.) Kilgour, who, for some nine or ten years, laboured in the Charlotte Street Auxiliary. Mrs. Allum spoke feelingly and lovingly of her.

After this service it was moved by Mrs. Campbell and seconded by Mrs. Kelly, that a letter of remembrance be sent to Mrs. J. Kendry and Mrs. Turner, who were unable to attend the convention.

Afternoon Session.

The afternoon session opened at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Speer took the chair. After prayer by Mrs. Campbell, a Bible reading, taken by Mrs. Allum, was very impressive. The thought was the great privilege to think that people could have such close communion with their Heavely Father, and the great good that might be accomplished if they walked more closely in His steps, and more obedient to His call. This was followed by personal testimonials from the delegates, as to the great good they had derived from the W. M. S.

Miss Ethel Gibbs gave a very interesting paper on Missions in General.

Mrs. (Dr.) Middleton gave a solo, which was enjoyed by everyone.

Mrs. (Rev.) Hendersoh, who attended the General Conference with Rev. Mr. Henderson, gave a very clear account of the work carried on in the Crossley Girls' Home in Port Simpson, also the Chinese Rescue Home, in Victoria. Her talk would intensify the interest of those who heard her, in the work done by our Society in that part of the world.

A duet by Mrs. Sargent and Mrs. Howson was appreciated.

The Mission Band conference was introduced by Mrs. Lightfoot, by a very instructive paper on Practical Suggestions as to the Interesting of children in Missions. A good discussion followed, entered into by Mrs. R. Mann, Mrs. Speer and Miss Byers. Mrs Payne read a paper on the importance of training the boys in missionary lines.

Mrs. (Dr.) Morrison gave a good paper on Systematic Giving, and many new converts were won over in favour of the system.

The question drawer was read and answered very satisfactorily by Mrs. (Rev.) Campbell.

The meeting then adjourned till 8 p.m.

Evening Session.

At the evening session the chair was taken by Rev. C. H. Coon.

A selection by the choir was thoroughly enjoyed.

Rev. I. Couch delivered a most interesting address. He spoke of missions as a great success, and of the position the W. M. S. holds with regard to it. No woman could afford not to be a member of the W. M. S. He emphasized the great need of the gospel in heathen lands, and without the knowledge and love of Christ they would die. As Jesus Christ came to save us from eternal death, He came to save them also, and it lies with us to send it to them.

ATTEND THE BAND CONCERT

Editor of the Examiner—

I would like to say a few words about to-night's concert in the armouries, which should be patronized. The band plays each week in the park free of charge, and when they put on an entertainment such as they have arranged for this evening the citizens should show their appreciation by turning out in large numbers. Surely a better programme has not been offered in a long time. Show the band you appreciate the stage of efficiency they have reached by coming to to-night's concert.

Yours, etc.,
"MUSIC LOVER."

LOCAL TALENT MADE A FINE IMPRESSION

AUDIENCE PLEASED

(Lindsay Post.)

A grand concert was held at Bobcaygeon last evening to mark the close of a successful fair. The town hall was crowded to suffocation, a large number being unable to gain admittance. A galaxy of artists had been engaged for the entertainment, and the programme provided was an excellent one. Prof. R. J. Devey, organist of St. John's church, Peterborough was the pianist, and Miss Lavina Hallihan, of Peterborough, soprano soloist, contributed a number of selections which stamped her as an artist of the highest order. She leaves on Oct. 16th to complete her musical education in New York. Mr Lee, also of Peterborough, tenor soloist, delighted the audience with his vocal numbers, as did also Mr. Joe Halpany, from the same city, in story, song and recitation. Mr. Wilson, of Toronto, was the comedian engaged, and he carried the house by storm.

THE WINNING HORSES

Montreal Witness Refers to the Montreal Horse Show

The Montreal Daily Witness, speaking of the Horse Show, says: The afternoon results were amongst other things a triumph for the Hon. J. R. Stratton, of Peterborough, and for Geo. Pepper of Toronto, the former winning the event for hackney mares in harness, and also that for pairs in harness, while George Pepper took firsts in the ladies' saddle horses and the qualified hunters. Mr. Stratton was not astonished at his success. He quite anticipated it, so he told the 'Witness' man as he sat in one of the boxes talking to Senator Beith, of Bowmanville, the latter a noted breeder and exhibitor of hackneys for close on thirty years. Mr. Stratton left for Peterborough last night, regretting that he was unable to stay to see how his further entries fared. It might be a close thing between Mr. Stratton and Mr. Hugh Sutherland as to who owns the best horses in Canada.

SALARY INCREASED

The Finance committee met yesterday afternoon, there being present, Ald. Bradburn, chairman, Mayor Morrow, Ald. Phelan and Ald. Turner.

A number of accounts were examined and recommended to be paid.

It was moved by Ald. Turner, seconded by Mayor Morrow, that $20.00 be paid Mrs. Gardiner, on account of the auctioneer's license fee paid by the late J. H. Gardiner, upon the license being returned at once for cancellation.

Mr. W. J. Green, tax collector, was heard in regard to his request for an increase of salary. It was moved by the Mayor and seconded by Ald. Phelan, that Mr. Green's salary be increased by $100 to date from October 1st, 1910.

The committee then adjourned.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION.

At a joint meeting of the City Council, Board of Education, and Board of Trade, Belleville, on Tuesday night there was a large representation of the interests concerned to discuss the question of Technical Education, in reference to preparing a case for submission to the Dominion Royal Commission of Education, which sits in Belleville on Saturday, and will visit Peterborough on Monday next. the Technical Education movement was endorsed.

But there is something more needed than resolutions. The Commission is in search of information upon which legislation by the provinces, to which the question of education constitutionally belongs, can be based. They wish to elicit the views of those most deeply interested, the managers of our industrial establishments and the custodians of our industrial interests, generally. It is the duty of the authorities of any place visited, to prepare a case for submission to the Commission, to select men who can give pointed and intelligent evidence in regard to the subject. These should be given an opportunity to think out the subject in order to present its features in the strongest light.

If a similar meeting to that held in Belleville is called in Peterborough there will have to be prompt action. A notice of the visit of the Commissioners will be found in another column. It will be observed that the Commissioners wish to meet designated representative men. In order that these should have an opportunity to get information that will be coherent, *ordered, and effective before the Com*mission, they should have a little warning. Action in the premises has been too long delayed. Let there be prompt action now.

THE WRECKERS.

The most disintegrating forces in nature operate by, apparently insignificant agencies. A trickle of water entering a cervice of a rock, by the action of frost, rives the hradest granite. The disintegrating forces of Canadian national solidarity, work in a similar way. A newspaper squib, a a few words of sneer can be, and is almost daily, made to widen the fissure of racial and creed differences. The truth is strained, facts are twisted so as to give a wrong meaning and arouse irritation, and destroy harmony. The Brookville Times, one of the journals which seems to have a mission to keep strife in the air, in a recent issue, in the course of an article bearing on the redistribution consequent on the next census, says:

"The Maritime Provinces are not the only provinces which are chafing under the yoke of Quebec domination. Ontario also stands to have its federal representation reduced after the next census when the new redistribution comes into force."..

The Times and its pals in their conspiracy against national harmony, are obsessed by the hallucination of the tail wagging the dog. Where is the "Quebec Domination?" It is imagined, evolved out of the fact that "Confederation Act provided that Quebec should be made the standard of representation, with sixty-five members. The representation of the other provinces was fairly fixed by law in 1867, and with Quebec's representation remaining stationary the representation of other provinces was to be increased or diminished accordingly as the population grew or went back. There is nothing unfair in this; if a province loses standing and becomes entitled to smaller representation, that is not the fault of Quebec. In fact if there is any room for fault finding, it is in respect of that province. No matter how greatly it grows, it can have only sixty-five members. If Quebec should lose population so that its fixed representation would be in excess of a fair proportion, in respect to the rest of the Dominion, there would be some reason for demanding amendment of the constitution of the Dominion. The matter of representation rests with the provinces. The present arrangement is an incentive to progressive administration. If the provinces take measures to increase their population, they will get the advantage in increased numerical representation; if they allow their populations to decrease, they cannot reasonably demand that their membership in Parliament should increase or remain in statu quo, by reducing the ratio of representation. The incentive to progress consists in the present arrangement. If the Maritime provinces and Ontario had taken energetic measures to get the share of the great inflow of immigration of the past few years, that their agricultural and other resources, could well entertain, there would be no necessity for demanding representation out of proportion to numerical rights, as fixed by the Imperial Parliament. The western provinces will get increased representation —according to population — because their increase in citizenship demands it. Quebec is not to blame; if there is any blame, it rests on the provinces themselves. There is evil in the sentence from The Times, quoted above, and further evil—and in both cases suggestio falsi—in the following words that conclude its article:

This is the age of progress, and Canada is a progressive nation. Of couse there will be a loud outcry raised in Quebec, but Canada cannot be retarded by Quebec for all time to come."

Of course, "this is an age of progress," and provinces who choose or happen to stand still, should not expect to have the procession halted in order to give them a chance to catch up with it. To blame poor old Quebec is unjust, but is quite in line witih the programme of the disintegration party of Canada—the wreckers, who for the sake of a little partizan loot, seek to lure the ship of state against the rocks.

OBITUARY

MRS. HUGH SMITH.

Early this morning at one o'clock, Mrs. Hugh Smith died at St. Joseph's Hospital, after having undergone a serious operation. After much anxiety for her health and life she consented to undergo the ordeal, as the only chance of saving her life. She was born in Gaspe, Que., thirty-five years ago, the daughter of Wm. Horie, Esq., and became the wife of Mr. Hugh Smith, in 1900. She is survived by her father, a sister, Mrs. Hoffellinger, of Morristown, Pa., and a brother, James Horie, of Gaspe, Que. Her husband, who is connected with the Walter Green Co., has the sincere sympathy of a large number of friends, who admired the friendly and generous disposition of his late wife.

The funeral will take place on Monday at 2 p.m., from the residence of Mr. Smith, 98 Downie street, at which Rev. Dr. Langfeldt will officiate.

EVERETT EDWARD JOHNSON.

The death occurred this morning at 3.30 of Everett Edward, seven months' old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson, 206 Edinburgh street. The little fellow has been ill for about six weeks with chronic indigestion, which resulted in his demise.

The funeral will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 to Little Lake cemetery.

WEDDING BELLS

BIRMINGHAM—OWEN.

(Toronto Star.)

A quiet wedding took place at the residence of C. L. Owen, M.P., and Mrs. Owen, Campbellford, on Wednesday, September 28th, when their youngest daughter, Jennie Mabel, was married to Mr. John C. Birmingham, of Campbellford, formerly of Kirkfield. Only immediate friends were present. The bride was given away by her father, and wore a smart travelling suit of grey cloth, and hat of grey panne velvet with paisley scarf. Mr. and Mrs. Birmingham will reside in Campbellford.

STABLER—HICKS.

(Winnipeg Free Press.

A very quiet home wedding was solemnized at the residence of the officiating clergyman, Rev. J. Alexander Ford, M.A., on Wednesday, Sept. 21, in which Mr. Allan Mervyn Stabler, 430 Beverley street, one of the popular clerks of the Grand Trunk Pacific, formerly of Peterborough, and Miss Audrey Adelaide Hicks, recently from Peterborough, Ont., were the contracting parties. The bride looked very charming attired in a wedding gown of pale blue and carrying a handsome cluster of roses and lilies of the valley The wedding banquet took place at the home of the groom, and was attended by the relatives and immediate friends of the young couple. Mr. and Mrs. Stabler will reside at 430 Beverley street, where the best wishes of hosts of friends will attend them.

THE RELATION OF LABOUR TO BRITISH POLITICS

Ottawa Free Press

There is every indication that one of the most pressing problems to be debated before the British Parliament upon its re-assembling in November will be the demand of the trades unions that they be given freedom of action in political affairs. The question has been forced to the front by what is known as the Osborne judgment. This was a case where a member of a trades union, dissatisfied that the assessment made upon him should be applied to the support of labour members in Parliament, when he himself was a Liberal or a Conservative (it does not matter which) applied to the courts for an injunction to restrain the union from devoting any of its funds to political purposes. Though the practice has been in vogue since 1874 the courts granted the injunction, and as a consequence unless some legislative relief by given labour representation in the House of Commons will be an impossibility.

The seriousness of the situation so far as the trades unions are concerned is evident when it is stated that at a great Trades Union Congress in Sheffield ten days ago a resolution was passed by a vote of 1,717,000 against 13,000 condemning the Osborne judgment, and demanding that the Government secure a reversal of it by an Act of Parliament at the earliest possible moment. The principle involved is more far-reaching than in its application to the payment of labour members alone. It is held that if the same reasoning in regard to minority rights were directed against other kinds of associated action, no associated action would be possible. Nearly every strike is decided against somebody's wishes, yet no one thinks of arguing that for that reason the union should be forbidden to pay strike benefits.

The remedy appears to lie in the adoption of the system of paying members of Parliament, as is done in all the self-governing dominions of the Empire and the indications are that the Asquith Government will introduce a bill for the carrying out of this tremendous reform. It has long been a reproach that it was impossible for a poor man to contest a seat in the House of Commons, and that as a consequence the membership in that House was confined to the well-to-do. The Irish party was the first to see the importance of having a parliamentary fund for the support of its members while they are performing their parliamentary duties, and for twenty odd years past they have been paid out of the party funds. When labour became a political power, it recognized, as had the Irish Nationalists, that to gain success, provision for the payment of its members was essential. Now, however, that the courts have decided that the labour unions have no legal right to devote any of their funds to the payment of members there seems no other way out of the difficulty but the introduction of a general law to provide for the payment of all members as well as state payment of election expenses on the principle in vogue in Canada. Here, as we all know, the expenses of the returning officers and of the actual machinery of election are paid by the Government; in England and the other portions of the United Kingdom, this expense falls upon the candidates or the party organizations.

In times past, when the Liberals have placed this issue prominently among the planks of their party platforms, the proposal has invariably been opposed by the Conservatives, to whose interests it was of course to keep the membership of the Commons as restricted as possible, just as it has been to their interest to maintain the plural voting abuse and the system of extending the elections over as many days and weeks as possible, so that these plural voters could cast every vote to which they were entitled while the workers, who had only one vote, were unable to be represented according to their true strength in the community. But with the necessity of attracting the masses to the party, if the policy of Tariff Reform is ever to triumph, the Conservative leaders and newspapers have been converted to the belief that the time has come when payment of members can no longer be averted. Thus we find the conservative Standard and the aristocratic Morning Post each expressing the view that the reform can no longer be postponed. It is true that the adhesion to the principle is given grudgingly and that it is coupled with a suggestion that before it be finally accepted the experiment be tried of adopting as candidates men of the working class whose expenses and subsistence shall be paid by the party organization. But it is also admitted that no self-respecting workingman would be content to be dependent upon the party organization for his support, and that of his family, and the result will probably be that when the payment of members bill comes before Parliament it will receive the support of a large proportion of the Opposition as well as that of the Liberals, the Labourites and the Irish.

Before, however, there can be any possibility of carrying this reform, the Commons and the people must be assured that the bill will not be rejected by the House of Lords, so that here, as in so many other things at Westminster, progress is blocked until the veto power of the Peers is curtailed. When the constitutional difficulty has been got out of the way then the domestic reforms can go ahead; until then the reformers must mark time.

CANADA'S BOUNDLESS RESOURCES

A party of Agricultural Editors who recently made a trip through Western Canada, were so impressed with what they saw that they are writing columns of favourable articles in connection with the resources of that part of the country.

The "American Agriculturist" of New York under date Sept. 3rd, 1910, has the following to say:

Great is Canada West; great are the actualities of that vast stretch of prairie provinces in grain production, and great the possibilities in animal husbandry. Well may the United States look with wholesome respect upon the rapid development of that new country which is only ata the beginning of its realization of strength and innate forcefulness, in production, in manufacturing in commerce.

Well may the farmers of our own country note the taking form of a competition in grain growing, right now, that is of no mean proportions. Yet there is nothing new in all this, if one goes back in history but a scant half dozen years. Then, no cereal production worth considering; now a hundred million bushels of wheat a year, and this capable of untold expansion—for scarcely 5 p.c. of Western Canada is yet under the plow. These are the impelling thoughts occasioned by an editorial journey in August, covering some 3,000 miles over the three great railway systems of Canada. These are stretching their long fingers of steel through Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The high lights are many. Space forbids, at the moment, touching but a few, and these the merest mention. The crops are not as large as last year, owing to some unexpected drouth, yet generous, in wheat; oats barley and flax. Railway extension is rapid, and of the best possible character, looking toward a further vigorous campaign of developing the land. Homesteads, the free gift of the Dominion government, are now very largely exhausted, unless one goes back in the country many miles from a railroad. Canadians want low tariff on farm machinery. Incoming settlers include thousands of our best men from Wisconsin and Iowa westward. The recent report of large numbers of dissatisfied American farmers leaving Canada and returning to "the States" is a canard, according to United States Consul Jones, stationed at Winnipeg. On the contrary, the many erstwhile Americans met by American Agriculturist's editorial representatives were enthusiastic for their new home.

These are absolute facts. It is just as well for our people to know them. Western Canada is rapidly developing along the very best of lines. The pity is, that these two grand countries should be forever politically divided by the 49th parallel of latitude. One lesson for our own farmers is to practise better agriculture and get more bushels of wheat from an acre; and in some of the states in our own northwest to further develop the live stock end of farming. Great is Canada; great also, is Uncle Sam.

When I came up for the eighth I felt stronger and more confident than at any time during the battle. I started to wade in at the bell, playing both hands to the head. In this round I cut the black's mouth with a hard right hook and followed up the lead with a left to the face that staggered the champion against the ropes.

"At the bell I had Johnson running away to avoid more punishment. The crowd was wild and astonished at my aggressiveness and was yelling for me to finish my man. The ninth was a duplication of the previous round with myself having all the advantage. In the tenth Johnson was tired and leg-weary, but managed to run away from me long enough to last out the round. At the final bell the champion was very wobbly on his feet, while I was comparatively strong. Had the bout gone five rounds more I honestly believe that I could have put my man away.

"Being unable to induce the champion to face me, I decided to come east and take on the next best man to the champion. My first bout was with Langford. It is useless for me to make a statement regarding the affair except that I had never trained harder for a go than I had for that one. I was a much disappointed fighter when I learned that the Tar Baby had crawled. I then took on Lang on two weeks' notice and won a decisive victory over the Australian. This fellow Lang is a big, tough fellow, with a wonderful right hand, and in a finish fight I think he could beat the best of them.

"There is a report being circulated to the effect that Bill broke his hand in the second round. If such is the case he did not show it, for as often as he could he countered hard on my jaw with the supposed injured member."

AN EXCITING ADVENTURE

GARDEN CITY, N.Y., SEPT. 29.—Jack Fleming, one of the most daring drivers entered in the Vanderbilt Cup race, to be run Saturday, won in a brush with death to-day. While rounding the Westbury turn at 75 miles an hour, the right front tire and rim were torn off, and went speeding away in front of his racer. The big Pope-Harford racing car swerved and nearly turned turtle, but Fleming kept a tight hold of the steering wheel and kept to the road. Then ensued an exciting race between the auto and the tire. The tire whirled along ahead of the car for a hundred yards turned into a ditch, struck a bump and bounded over the fence into a plowed field. The auto was distanced.

Despite his narrow escape, Fleming never turned a hair. Several spectators ran up to see if he was hurt, but he merely remarked: "The only thing that worries me is that I thought I had a fast car, but here my front tire beats me."

Fleming picked up the tire and rim and then drove around the course, completing the lap in twenty minutes.

Tobin De Hymel, the Indian driver, of one of the Stoddard Daytons, also threw a tire, but he was not making more than forty miles an hour. The Indian did not finish the lap.

There was a stiff breeze blowing down the Parkway this morning, and few of the cars made fast laps. The drivers were also bothered by the sun which was directly squared along the parkway. Thirty-five racers were out. The best time was made by Fred. Belcher, the Knox driver, who covered two consecutive laps of the 12.64 mile course in 10.24 each.

Detroit Tigers Lucky Gold Mine Shows Results

DETROIT, MICH., Sept. 28.—Some world's series money of 1907 has proved a heap more valuable than it looked when it was paid to certain Tigers of that year. They received news this morning that "pay dirt" had been struck in the Bisbee gold mine, near Bisbee, Ariz, in which they invested three years ago, Donovan, Mullin, Willett, Crawford, Cobb, O'Leary, Schaefer and Rossman were the fortunate ones. They paid $3 each for their shares. The stock is now worth $100 a share.

The company is a Detroit concern, and among the directors are Frank Navin and W. C. Yawkey, owners of the Detroit Baseball Club.

Ty Cobb also received some good news to-day. When in New York last trip he put $1,000 in cotton and on a tip frim Georgia he cashed at $7,500.

ONE ROUND WAS ENOUGH FOR HILLIARD LANG

BUFFALO, SEPT. 28.—"Wild Bob" Moha, of Milwaukee, conqueror of Jimmy Clabby and challenger for the welterweight championship, made short work of Hilliard Lang, the aspiring Canadian welterweight to-night, beating him in one round.

Lang landed about three short punches on Moha in the first minute, before Moha started. Rushing into a clinch, Moha landed a terrible right-hand jolt on Lang's jaw, sending him to the canvas. Lang rolled over and rose with a dazed look and utterly oblivious of where he was at. Moha stepped in with two crashing punches with either hand and again Lang went to the canvas. He was up at seven and Moha walked coolly over and dropped him again with a right-hand blow on the jaw. Lang's seconds crept across the ring to him, but the Canadian champion had enough and tried to crawl through the ropes, disqualifying himself before the referee had a chance to count the full ten.

In justice to Lang the charge of quitting must be tempered with the knowledge that he had no idea of what he was doing and was practically out after the first punch, although he managed to keep his feet. Moha amazed the spectators by his terrific punching powers and he is hailed here as coming champion. He is cool, fast, has a puzzling defence and hits like a battering ram. He challenged Mike Twin Sullivan and Harry Lewis, and is anxious to bet several hundred he can beat either. He may be matched with Mike Twin here.

BLANDING A WONDER

Former College Pitcher Has Done Great Work For Cleveland

CLEVELAND, SEPT. 29.—Breaking into the American League at the tag end of his first season in professional baseball, Fred (Fritz) Blanding, former University of Michigan pitching star, made a name for himself by shutting out Washington, fanning eight batters and doing what no other Cleveland heaver has accomplished this year—beating Walter Johnson, considered by many the world's greatest pitcher.

Blanding was the best college pitcher Michigan ever had, and the best in the colleges during his time. He left Michigan last season, despite the appeals of Coach Yost, who wanted the husky youth for his "Hurry Up" eleven, Blanding being a football star as well as a diamond hero.

Blanding was discovered by Scout Bob Gilks, in San Antonia this year. Although his record was anything but brilliant, due chiefly to the fact that the youngster was far from well, he looked good enough to Gilks at the draft price, and was picked accordingly.

Made Great Start.

His advent in the American League was really wonderful. He started off in the first inning by hitting two men and walking another. Before he filled the bases by hitting the second man he tossed out one man who sacrificed Then he fanned out two men.

He allowed but six hits. In the last inning he struck out the three men who faced him, including an emergency hitter, sent to bat for the catcher. Taken by and large, Blanding looks like the goods.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

It occurred to me the other day, after being an unwilling witness at a family scrap, that one of the greatest harmony destroyers in the home is the fixed idea which many people have, that every untoward thing that happens must be somebody's FAULT.

Don't you think maybe there is something in my idea?

Perhaps you don't grasp exactly what I mean.

I'll try to elucidate.

Big brother puts his bundle of shirts for the laundry out in the hall. Sister in the dark falls over them and breaks the pitcher she is carrying.

"It's all Bob's FAULT," she wails, "for leaving those old shirts in the hall for somebody to tumble over."

"Go on!" retorts Bob warmly. "It's your own fault for not carrying a lamp or lighting the light so you could see where you were going and not tumble over everything."

Why anybody's FAULT! Why not call it just what it was—an unfortunate accident—and thereby preserve family harmony, which surely is infinitely more important than any little china pitcher?

The other day I saw two young folks half spoil what should have been a perfect holiday outing, just because each insisted on calling an unfortunate accident the other's FAULT.

The husband went back after a magazine which he was particularly anxious to read, and then when the cars were blockaded and they missed the train his wife said that if he hadn't gone back for that magazine they would doubtless have gotten a car that would have been ahead of the blockade and therefore the missing of the train was all his FAULT. Whereat, he said that if she hadn't insisted on stopping to do up the dishes instead of leaving them until night, as he wanted her to, they would surely have gotten the train, and therefore it was her FAULT.

And in the flare of recriminations and temper that followed, the beauty and brightness of the perfect autumn morning was clouded and the edge taken off that childlike delight in a lark with which they had fared forth together.

All of which needn't have happened had they both accepted the blockade and the missing of the train as an unfortunate accident, and had not insisted on calling it somebody's FAULT.

Irritating and disturbing little things inevitably happen to all of us.

If we try hard enough we can usually nd someone to blame for them.

But wouldn't it be a happier world if, instead of trying hard enough, we cheerfully accepted such things as nobody's FAULT, just accidents.

Seems so to me anyway.

Ruth Cameron

Jokers Have Been Found Guilty Of Manslaughter

Special Wire to the Examiner.

MONTREAL, SEPT. 30.—A verdict of manslaughter was returned against Louis Gardeau and Jos. Pittote, who caused the death of Faustin Peltier, by jokingly tipping him out of a coal cart, where he was sleeping. They will be sentenced Monday.

The Chimes Fund Is Now Over The $4,500 Mark

The last stage of the Chimes Campaign has been reached, the fund now reaching $4,500. If the bells themselves are as harmonious as the spirit and feelings of those who have united to get them, the effect will be delightful. The chief feature of yesterday was a cheque for $10 voted by the Belmont club for the enterprise and given in the most kindly way. This is highly appreciated.

Several kind personal contributions were handed in yesterday, one of $10, perhaps in sympathy for the one lonely effort of the preceding day.

A handsome joint gift was received this morning from Lt.Col. Rogers, Mr. D. M. Rogers and Mrs. Robertson, of Victoria, B.C. The veteran postmaster of Peterborough expresses his warm interest in the project and his pleasure at the wide support which is being received. Rev. Dr. Langfeldt and Rev. W. L. Armitage, of Picton, were also kind contributors to the fund to-day.

It is hoped that the girls' entertainment to-night may be well patronized and a substantial sum added to the fund to-morrow. At noon to-day it stood at $4,524.65.

Presented With Watch On The Eve Of His Departure

Last night at the Murray Street Baptist church, after the choir rehearsal, a banquet was given in the school room, as a farewell to Mr. David Ferguson, a former member of the choir, who departed for a six-months' visit to Scotland, on the midnight C.P.R. train last night.

The banquet was held last night at nine o'clock, about fifty guests taking tea, after which Rev. J. R. Webb was asked to take the chair. Mr. Ferguson was then presented with a beautiful gold watch by the choir and members of the musical committee. The address was read by Mr. J. B. Cunningham, and the presentation was made by Dr. Scott, on behalf of the choir. Mr. Ferguson made a suitable reply, in which he thanked the choir and committee for their extreme kindness.

Addresses were then given by several representatives of the different departments of the church. Solos were also contributed to Mrs. J. B. Miller, Mr. Green and Mrs. (Dr.) Browett.

Mr. Ferguson left on the midnight train and will spend about six months visiting friends in Scotland, after which he will return to the city.

Fred Whitcroft Heard From Is Reticent As To Outlook

EDMONTON, SEPT. 29.—Fred J. Whitcroft, who is "rawnching," at Wabamun and incidentally taking on flesh from leading the simple life, was approached yesterday as to the prospects for a professional team in Edmonton this winter.

"Well," said Fred, lolling back in a comfortable leather chair in the King Edward rotunda, "there will be a team go east, but everything is being kept very dark at present, and I am not at liberty to divulge the names of the players."

This drew one of Fred's famous winks and a mysterious look appeared upon his face. So the source of money is also won of the facts that is to be kept secret for the present.

Whit is at present undecided whether he will don skates again or not. He has entirely recovered from the effects of his accidents this year in Renfrew. Officers of the Renfrew club have approached him already this fall, trying to get his moniker to a contract, but Fred is coy and may be holding back in order that he can lead another Edmonton Stanley cup expedition into the promised land of hockey.

Whit had a letter from Frank Patrick this week, and the sterling player has practically made up his mind to sign with Renfrew for another season.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

There will be a meeting of the Y.M.C.A. members in the club room next Tuesday night to organise a rugby club. There is some excellent mates kil available among the members of the "Y" and a good team can be selected to represent the Association on the "Gridiron." A hearty welcome is extended to every member or any one wishing to join with us on Tuesday evening at 8.00 p.m.

The Howden and Eastwood athletic trophies will be competed for Saturday October 8th. The events will be announced in a few days. The Eastwood trophy will be for boys who have not yet reached their 18th birthday. The Howden trophy will be open to every amateur athlete in the city. The scoring will be by points, each competitor will get credit for his performance in each event, and the man with the highest number of points will be declared the winner. Any further particulars will be cheerfully given by Mr. Thompson, the physical director.

OPEN NIGHT AT THE Y. M. C. A. WAS A SPLENDID SUCCESS

Many Men Attended and Were Impressed With What Was Being Done in the New Building, While Forty New Members Were Added---Prospects for Formation of Glee Club.

One of the most interesting evenings yet held in connection with this year's work in the Y.M.C.A. was held in the building last night. As had been announced there was nothing unusual except an unusual number of spectators looking on. The idea of the "open house" was to give the men who were thinking of joining an exhibition of what the Association can and will do for them during the season which is now about to open up.

There were the two usual classes in the gymnasium, the Business Boys' class under the direction of Mr. G. Galley at 6.15, and the Intermediates under Mr. Thompson's direction at 8.15. The latter is promising to be one of the best classes on the gymnasium floor this season. They might be called "Thompson's Pets" for they do their work with precision and good form.

After the classes there was an exhibition of swimming in the big plunge bath and also an exhibition of life saving. This was under the direction of the swimming instructor, Mr. W. O. Taylor and created great interest among the spectators.

The bowling alleys were kept on the go all evening and some very good ...s were run up by some of the men.

The billiard table was also the scene of a couple of good games of American billiards.

Without doubt, however, the busiest place in the building was the office of the general secretary. That officer and his assistant were kept busy taking in new members and explaining what would be on the season's programme in the way of educational work. Forty new members were added to the roll last evening and a large number of the men were so favourably impressed that they signified their intention of joining next pay day.

After the classes were dismissed a group of the members gathered in the parlours around the piano and made the walls resound with their songs. This brings out the possibility of organizing a Glee Club, an organization which is badly needed in this same old city of Peterborough. There is plenty of vocal talent among the young men, and it only requires such an organization as this to bring it out. This matter will have the careful consideration of the officers immediately and before the season is out the public will be favoured with a concert by the Y.M.C.A. Glee Club.

The whole reception emphasized the adaptability of the association to meet the needs of young men in any community. This the officers are determined to prove during this season.

"THE PILLAR OF LIGHT"

By Louis Tracy, (Copyrighted)

"Ah, you agree with me, then."

"In admitting a doubt in advising the delay you have already suggested, yes."

"She told you what I had written?"

"More than that, she asked me if I was aware of its explanation."

"And you said"

"Exactly what I said to you. You are both sensible people. I can hardly imagine that any misunderstanding can exist after an hour's talk."

Mr. Traill looked at his watch. A carriage stopped at the hotel.

Lady Margaret was a well-preserved woman of aristocratic pose. But her serenity was disturbed. Although the land was ringing with the fame of her son's exploit, and her mother's heart was throbbing with pride, there had been tearful hours of vigil for her. Not without a struggle had she abandoned her hope that he would make a well-endowed match.

When Constance and Enid arrived she was very stately and dignified, scrutinizing, with all a mother's incredulity, the girl who had caused her to capitulate.

But Enid scored a prompt success. She swept aside the almost unconscious reserve with which Jack's mother greeted her.

"You knew," she murmured wistfully. "We did not. They would not tell us. How you must have suffered until the news came that he had escaped."

"My dear," she whispered, "I am beginning to understand why Jack loves you. He is my only son, but you are worthy of him."

Mrs. Vansittart's appearance created a timely diversion. She had obtained a black lace dress. It accentuated the settled pallor of her face, but she was perfectly self-possessed, and uttered a nice, womanly compliment to the two girls, who wore white demi-toilette costumes.

"You look delightful," she said. "When all is said and done, we women should never despise our wardrobe. That marvellous lighthouse had one grave defect in my eyes. It was dreadfully callous to feminine requirements."

Here was a woman rejuvenated, restored to her natural surroundings. They accounted for the subtle change in her by the fact that they had seen her hitherto under unfavorable conditions. Even Pyne; not wholly pleased with her in the past, found his critical judgment yielding when she apologized sweetly to Lady Margaret for her tardiness.

"There were two children saved from the wreck. Poor little mites, how they revelled in a hot bath! I could not leave them until they were asleep."

"I needed two hot baths," said Pyne. "No. 1 dug me out of the shell and No. 2 helped me to recognize myself."

During dinner there was much to tell and to hear. Mrs. Vansittart said little, save to interpose a word now and then when Constance or Enid would have skimmed too lightly the record of their own services.

They did not hurry over the meal. All were in the best possible spirits, and the miseries of the Gulf Rock might never have existed for this lively company were it not that four among them bore clear tokens of the deprivations they had endured.

A waiter interrupted their joyous chatter at its highest. He bent over Mr. Traill and discreetly conveyed some communication.

"I am delighted," cried the millionaire, heartily. "Show him in at once."

He rose from his chair to do honour to an unexpected guest.

"You will all be pleased to hear," he explained "that Mr. Brand is ashore, and has come to see us."

Mrs. Vansittart stilled the cry on her lips. The slight colour which had crept into her pale cheeks yielded to a deathly hue. It chanced that the others were looking expectantly towards the door and did not notice her.

"My superiors sent me emphatic orders to clear out," he said, "so I had no option but to obey. I conveyed Mr. Emmett to suitable quarters and hastened home, but found that the girls were playing truant. My housekeeper insisted that I should eat, else she would not be satisfied that I still lived, but I came here as quickly as possible."

At that instant his glance, travelling from one to another of those present, fell on Mrs. Vansittart.

He stood as one petrified. The kindly words of his host, the outspoken glee of the girls at his appearance, died away in his ears in hollow echoes. His eyes, frowning beneath wrinkled brows, seemed to ask if he were not the victim of some unnerving hallucination. They were fixed on Mrs. Vansittart's face with an all-absorbing intensity, and his set lips and clenched hands showed how utterly irresistible was the knowledge that, indeed, he was not deceived—that he was gazing at a living, breathing personality and not at some phantom product of a surcharged brain.

She, too, yielding before the suddenness of an ordeal she had striven to avoid, betrayed by her labouring bosom that she was under the spell of some excitement of overwhelming power.

She managed to gain her feet. The consciousness that Constance, Enid, Lady Margaret even, were looking at her and at Brand with amazed anxiety, served to strengthen her for a supreme effort.

"Mr. Stephen Brand—and I—are old acquaintances," she gasped. "He may misunderstand—my presence here—to-night. Indeed—in this instance—I am not to blame. I could not—help myself. I am always trying to explain—but somehow—I never succeed. Oh!"

With an agonized sigh she swayed helplessly and would have fallen had not Pyne caught her.

But she was desperately determined not to faint—there. This was her world, the world of society. She would not yield in its presence.

Her eyes wandered vaguely, imploringly, from the face of the man towards the others. Constance had hastened to her assistance, and the knowledge that this was so seemed to stimulate her to a higher degree. With fine courage she grasped the back of a chair and summoned a wan smile to her aid.

"You will forgive me if I leave you," she murmured. "I am so tired—so very tired."

She walked resolutely towards the door. Brand drew aside that she might pass. He looked at her no more. His wondering daughter saw that big drops of perspiration stood on his forehead.

Mr. Traill, no less astonished than the rest, offered to conduct Mrs. Vansittart to her room.

"No," she said, "I will go alone. I am used to it now, after so many years."

There was a ring of heartfelt bitterness in her voice which appealed to more than one of the silent listeners.

As the door closed behind her, Brand seemed to recover his senses.

"I must ask your pardon, Mr. Traill," he said quietly. "I assume that the lady who has just left us did not expect to see me here to-night. It would be idle to deny that the meeting was a shock to both of us. It revived painful memories."

Mr. Traill, scarce knowing what he said, so taken aback was he, exclaimed hastily:

"Mrs. Vansittart claimed you as an old acquaintance. The odd thing is that you, at any rate, did not discover that fact earlier."

The lighthouse-keeper looked round the table. He saw pain in many eyes but in Pyne's steady face there was encouragement.

"Mrs. Vansittart!" he said slowly. "Is that her name? I did not know. How should I, the recluse, hear of her? And in your first message to the rock you called her Etta. When I knew her her name was Nanette, for the lady who calls herself Mrs. Vansittart was my wife, is yet, for aught I know to the contrary."

"Father!" Constance clung to him in utmost agitation. "Do you mean that she is my mother?"

"Yes, dear one, she is. But let us go now. I fear my home-coming has brought misery in its train. I am sorry, indeed. It was wholly unexpected. Poor Nanette! She ever deceived herself. I suppose she hoped to avoid me, as if fate forgot the years in the comedy of life."

"Can I go to her?" asked Constance white-faced and trembling.

"No, my child, you cannot. Has she claimed you? She cast you off once. I might have forgiven her many things—never that. Come, Enid! What need for your tears? We faced worse troubles together three days ago, and you, at any rate, can look forward to happiness. Good-bye, Lady Margaret, and you, too Mr. Traill. I will see you to-morrow, I hope. Forgive me for my unconscious share in the night's suffering."

CHAPTER XVII.

MRS VANSITTART GOES HOME

Stephen Brand and the two girls passed silently down the broad stairs of the hotel unaccompanied by any of the others. There was nothing incomprehensible in this, nor any savor of discourtesy.

In the first place, Mr Traill was so profoundly shocked by the lighthouse-keeper's revelation that he collapsed into a chair and remained there, bowed and wordless, for many minutes. Both Pyne and Stanhope did move towards the door, but Enid, watchful, self-sacrificing, eager to save those she loved from further pain, telegraphed an emphatic order to Stanhope to remain where he was, and Pyne murmured to him:

The person who exhibited the clearest signs of distress was Lady Margaret. Her position was one of extraordinary difficulty. Three of the actors in the breathless scene, which had been sprung on her with the suddenness of an explosion were absolute strangers in her life before that evening.

Brand she knew, indeed, but only by sight. She had met Constance and Enid occasionally, at arm's length, so to speak, regarding them truly as dangerous young persons where marriageable sons were concerned. Enid had justified her suspicions, and her ladyship had yielded so far as to give her approval of an engagement she could not prevent.

Circumstances had conspired to force her hand. Stanhope, being an outspoken young man, had made no secret of his desperate resolve to rescue Enid, so the newspapers supplied the remainder of the romance, and even Lady Margaret herself had contributed to it under the magnetic influence of the hour.

It was one thing, however, to be thrilled with the adventures of the rock-bound people, but quite another to figure prominently in connection with a social scandal of the first magnitude. She knew Penzance too well to hope that the incident would sink into oblivion. Obviously, the matter could not rest in its present stage. She must expect disagreeable disclosures, significant head-shakings of those who knew little and wanted to know more. All the tea-table artillery of a small town would be focused on her defensive position were she loyal to the girl whom her son had chosen as his help-mate.

This same son, too, after he had recovered from the amazement of Mrs. Vansittart's dramatic departure and Brand's admission, betrayed a composure that was distinctly irritating.

"You won't mind if we smoke, mother," he said. "The situation requires tobacco. Don't you feel like that, Pyne?"

"If Lady Margaret does not object, I admit that different sorts of poison might act as tonics," answered Pyne. "Here, uncle, try a brandy and soda. Lady Margaret, a glass of champagne. I've been expecting a disturbance, but didn't look for it to-night."

"Why do you say that, Charlie?" asked Mr. Traill, rising and stretching his limbs as a man who tests his bones after a heavy fall.

"It was hanging around, just as one prophesies a storm after an electrical feeling in the air. Mrs. Vansittart recognized Brand, and made her calculations accordingly. Let us give her the credit due to her. As soon as she discovered him, the marriage project was off."

"I had that kind of impression myself. Glad I mentioned it to you, now."

"Of course you are. I'll bet any reasonable sum that Mrs. Vansittart intended to leave Penzance to-morrow as soon as she had made you understand that she could not, under any circumstances, become my aunt."

"What we are apt to lose sight of," continued Pyne, "is the manner in which Brand received what must have been a staggering blow. He met his wife to-night after a separation of more than twenty years. And how he took it! When he spoke, it was

THE BEST REMEDY

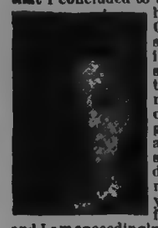
For Women—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Belleville, Ont.—"I was so weak and worn out from a female weakness that I concluded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took several bottles of it, and I gained strength so rapidly that it seemed to make a new woman of me. I can do as good a day's work as I ever did. I sincerely bless the day that I made up my mind to take your medicine for female weakness, and I am exceedingly grateful to you for your kind letters, as I certainly profited by them. I give you permission to publish this any time you wish."—Mrs. ALBERT WICKETT, Belleville, Ontario, Canada.



Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will cure female weakness and so successfully carry women through the Change of Life as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

For 30 years it has been curing women from the worst forms of female ills—inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and nervous prostration.

If you want special advice write for it to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

ODDITIES IN THE WEEK'S NEWS

ROMANCE OF A LOTTERY

For some time no claim was made for the chief prize of $40,000 in the Brussels Exhibition lottery. The identity of the winning ticket has just been established in a curious way.

A young Belgian miner who had purchased a ticket for the lottery was killed while at work through a stone falling on his head some days before the results were announced. According to custom he was buried in his best suit of clothes.

When the weeks passed and the prize remained unclaimed the young man's relations remembered that he had a lottery ticket in his waistcoat pocket and applied to the authorities for permission to exhume the body. After some delay the request was granted, and the winning ticket was found in the dead man's pocket.

ANT THAT "CANS" FOOD

Captain Percy L. Jones, of the United States Army Medical Corps, makes an interesting statement about certain ants that attack the larvae of flies. "They do so in a way which proves that they are no novices at the procedure. One will attack an extremity, and apparently bite it, and as soon as the larva begins to coil and makes efforts to escape, numbers of others will immediately jump upon it, and in the course of a few moments the larva will be apparently dead. I believe that the ant introduces some venom in the act of biting, formic acid in character, which preserves the larva as food until such time as the ant needs it—cans it, in other words."

NOT MEANT THAT WAY

In the outskirts of Peekskill, N.Y., is a small chapel with the unique name "Gates of Heaven." A sign bearing the name is on the front of the building.

Now that the pastor has gone on his vacation another sign has been placed under the first. Here is what the passer-by reads:

Gates of Heaven
Closed for the Summer Months

HORSE AS POLICEMAN

An amusing incident was related to the Dudley (Eng.) magistrates recently, when William Jackson, of Tipton, was charged with drunkenness. The defendant found a horse in the street on Bank Holiday, and he got on its back. He had no control over the animal owing to his drunken condition, and the horse took him straight into the yard of the central police station. After his arrival there the defendant said to a police-sergeant: "I wish you would kill the horse for bringing me here." The chairman said the horse had shown a wonderful intelligence, and fined the defendant five shillings and costs.

[illegible] NOSE

Surgeons at the Cincinnati City Hospital believe that John Lehray, a cooper, who applied for treatment recently, has the largest nose in the world. The ponderous nasal appendage is six and three-quarter inches long and three and a half inches wide. It hangs over the lips and interferes when he eats or talks. Lehray is suffering from elephantiasis of the nose, and the physicians have decided that the organ will require to be amputated.

BORN WITH ONE ARM

A child has been born at Willesden, Eng., last week, with the left arm missing from a few inches below the shoulder. As having bearing on the occurrence it is stated that some months ago the mother was motoring when an accident occurred, the motor coming into collision with another vehicle. The motor-car driver's left arm was so badly crushed in the collision that it had to be amputated almost immediately.

A FOWL'S LONG FAST

A remarkable instance of a fowl living twenty days without food occurred at Stamford, near Hythe, Eng. A buff Orpington cock, belonging to a resident named Franks, had been missing for three weeks, and was discovered wedged in the wooden foundation on which a haystack had been constructed. The bird was terribly emaciated, but has now recovered.

A LIGHTNING CURE

A girl of twenty, bedridden with a bone disease since the age of six, was wonderfully cured at Chalons, in France, one day recently. Her house was struck by lightning, and she got such a fright that she jumped out of bed and ran downstairs. She was quite well next day. Doctors say that the sudden shock and leap may have adjusted the dislocated joint (which was the primary cause of the state of body.

REMARKABLE DROWNING SEQUENCE

The story of a most remarkable string of drowning fatalities comes from Rome. One evening last week the two sons of Captain Partini were drowned while bathing in the River Tiber. Captain Partini's nephew, Max, was drowned at the same spot next day. An expert swimmer who attempted to save Max was also drowned. A little later a boy of seven was drowned almost at the same place on the river, thus making five victims within twelve hours.

A STRANGE CARGO

The strangest cargo that a purser ever had on a manifest was brought into New York the other day on a Ward Line steamship. It was a consignment of thirty-eight five-foot bags of dried flies. The flies were shipped by a Santa Cruz firm to Germany, where they are used as chicken food.

SHELL-FISH KILLS SEAGULL

A singular occurrence is reported from Barnstaple, Eng. A seagull was observed struggling in the air near the River Taw, and then to fall to the ground. It was discovered that a bi-valve had closed on the bill of the bird and gradually suffocated it.

CRIPPLED WITH LAME BACK

THIS RESULT OF LONG STANDING KIDNEY DISEASE WAS OVERCOME BY

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

This letter gives you some idea of the definite and certain results you obtain by using Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills for kidney disease.

This medicine is very prompt in action and very direct in effecting cure. You do not need to keep up the treatment long before you find most marked improvements.

Mrs. Richard Patterson, Haldimand, Gaspe Co., Que., writes: "I want to tell you that I was cured of kidney disease of long standing by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. I used to suffer a great deal, not knowing just what was the cause of the trouble and got so bad that I was almost crippled with lame, sore back.

"Before I had used two boxes of these pills I found my back better and less than three boxes made the cure complete. I have never had a sore back since and believe the cure to be lasting."

Backache, headache, bodily pains, scanty, painful urination, deposits in urine after standing, fickle appetite, indigestion and irregularity of the bowels are among the symptoms which warn you of serious trouble from kidney disease.

You can be practically certain that Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills will help you and help you quickly. Make the test for yourself to-day. One pill a dose, 25 cts. a box, all dealers; or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Write for free copy of Dr. Chase's Recipes.

THE FAMILY HEARTH

No language can express the power and beauty and heroism and majesty of a mother's love. It shrinks not where man cowers, and grows stronger where man faints and over wastes of worldly fortune sends the radiance of its quenchless fidelity like a mask.

* * *

At a recent ministerial convention one of the preachers suggested that it wouldn't be a bad idea to have a sermon occasionally on the recognition of friends on earth. He said many people were so taken up with the good time they expected to have in the sky they forgot to be sociable here. His head was level, and we hope his sensible words will be about the same as putting another stove in every church.

* * *

KINDNESS

There is nothing like kindness in the world. It is the very principle of love; an emanation of the heart which softens and gladdens, and should be inculcated and encouraged in all our intercourses with our fellow beings. It is impossible to resist continued kindness. We may in a moment of petulance or passion, manifest coldness to the exhibition of good will on the part of a new acquaintance; but let him persist, let him continue to prove himself really benevolent of heart, generously and kindly disposed, and we will find our stubborn nature giving way, even unconsciously to ourselves. If this be the result of kindness among comparative strangers, how much more certain and delightful will be the exercise of the feelings at home, within the charmed circle of friends and relatives? Home enjoyments, home affections, home courtesies, cannot be too carefully or steadily cultivated. They form the sunshine of the heart. They bless and sanctify our private circle. They become a source of calm delight to the man of business after a day of toil, they teach the merchant, the trader, the working man, that there is something purer, more precious even, than the gains of industry. They twine themselves around the heart; call forth its best and purest emotions and resources, enable us to be more virtuous, more upright, more Christian, in all our relations of life. We see in the little beings around us the elements of fidelity and religion. A day of toil is robbed of many of its cares by the thought that in the evening we may return home and mingle with the family household.

BORROWING TROUBLE

Of all the absurdities extant, surely to "borrow trouble" is the greatest.

The trouble borrowers have no enjoyment; it seems as though the word was omitted from their vocabulary, their life being one ceaseless moan, a constant looking forward to that impending doom which is to overtake them.

If a cyclone suddenly springs up a cyclone may be expected all indications of the weather prophet notwithstanding—or even the sky become overcast, a thunderstorm is at hand.

Then there are various domestic forebodings, from a mild to a severe form probably a case of measles in the next square, another case of whooping-cough in the next street.

There is a large class of people in constant trouble and anxiety about their health, although the same amount of strength in a cheerful person would be taken as an indication of healthfulness.

But these trouble borrowers are always expecting disorders of every kind—and if they do not actually come, they are sick all the same—of disappointment.

Thousands of people are dying every year of this constant suspicion of their health, while others settle down into a gloomy state from forebodings of trouble to come. They do not know why it is they are always expecting something to happen. A bird flies in at the window, a salt cellar upsets on the table, a cricket chirps on the hearth, they shiver and actually expect a messenger to rush in with evil tidings.

What good does fretting do? It increases only with indulgence, like anger or appetite. It endangers one's temper, excites unpleasant feelings toward everybody and confuses the mind. It affects the whole person, unfitting one for the proper completion of the work the trifling interruption or disturbance of which started the fretful life.

Suppose things go wrong to-day; the "to-morrows" are coming, in which to try again, and the thing is not worth clouding your own spirit and those around you, injuring yourself and others physically—for the mind affects the body—for such a trifle.

A BEAUTIFUL LIFE

A beautiful life is an honest life. A life of truthfulness, of nobility of the soul and a life of devotion to our loved ones here and to the God who created us. Life, indeed, is but a river running with rapidity, onward, onward, ever on. It runs, alas! too swiftly. We have not one moment in which to hesitate or spend in idleness. We should place a guard on our everyday actions, as we travel along life's journey. Just one unkind word can never be recalled; how much better had it never been spoken. Kind words! How little they cost, and yet how dear! Soft words soften the soul. Words harsh and angry kindle the fire of wrath and vengeance. Cold words chill while hot ones create ire and discord. There are vain words, idle words, silly words spiteful words and a multitude of others to guard against. By trying daily to imitate Him who had not where to lay his head only can we live a beautiful life.

* * *

A crust of bread, a pitcher of water, a log cabin and perfect love—there is happiness for you, whether the day be rainy or shiny. It is the heart that makes the home, whether the eye rests on a potato patch or flower garden. The heart makes home precious, and it is the only thing that can. Home is where the heart is.

* * *

The bitterest tears shed over graves are for words left unsaid and for deeds left undone. "She never knew that I loved her." "He never knew what he was to me." "I always meant to make more of our friendship." "I did not know what he was to me until he was gone." Such words are the poisoned arrows which cruel death shoots from the door of the sepulchre.

The lady who laughs heartily is a doctor without a diploma. Her face does more good in a sick room than a bushel of powders or a gallon of bitter draughts. People are always glad to see her. Their hands instinctively go half way out to meet her grasp, while they turn involuntarily from the dampy touch of the dyspeptic, who speaks in the groaning key. She laughs you out of your faults, while you never dream of being offended with her and you never know what a pleasant world you live in until she points out the sunny streaks on her pathway.

The gentle grace of the mother lives in the daughter long after her head is pillowed in the dust of death; and the fatherly kindness finds its echo in the nobility and courtesy of sons, who come to wear his mantle and to fill his places; while on the other hand, from an unhappy, misgoverned and disordered home, go forth persons who shall make other homes miserable and perpetuate the sourness and sadness, the contentions, strifes and railings, which have made their own early lives so wretched and distorted.

* * *

HOME, SWEET HOME

Stay, stay at home, my heart and rest;
Homeseeking hearts are happiest,
For those that wander they know not where
Are full of trouble and full of care.
To stay at home is best.

Home—the name made dear by sacred associations, the place where childish feet take their rst faltering steps and infant minds receive their first ideas. There lessons of love and truth, or right and wrong, of faith and hope and purity are imprinted upon the plastic heart, and all the sorrows and perplexities of after life are inefficient to quite efface these first deep true impressions. Sweet home, where the mother's gentle hands prepare the little domestic comforts that a father's love provides, and filial affection is the silver link, the silken tie that binds the household band together. Trials may come and clouds may lower, but in the seclusion of home remains sweet healing for the wounds that brave and sensitive hearts hide from a disdainful world. There these hurts and distresses may be confidently revealed and a sovereign remedy found in its unquestioning faith. There a child's pure kiss or the touch of dimpled fingers may revive a soul on the verge of despair and in the home the brightest dreams become more golden, the rarest pleasures more intense, the tenderest joys more serene. And if in the varying degrees of fortune, its loving shelter must be abandoned, how the exile folds about his heart as the traveller does his cloak, the memory of its lights and flowers, its loves and hopes and kindnesses.

There the noblest influences exist, the holiest impulses find expression and there have been born the chaste and lofty sentiments that have made a whole world better.

PHILOSOPHY OF THE DAY

Great men can outgrow nicknames.
Worry kills more men than wars.
Experience gets there every time.
Wisdom wants to be asked for advice.
Some men discipline themselves to death.
Vanity produces corns and vexations of spirit.
Many a man lives on the reputation other make for him.
The truth about some men is not told until after they are dead.

HECLA FURNACE

The Perfect Type of Warm Air Furnace

Clean, Invigorating Heat

Warm air heating is the only system of heating that gives heat plus ventilation. Warm Air Furnace is the only means of ventilating the house every minute of the day and night, without opening windows.

No Water Pipes to Burst

"Hecla" Warm Air Furnace has no leaky valves to overflow and ruin carpets floors and ceilings. There are no water pipes to freeze and burst—no pipes to drain if you leave the house in winter for more than a day.

No Gas—No Dust

You've seen a blacksmith put a steel tip on an iron horseshoe. He welds iron and steel together and makes them practically one metal, without even a line to show where they join. THIS IS A FUSED JOINT. It is the same kind of a fused joint that connects the steel and iron used in the construction of "Hecla" Furnaces.

Fused Joints are permanent joints—absolutely preventing any gas, dust or smoke escaping into the house.

20 years use, in hundreds of homes, has proved the value of Fused Joints.

This Firepot Won't Burn Out

There are 97 steel ribs fused into "Hecla" Firepots, which increases the radiating surface 300%.

The fire may get red hot but the firepot won't. The steel ribs help the firepot to radiate the heat almost as fast as it is generated.

Save 1/7 of Your Coal Bill

The steel ribbed Fire Pot—a "Hecla" Patent—will save you one ton of coal in seven. We make this saving statement only after the most exacting tests, both in our foundry and in the homes of hundreds of owners of "Hecla" Furnaces.

Lasts A Lifetime

The "Hecla" Combustion Chamber is made of castiron. Practical experience proves that a cast-iron combustion chamber is better than steel. It is stronger and lasts longer—and with its corrugated surface has more heating power than any steel combustion chamber.

Easy Shaking Grate Bars

"Hecla" Grate Bars are not geared or fastened together. Each bar can be shaken separately, easily. Thus, each part of the fire can be shaken much or little as needed, cleaning the fire of all ashes, without turning good coal and live fire into the ash pan. The Dust Flue carries all dust up the chimney.

The Firm Behind The Furnace

It's a wise plan to know the people with whom you do business. We have been making Stoves since 1851—and Furnaces for more than 30 years—right here in Preston. We have made our name stand for satisfaction and reliability all over Canada.

Let Us Plan Your Heating

and give you the benefit of our experience. Send us a rough diagram of your house, showing size and location of rooms, and we will lay out and send you, free, a complete plan for a system of heating, showing the cost of putting in the right "Hecla" Furnace. 98

SLEEP.

When to soft sleep we give ourselves away,
And in a dream as in a fairy bark
Drift on and on through the enchanted dark
To purple daybreak—little thought we pay
To that sweet bitter world we know by day.
We are clean quit of it, as is a lark
So high in heaven no human eye can mark
The thin swift pinion cleaving through the grey,
Till we awake ill fate can do no ill.
The resting heart shall not take up again
The heavy load that yet must have it bleed;
For this brief space the loud world's voice is still,
No faintest echo of it brings us pain.
How will it be when we shall sleep indeed?

Thomas Bailey Aldrich.

A GYPSY SLUMBER SONG.

Under the hedges the thin gray stinging
Gnat-clouds murmur day's threnody;
Out of the gathering dusk comes flinging
A little brown bat, all weirdly winging
Over the fields, and the fireflies are stringing
Jewels of flame on the old yew-tree.
Evening is come to thee, little one, bringing
Rest and strength in the song of her singing
Ever and ever to the paths that are free!
free!
Sleep, little chal of the Romany!

Silent and cold the forges are sleeping
Under the old yew's canopy;
Darkness is come, and the dew is seeping
Down to the tired earth, weary with weeping,
Down from the dear stars, pallidly peeping—
Dew, and dreams of night-mystery.
Rest, my babe, as the shadows come creeping
Over the hill, and slumber is stepping
Earth and sky in the peace of its keeping—
Rest and strength to the earth and thee!
Sleep, little chal of the Romany!

—H. Bedford Jones.

A FEW CHOICE RECIPES

Red Beans and Rice.

Soak over night a pound of red beans. In the morning put over the fire in two quarts of water, where they will simmer for four hours or until they are quite soft. Then add a teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of butter, a small onion minced and half of a red pepper with seeds removed. Let it continue to simmer for two hours longer; then serve with a border of plain boiled rice. Salt may be omitted from the beans and a pound of salt pork or beef may be cooked with the beans to give additional flavour.

Green Peppers with Macaroni and Cheese.

Boil the macaroni until very tender in salted water; drain and blanch in cold water; drain again and add to the cheese sauce, having added a sweet green pepper, cut in shreds, to the sauce before adding the cheese. Serve in a heated covered dish.

Cheese Croquettes.

Melt two level tablespoonfuls of butter and stir in four level tablespoonfuls of flour. Then add a cupful of hot milk and cook until it is rather thick. Add salt and cayenne to taste, then two tablespoonfuls of grated cheese. Cook and stir a minute, then take from the fire and stir in the beaten yolks of four eggs. Have a cupful of cold boiled macaroni cut in very small pieces, and stir well into the sauce. Add more salt and pepper if desired. Turn out on shallow dishes to cool and then form into cylinder-shaped croquettes. Dip into beaten egg and then cover with bread crumbs and fry in deep hot fat.

Stuffed Eggplant.

Cut the eggplant in the middle and put on to boil in cold water for half an hour or until tender. Then remove from the water and drain. When quite cool remove the seeds and throw away. Then scoop out the soft meaty pulp carefully, and leave the skins unbroken. Set them carefully to one side, chop the pulp fine, add half a cupful of bread crumbs which have been wet and squeezed out dry; half a cup of boiled rice, one small onion, minced fine; the solid meat of a ripe tomato chopped fine and a little parsley and garlic, if you are fond of garlic. Season well with salt and pepper. Put two tablespoonfuls of butter in a frying pan and when hot put in the onion and brown slightly; add the chopped tomato and its juice and let it fry for several minutes; then add the minced herbs and clove of garlic, and in a few minutes the chopped eggplant. Then add the bread and rice; mix all well together, season again to taste and let cook about five minutes. Fill the shells with this mixture, cover the top with buttered crumbs and place in the oven to brown the crumbs.

FOLLIES' COMPANY CAPTURES LONDON

The Entertainment at the Apollo Theatre Is Drawing Crowded Houses Daily.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

AGAIN Mr. H. J. Pelissier and his company, called the "Follies," have caught London. In fact, they have never let go since they first took hold of public favor some two years ago. Their new entertainment has just been produced and is drawing crowded houses to the Apollo Theatre at every performance. It consists mainly of a burlesque of the prevalent fad for pageants that has been sweeping over all England during the last two years and a skit showing the humorous features of a professional voice trial in a theatre.

The stage story of this little organization of eight people is one of the most remarkable in the history of theatricals. Two years ago they came to the Apollo Theatre to stay four weeks. They have been playing there to full houses ever since, barring a two months' well earned vacation they took this summer. While the company are all exceedingly clever artists, Mr. Pelissier, the owner and originator, is the moving spirit and hardest worker of them all. He writes the plays and songs, designs the costumes and scenery and plays the star parts. He is good natured and fat and bears a striking resemblance to the late Mr. Peter F. Dailey.

Nobody ever saw Mr. Pelissier in a bad humor. He always seems happy and fairly bubbling over with geniality. Good humor is the real secret of his good fortune, and good fortune has certainly been his in the last two years, as he has undoubtedly acquired quite a large sized fortune in that time. There is never anything in his entertainments to offend any one's feelings. He believes that the public likes best fun that is absolutely good natured and that it is not necessary to be malicious or sarcastic to be amusing. His smile is chronic and his good nature contagious. It's no wonder that his light hearted cheeriness is so popular in this gray old city of gloom and fog and that Londoners go night after night to have a laugh with him and get their spirits perked up. He has come to be regarded as a sort of mental tonic, an anti-depression medicine.

There is no use in describing his new burlesque, as nobody much cares what it's about. It's sure to be harmlessly funny anyway, and that's all they look for.

HEAR PLAINT OF DRAMATIC CRITICS

London Editors and Theatrical Managers Seek Remedy for Writers Who Must Work Against Time.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

A DISCUSSION on first aid to dramatic critics has occupied the attention of the London Institute of Journalists during their conference this week. According to some of the distinguished editors who spoke at the meeting the London dramatic critic has a pretty hard time of it. He is do not finish until very late on first nights, and newspapers go to press earlier than they used to, so the poor critic has to work like mad to get his notice written in time for the first edition. To find some way to remedy this hardship and give the critic more time was the object of the discussion.

A number of persons prominent in theatrical affairs were asked to make suggestions. Among them was Sir Herbert Tree, who had two remedies up his sleeve. One, which he had recently tried himself at his production of "Henry VIII.," was to have the play start an hour earlier than usual on the first night, and so give the critics an hour's leeway at the end. It was generally agreed that this would be quite convenient for the critics, but decidedly inconvenient for the general public.

Then Sir Herbert sprang his other idea, which was that the papers print two notices of the play, a brief report of its production the next morning and a lengthy and carefully thought out review the following day.

This idea of criticism on the instalment plan did not appeal to either Mr. Harry Lawson, M. P., president of the institute, or to Mr. T. P. O'Connor, M. P. They, and a number of others as well, thought that as there are no daily papers printed in London on Sunday, all premieres should be held on Saturday nights, thus giving the critics all day Sunday to write. That would be thoroughly practical and satisfactory if there were four or five Saturday nights in each week, as there are about that number of premières every week in London during the season, and the most agile critic can be in only one theatre at once.

It was finally decided that Sir Edward Clarke's proposition that the French system of repetition generale, or public dress rehearsal, for the critics was the best way out of the difficulty. This custom was formerly quite general in London but of late years has been almost abandoned. Managers claim that a play is always at a disadvantage at a dress rehearsal, and don't like the critics to judge a play from it.

So there you are. Probably nothing will be done and the critics will have to go along as best they can. As things are now they are able somehow or other to write extremely long notices, fully as long as the average reader has patience to wade through. It is appalling to think what they would turn out if given an hour or so more to write.

AMERICAN SINGERS IN LONDON OPERA

Miss Edyth Walker, Miss Elizabeth Amsden and Others Will Be Heard in the Beecham Company.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

IN the list of artists engaged to appear at Covent Garden in the forthcoming Beecham opera season American singers make a proud showing. The most recent arrival among these is Marguerite Lemon, of the Metropolitan Opera, New York, who has just reached here from America. She has had considerable previous European experience, as she sang for three years in all the principal cities of Germany. She will appear here on the opening night, October 1, as Marta in "Tiefland," which will then be given for the first time in England.

Another American is Miss Elisabeth Amsden, of Boston, who has been engaged to create the part of Toinette in "Le Chemineau," which will be given for the first time in England on October 12. Miss Amsden made her operatic début in Paris, where she studied, and last season she sang at Covent Garden.

Miss Blanche Hamilton Fox is also a native of Boston, and has had quite a successful career in Italy and America. She has a rich mezzo soprano voice and has a large répertoire of operas. In the first week of the season she will sing in "Tiefland," "Les Contes d'Hoffman" and "Elektra."

The best known of all, of course, is Miss Edyth Walker, who will again sing the rôle of Elektra, which she created here last spring.

The men singers who are Americans include Mr. Clarence Whitehill, of the Metropolitan Opera House; Mr. Gaston Sargeant, a young Pennsylvanian with a remarkably deep voice, and Mr. Allen Hinckley, who is also of the Metropolitan company.

BANDEAUX IN STYLE FOR HAIR ORNAMENTS

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

True to historical precedent the present season brings up the problem of what particular kind of hair ornament shall be made the vogue. And the approaching season is to be no exception.

"London's fashionable world feels that it has decided that question already," said Mons. Jules Scollosy, the Court hairdresser, who speaks with authority about such things. "There never has been a time when ornaments for the hair have been so popular. At the same time a note of simplicity will be struck this season. What can look more charming, for instance, than a string of pearls wound loosely through the hair and falling in a small tassel just above the left ear? Such an arrangement lends a charming effect.

"On the other hand, there is nothing in reality so effective as the ribbon bandeau. This season it is introduced in all sort of ways—jewelled ribbon, sequined ribbon and ribbon of gold and silver tissue with pearl embroideries. They all serve the same purpose, and give a most finished appearance to a well dressed head of hair. The reign of the artificial flower as a hair ornament is absolutely over. The ribbon or 'paste' bandeau has entirely taken its place. High bandeaux of colored paste fashioned after the old Greek 'key' pattern will be the popular wear for the theatre or dinner party, while the aigrette, which long has been out of fashion for the evening, is returning to favor.

"For certain styles of hairdressing nothing looks more effective than a sweeping aigrette of black or white, fixed into the hair with a jewelled clasp. In fact, some of the most fashionable aigrettes have a stem of jewelled peacock's feather design standing up in the aigrette itself. Personally, though, I think the most becoming ornament for the hair is the Grecian double filet, either of paste or jewelled ribbon, worn at the back of a Grecian coiffure and drawn lightly through the wavelets in front."

TO AVOID DANGER FROM X RAYS

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

AS the latest scientific victim of exposure to the X-rays, Mr. Ernest Wilson, who for twelve years has been radiographer in the London Hospital, has undergone another operation on his right arm. This makes the fifth time he has been under the surgeon's knife, one finger of his right hand having been amputated only a few months ago. In the circumstances the larger institutions which possess X-ray installations are increasing their efforts to find an effective safeguard against the danger entailed by constant exposure to the rays.

In several institutions the plan is being tried of supplying the men working the apparatus with lead lined overalls, the lead offering successful resistance to the rays, which cannot penetrate it. These garments, however, are so heavy and cumbersome as to cause physical exhaustion to their wearers within a short time. The alternative plan advanced, which already is finding much favor, is the isolation of the rays within a closed chamber, into which a patient can be placed. The current producing the rays and all supplementary focusing can be perfectly controlled by the operator from the outside by means of various devices. In these conditions he escapes exposure to danger.

It is said here that Dr. J. Mount Bleyer, a noted nose, throat and lung specialist, of New York, who has made almost daily use of the X-rays for diagnostic purposes for years, has not a scar on his person. He calls X-ray burns "secondary inoculation." The rays are not in themselves poisonous, he declares, but the force of them is so terrific that they drive poisonous particles from the air into the person. To prevent this he says at first that all exposed parts are absolutely clean and then he coats them with several layers of vaseline. This simple dressing, he says, disappears after a few days.

DECORATIONS GIVEN TO THE OFFICERS

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

ALL England has cheerfully surrendered to the men of the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, who came over here for participation in the army manoeuvres through the generosity of their Colonel, Sir Henry Pellatt. Honors have been heaped upon them wherever they have gone, and, in return, the Canadian militiamen have proved that they are made of the real soldier stuff.

They have undergone experiences of every kind. For days they lived under canvas at Aldershot, while the weather man saw to it that they had British rain and mud in plenty to wrestle with. They underwent practice drills and practice marches that brought the most cordial compliments from even the hardest recruiter as to their ability to withstand endurance tests. When they entered London for a five days' visit they moved with a swing that brought choruses of cheers from the swarms of spectators for their grit, for they had marched twenty miles, taken part in a sham battle, had only one meal since eleven o'clock of the preceding night and not a single wink of sleep. They were tired men, but there was not a break in the ranks of a single company, except for the absence of those officers who, as the cables have reported, had suffered slight attacks of typhoid fever, all now being convalescent.

But the one big mark in the regiment's records is that a detachment of their men, headed by Sir Henry Pellatt, were personally inspected by King George at Balmoral Castle. As it was impossible to muster the entire regiment at Balmoral, fourteen men and their commanding officer were selected to represent the entire body, which had previously been inspected by the Duke of Connaught acting for His Majesty. There were speeches on both sides after this ceremony, followed by a presentation of decorations. The King's address, which praised the regiment as having been the first to cross the seas to participate in the home manoeuvres in the mother country, attracted wide comment. Sir Henry, in his reply, somewhat shattered precedent by addressing His Majesty frequently as "Sir," but this was held as emphasizing Canada's democracy and genuine good will.

After the ceremony the King conferred on Sir Henry Pellatt and Lieutenant Colonel P. Mason the Royal Victorian Order, third class, and on Major R. Rennie and Captain Higinbotham the fourth class of the same order, and the silver medal of the order on Color Sergeant M. D. Macdonald, the senior non-commissioned officer. After their stop in London, where the visitors were entertained and received the freedom of the theatres, the regiment returned to Aldershot to continue participation in the autumn manoeuvres.

At that big military centre a song of the Canadians has made a great hit with the regulars. To the tune of "Has Anybody Here Seen Kelly?" they thunder this refrain:—

"Has anybody seen Sir Henry?
H-E-N-R-Y.
Has anybody seen Sir Henry?
Canada is his home.
He's an Indian chief and God knows what,
We have followed him to Aldershot;
Has anybody seen Sir Henry,
Colonel of the Second Queen's Own?"

After the manoeuvres the men will go direct to Liverpool for their return to Canada.

German War Bogey Again Alarms the British Public

Writer in the Naval and Military Record Predicts a Waterloo in 1915 and Urges Army of a Million Men to Meet Invaders.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

That German "war bogey" which continues to agitate England has been responsible for many queer statements and the swamping of the British War Office with suggestions for maintaining "military preparedness." It has been responsible for demands for universal conscription and for advancement of the proposition of specially taxing adult males who will not enlist in the territorials, or militia regiments. Increased attention has been drawn to it by the recent outbreak of "spy mania," which had its source in the arrest in Germany of a couple of Englishmen who were snapping cameras around the new German fortifications at Borkum, while England played her card by taking into custody Lieutenant Helm, an alleged German spy, supposed to be making sketches of Fort Widley, at Portsmouth.

Considerable discussion has been aroused by a remarkable letter written by the secretary of the Devon branch of the National Service League, published in the Naval and Military Record. Under the caption of "Waterloo, 1915," the writer says:—

"History repeats itself and the 'balance of European power' that for centuries has been the bedrock of our foreign policy must once again decide our fate. The two power standard is hardly enough to give us reasonable safety. It is the least our naval needs demand. The care of three hundred million natives seething with unrest in India may soon require the whole of our regular forces to stem the tide of mutiny. West about Gibraltar, Malta, Egypt and South Africa and our interests in Europe. The least that can provide the means to face our trouble is a nation trained for war.

"We only fool about and trust our destiny to the efforts of a few thousand gallant patriots who chance to volunteer. Untrained, unready, quite incapable to take the field with less than six months' training after war breaks out, stinted and starved, they are completely isolated from our public life, that prefers its ignorance and imbecility to any strenuous preparation to defend its homes.

"We want a million men with six months' training now, and after that another million in reserve, and these must be intact when all our regulars have left our shores. Without them we can neither fight by land nor sea. It is evident to all but to our ill informed and apathetic people that our supremacy at sea is slipping from our grasp, and our rivals feverishly prepare to dictate terms when we are least expecting war.

"We must be prepared to send 500,000 of our finest manhood and maintain that force abroad if we would save our interests and keep our friends in Europe. By 1915 Germany will have her ports and naval arsenals, her wharves and jetties and her fleet and transports ready, and when ready she may strike like lightning. Then, not far from Waterloo, must come the clash of nations fighting for their very life.

"Round Holland and Belgium the nets are drawing closer every day. We already harbor a million of the enemy within the gate. Our politicians meetly lie, or dare not speak the truth. Disaster stares us in the face. At the outbreak of war our food supplies will fail, and prices will be far beyond the pockets of the poor. Employment then will cease and starving millions will demand surrender."

ENTERTAINING BY ANGLO-AMERICANS

Mrs. Smith Takes Broughton Castle, While Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Martin Welcome Guests at Balmacaan.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

IT is scarcely to be wondered at that Americans are so fond of spending the autumn months in England, not because of the sport for that they could have in greater variety and more profusion in their own country but rather because of the lovely old baronial halls, with their thousand historical associations. In these old family places the American woman experiences the delight of being for the time chatelaine of an old castle such as her ancestors have known, or if these be lacking such, as she has read of in history and fiction, and here she dispenses hospitality right royally, it must be confessed.

Mrs. J. H. Smith has this autumn taken Broughton Castle, near Banbury, usually the home of Lord and Lady Algernon Gordon-Lennox. This lovely old place dates back to the twelfth century. With Mrs. Smith at Broughton are her daughter, Duchesse Vizeu, and her grandchild, and here Mrs. Anthony Drexel, Lady Maidstone and other relatives and friends are being entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Glasgow have renewed their lease of Peper Harrow, Lord Midleton's place, and on returning from the Continent Mrs. Glasgow again went there with her little daughter.

At Balmacaan there is a never failing succession of visitors, for Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Martin entertain more than ever. Mr. Frederick Townsend Martin, who is with them as usual for the autumn, is this week giving his annual fete for the children of Glen Urquhart, and Mr. Martin has taxed his ingenuity to make it a memorable festivity, so that it will be one quite in keeping with the feudal spirit of the locality. Seven hundred children have been invited, and with their parents who come with them the number of guests will be about two thousand. For their entertainment a "Roman carnival" has been provided.

The keepers and gillies on Mr. Bradley Martin's estate have been drilled to take the part of various animals, such as elephants, lions and bears, while a deer stalker and others of the locality will represent Jester, Pierrot, Punch, Folly, Chinamen and Golliwog, not to omit an American Indian, two negroes and two clowns.

STANDARDIZATION IN POLO.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

Showing as it does that the spirit of compromise is abroad and that a real endeavor is being made to standardize English and American polo, the inauguration of the Anglo-American competition, to be played at Narragansett Pier, is regarded by well wishers of the game on this side very favorably. Viewed in the light that it plays the same part as mediator in America as the Whitney Cup tournament did at Burlingham and Rochampton, it is looked upon as a very welcome experiment.

STRAUS OPERA IS LONDON SUCCESS

"The Chocolate Soldier" Drawing Crowded Houses and Is Expected to Continue for a Year.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

Many American managers have brought musical plays to London and, with the exception of "The Belle of New York," have invariably met with failure. That disastrous record has now been broken by Mr. Fred C. Whitney with "The Chocolate Soldier." The success of this comic opera is one of the biggest that London has ever known. Even at the matinees the theatre is crowded and the house is practically sold out for two months ahead. Mr. Whitney will produce another opera, "Baron Trenck," in Philadelphia next month.

"I don't need to bother about 'The Chocolate Soldier' any more," he said before leaving. "It's good for a year's run here at least, and so I shall not return to London until next spring."

Disraeli is to be the principal character in a play which Mr. Louis N. Parker is now writing. It will be given first in America, with Mr. George Arliss as the great statesman-novelist.

The Pelican states that Miss Lily Elsie is engaged to be married to a wealthy young Englishman who bears a distinguished name, which said distinguished name must not be mentioned just yet.

Miss Marie Studholme, who has been seriously ill, is almost well again.

In commenting on the production of "Henry, VIII." the Manchester Guardian asks:—"Why do the gentlemen all have supper in their hats?"

Certainly that is an extraordinary place to have supper. Why not carry dinner pails? Or perhaps they had recklessly stated that they would do a certain thing or eat their hats and had failed to do it.

Mrs. Langtry, or Lady de Bathe as she is now generally called, is to have the leading part in the next Drury Lane melodrama, which will have to do with the English navy and espionage. She is to appear as a society wirepuller who furnishes secrets to spies.

WOULD MAKE SUN DO ALL OUR WORK

Professor Fessenden, of Columbia University, Has New Plan for Tapping Solar Energy.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

SCIENTISTS from many countries had a real field day at the recent meeting of the British Association in Sheffield. Sir Norman Lockyer discoursed on star furnaces, while quite a startling announcement was made that we may soon be able to imprison the heat of the sun, and thus be independent of coal and other fuel. Professor R. A. Fessenden, of Columbia University, struck that climax by developing on paper a plan for the running of machinery from power to be obtained from the sun, the wind and the waters of the sea. He based his statements on practical experiments which have been made in America. He even has gone so far as to potent two methods.

In one case he would erect on the cliffs along the sea coasts a number of windmills. These would be made to pump up water from the sea, causing it to flow into large reservoirs, from which it would be made to fall from the heights to run a power house below. The falling water would operate turbines connected with dynamos, the latter in turn operating electrical energy. Supplementing this scheme he would erect smaller windmills, modelled something after the ordinary ventilating fan, so mounted that they could be turned and made to catch the breezes at all times.

A second plan for power generation, as he outlined it, would have as its principal factor specially devised tanks with glass tops. The sun's rays would heat the water in these tanks, and the steam so generated would be passed through a pipe to low pressure turbines, in turn operating dynamos which would create power to pump water to a required height to lend power as in the case of the windmills.

The walls of the "solar tanks" as Professor Fessenden plans, should be preferably formed of ferro-concrete and covered outside and inside with some reflecting material, such as tinned iron. With the object of totally absorbing the sun's rays, and so obtaining the maximum temperature, black dye or some coloring matter would be dissolved in the water.

HOT AIR MAY OUST FIRE IN COOKING

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

It would seem that "hot air" finally is to serve a more useful purpose than the convenience of the political orator. According to the big guns of cheffdom who assembled themselves at the Bakers' Exhibition in Agricultural Hall, it will be utilized to cook the succulent steak of the future.

Lady Cunard the Victim of an Automobile Crash in Germany

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

AT Doncaster there was a very successful race meeting, the weather proving unusually pleasant. Americans, or rather Anglo-Americans, present were not numerous, and included Mr. and Mrs. Waldorf Astor, Mrs. Chauncey and Mrs. Maldwin Drummond. Lady Cunard, who was to have been one of Lord and Lady Fitzwilliam's guests at Wentworth Wood, was at the time laid up in Munich, suffering from the effects of an automobile outrage, for by no other name can it be designated. She and Mrs. Charles Mac[illegible] shall were, with many others, waiting outside the Opera House at Munich for their car, in which to return to the hotel, when suddenly another automobile, dashing [illegible] race right into the pavement.

Mrs. Charles Marshall was knocked down and so severely injured that she is still in the hospital at Munich, while Lady Cunard was also thrown down and very severely cut and bruised. The driver of the car neither apologized nor offered help, the task being left to Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont, Baroness von André, Lady (Hall) Paget and Lord Westbury, who fortunately escaped the onslaught of the car. Little was the sympathy of the crowd which, of course at once collected, for Mrs. Marshall's and Lady Cunard's purses, containing English bank notes and gold, were stolen. The authorities, however, took good care to exercise censorship with the press that none of this should be made public. Certainly it does not speak much for the chivalry of the Germans!

Mr. George Graves tells an Express representative that now he is acting in music halls and only on the stage for half an hour, he doesn't know what to do with his evenings.

Mlle. Leonora, of the Alhambra, starts early next year on a series of long Continental engagements, later on going to America.

Mr. Hall Caine has been fined five shillings for having a [illegible] one of his plays without a license. There was no fine imposed on account of the other actors.

A short time back a number of young ladies, says "M. A. P.," formed a club around one of London's best known romantic actors, and they even went so far as to organise [illegible] to discuss his charms.

His wife thinks they were foolish not to invite her to the discussion. She could have told them a few things. The wife is an American.

Terry's Theatre to be turned into a moving picture exhibition hall when Miss May Robson finishes her season there.

Miss Edna Goodwin (Mrs. Nat Goodwin) has signed with the Benson company and is coming back to England to act Shakespearean parts in the provinces. It will be remembered that Mr. Goodwin had his first real Shakespeare several years ago.

Under Mr. Alfred Butt's management the profits of the Palace Theatre during the last three years have been more than its entire capital, which is $600,000. There is more than art [illegible] about dancing.

PREDICT EXPANSION DOWN TO ISTHMUS

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

The Observer, in a recent editorial says:—

"It is just possible that the United States is not destined to be master of South America. The Latin communities have suffered in the past from three grave troubles. They were not able to federate, Europe's immigrants had not established themselves to the exclusion of the natives, and the problem of the position of the army in a democratic State had not been solved satisfactorily to politicians. Gradually these difficulties are being overcome. The report of an alliance between Argentina, Brazil and Chili is very significant.

"The one thing still required to put a stop to American aggression is the cooperation of Mexico. The future will show whether Mexico owes her present prosperity to the increased common sense of the mass of the people or whether it is owing to the work of the wonderful genius of General Diaz. Unless his work lives after him the United States will advance its frontier to the Isthmus of Panama by the incorporation of one great Latin State, which will not imperil the independence of the remainder.

Peter F. Summers relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to bad work a bad habit and a bad wife. I saw no way to be cured and spent much time, money and doctor bills, etc. Numbers in the vicinity of my home had the best of no help. I spent many years, I took all kinds of medicines and tried many free-dom physicians, worth probably $1,000 in three months, but never got little benefit. I was advised to try Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I ventured the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic. I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and continue to do so.

TWELVE months after [illegible] investigation and experiment we launched forth as the Knight motor as the greatest improvement of the decade [illegible]

Many [illegible] were loudly congratulating themselves on [illegible]

Others [illegible] perhaps there are to-day, but we hear best of them.

THEY SAID: The Knight was an experiment—forgetting that it had stood the [illegible] engine test ever put to before the Royal Automobile Club of Great Britain and Ireland.

THEY SAID: It will not stand up on Canadian roads, although they knew a [illegible] was open to anyone who wished to measure his motor against the Knight for reliability.

THEY SAID: That it would not be taken up in Europe, and that the Daimler Company were about to discard it. We know at the time and are one [illegible] it now, that the leading concerns in six of the countries of Europe have adopted the Knight motor.

THEY SAID: No one in the United States would take it up. We know that over [illegible] of the large concerns in the United States have from time to time applied for consideration on the American rights. And we know [illegible] that leading United States firms will announce 1912 models with Knight [illegible] within twelve months, despite the fact that [illegible] agents [illegible] the [illegible] profess great skepticism about the Knight [illegible]

EVERYDAY LIFE OF ORDINARY MINER

[illegible] interest to some of [illegible] have a description [illegible] life of an ordinary [illegible] coal mines of the Old [illegible]

[illegible] coalfields are to be [illegible] North of England in the Durham, Yorkshire, and [illegible] Many thousands of men employed in this industry, and when we consider consequent to such [illegible] pay in proportion is small. To begin with, to understand thoroughly [illegible] of a mine, he must be[illegible] many of the older men [illegible] employed as miners commence their careers as pit boys at the [illegible] of seven. Can you conceive [illegible] must be the feelings of a child [illegible] led by his father, at [illegible] placed in a cage among [illegible] boys to descend into the [illegible] the earth and to remain [illegible] for a [illegible] His sole duty [illegible] the whole of the day be[illegible] and close a door in the [illegible] roadways of the mine, in order that the pure air might be [illegible] in the various parts of the [illegible] where the men are employed. During later years, however, this state of things has been entirely altered, and now stringent laws have been passed prohibiting the employment of boys of such tender years. I will try to describe a typical day in the life of the miner. During the winter the Government has the duty to pass an Act of Parliament limiting the hours of work to [illegible] per day. It is not my purpose to say whether this is considered [illegible] action on their part or not. I only mention the fact because it has altered the time for the men to descend into the mine. At 4.30 each morning a party of trustworthy men assemble at the month of the mine, and after receiving their safety lamps, which, by the way, are carefully examined and locked securely, they descend at this early hour in order to make a thorough examination of the whole of the workings before the remainder of the workmen are allowed to commence work. Each of these men, who are designated by the name of firemen, has a portion of the workings of the mine allotted to them, for which they are held wholly responsible, and should any accident occur during the day and on investigation it is found to be due to the neglect of a fireman, it may lead to very disastrous consequences for him. When the examination is satisfactorily terminated, the signal is given for the cage to descend. Before doing so, however, each man must present himself at the lamp station, where a locked safety lamp is delivered to him. The cage is then drawn to the surface and the men are allowed to go down the mine in regular order; and here let me say that for a few seconds the lives of all these men depend on the man in charge of the engine. These men have to undergo a [illegible] training in company with someone who thoroughly understands the work before being allowed full control of an engine. They also have to be men of strictly sober habits. Such is the care exercised in the selection of these men that an accident rately happens through the carelessness of the man in charge. In fact, the writer has had an experience of [illegible] forty-seven years in a colliery district, and cannot bring to mind a single case due to the neglect of an engine-driver. When the men reach the different parts of the workings, the fireman for each section meets them and gives his report as to the condition of the parts of the roadways he has examined. If all is found to be correct, he makes a careful examination of each man's lamp to see that it has not been tampered with since leaving the pit's mouth. No man is allowed to take pipe, tobacco or matches further into the workings. If he should smuggle any thing of the sort into the interior of the mine, and it is discovered, he is handed up before the magistrate and charged with a breach of the Mines Regulation Act, under which there is a very heavy penalty for this kind of thing. This Act is very rigidly enforced by the owners of mines. If in an old mine the roadways sometimes extend for four miles in the bowels of the earth, as was the case in the North of England only a few months ago when an explosion occurred, completely blocking the workings and imprisoning nearly one hundred poor fellows who have not yet been recovered, for such was the force of the explosion that the whole workings were set on fire and in a short time all hope of receiving any of them was abandoned. On arriving at the coal face the miner divests himself of his clothing with the exception of a light pair of pants, and commences to hew down the coal that he finds in such enormous quantities in front of him. The first operation consists of burrowing a tunnel under the coal on a level with the roadway. In order to protect himself from danger whilst doing this, he places pieces of timber, called props, at regular intervals under the tunnel he has made. These props are imported in large quantities from this country for this purpose. Tunnelling is one of the most dangerous operations of mining, as very often the coal, which may appear to be perfectly safe, falls down through what is known locally as a fault and completely buries the men who are so unfortunate as to be working under it. When the coal is laid down, small wagons, or tubs, are brought to it, and men are employed filling these, which are then hauled by a wire rope to the shaft, where they are put on to the cage and conveyed to the surface. The coal is then dealt with by a complicated piece of mechanism called a screen, which separates the different grades of coal, loading the different grades into railway wagons, which are taken to various parts of the country. It is usual in some of the larger collieries to raise upwards of 2,000 tons of coal per day; and as this has been going on for years, the accumulation of coal must have been immense, and geologists tell us that at the same rate of consumption as at present there will be no scarcity of coal for generations to come. At 10 a.m. the whistle sounds to cease work for the purpose of having a hasty lunch. Work is usually resumed at 10.20 and continued until 2 p.m., when all work ceases for the day. The rate of pay varies in the various districts, so that it is impossible to give a true idea of the wages, but it is safe to assume that a good man by working piecework can earn two dollars per day. Unfortunately, owing to various causes, a full week's work is of very rare occurrence, so that millionaires are not over plentiful in the mining classes. After the day's work is over, various kinds of amusements are indulged in, many of the miners are ardent cyclists.

Scratched Until I Tore The Flesh

"It was in the latter end of the year 1908 that a nasty itch came through my skin, and I scratched it until I tore the flesh. I tried several ointments to no effect. I went to a skin hospital. They advised me to go to the ——— Hospital, but I refused. I could not sleep with the constant itch. I was that way until on or about the month of January. One day I chanced to see in the papers a case like mine, but I gave it no credence. At last I said, 'I will try the Cuticura Remedies.' With the first wash and Cuticura Ointment I used, I found their effects. I got one box of the Ointment more, and in less than one week the skin was all right, and left no traces after it. I have not had a return of the same since, and I shall always praise the Cuticura Remedies as being the means of my cure."

(Signed) JOHN TYRRELL, 94, Scotland Road, Liverpool.

In a further letter Mr. Tyrrell adds: "The first appearance of my skin eczema was a burning itch which I tore and left my body, legs and arms one mass of sores. It caused sleepless nights, but now I can sleep as well as ever."

YOUTH AND BEAUTY

Women and Men are Anxious to Keep Young.

Nothing so detracts from the attractiveness of woman as dull, faded, lustreless hair.

There is no excuse for this condition nowadays, hence notice is hereby given to the readers of the Examiner that Parisian Sage, the quick acting hair restorer, is now on sale in Peterborough at the drug store of Wm. Magill, and sold with a stand guarantee at 50 cents a large bottle.

Since its introduction into Canada, Parisian Sage has had an immense sale, and here are the reasons:

It is safe and harmless.

It removes dandruff in two weeks, by killing the dandruff germ.

It stops falling hair.

It promptly relieves itching of the scalp.

It makes the hair fluffy, glossy and luxuriant.

It gives life and beauty to the hair.

It is not sticky or greasy.

It is the ideal hair tonic made.

It is the best and most pleasant and invigorating hair dressing made.

Fight shy of the druggist who offers you a substitute, as it is unworthy of your confidence.

Made only in Canada by Giroux Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont. The girl with the golden hair is on every package.

WOMAN OF SIXTY SWAM FIVE MILES

Special to The Examiner.

ST. LOUIS, SEPT. 28.—No stimulant of any kind was required by Mrs. Lena Brandenburger, sixty years old, of St. Louis either before or after her extraordinary five-mile swim, in a storm of cold rain, from Eads Bridge to the St. Louis Alteheim.

"If you swim enough," Mrs. Brandenburger said Monday, "you do not need stimulants except under unusual circumstances. Swimming is itself a stimulant. It is a beautifier and a cure for many ills. I was in poor health when I learned to swim six years ago. To-day I am so robust that I defy any young woman to perform any physical feat too hard for me to repeat.

"I am as young to-day as I was at twenty. Swimming did it.

"It is a woman's duty to keep young, and she can find no better way to do it than by swimming. I wouldn't do without my daily exercise for anything.

"Women have more courage and endurance than men. I was in no distress at any time during my trip, and those experienced in such matters say it would have been a severe test for a young man.

"Anyhow, I have proved what I wanted to demonstrate—that a woman at sixty is not an old woman, by a whole lot, if she has practised swimming long enough to get herself into good form."

Mrs. Brandenburger started on her remarkable swim Sunday afternoon from the eastern end of the Eads Bridge and was in the water two hours.

The storm then in progress chopped the river into waves which often obscured the red cap Mrs. Brandenburger wore. She had promised Gustav Cramer, President of the Altenheim, that she would swim as an attraction for an entertainment at the home.

Cramer rode in a gasoline launch, following the swimmer, and her son, Dr. L. A. Brandenburger, was also a passenger in it. In another boat was John C. Meyers of the United States Volunteer Life Saving Service.

WALTER JOHNSON PICKS WALSH AS BEST PITCHER

Walter Johnson says that Big Ed Walsh, of the Chicago White Sox, is the greatest pitcher in the American League. Johnson passes up Plank, Bender, Russell Ford, and all the others.

"If I was manager of a ball club and had my pick of any twirler in the American League, I would sign Ed Walsh," said Johnson during a fanfest the other day.

"Who do you pick Walsh?" Johnson was asked.

"Because he's got more stuff than any of the others when he is right. Big Ed's spitter is a wonder; you simply cannot hit it. He has a great head, too, and has twirled consistent ball for years."

When Russell Ford's name was brought up, Johnson claimed that Ford was much easier to hit than Walsh, and added, "Ford is a little chap in comparison to Walsh and can only pitch every five days, while Big Ed can work three times a week if necessary and be just as strong the third game as he was the first."

Of course, modesty prevented Johnson saying anything about himself, but you can't make Washington fans believe that Walsh has anything on Johnson.

PANDORA RANGE

for Coal or Wood

THERE is no fine, fancy, dust-catching carving about the Pandora Range. Instead the carving is bold and large, and so easy to clean.

Great care is exercised in finishing, cleaning and polishing the Pandora Castings. That is why they are so very smooth. The Cooking-Top is burnished. It is smooth as glass. Doesn't catch the dust. Requires but little black lead once a week.

Why it's so Easy to Keep Clean

You want a range that is easy to clean—that bakes perfectly—that saves fuel—that is guaranteed to satisfy you. The Pandora is that kind of a range. See it at our agent's in your locality.

I WANT ... proof to a very old proverb today. Half a loaf is better than ... In one ap... it is way off. For altho... in spending ... That is, if ... go in a half-a-h... On a paper ... which I was asked the management decided to feature ... festival "feature," let me explain to the ... unmitigated means ... a lot of space to ... "We will send all our special writer and cartoon... and draw a lot of stuff that will interest and ... these people. Then we will advertise on the ... what splendid accounts we are giving of the ... Smith-Jones Convention, and that will make all ... those people buy our paper, and we shall get our money back in advertising."

All of which would have been very splendid if they had only done it on a whole-loaf style.

But they didn't. Somewhere in the process the management certainly lost its courage about spending ... all that money, and instead of advertising the paper's ... intention to devote so much space to its report of the ... convention on a wholesale way that would have ... brought results the management stuck up a few pos... so small and obscure that no one who was not looking for them could ... have found them and let it go at that.

Result: Because they lost their nerve and spent so little on their at... tempt to attract attention, they failed utterly, and the money they did spend ... accomplished absolutely nothing, and I was completely thrown away.

If they had spent three times as much they would undoubtedly have had a hundred times the results.

Half-a-loafism is the worst kind of economy. I put it better to spend ... than you really can afford and get it back twice over in results than ... to spend half as much and then lose it all.

The man who puts all he can afford, and then some, into a venture, ... his bridges behind him and therefore goes ahead with a desperation ... determination that are almost sure to bring success.

He mustn't lose and therefore he doesn't.

All of which, although I have put it in terms of money because that ... is the easiest way to express it, is meant to apply just as much to the ... wasted use of other things—time, and energy, and self, for instance. ... If you are about to start any venture, whether it be getting up an ... entertainment, winning a man's love, or going into business for yourself, ... remember that half a loaf is better than none applies to getting, not to ... losing, and go about it in a whole-hearted way, or not at all.

SERMON FROM SHAKESPEARE

(Copyright, by Bradley-Garretson Co. Ltd.)

He was of the distracted multitude,

Shakespeare was decidedly not an admirer of the commonalty. He has given a wealth of descriptive epithet at a parallel in even his work. They are the "fool multitude," the "giddy multitude," the "many-headed multitude," the "rude ... the "still-discordant ... multitude." In Julius Caesar they are described as blocks ... and worse than senseless ... Coriolanus they are curs, ... fragments. It may be ... that Coriolanus, Marullus and ... Cassius are speaking and ... Shakespeare. The frequency with ... poet thus designates the ... consistency with which he ... to ridicule and contempt. ... opinion as his. For the ... a multitude he has no ... scorn for the individuals ... to themselves that is ano... Coriolanus was nobly ... by a poor man in Coriolanus. ... "As You Like It," an illi... sentiment, is one of the finest old ... utterances.

To be heard by the multitude is dangerous. It is easily distracted. Its approval may rest on no solid foundation. Even it supports on some merely accidental ground. The glib-tongued orator who has nothing to recommend him save an attractive voice wins its favor. A pleasing or eccentric appearance may catch its eye. Odd apparel and manners are often adopted by quacks to catch the fond crowd. To-day the mob are on the walls and battlements, filling the windows and seeking the chimney tops, their infants in their arms, "To see great Pompey pass the streets of Rome."

To-morrow they are glad in their best attire shouting in honor of Caesar, who "Comes in triumph over Pompey's blood."

The cry ever is: The king is dead; long live the king! Favors done are forgotten; favors to be received are sought after. The crowd are idol-worshippers. They soon turn from the idol forced upon them or set up by their own vanity and selfishness. New idols are continually sought after. Yesterday the most daring chauffeur was the hero of the populace, to-day the most reckless aviator holds their hearts.

There is no dependence to be put on popularity. Recent wars prove this. In the British army were soldiers who had won renown in India and Egypt. Unexpected difficulties confronted them in South Africa. They met defeat. Their former glory was forgotten, and the successful generals who came after them, learning by their misfortunes, received the plaudits of the crowd. The Russian-Japanese war gives similar instances. Browning represents the hero of the people going forth one year with "roses, roses all the way," with flags flying from the housetops in his honour, with the heavens re-echoing his illustrious name. The next year he is a prisoner, led to the scaffold, stones are hurled at him instead of roses. It is an extreme picture, but not an untrue one. The history of the world presents in all ages and in all nations hundreds of just such cases. Scott had evidently the same idea with regard to the mob as had Shakespeare. Indeed, he would almost seem to have borrowed his very language from the Elizabethan dramatist.

"Who o'er the herd would wish to reign,
Fantastic, fickle, fierce and vain!
Vain as the leaf upon the stream,
And fickle as a changeful dream;
Fantastic as a woman's mood,
And fierce as Frenzy's fevered blood.
Thou many-headed monster thing,
O, who would wish to be thy king!"

The tag-rag people on the world's stage clap and hiss the actors as they please or displease them. He who trusts them "where he should find them lions finds them hares where foxes, geese." This is severe censure—a pessimistic view of the human race.

However, there are hopeful signs. In America, both in the United States and in Canada, the men elected as Presidents and Premiers have been admirably chosen. Statesmen like Cleveland, McKinley, Roosevelt, and Taft; Macdonald, Mackenzie, and Laurier—are the pick of the nation and have retained their popularity. There have been hoots and hisses and stones in times of defeat. The excited, exulting mob easily forgets itself, but in its sober moments it bends its knee to the worthy men who have been chosen by the nation to guide its popularity at all, they sought it merely as a means to an end. Fundamentally they have been influenced by the highest motives. In office, they have realized the sacredness of the trust imposed upon them and they have been faithful to that trust. Had they merely sought popularity they would have found it as true now as it was in the days of Henry IV. that

"A habitation giddy and unsure
Hath he, that buildeth on the vulgar heart."

The applause of fellow-creatures is pleasant, but it is not essential to any true worker's happiness.

RELIEVED

Creditor—I ask you for the last time to pay me that five dollars you owe me.

Debtor—Thank goodness. There's an end to that silly question.

EVIDENTLY SUSPICIOUS

"I can't understand why my second husband is so fastidious," confessed a Glasgow lady to her bosom friend. "He scarcely eats anything. My first husband, who died, used to eat everything I cooked for him."

"Have you told your present husband that?"

"Yes."

"Perhaps that's the reason."

THE VERY LATEST

Mr. Justwed—What on earth are you trying to do?

Mrs. Justwed—I was reading about cooking by electricity, so I hung the chops on the electric bell, and I've been pushing the button for half an hour, but it don't seem to work.

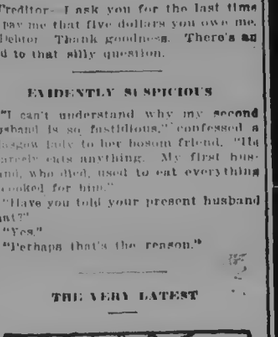
THE PLEASURE WAS MUTUAL

The friends of two celebrities, one a stutterer and the other somewhat deaf, succeeded after much manoeuvring in getting them to meet, and the event aroused considerable glee.

Some time thereafter the stutterer was asked how the interview passed off.

"Oh, w-we g-g-got along f-finely," he stammered. "I-I-I couldn't h-h-hear me."

MORE SERIOUS



Mr. Sport—We'd have won the football game if our captain hadn't lost his head.

Miss Dumby—Mercy! Was it so bad as that? I heard it was only an ear.

The Weather Predictions For Month Of October According To Irl Hicks

A Regular Storm Period still covered by Earth's autumnal equinox, and nearing the centre of the Venus equinox, is central on the 1th, extending from the 2nd to the 7th. Moon is on the equator on the 2nd and New Moon on the 3rd. Promptly on the 2nd and third look for rapid development of low barometer and high temperature in all western extremes, merging quickly into storms of thunder, rain and wind. These storms will pass in successive order, from west to east across the country from the 3rd to the 6th. Decided change to colder will come on the west flanks of these storms, with violent gales over the lake regions. Equinoctial storms in the south would be natural. Central on the 3rd is a seismic period, covering the 1st to the 7th.

A Reactionary Storm Period falls on the 9th, 10th and 11th. Moon will be at greatest south declination and at first quarter at this period. The Venus disturbance will bring threatening conditions, with marked autumnal storms, especially in the northwest and over the lakes. Look for rapid and high reaction of the barometer and change to much colder with frosts behind this and other October storm periods.

A Regular Storm Period, practically at the centre of the Venus equinox, and embracing full Moon in perigee, is central on the 16th, covering the 14th to 19th. This is a period in which shippers and navigators on the great lakes should anticipate heavy to dangerous gales. Falling barometer and threatening weather will set in to the westward early in this period, but the culmination will fall on the 17th, 18th and 19th. Autumnal storms of lightning, thunder, wind and rain will be general, but the period will wind up with high barometer, snow squalls from the northwest, and an early cold wave over regions to the northward. A seismic period of more than ordinary intensity is central on the 18th, covering the 15th to the 22nd. The 17th, 18th and 19th are dates of greatest seismic stress. Watch the telegraphic reports.

A Reactionary Storm Period is central on the 22nd and 23rd. But for the prevailing Venus disturbance at this time, storm-producing causes would be at their lowest minimum for this autumnal season. Fall of the barometer and threatening to stormy weather, especially on the great lakes, and on north Atlantic seas and coasts, must naturally be looked for on and touching the 22nd and 23rd, but storms out of the ordinary are not indicated for this time. Northwesterly gales and change to colder about the 23rd to 26th.

A Regular Storm Period covers the last week in October, being central on the 27th. The opposition of the planet Saturn falls on the 27th, followed by a remarkable series of conjunctions of planets, and Moon with planets. The Mercury period also intensifies this period, and will tend to prolong it into the opening days of November. Storms of this period will reach a crisis on and touching the 30th. Rain, wind and electrical storms will prevail to the southward, turning to snow and sleet in the north before the end of the Mercury period in November.

The Ulster Dooley On The Failings Of Crippenism

"I'm tired of it," said Andy. "Sick an' tired. I niver want to hear eny more about it. Don't spake to me. Go away and let me be. I'm not in the humor for talkin'."

Andy struck a match and lighted his pipe. After a few puffs, he stroked Matilda Ann on the head.

"Ay," said he, "ye're betther company than eny human bein'. Ye're free from the vice av curiosity. Ye hev no curiesity, hev ye? Not a scrap."

I stood on my foot hesitating. Andy was in a very thrawn mood.

"What are ye hangin' about fur?" said he. "Hevn't I towld ye I m tired av it."

"Tired of what?" said I.

"Ye hev the face to axe me that!" said Andy. "Right weel ye know what it is. Is there onythin' else in the papers. Hev we not been thinkin' it an' talkin' it an' readin' it fur weeks? The very chiddher in their cradles are babblin' about it. The on'y sinsible crayeture in the house is the cat there. She knows nothin' about it, an' she cares less. Do ye, Matildy Ann?"

Matilda Ann purred gently and yawned.

"I suppose ye mean the Crippen case?" said I.

"Do ye see that?" said Andy. "The very cat is tired av it. An' small blame to her."

"Your powers av guessin' are tremenjous," said Andy. "Is there onythin' else this highly intilligent counthry is interested in? I tell ye what, we hev got Crippen on the brain. It's a new disease. We're sufferin' from Crippenism. We've got it very bad, an' it's goin' to be worse afore it is better."

"What on earth do you mean by Crippenism?" said I.

"It's a new sort av disease projooced by the Board Schools an' the dulness av life," said Andy. "Everybody can read nowadays, an' everybody wants to read somethin' sensational. The throuble is that there's not enough sensations to go round. The supply av murdhers is totally inadequate. The airmin do their best, and the airweemin are helpin' thim, but dead aviators are beginnin' to pall. Whin we get a good murdher we make the most av it. Mon alive, we hev got mere thrills oot av Crippen than we got oot av the Reno fight. It heg been nearly as excitin' as the war. The hunt fur Crippen wuz nearly as thrillin' as the hunt fur De Wet. An' the sensations we got oot av it were much the same. It satisfied what we call poor sportin' instincts. We're all spertamen now, and a murdher is the chapest forrum av amusemint."

"Human nature is human nature," said I.

"It is that," said Andy. "But Crippenism is not a very noble exhibition av human navchure. I don't blame the papers. They on'y give us what we want. But I'm afeerd there's a risk av makin' murdher too picturesque. There's more ink spilt on wan murdher nowadays than used to be spilt on a whole war av murdhers. Ye see it's like this. War is wholesale murdher. If we indulge our bloodthirsty appetites in the wan we'll indulge thim in the ither. An' the worst sign av all is the money that is in a good murdher."

"What do you mean?" said I.

"What I say," said Andy. "It's an ill murdher that blows nobody good. The relations an' acquaintances can make money oot av it. They can sell their photygrafts an' their information to the papers. The first thing a smart, live, up-to-date paper does afther is to buy all the corpse's relatives an' all the murdherer's relatives. I tell ye it's a small gold mine to hev a murdher in yer family. It's wan av the quickest ways av gettin' rich. Hev ye noticed that people are not ashamed av havin' a murdher in their family circle? They take a pride in seein' their pictures in the paper. They sell intherviews by the mile. It's wondherful how eloquent they become as soon as they get into the hands av the clever criminal investigator. Afore the murdher they're nobodies. Afther the murdher they take the shine oot av Roosevelt. I don't blame thim. A murdher is a sore timptation to a poor mon. That's what I call Crippenism."

"You can't deny that it's a natural impulse," said I.

"There's plinty av natural impulses that oughtn't to be encouraged," said Andy. "Crime can be made too popular. Hez there iver been a more notorious charachter than Crippen? He's not far short av bein' a national hayro. I tell ye what, if ye want to be talked about, ye hev on'y to commit a sensational murdher, or to be suspected av it. It's a mistake to feed the vanity av criminals. There's a danger av makin' murdher too intherestin'. The way a murdher is written up nowadays makes it more thrillin' than a melodrama an' more excitin' than a novel. The papers turn themsilves into thwayters. They put the murdher on the stage. There's nothin' like it in the limelight."

"They help the police to catch the murderers at any rate," said I.

"An' they make the business so romantic that the murdherers become star actors," said Andy. "They tell ye what the murdherer hez for breakfast. They tell ye his favorite authors. They tell ye his favorite jokes. An' what they don't know, they make up. Ye see they hev to slake the public thirst. They hev to Crip fur all they're worth. A paper that's no good at Crippin' is left behind."

"What do you mean by Cripping?" said I.

"Helpin' the public to sup on horrors," said Andy. "Caterin' fur the morbid hunger fur the horrible. That's what Crippin' is. It's makin' two lies grow where wan grew afore. It's the greatest degradation av the greatest number. Mon alive, the very babies lisp in murdhers, nowadays. Crippenism is in the cradle."

"Murder will out, Andy," said I.

"It will," said Andy. "But we needn't help it oot so joyously. It's wan thing to hoot a criminal down, but it's anither thing to cheat over the miserable sport. There's too much gloatin' for my taste. We enjoy the murdher too much. It's not justice we're afther, it's excitement. We're turnin' ourselves into bloodhounds. I tell ye what, it's a sign of decay."

"You're fond of exclamation," said I.

"Crippenism is a disease we can't exaggerate," said Andy. "I don't like this say captain that chappied Crippen. He has added a new verrut to say sickness. He sent a message by wireless telegraphy to Scotland Yard. He wuzn't satisfied with playin' Sherlock Holmes. He turned himself into a universal newspaper. He made the Atlantic ho[rror] bulletin pen laugh. The [whole] world made Crippen show. [Oh] Forth. Through the Portholes. Quite la owl-fashioned, but I don't [like] that sort av British sailor. But I don't blame the captain. He [is] a product av the age. He [is] on'y pullin' what they wanted. He pandered to our curiosity."

"It is not," said Andy, "but we're curious about vul[gar] sickly things. We hev no curiosity about healthy things. We hev no [good] souls, an' we feed on sordid garbage. Do ye think wan av the owl say dogs wud hev led the papers wi' pullin about Crippen? He wud hev done his jooty an' let it go at that. I wud rather hev Cap'en Cuttle than Captain Kendall. 'When found, make a note av,' wuz Cap'n Cuttle's motto. Do you know what Captain Kendall's motto is?"

"I do not, Andy," said I. "What is it?"

"I'll tell ye," said Andy. "It's this: 'When found make a gloat av.' An' that's Crippenism all the wurruld over. Whativer we find, make a gloat av. It turns me stomach to see the whole Englishspeakin' race gloatin' over the remains av poor Belle Elmore. I tell ye it's not cricket. It's not playin' the game. It's morbid, it's unwholesome, it's unmanly. It's not dacent."

"Well, Andy, what is the remedy?" said I.

"Ejucate, ejucate, ejucate," said Andy. "We hev got to make the people take an interest in the good instead av the bad. We hev got either to make the [papers] better than the papers or the papers better than the people. At present the wan's no better than the ither. They're both steeped in Crippenism. As long as there's a demand for murdhers there will be a supply. I don't object to a cloud in the [sky] over Imm', but I do object to a murdher wi' wan."

"You don't suggest that we like murder, do you?" I

"We don't, we don't," said Andy. "But it's [in the] heart av hearts we do. Murder is an intertainmint, an' an artistic murderer is a public intertainer. The [only] difference between an artistic murderer and a murderer is that we [do] not love afther the artistic murderer has killed the other. But afore we get the last ounce av sinsation out av him."

reality in her behalf. The thing is amazing. Of course now that her trouble and suffering have started, the sky will clear all the sooner."

"Unhappily such affairs do not arrange themselves so readily," snapped Lady Margaret. She was becoming more angry with each wave of reflection. "Young men like you do not realize the effect of such—such unpleasant exposures on family life. How will the early history of her parents affect the future of Constance Brand? As for the other girl—"

Her ladyship threw up her hands in helpless abandonment. To her mind, the adoption of poor End, the sea-waif assumed a darker appearance now that Brand's matrimonial adventures revealed sinister features.

"Mother," he cried, "before you say another word let me tell you something you ought to know. End is Mr Traill's daughter."

Now this good woman loved her son dearly. All her thoughts were of him and for him. Her look of blank incredulity yielded to the confirmation she saw writ on all three faces.

She burst into tears.

"Apparently I am the last person to be taken into anybody's confidence," she sobbed.

"Madam," said Mr. Traill, bending over her, "in this instance, at least, you have no cause to feel grieved. Neither the girl herself, nor her sister by adoption, nor Mrs. Vansittart, to whom, until the past half-hour, I considered myself to be engaged, is aware of the undoubted fact which your son has just told you. Let me say that I, as her father, am proud to think she has won the affections of such a man as Stanhope. There is no reason why you, his mother, should not be equally satisfied with the pedigree and prospects of my daughter."

His calm assumption of a rank equal if not superior to her own was convincing to a woman of her temperament. Assuredly that evening was a memorable one to her ladyship. The repose of Vere de Vere was rudely shocked for once. Nevertheless, the knowledge that her lifelong ambition had been realized in a way little dreamed of by any of those most concerned was in itself consoling. Mr Traill, quite unconsciously, loomed large in the social eye of Penzance, and the widowed lady had not been so long withdrawn from the sweet-worshipping world of London as to be wholly unleavened with the wrap of the golden calf.

SATURDAY

The Wise and Foolish Virgins. Matt. xxv.: 1-13

Golden Text—Be ye therefore ready also, for the Son of Man cometh at an hour when ye think not. Luke xii.: 40

Verse 1—What event, or events, in the kingdom of heaven on earth does this parable represent?

What were the marriage customs of the Jews in that day upon which this parable is based?

Verse 2—Judging from what they say, and how they act, what proportion of the members of the churches are ready for sudden death, or for the sudden coming of Christ?

What do the lamp and the oil represent?

Which is in the sorriest predicament and why, the man who makes no provision for eternity, or the one who fails in one essential particular?

Why cannot a man perform the duties of to-day perfectly who does not make provision for to-morrow?

How much service is a form of religion, and attendance at church, to one who does not become a true Christian?

Verse 5—Taking the literal story of the parable, how much blame, if any, should we attach to these ten virgins for slumbering and sleeping?

What is the danger incurred by so many professed Christians, in their apathy and indifference to spiritual things?

Verse 6—Why is it an important duty as well as a great privilege, to be always on the lookout for the midnight cry to meet Christ?

Judging from the newspapers, about what per cent. of deaths are sudden?

What reasons are there, if any, to expect the event in the near future, commonly called "Christ's Second Coming?"

Verse 7—If a man is living in constant readiness to meet Christ, how much, if any, special preparation does he need, on the eve of the meeting?

How many of the careless ones are there who are not anxious about their souls when they look death straight in the face?

Verse 8—When is the best time, and why, to prepare to meet God? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verse 9—What way is there, if any, by which we can either train for a race, learn a trade, or get salvation by proxy?

What is the only way by which we can obtain salvation?

Which is the more foolish, the one who is to pass an educational examination and puts off all study until examination day, or the one who puts off his salvation to a death-bed?

When is the door shut to an opportunity, and when is the door shut to heaven?

Verses 11-12—What can be said from reason or the scriptures, that salvation is possible after death?

Verse 13—What is the chief prize which life offers and for which we should watch the most keenly?

HEALING POWER A MARVEL

So remarkable is the healing power of Dr Chase's Ointment that the results of a single application are often a marvel to persons who witness them for the first time. Mrs. C. Hopkins, St. George, Ont., tells how her son was cured of blood poisoning which got started in a wound received at a threshing. Relief was prompt and cure effected by three boxes.

CASE LIKE CRIPPEN MURDER IS FOUND IN SAN FRANCISCO

Body of Young Stenographer, Missing Five Months, Discovered Under Floor of Bath Room in Vacant Cottage.

SOAKED IN ACID

Examiner Special.

SAN FRANCISCO, SEPT. 28.—San Francisco was thrilled to-day by a discovery brought to light late last night, making the city a scene of a murder mystery possessing a similarity in its most striking phase to the notorious Dr. Crippen crime.

In this instance, too, a doctor is suspected, and has been arrested. But instead of a wife who was to be got rid of for the sake of a stenographer in this case it was the stenographer who was murdered.

Seated with nitric acid, and crushed into a small hole, sealed with cement, the body of Miss Eva Swan, twenty-six years old, a stenographer, formerly a school teacher of Paso Robles, Cal., was unearthed by the police last night from beneath the floor of the bathroom of a vacant house on Eureka street here. The girl had been missing since April 21.

It is a curious coincidence that in the Crippen case the murdered woman had been missing five months before her remains were found beneath the cellar floor of her home.

Three days ago Frank B. Gordon, a new assistant to Dr. James Grant of this city, gave certain information to the police. Detectives at once began a search of the vacant cottage on Eureka street, which lies in a sparsely settled district.

MARKS ON TILES A CLUE

The officers, without success, turned up the paving of the yard. Their suspicions had been directed to that part of the lot. Afterward they examined the flooring of the house. They discovered nothing until they came to a bathroom in the basement. The floor there bore signs suggesting that it had recently been tampered with or repaired.

Speedily the detectives tore up the tiles. They found the body in a shallow grave. It had been wrapped in a sheet, and crushed into a hole barely large enough to hold it.

Gallons of nitric acid had been poured onto the body. But so thoroughly had the burial place been sealed with cement that no air could enter and corrosion by the acid had been impossible. In places the surface of the remains was acid eaten, but, instead of being destroyed, as had been intended, the body was discovered in a remarkable state of preservation.

As in the Crippen case, the care taken by the murderer to hide and destroy the remains led to their preservation.

Immediately after the discovery of the girl's body, the police arrested Dr. James Grant, who was accused by his assistant, Gordon. Dr. Grant was locked up in the City Prison. The police will not say whether they regard him as a principal or are holding him only as a material witness.

DR. GRANT WILL NOT TALK

According to Gordon an operation was performed on Miss Swan, and she died in the office of Dr. Grant. About the time she became missing at the end of April.

The police are looking for William Sachs, who was assistant to Dr. Grant at that time.

Neither Dr. Grant nor Miss [illegible] Smith will make any statement. The doctor was questioned at length today, but he refused to discuss the case in any way.

The police have sent to Paso Robles for a ranchman there who is said to have called for the girl at her rooms the day she disappeared.

Near the hole which was dug for the body ran a sewer, and it is believed that the murderer or murderers fancied that that would assist in the speedy decomposition of the remains. But in their haste they forgot to tamper with this sewer, and left the body in what proved to be an air-tight encasement.

IN THE GOOD OLD FASHIONED DAYS,

It is safe to say that the majority of bald men of to-day would gladly revive the old, dignified custom if they could. But, they can do the next best thing to it, that is, hold on to what hair they have.

In cases where the hair root or hair bulb has not been completely destroyed by parasites that infest it, Newbro's Herpicide will do wonders in the way of encouraging a new growth of hair. Destroy the cause, you remove the effect. That is the successful mission of Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

For sale by McDermid and Jury, druggists; also Payne's drug store, a bottle guaranteed.

KEEP IT OUT OF THE PAPER"

The Galt Reporter hits it off about right when it says "Keep it out of the paper," is the cry which the local newspaper publisher daily hears. To oblige often costs considerable, though the party who makes the request thinks it scarcely worth saying 'thank you' for. A newspaper is a peculiar thing in the public eye. The news-gatherer is stormed at because he gets hold of one item and is abused because he does not get another. Young men, and often young women, as well as older persons, perform acts which become legitimate items for publication and then rush to the newspaper office and beg the editor not to notice their escapades. The next day they condemn the same paper for not having published another party doing the same thing they were guilty of, forgetting apparently their late visit to the printing office."

CRIED DAY AND NIGHT

Mrs. R. E. Sanford, Inverary, Ont., writes: "My baby was sickly for over a week with bowel and stomach trouble and cried night and day. Nothing I did helped her in the least till I began giving her Baby's Own Tablets. They helped baby right away and now she is a big healthy child with fine rosy cheeks. The Tablets are certainly a wonderful medicine and I recommend them to all my friends who have children in the house."

What Baby's Own Tablets have done for Mrs. Sanford's baby they have done for thousands of other little ones simply because they go to the root of so many childhood ailments—that is, they drive all impurities from the stomach and leave it sweet and healthy. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE ROYAL COMMISSION ON TECHNICAL EDUCATION WILL ARRIVE TO-MORROW NIGHT

They Will Spend Monday Gathering Evidence Regarding Industrial Training---To Visit Local Factories on Monday---Will Hold a Meeting on Monday Evening. A Sketch of the Commissioners.

The members of the Royal Commission on Technical Education will arrive in the city to-morrow evening and will be here all day Monday and Monday evening. In all probability they will hold session on Monday afternoon and evening, and an inspection of the various industries will likely be a feature of their programme in Peterborough. They will be met on their arrival by the Mayor, Mr. L. M. Hayes, K.C., chairman of the Board of Education, and Dr. McNulty, chairman of the Board of Health.

The commission so far has collected a mass of information. The plan is to visit schools and industries in each town or city, inspecting or inquiring into the methods of work employed. Superintendents of large industries are asked as to how they obtained the knowledge to qualify for their positions, and it is interesting to note that most of those examined by the commission so fer have testified that after obtaining a fair education at a day school they have either studied at night by themselves or joined one of the foreign correspondence schools.

The commissioners were impressed with the advance that has been made in technical training schools in the Province of Nova Scotia. Technical coal mined than any other coal mining experts have been in vogue in Nova Scotia for the past twenty-five years, and as a result, that Province has a smaller loss of life per ton of coal mined than other coal mining disting district in the world.

Already the commission has secured the sworn evidence of some 600 persons interested in technical education and has thus obtained valuable and comprehensive information upon the technical education in Canada.

All the meetings are open to the public, and the evidence of anyone who can tell anything on any of the subjects taken up will be received either orally or in documentary form.

Dr. J. W. Robertson.

James Wilson Robertson, C. M. G., L.L.D., was born at Dunlop, Ayrshire, Scotland, on the 2nd of November, 1857. He was the son of John Robertson and Mary Wilson. In 1886 he married Jennie, eldest daughter of John Mather, of Ottawa. In 1875 he came to Canada. He was professor of Dairying, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, from 1886 till 1890, when he was appointed first Dairy Commissioner for Canada. In 1904 he was appointed Principal of the Macdonald College at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, but is now on one year's leave of absence. He also filled the office of hon. secretary of the provisional committee for establishing a fund for founding the Victorian Order of Nurses in Canada. In 1902 he was appointed one of the governors of the order by the Governor-General of Canada. He was also a member of the Central Board of the Aberdeen Association for the distribution of good literature in the newer and more remote parts of Canada, a member of the executive council of the Canadian Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, a member of the Federal Commission for the Conservation of the Natural Resources of Canada.

Though born in Scotland, Prof. Robertson is pre-eminently a Canadian, and few men have done more to raise the standard of education in this Dominion than Dr. Robertson. He relinquished his office as Dairy Commissioner of Canada to manage the construction and organization of the Macdonald College, which includes agriculture, household, science, and the training of teachers, and with funds supplied by Sir William Macdonald, provided manual training in all the provinces of the Dominion. He has frequently been sent to England on missions connected with the marketing of Canadian products, the matter of transportation services and making known the opportunities and resources of Canada. Dr. Robertson has received honorary degrees from Queen's, Toronto, New Brunswick, McGill and other universities.

Rev. George Bryce.

Rev. George Bryce, M.A., D.D., L.L.D., F.R.S.C., was born at Mount Pleasant, Brantford, Ontario, April 22, 1841. His father, George Bryce, J.C., and his mother, Katherine Henderson, were natives of Perthshire, Scotland, and were among the first settlers in Brant County, Ontario. He attended Brantford High School also the University of Toronto, and Knox College, Toronto. In 1872 he married Marion Samuel, of Broom House, Kirkliston, West Lothian, Scotland. He was a founder, councillor and examiner of the University of Manitoba, 1877-1907. From 1891-1904 he was head of the faculty of science and lecturer in biology and geology in Manitoba University, senior professor and financial agent of Manitoba College, Winnipeg, also professor of English literature. In 1879 he was appointed examiner in natural history in Toronto University. He was selected by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Canada to proceed to Winnipeg to organize a church and college. In 1877 he organized Manitoba College and in 1879 Knox church, Winnipeg. In 1886 he was appointed first moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada; in 1893 chairman of Winnipeg Public Library.

The books which he published are: "Manitoba, Infancy, Progress and Present Condition," "Short History of Canadian People," "The Apostle of Red River," "Remarkable History of Hudson's Bay Company," "Makers of Canada" (series), articles in Encyclopedia, "British, Native and Critical History of America," Canadian Encyclopedia and numerous translations and pamphlets.

He has been a lover of athletic sports, having been captain of the football club of the university of Toronto in his college days, and in late years has taken an active interest in curling. He was also a volunteer of the University Company (the Queen's Own) and fought against the Fenians at Ridgeway in 1866.

Hon. John N. Armstrong.

Hon. John Neiville Armstrong, representative of the Maritime Provinces on the Commission, is a barrister by profession. He studied at Harvard University and merits the reputation of being one of the most widely informed public men in Eastern Canada. He is a member of the Legislative Council of Nova Scotia, where his extended civc and educational experience, having held representative position in both fields in his province for a number of years, coupled with his grasp of industrial conditions, accords him acknowledged leadership when dealing with questions of this character. Mr. Armstrong's intimate acquaintance with the development of the technical education system in Nova Scotia, emphasizes his admitted qualifications as a member of the Commission, whose services are enlisted to provide a national system of industrial training.

Gaspard DeSerres.

Gaspard De Serres is a French-Canadian, just turned fifty. He is president of the Montreal Technical School, president of the Ecole Menagerie Provinciale, ex-alderman of the city of Montreal, director of the Notre Dame Hospital, St. Jean Baptiste Society, Le Canada, and of a number of industrial and commercial concerns.

Gilbert M. Murray.

Gilbert M. Murray, B.A., is an honour graduate of the University of Toronto in 1898. After being associated for three or four years with mining and transportation interests at Sault Ste Marie and Port Arthur, he became editor of Industrial Canada, official organ of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, in 1904. He was assistant secretary of the Association in 1906 and secretary in 1907. From its inception he was actively connected with the campaign promoted by the Manufacturers Association in favour of the appointment of a commission of investigation on technical education and industrial training, and most of the memorials and literature issued by the association on this subject were of his preparation.

David Forsyth.

David Forsyth, B.A., is an honour graduate of the University of Toronto. He has been principal of the Berlin Collegiate and Technical Institute since 1901. In 1903 this institute introduced courses in manual training and household science and added very complete equipment. The Berlin public library board has for some time taken up the question of technical education in connection with public libraries and as a member of the board Mr. Forsyth has given considerable attention to this phase of the work.

James Simpson.

James Simpson went as a boy into the Toronto News to learn the printing, but in a few weeks a strike broke out and he left to go with the compositors, who afterwards bought out the Toronto Daily Star. He served in the Star as an apprentice, journeyman compositor, and later as municipal reporter and municipal editor. During the past nine years he has taken a keen interest in educational matters, having served three years on the technical school boards in the City of Toronto Board of Education, and in 1910 was elected chairman of that board, was appointed a member of the special committee on technical education by the Board of Education in 1906; was appointed a member of the committee to recommend curriculum for the new Toronto technical school, and was instrumental in having the same adopted by the District Labour Council and the Typographical Union of Toronto; chosen at the Quebec convention of the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada as labour's representative on the Royal Commission to investigate industrial training and technical education in the event of such a commission being appointed by the Dominion Government. He ran as a candidate for Mayor of Toronto in the Socialist interest. He is an earnest advocate of temperance among the workingmen, and is on the list of lecturers for the Dominion Alliance.

Thomas Bengough.

Thomas Bengough, C.S.R., secretary and reporter of the Commission, is the originator and chairman of the committee on standardization of the National Shorthand Reporters' Association. He is a Toronto man, and a brother of the well-known cartoonist, J. W. Bengough, the eulogist of Ian Maclaren; learned telegraphy "by tape," and stenography according to an old system by Melville Bell, father of Alexander Graham Bell. He changed to Benn Pitman and later to Isaac Pitman's system, became a newspaper reporter, and in 1875 was appointed as private secretary to Sir Oliver Mowat, and in 1877 official reporter in the York County Court.

LIGHTNING HIT HOUSE

Home of Mr. Paul Costello, in Ennismore, Was Struck During Storm Last Night—Belmont Club House Damaged

TWO COWS KILLED

The clubhouse of the Belmont Club on the banks of the Otonabee River, was struck by lightning during the electric storm between eleven and twelve o'clock last night. The lightning struck the rear end of the building, but the damage done was only slight, the electric lights being put out, and some of the lamps and shades being badly smashed. Mr. Cyril Loch was sleeping in the club house at the time, but fortunately he was unhurt. A number of other members of the club who are accustomed to sleeping down there, were prevented from being there last night by the fact that the storm came up before they left the city.

House Struck.

The cows belonging to Col. Johnston of Otonabee, were killed by the lightning during the storm last night. They were out in a field, and this morning were found dead.

Lightning also played havoc with the house of Mr. Paul Costello, in Ennismore Township. It struck the front chimney and went through two bedrooms, the parlour, to the cellar. The house is of framework and everything the lightning hit was left badly shattered. Mr. Costello stated to the Examiner to-day that the damage would amount to about $250. Fortunately no one was sleeping in the bedrooms through which the lightning passed, but the inmates of the home got a rather severe fright.

Damage by Storm.

To-day's high wind played havoc on a minor scale in the city. Despite the oil on George street the dust was swirled around the street in blinding clouds that half choked the pedestrians who fought their way along "in the teeth of the gale," as they say at sea. It was impossible to leave a door open as the dust blew in in clouds.

All over the city branches were blown off the trees, in some cases the trees themselves were blown over. A number of fences suffered and there was other damage. Electric light wires blew down and the Bell Telephone Company had a little trouble.

Witnesses in Celebrated Case Tell of the Eccentricities of Mitchell Fraser—Took Cordwood Stick to Bed With Him

OTHER FREAKS

Special to The Examiner.

BARRIE, OCT 1.—Continuing the trial of the action of the relatives of Mitchell Fraser, worth eighty thousand, to annul his marriage to Nurse Robertson, more witnesses this morning told of the eccentricities of Fraser. One said Fraser sometimes went to bed with a cordwood stick. When his brother died Mitchell said: "Oh, dear, now I'm left with the burden of the whole country on my shoulders." Fraser frequently ordered his friends to keep all petticoats off the premises.

THREE KILLED, THIRTEEN INJURED IN THE FAMOUS VANDERBILT CUP RACE TO-DAY

CARS WERE OVERTURNED

Special to The Examiner.

LONG ISLAND, (Vanderbilt Cup Course), Oct 1 Harold Stone, driving a Columbia car, going a mile a minute, was overturned and killed instantly, and his mechanician, William Bacon, fatally hurt. Thirty-one cars started at daybreak, although the rain was falling fast shortly after. A spectator on one road was run down and taken to the hospital, dying. Another mechanician was fatally hurt, when the driving chain snapped.

LONG ISLAND, (Vanderbilt Cup Course, Oct 1. Three killed, thirteen more or less injured. This is the toll of the casualties in the famous Vanderbilt Cup races this morning. Harry Grant, in an Alco car, wins, his time for the entire course being a little better than sixty-one miles an hour. At times he attained a speed of seventy-eight miles per hour. The third man killed was Ferdinand Dzuvia, a sales manager, whose car was overturned. The fearful toll of accidents this morning may lead to the abandonment of the race in the future.

Guild Of Good Fellowship Comes Into Action To-morrow

Newfoundland, the land, or rather water, of the cod, refuses to come into Confederation. In spite of this coyness of attitude, Peterborough has annexed one Newfoundlander by adoption—Rev. Chas. Carpenter, Assistant at St. John's.

Rev. Mr. Carpenter is just entering upon his work. He takes a deep interest in men and aims to evince this interest in a pleasant and practical way, by bringing men together for counsel. The first of a Sunday afternoon winter series of meetings will be held in the Princess Theatre, kindly placed by Mr. Mehail Pappas, at the disposal of the "Guild of Good Fellowship," which these gathering will constitute to-morrow (Sunday) afternoon from 3 o'clock to 4 o'clock. All men over 18 will be made very cordially welcome. The subject of address or probably of discussion will be "The Making of the Man." It is understood that the men themselves will be invited to a cortcous and orderly expression of opinion. There will be no stilted formality, only as far as orderly conduct of the proceedings is concerned, but the development of a general spirit of good fellowship will be encouraged in every way. An orchestra will furnish music and accompany the singing of heartening and familiar hymns. While it is known that the general object of the Guild of Good Fellowship is a good and laudable one, the exact means by which this object is sought to be reached will be better learned by attending the first meeting in the Princess Theatre Sunday afternoon at from 3 to 4 o'clock. All men over 18 cordially invited.

Prices Very High At The Local Market To-day

The market was largely attended this morning. Potatoes were in abundance; apples, pears, grapes, onions, and other such fruits were plentiful. But the prices, disregarding the abundance of the supply of produce, were as a rule, very high. They were as follows:

Potatoes—75c. and $1.00 per bag.
Pears—35c. and 45c. per peck.
Apples—15c. and 25c. a peck. Others ranging according to quality.
Tomatoes—25c. a basket.
Onions—$1.00 a bag.
Geese—$1.00 each.
Butter—28c. lb.
Chickens—$1.00 a pair.
Eggs—30c. per doz.
Ducks—60c. each.
Grapes—20c. per basket.
Pigs—8.00 per pair.
Baled hay—90c. per cwt.

No loose hay was offered for sale.

Potatoes were selling at $1.00 per bag any under this price were not first-class produce. They were selling slowly at this price as the buyers seemed to regard it as being "out of sight." The farmers state, however, that before Christmas potatoes will be selling at $2.00 per bag. Although they were plentiful to-day, it is no proof of the real state of affairs. Many farmers say that only about one bag out of a total of ten, will be any good. The dry rot has spoiled the crops.

Owing to weather conditions no dressed hogs were offered, but live hogs were selling at $8.65.

Farmers' hides were being purchased at 7c and butchers' at 8c.

Was Honoured By Friends On Eve Of His Departure

An interesting event took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Allen, Douro, last night, when the friends of Mr. Frank Sheehan, who is leaving to take up his residence in Vancouver, B.C., gathered to say fare well. He has been most popular with the residents of the township, who regret to learn of his departure from the district. There was a very large gathering last evening, and a most enjoyable time was spent. Mr. Sheehan was presented with a handsome Morris chair, while an eulogistic address was read by Mr. Michael McCann. Mr. Sheehan made an appropriate reply, thanking his friends for their kindness.

Hon. Mr. Stratton's Horses Win More Prizes At Montreal Horse Show

Best "Unicorn" trio, not under 15 hands, five entries — First, "My Pride," "Premier," and "Lady Navarre," Stratton, Peterborough.

Friday's events, in Tandems: 15.2 and over, five entries — First "My Pride" and "Premier," Stratton, Peterborough.

Pairs in harness, and appropriate vehicle, six entries—First "Loch Ryan Princess," and "Perfect Dream," Stratton, Peterborough.

Best collection of three horses, five entries—First "My Pride," "Premier" and "Perfect Dream."

In referring to the events of Thursday, the Montreal Gazette says:

The "unicorn" class was a really fine exhibit and was quite up to the standard, which is more than can be said of some of the classes which have been shown. The Hon. J. R. Stratton, Peterborough, whose pairs have been carrying off numerous prizes, produced three fine horses which won the first prize. "My Pride" and "My Premier," one of his pairs, were united with his "Lady of Navarre." The equipment was also of a very high order of merit, while the driving, not an easy matter with such a team, was deserving of high praise.

"TIN POT" LOYALISTS.

Some of the Conservative journals are given to chortling with unholy effusion, with more loyalty to partizan interests than to Canadian, over what they call in derision of the government our "tin pot" navy. With an insane belief that Rome was built in a day, they talk as if they expect the Canadian navy to spring from the St. Lawrence gulf, complete and armed from stem to stern, a rival of the British navy, as Minerva sprang, ready-made, from the Jovian gray matter. The piece de resistance of the Canadian navy is to be cruisers of the Bristol type, such as the "Bristol," Britain's new and swiftest cruiser, which has achieved a speed of an ordinary railway train — twenty-seven miles an hour. This is the highest speed yet reached by any British warships, larger than destroyers. The "Bristol" is the first of nine sister ships planned by the Admiralty and to be named after British cities. It is intended that the vessels of the new Canadian navy shall be of the Bristol class. Will "tin pot" Canadians be able to justify their "tin pot" loyalty any longer, or at all?

PULLING TOGETHER.

Sometimes one is tempted to exclaim with the spitted Tybalt—"A plague o' both your houses!" The squabbles of the Capulets and Montagus had ended in a few inches of fatal steel in his vitals. Intolerance and narrow-mindedness lose sight of merits and sacrifice real interests to prejudices and lead generally to unfortunate, if not, fatal, issues. In Toronto rabid creed prejudice would have none of Dr. Amyot, the celebrated bacteriologist, for Medical Health Officer for the city, though he was far and away the best available man for the position—he "dug with the wrong foot," and was not eligible to pass the "sentinel," on guard over the religious conscience of Toronto the Good. In Montreal, the School Board of St. Henri, though expressly admitting that Dr. Cousineau is a good doctor and a good man, refused to allow him to medically inspect their schools, because, as it is asserted, Dr. Laburge, the head of the Department, in which Dr. Cousineau serves, is accused of being a Freemason. In both cases the effect of the attitude assumed, assuming the facts to be as asserted, is to punish two men for opinion's or conscience sake. Such a stand in either case is contrary to the liberty of thought and freedom of conscience, which is the distinguishing glory of any country under British institutions. In either case it is the "Dark Ages" brought down to date. In Canada, of all countries of the world, the door of religious freedom and privilege stands, not ajar, but wide open; and the privileges conferred by our laws should not be neutralized by any attitude or action of bigotry, or intolerance, no matter under what name it is assumed, or practised. There may be more than one way of gaining the boon of eternal life; but there is only one way to bring Canada to the highest point of national life—pulling together as fellow citizens, however much we may pull apart in faith and practice.

CANADIAN SHIP BUILDING.

Sir Robert Perks, speaking of the creation of the four million docks at Levis, said, incidentally, of a shipbuilding plant, suggested that ships for commercial and general purposes could not be built as cheaply in Canada as in the Old Country. There might be some differences in the wages of shipwrights and material, but we can overcome the latter, at least. We are new in the steel producing industry, but we shall soon overcome the natural difficulties that may now hamper us, and soon be able to produce steel plates for shipbuilding purposes at a reasonable figure. We have in Nova Scotia, to only mention one province, an inexhaustible supply of iron ore and coal to correspond. We have, in abundance, the raw material of the timber and lumber that may enter into shipbuilding. If Sir Robert is right and we cannot at present do our commercial shipbuilding as cheaply as it can be done in the Old Country, we can come to it in time. It is a goal worth striving for. But is Sir Robert altogether right? La Presse, of Montreal, had, in a recent issue, a picture and descriptive letter press of the splendid new steamer—"le palais-flottant"—"Rapids Prince," built by the John Inglis Company, Limited, Toronto, for the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company. La Presse states that the company is perfectly satisfied with the new steamer, as she showed herself on her trial trip. The new steamer is described as a "model of elegance and solidity," and has a speed capacity of 17 miles an hour. The Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company is organized to make money; and as business and sentiment are strangers, is it likely that if the company could have saved anything wirth while by having their steamer built in the Old Country would they have had it built in Canada? We shall have ship yards established to build the cruisers of the Bristol type for the Canadian navy. May we not hope, by making an effort to make commercial shipbuilding a national industry, and compete successfully with Old Country yards, especially with Canadian national sentiment and consideration of Canada's interests, as associated with national development, thrown in as a makeweight?

PATRONIZE "MADE IN CANADA."

The Ottawa Free Press says:

The point is well taken. One has seen with regret records of even Liberal Canadian Cabinet Ministers taking steamer from New York to cross the ocean. A Canadian public man, especially one with ministerial responsibility, should charter a Canadian fishing smack to cross the Atlantic if no other and better Canadian craft were available. He has no excuse for sailing from a foreign port when he has the choice of a hundred Canadian steamers, run by half a dozen great Canadian lines, as swift, as sea-sure, as commodious and as luxurious as any other country can boast. How can a "maker of Canada" hope to deserve the name if he ignores the "made in Canada" principle?

THE CANADIAN SEA.

Ottawa Journal

Several western papers unite in calling Hudson's Bay the "American Mediterranean." But the name suggested some years ago by W. F. MacLean, M.P., a name which he took some steps to have adopted, namely the "Canadian Sea," is far more appropriate than the "American Mediterranean."

It is not, as a rule, well to change historical names that have stood for centuries. But the term "Bay" as attached to Henry Hudson's discovery is a misnomer. Far from being a bay, that body is the third largest sea in the world, only the Mediterranean and the Caribbean Seas surpassing it in size. It is by a long odds the greatest land-locked body of water in the world surrounded by and owned by the one country. For both Mediterranean and Carribean are open seas surrounded and bordered by many nations.

Thus, once convinced of the desirability of a change in the name of Hudson's Bay, Canada's great possession should be stamped with the name of Canada. There could be no better name chosen than the Canadian Sea.

As a politician, Mr. W. F. MacLean, M.P., has considerable wildness and woolliness in many of his proposals and ideas, but he strikes a correct chord in regard to the improved nomenclature of Canada's great inland sea. Some western papers, as the Journal suggests, have weakly dubbed Hudson Bay "The Mediterranean of Canada." Sir Wilfrid Laurier in a moment of oratorical weakness of figure voiced the dubious aspiration to "make Ottawa the Washington of the North." We don't like such a way of putting it—either in relation to Hudson Bay or Ottawa. There is no originality, but a lack of self-respect in borrowing nomenclature from any source. Canada is too big and too important to be the anywhere or the anything of any other anywhere or anything. She should stand on her own dignity and pride of possession and qualification. Ottawa shouldn't be called "The Washington of Canada," but just "Ottawa," the capital of the potentially greatest country in the world. Hudson Bay should not be called the "American Mediterranean." If the time-worn, three-centuries-old name, Hudson Bay, is not good enough, let it be called, as Mr. Maclean suggests, the Canadian Sea. Our Rocky Mountains, as a scenic asset and a depot of wealth are in a class by themselves and gain no dignity by being called "the Switzerland of America." Canada's 'Rocky Mountains' is a good enough title and cannot be bettered by dwarfing comparison of title. When inferiority or insignificance needs a fillip from borrowed dignity of nomenclature the matter is not so bad; but in matters where Canada has superiority of size or quality or significance let that quality teach us to be self-respecting, independent and self-contained. Why, a big-minded westerner wouldn't be flattered by calling the west "the Canadian Garden of Eden."

The Primrose Way To The Wages Of Sin

(Belleville Intelligencer.)

We are entering the melancholy season with a vengeance. Accounts of sensational murders and suicides and the like stare us in the face every time we pick up a daily newspaper. We shouldn't be surprised to see some enterprising yellow journal devoting a page printed in red to the daily grist of stories of homicide and suicide. Within a week two or three murders of a startling and puzzling nature have been committed in Ontario alone and goodness knows how many suicides. Crimes of this sort are becoming altogether too frequent. There is a veritable epidemic of them. It seems to us that there ought to be a means of checking an epidemic of this sort. One way, of course, of curbing crime is in punishing the criminal. We exterminate the murderer, provided he is of the common people, but the lesson to be derived from his extermination isn't as efficacious as it might be, otherwise there would be few murders instead of many. It seems to us that more powerful lessons may be drawn from the causes which lead to murder and suicide. In most cases crimes of this kind are preceded by deeds and habits which are often criminal themselves and always evil. The man or woman who takes the first false step, no matter in what direction, is running the risk of some day lying in the grave of a murderer or a suicide. This aphoristic utterance may sound off-hand as a trifle exaggerated but on analysis it will be found to be pretty near the truth. The other day a man of wealth and affluence who had always led a blameless life, according to his friends, betook himself to a neighbouring city. Obedient to the will of some strange but evil impulse he drank somewhat to excess. While in a condition bordering on intoxication he journeyed out into the country in a motor car with a woman of doubtful character. More liquor was imbibed at a road house. A quarrel between the man and woman followed. The world knows the dreadful consequence. The man shot the woman dead, was arrested and later committed suicide within the precincts of his prison. Liquor or lust or both made this man a slayer of self and of another. Sin is an insidious thing in any form. The man in the grip of a vice or a crime becomes irresponsible. He is no longer his own master. He must go whither his sin leads him. The banker who steals his first thousand often intends, or hopes to put it back. He is a thief nevertheless and rarely escapes the punishment meted out to a thief, which in the case of a banker or a man in his station in life is often death by his own hand. The young girl who first goes astray through infatuation for some soft spoken but worthless libertine little realizes the terrible consequence which almost inevitably follow acts such as she commits—consequence which so often render death preferable to life. And the man who, when he starts on his career as a second story worker or a safe cracker, seldom contemplates murder, but when cornered in his evil work sometimes kills in order to escape the punishment of his crime. To put it more tersely, a small sin begets a greater one. And there would be few murders and suicides if lesser evils were avoided.

THE SLIM WOMAN IS WINNING

The day of the slim woman's triumph has arrived. "The thinner one is the more stylish," say the dressmakers.

This would have been sad news for the fat woman a year ago. She would have had to try dieting or exercise. Nowadays, however, the woman who is too fat for the styles goes to a druggist and gets a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets, one of which she takes after each meal and at bedtime and so reduces her superfluous flesh quickly.

These tablets, being made in accordance with the famous prescription, are perfectly harmless, and they are, also, the most economical preparation a person can buy, for they cost only 75 cents a large case, one of which is frequently enough to start a person to losing fat at the rate of 12 or 14 ounces a day. Pretty nearly every druggist keeps this tabled in stock, but should yours be sold out, you can easily obtain a case by sending to the makers, the Marmola Company, Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

SALE OF WORK

The D. W. Y. C. of St. John's church held a most successful sale of work yesterday afternoon and evening, in aid of the Chimes Fund. Fifty dollars was deposited to the credit of the fund, as a result of the splendid efforts put forth by the girls of the club.

The president and officers of the club desire to thank all those who so kindly helped to make the occasion a success.

THE BEST NEW CITY IN CANADA

The Grand Trunk Pacific's Central Divisional Point of the great Western Prairie Provinces—The geographical centre of the great growing Canadian West—The centre of the finest farming section in all Saskatchewan—The Terminus of the Branch Line of the Grand Trunk Pacific to Prince Albert.

With the opening of Spring will come a rush of settlers bound towards Western Canada. Even this year—although the railway did not start operations until July—many are going to take advantage of the wonderful opportunities along the line of the new Grand Trunk Pacific. Spring will see the new cities along the line double in size, and a corresponding increase in real estate values is the natural result. Can you afford not to own property in a city which is the very heart and centre of this great land movement—a city which bids fair to grow the fastest of them all—Watrous?

The whole West is growing at a tremendous rate, but we do not ask you to buy where you must wait for growth. The land we are offering in Watrous is already in demand for building—for home and business sites—and the citizens of Watrous, themselves, are among the best buyers.

Building operations in Watrous are active—a hundred houses or more have been built this year. The buildings erected are a credit to the city, and hotel accommodations are being increased.

The Subdivision which we are now selling lies immediately to the north of the Original Townsite of Watrous, right between the present town and the lake.

The land is open, clear and smooth, so you cannot get a bad location. The lots are sightly and splendidly located.

The magnet toward which the town is building—Little Manitou Lake—lies but 2½ miles north of Watrous, so that our Grand Trunk Pacific Subdivision is right in line of growth of the city.

It is but seven blocks from the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and but four blocks from the present heart of the city. There is no building whatever south of the station, as all this property is owned and reserved by the Grand Trunk Pacific. In three years from now lots which we are offering to-day will be right in the heart of the city.

INTERNATIONAL SECURITIES CO., LTD., WINNIPEG, MAN.

Gentlemen I am pleased to know that you are meeting with such good success in the sale of lots in the Grand Trunk Pacific Subdivision to the Original Townsite of Watrous. This property is of a very desirable character, as it lays well and its location could not be improved.

It is my firm belief, and it is a belief shared universally by our citizens, that Watrous has a splendid future before it.

Fifteen years ago I was a resident of Regina when it was much such a town as is Watrous to-day. Five lots which I purchased in Regina for $500, I afterwards sold for $12,000, and to-day you could not buy them for double that amount. Being conversant with the natural advantages and resources of both places, I see no reason why Watrous should not grow just as rapidly as did Regina. Yours very truly, (signed) R. MEADOWS

THE GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC

Offers for Sale Lots in First Subdivision to Original Townsite of Watrous, its Central Divisional Point of the Western Prairie Provinces.

HUNDRED PER CENT. A YEAR AND MORE

Figures collected from authoritative sources show that the increase in land values alone in eight cities of Western Canada amounted to one hundred and twelve per cent a year during the past five years. Western Canada should grow faster during the next three years than it did during the past six.

This means that in Watrous and the other good centres values may be confidently expected to increase at a rate of much better than one hundred per cent. a year.

If you failed to get in on the money that was made in other Grand Trunk Pacific cities such as Port Arthur, Fort William, Prince Albert, Edmonton, Prince Rupert, or in others which might be named here is your chance now to get in right on Watrous. The same spirit of co-operation which has been extended by the Grand Trunk Pacific to these other cities which have made good will be extended to Watrous. Watrous is destined to become the Inland Prince Rupert of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

Suppose you had purchased a few years ago lots close in at $100 in any of the Western Divisional Points on the C. P. R. your investment would have been safe and certain right from the start and it would have been constantly and rapidly increasing in value.

Note the Divisional Points on the main line of the road of the C. P. R. running West from Winnipeg: Brandon, Moosejaw, Swift Current, Calgary, Medicine Hat, Revelstoke. If you had purchased lots in any or all of these Divisional Points when conditions were similar to those in Watrous to-day when these young cities were about two years old, had a population of 1,500, and choice inside lots could be purchased at $100 each there could be no doubt about the wisdom of your investment, which would likely be worth to-day not less than $10 for each dollar you invested. This opportunity was presented a few years ago, but is now a thing of the past.

You now have the same opportunity in Watrous that was presented in these Divisional Point cities on the C. P. R. The Grand Trunk Pacific is the latest and is destined to become the greatest of all the Transcontinental lines. Traversing as it does a great and rich territory, there can be no doubt that the Divisional Points on the Grand Trunk Pacific will in a few years be cities of equal size and importance with those on the C.P.R.

Watrous has every facility of a modern town, including graded streets, sidewalks, telephones, and two companies have applied for a franchise to install electric lights and street car service from Watrous to Little Manitou Lake.

Watrous will surely have a big boom early in the Spring. Buy Watrous property, and buy it now.

LITTLE MANITOU LAKE

Canada's Famous Health and Summer Resort

Thousands will flock to Little Manitou Lake to take advantage of its healing qualities. Several large syndicates are figuring on Hotel and Sanatorium property at the lake, and with proper accommodations there will not be a better point for tourists, sight-seers and health-seekers.

The lake is land-locked and heavily charged with minerals. The waters are becoming famous as a cure for rheumatism, lumbago and all diseases of the skin.

The bank [illegible], however are about seventy feet high, so that the water has no effect on the surrounding country, and wells a short distance from the lake yield excellent water at thirty feet.

Analysis of the water in Little Manitou Lake shows it to be almost identical to that of Carlsbad the resort of kings in Europe. The slight points of difference between the two waters are altogether in favour of Little Manitou.

Little Manitou Lake water is bottled at the Springs on the south shore, near our Lake View property, and the water is sold in pints as an aperient water in drug stores at 25 cents.

Our Beach property is selling rapidly, but there are still some excellent bungalow locations high and slightly overlooking the Lake. Write for particulars.

Telegraph Your Orders at Our Expense

On account of the rapidity with which lots are selling, we advise that you let us make the selection for you, and we promise that we will give you the best available remaining lots at the time your order is received. That we may make the best selection for you, we advise that you telegraph at our expense the number of lots you wish, and the price you desire to pay, and let your remittance follow by return mail.

Prices of lots, size 50 x 140 feet, are $400, and corner lots $125. You can buy a $100 lot by paying $10 down and $10 a month; $12.50 cash and $12.50 a month for nine months buys a corner lot at $125. If you want to pay all cash you may deduct five per cent discount.

Make remittance payable to the order of and send direct to the Land Commissioner of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, Somerset Building, Winnipeg. Receipts for payments made will be issued direct by the Land Commissioner of the Railway Company, and when you have completed your payments, Torrens Title will be issued to you direct from the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

If the selection of lots made for you by our representative is not satisfactory, all you need do is to notify us to that effect, and the money which you have paid to the Grand Trunk Pacific will be refunded to you.

Remember there is no interest charged on deferred payments in case you desire to purchase on the instalment plan, and you will not have any taxes to pay until 1913.

The more lots you buy in Watrous, the more money you will make. How many lots do you wish? Fill out the blank in the lower right-hand corner of this advertisement to-day for the number of lots you wish to purchase. Let your remittance follow by first mail, but wire us at once your reservation for the number of lots desired.

Application Blank for Purchase of Lots

Land Commissioner, Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co.,
Somerset Bldg., Winnipeg, Man.

I hereby make application to purchase ..... lots at the price of $..... each, and enclose herewith remittance for $..... being one-tenth the total purchase price. I agree to remit the same amount each month for nine consecutive months.

I desire your representative to select for me out of the sub division which you have just placed on the market to the original town site of Watrous, what he regards as the best lots remaining unsold at this price. Title to lots to be clear and indefeasible. No interest to be charged on deferred payments and no taxes until the year 1912. ## REV. SAM LUTTREL AT Y.M.C.A. TO-MORROW

The men of Peterborough will have a special privilege to-morrow in the opportunity presented by the Y. M. C. A. to hear Dr Sam Luttrell at the men's meeting.

This great evangelist needs no words of praise to recommend him to the people of this city. He is a man who was himself lifted from a life of shame to one of honour and power by the power of the Gospel, which now he tells to others. He can help the man who needs the help most, because he has been there himself and knows.

The meeting will be held in the parlours of the Association and will be bright and interesting. If any man doubts that these meetings are worth attending all he has to do is ask some man who has been present. There are no clap-trap methods used, just a simple Gospel meeting, with bright singing by the audience and a solo or quartette and a good "straight-from-the-shoulder" talk suitable to men.

GENERALLY SPEAKING

THE CANADIAN BOY.

If a man feeling that he has a message to deliver or a duty to perform to the public, proceeds to deliver that message or perform that duty, through the best of all agencies, the Press, it is his usual fate to be promptly pilloried and branded as a "knocker." Thus the champion of purity in public or private life is "a knocker"; the fearless scarifier of doers of wickedness in high places is "a knocker." The man who refuses to be a lickspittle and denounces any new fangled form of legalized robbery is "a knocker," whilst he who, seeing shortcomings in the particular section of the body politic wherein his own lot is cast, boldly draws attention to the fact is of course a very outrageous specimen of a "knocker" indeed. Well, I'm a "knocker," and to quote an expression that has been in use for close on 400 years, I "make no bones about it." The particular form that my "knocking" is going to take in this instance is a little dissertation on the shortcomings of the Canadian boy. Yes, I know, he's a fine, sturdy, manly, youngster, capable of taking care of himself in most emergencies, and is altogether a very presentable specimen of humanity. All the same, with a certain percentage of exceptions it is very doubtful if there can be found any one in the whole range of creation capable of being ruder to his elders than the same Canadian boy.

However painstaking teachers is abroad, is too strong for them, and notwithstanding all their good precepts they find their scholars so deeply imbued with the proud consciousness of equality with their neighbours as to take little stock of the important fact that that equality carries with it the obligation of being decently civil to them.

Subserviency and kow-towing are loathsome, but there is a happy medium between cringing servitude on the one hand and bumptious insolence on the other. Ask a boy in the street any question and ten chances to one, if he is not downright insolent in his reply, he is flippant with that sort of frolicsome flippancy that makes one anxious to box his ears and give him something serious to think about for a change. When a messenger lad brings a parcel to some house, does he curtly wait for you to open the door and accept the parcel? To use a colloquialism, not by a very wide margin. Instead, he opens the door himself, yells out "parcel," hangs the door to and gallops away. These are only one or two reasons amongst a dozen, for saying that, notwithstanding all allowance being made for the effervescence of youth and the joy of living inherent in youth there is strong ground for the contention that the Canadian boy, however high a plane he may occupy as a bright, intelligent youngster, lacks the bump of veneration and politeness to a singularly extensive and alarming degree.

Notoriety Seekers.

Carlyle once made a caustic remark to the effect that there were close on fourteen hundred millions of people in the world—mostly fools. If he were alive at the present time, it is reasonable to suppose that he would be tempted to amend the statement and make it still more sweeping. For, if is very true that to-day each one has some particular fetich to which he devotes himself with feverish and oftimes idiotic assiduity. Whilst some of these objects are harmless, most of them are foolishly or criminally harmful.

With seemingly consistent inconsistency the ruling powers of all civilized countries, whilst they make common cause against the man who tries to take his own life by the vulgar path of poison, of the knife, make no effort whatever towards restraining those who endanger their existence in attempting foolhardy exploits by field or flood. The would-be suicide is looked upon as a lunatic, and placed in duress, whilst the hare-brained adventurer is allowed to go scot free.

It is all very well to argue that the former is non compos mentis. Any sensible person knows that he must be. But is he void of wit in any greater degree than the man who braves death in some spectacular form in order to achieve notoriety? The account lately published of the trip made by a man in a motor boat through the Niagara rapids is a case in point. What good to science, what particular uplift to humanity is gained by such an exhibition? Absolutely none. It appeals to the same base instincts of one's nature as the details of some ghastly murder, and as such should be vigorously frowned upon by the authorities. A good stiff term in jail for such aspirants to fame would be an excellent deterrent.

YOUTH MURDERED

Mysterious Shooting Of An Unidentified Man in New York

Examiner Special.

NEW YORK, SEPT. 30.—An express train in the subway was the scene of a mysterious murder at one o'clock this morning.

A well-dressed young man, apparently returning from the theatre, was the victim. There was nothing on his person to identify him.

His assailant, according to the police, was Charles Wright of Elizabeth, N.J., who was arrested.

According to bystanders, the two men stood near each other in a crowded car. They did not appear to be acquainted, but suddenly it was noticed that they were having a violent quarrel about something. Then came a pistol shot, and the young man fell to the floor, mortally wounded.

There was a panic in the crowded car. Women in gay theatre attire made for the doors. Several men grabbed Wright, who struggled with them. By that time the train had begun to slow down at the Fourteenth Street station.

A subway watchman took charge of Wright as the doors swung open. He denied all knowledge of the crime.

Y.M.C.A. WILL KEEP UP AGGRESSIVE FIGHT TO SECURE MORE MEMBERS

The big campaign for 500 new members at the P. M. C. A. will probably close, as has been announced, to-night. That is, the first ten days of the campaign will close; for if the 500 new members are not secured the campaigners will likely just stay with it till they are. Unless a larger number than is now expected comes in to-night there will not be 500 new names. While the leaders of the campaign are sorry that the end was not obtained in the ten days, they feel greatly encouraged at the way they have been received by those whom they have approached, and are glad that they have added as many as they have to the roll. There are a great many who gave answer, when approached, that they would, in the course of a few weeks. This is what has encouraged the men to stay with the task till it is completed.

Those who have been working, have worked hard; just as hard as they could, and when the fact is considered that one man has secured almost thirty new members and several have secured over twenty it will be seen that the reason for the failure to win the desired result was due to the fact that there were many who did not do their duty. Those who have worked, have enjoyed the work. They feel like continuing the effort. Not one feels like giving up. This, however, will likely be decided at the meeting in the building to-night.

The Association feels deeply grateful to the local press for the publicity given the campaign through its columns. This was of inestimable worth to the workers. A debt of gratitude is due, too to the local clergymen who so kindly referred to the campaign in their pulpits last Sunday.

The Queen's Own Rifles As Seen By English Eyes

The London Daily Graphic has the following interesting account of the visit of the Queen's Own Rifles:

The Queen's Own Canadian Rifles, after strenuous work at Aldershot, arrived in London yesterday afternoon, and marched from Nine Elms Station to the Duke of York's School, Chelsea, where they will remain until their return to Aldershot on Monday for the grand manoeuvres.

They were tired men ,but hard and full of grit, and they had a great reception from crowds along the route. They had marched twenty miles, taken part in a sham fight, had had only one meal since eleven o'clock on Monday night, and no sleep. But they marched through London streets with a swing.

During their stay the men will be feted and entertained, and there will be a civic luncheon in their honor at the Guildhall on Friday.

Mr. Haldane will inspect the regiment on Thursday afternoon at the Horse Guards Parade.

I have had the pleasure of receiving to-day at Balmoral a representative detachment of the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, and of hearing of their successful work at manoeuvres. The spirit thus shown by the Dominion is a good augury of the future of the Imperial Army.

(By our Special Representative)

An elderly gentleman with twinkling eyes in the Battersea Park Road shouted "Cheer up!" as the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada swung past him yesterday afternoon upon their arrival in London. The same idea, but in terms of womanly sympathy, had been audible in the comments at Nine Elms Station, when the 600 fine fellows got out of the train.

Nine Elms as a rule possesses absolutely no attractions except to those who happen to be interested in the handling of goods traffic on a large scale. But the women in this not too salubrious neighborhood of industrial London are as good judges of human endurance as are to be found in all the Metropolis; and they passed a quick verdict.

A Fine Body of Men.

"Aren't they fine?" exclaimed those women; "but don't they look tired. I've seen a lot of soldiers coming and going, and I've never seen any so tired." Yet how well, how unflinchingly they marched!

Neither the elderly gentleman nor the workmen's wives knew that the men had not been in bed since Sunday night—and it was now 4 p.m. Tuesday.

"We have never had such hard work," observed one of them, quietly, when asked about their experiences, "but the men would not give in. They are Canadians. The conditions are entirely different to what the majority of us have known. We have never seen soldiering like this before. Last night we started at eleven o'clock, and we marched all night. At dawn this morning we started an engagement in the fight against the skeleton army, and at 2.05 we got into the train at Alton for London."

To see the Sights of London.

"You will get a rest now till the grand manoeuvres begin?"

"I don't know whether there will be much rest. The boys are going to see all the sights of London, or as many as they can. They may be tired now, but they won't go to bed till one o'clock."

"Certainly," added the speaker, "we have had a great reception from the soldiers, every one of them, especially the Buffs. It would have been impossible to treat us better."

Such was a scrap of conversation as the men stood waiting for the command to march at Nine Elms Station. Colonel Granville Smith, Assistant Adjutant-General of the London District, met them here, and among others waiting to receive the regiment were its chaplain, the Rev. Dr. Lkwyd, and various South-Western Railway officials.

"How's your feet?" was the most frequent question passing among the men, for they had marched twenty-two miles before this railway journey gave them a respite. They stated, however, that they were enjoying their visit hugely, strenuous as their work had been and would be. About 630 officers, non-commissioned officers and men were present—all, in fact, except those who were journeying back from Balmoral from their visit to the King, and the seven officers who are unfortunately in hospital at Aldershot suffering from typhoid fever, contracted, it is supposed, at Quebec.

Loud cheers broke from the crowd around the station gates as the men turned briskly out of the station, and set their faces towards Chelsea. They marched in lines of four, and were headed by the band of the Irish Guards, which had played the Canadian Anthem in the station as the train steamed in. The route was not crowded. But at various points it was thronged with spectators who gave the visitors a cordial welcome.

As for the men, one saw enough of them to judge that they are material to be proud of. Clerks and business men of Toronto, they correspond to the class of men with whom London is familiar in the Queen's Westminsters, the London Scottish, or the Artists' Corps, except that, on an average, they are, perhaps, slightly younger. Strictly disciplined unemotional, hiding fatigue sternly their reserve and self-control are not inferior to the best British traditions.

A Camp Song.

Passing the Guards' barracks at Chelsea, the Canadians were hailed gaily by the soldiers in shirt sleeves who crowded the windows of the barracks and watched the long procession. But the Canadians marched straight on, betraying not the slightest tendency to shout a response. Good men in a fight, and good men in a camp, one could well believe.

In camp, by the way, a song of their has made a great hit with the Regulars. It is a parody of the popular refrain, "Has anybody here seen Kelly?" set around the popular personality of their commanding officer, Sir Henry Pellatt, and it goes like this:

Has anybody seen Sir Henry?
H-E-N-R-Y,
Has anybody seen Sir Henry?
Canada is his home;
He's an Indian chief and God knows what,
We have followed him to Aldershot;
Has anybody seen Sir Henry?
Colonel of the Second Queen's Own.

The allusion to the "Indian chief" relates to an incident of the pageant which was held in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the regiment, just before the men left Toronto. The Five Nation Indians came down to take part in it, and the Colonel treated them so well that they made him an honorary chief.

A Special March Time.

Once over Chelsea Bridge the Irish Guards' band, under Band-Sergeant Fenwick, struck up a new march called "Our Canadian Heroes," composed for the occasion by a member of this Land, William Hutchings, and with "The Maple Leaf" tune in it. Then, to the tune of the regimental march, "The Buffs," the troops approached their destination through roads now more thickly crowded. "Carriage people" called a halt to see them pass; smart ladies and silk-hatted men looked on; and Chelsea pensioners in their red coats were on every hand.

As the men at last entered the grounds of the old Duke of York's School, which is to be their quarters, one of the pensioners detected a Crimean veteran in the Canadian ranks. He ran forward and shook him by the hand, and then retired to cry. "He's seventy-six," he explained to the other old men, when his eyes were dry; "seventy-six, und—damme, he's smart—he's as smart as me!"

What a Chelsea Pensioner Thought.

"And what do you think of the Canadians altogether?" we asked the soft-hearted veteran. "Oh! they're very good," was the reply, in a guarded tone, "but" (with more assurance) "we have as good here. We have as good at home. Oh, yes. But I'm very pleased to see them."

A veteran of the old school, of the days before the Empire grew up, must be critical, and jealous of the fame of "ours."

But the picture that remains in the mind is that of a fair ringletted lady who stopped her hansom in the Chelsea Bridge Road, and stood up in it, waving her handkerchief and showering smiles upon these fine brothers of Empire.

For this pretty spectacle symbolized what everyone knows—that our visitors will be very popular guests in London during their few days' stay.

The London Programme.

The management of the various theatres, music-halls, and other places of amusement have given facilities for the entertainment of the men. The Tower and the Crystal Palace authorities have directed that the men's uniforms shall be sufficient to pass them through the gates, and also to the various entertainments within. Madame Tussaud's has issued special complimentary passes and also special invitations for the members of the regiment who visit that institution. The managers of the Palace, Tivoli, Coliseum, Hippodrome, Empire, Alhambra, and Maskelyne and Devant's have all placed complimentary seats at the disposal of the regiment every evening this week.

During the daytime various excursions have been arranged.

On Friday the regiment will be entertained at the Guildhall by the Lord Mayor.

On Saturday afternoon Sir Henry Pellatt will inspect Scouts drawn from the district at Gunnersbury Park, the seat of Lord Rothschild, and will present new colors to the 4th Ealing Troop of Scouts, who will probably be known afterwards as Pellatt's Scouts. Lord Rothschild has issued a general invitation to the regiment to visit the Gunnersbury Park on that day.

The Rifles leave London on Monday to participate in the army and navy manoeuvres, at the conclusion of which they will depart direct to Liverpool en route for Canada.

LAKEHURST ITEMS

LAKEHURST, SEPT. 30.—A large crowd attended the corn roast Tuesday evening last, and all present report a good time.

Mrs. Thompson and Miss Mabel Thompson attended Lindsay Fair, which was good this year.

The threshers are getting through the settlement fast and also doing good work.

Mr. James Weir was the guest of Mr. A. Thompson Sunday last.

There is talk of a tea at the Presbyterian church some time in the near future, which we hope will be well attended.

MAN WHO ADMITS HE KILLED ANOTHER YEARS AGO SHOOTS A NEW VICTIM

Special to The Examiner.

ROCHESTER, SEPT. 30.—As the result of a duel with revolvers at his home, 261 South Avenue, last evening, Earl C. Bond, who informed the police that he had killed a man named Thomas Ronan, at Lockport, eight years ago, following a quarrel, is held without bail to await the injuries of Albert Kane, a deputy sheriff of Orleans County. Bond, it is alleged, shot Kane twice, one bullet entering Kane's neck, and the other his abdomen. Kane is at the Homeopathic Hospital, and his condition is serious.

Kane, accompanied by Delos Smith, arrived in the city last evening. Mrs. Bond had formerly worked at a hotel in Albion, and Smith suggested that they call upon her. After supper Mrs. Bond went out to get some liquid refreshment for her guests, and while she was away, it is alleged that Kane referred to Bond as a man who was living off the earnings of women.

Bond took umbrage at the insult and ordered Kane to leave the house. Kane, it is alleged, flashed his badge and told Bond he was an officer, and was armed, at the same time producing an automatic revolver. Bond also produced a revolver, and pointing it at Kane, again ordered him to leave the house.

When Kane refused, Bond is said to have opened fire. One bullet entered Kane's neck at the front, passing out at the back. A second bullet entered the abdomen. Kane levelled his revolver and fired, but the bullet simply pierced Bond's trousers.

Kane left the house immediately after the shooting, with Smith in pursuit. At Court Street Smith met Detectives Doyle and O'Brien, who found Kane sitting in a doorway, bleeding profusely. He was sent to the hospital. The sleuths then went to Bond's house and placed him under arrest. Bond surrendered his revolver, and at Police Headquarters told Chief of Police Quigley and Director Whaley of the Lockport killing.

In Police Court this morning Bond pleaded not guilty, and was held without bail for examination on October 11.

POPULAR BAND CONCERT WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

Both artistically and from the viewpoint of attendance the concert by the band of the 57th Regiment, under the direction of Mr. Rupert Gliddon, in the armouries last night was a most gratifying success. The people of Peterborough have had occasion to thank Mr Gliddon and his organization for many delightful evenings in the past but probably no more enjoyable programme has been given under their auspices than was accorded the one thousand or more people who were present last evening. The band itself was in splendid form and its selections won hearty and long sustained applause, while it was assisted by a galaxy of artists who added much to the enjoyment of the occasion. The result was a varied and altogether delightful offering, every number of which was a gem in its way, and the huge audience did not fail to show its appreciation of the programme.

The attendance must have indeed been gratifying to the band. Long before the time announced for commencing the programme the chairs provided were all in use, the galleries filled rapidly, and a large proportion of the crowd stood throughout the concert.

One of the delightful features of the programme was the singing of Miss Lavina Halliban, who in spite of the fact that the acoustics of the armouries are not very well adapted for vocal work, scored another triumph. Her first number, "Killarney," was sung with feeling and expression that proved irresistible to the audience, who were insistent in their demands for an encore. Miss Halliban responded with an artistic and altogether pleasing rendition of that favourite aria from the Bohemian Girl, "I dreamt I dwelt in marble halls." Later on in the programme Miss Halliban sang that delightful little Spanish air, "La Paloma" in a manner that won her enthusiastic applause and she had to respond to an encore, singing "Home Sweet Home." Her rendition of this beautiful old favourite was perhaps the most delightful feature of her work. The perfect stillness of the big audience during the song was even more effective tribute than the outburst of applause that followed, and the audience would not be satisfied until Miss Halliban had sung another verse.

Miss Katie Leary, who has developed into a very clever elocutionist, contributed an enjoyable number, her recitation being given with expression and spirit that earned her hearty recognition from the audience.

The Ark Quartette composed of Messrs. Ed. Walton and Jos. Zepp tenors, and Messrs. Asa Huycke and Wm. Cunningham, basses, made a decided hit in their humorous offering, "While de 'possum stew," which was cleverly rendered. As an encore they gave "Women," another tuneful number. The quartette is well balanced and Peterboorugh audiences will welcome another opportunity of hearing them.

Every number played by the band was a gem. Mr. Gliddon's crack organization has never been better form and won fresh laurels by its magnificent work last night.

Their opening number was Sousa's stirring march, "Semper Fideles," which was played in the manner adopted by the "March King's" own band, with the assistance of the buglers and drummers. The number was a great success, being played with a snap and a swinging military precision that called forth a demand for an encore, and the number was repeated. Rossini's beautiful overture, "Semiramide," a new selection in the band's repertoire and introducing some very effective openings for solo work, was beautifully played by the band. A lighter vein was struck in the following number, the idyl, "Mill in the Black Forest," a very melodious sketch into which the carolling of the birds was charmingly interwoven. The band's rendition left nothing to be desired. The tubular chimes were pleasingly introduced in a sacred selection, in which the band playing, gave the effect of a big church organ.

The foyer of popular music was provided with a treat in the next number, a medley of Harry Lauder's songs introducing "She Was Very Kind to Me," "The Saftest of the Family," "Roll the Noo," "When I get Back to Bonnie Scotland," "She's Ma Daisy," "I Love a Lassie," "Tobermory" and other favourite Lauder airs, which the band played in a delightful manner. A new Italian intermezzo by Percy Weinrich, "Silver Bell," a catchy, tuneful melody, made an instantaneous hit. Perhaps the most ambitious number on the programme was the concluding one, the grand hunting pastoral "In Fremersberg," a sketch descriptive of a hunting episode, in which are indicated the fanfare of the hunter's trumpets ,the dance of the peasants, which is rudely interrupted by a violent storm, the loss of the Margrave in the midst of the outbreak of the elements ,and finally his hearing of the monastery bells and the chanting of the monks, which lead to his reaching a place of safety, the number ending with the "Te Deum." This heavy selection was magnificently handled by Mr. Gliddon and his men, the portrayal of the storm being especially realistic, and the audience showed their approval in no uncertain manner. Miss Sisson, of the Conservatory of Music, added much to the enjoyment of the occasion by her skilful accompaniments for Miss Halliban.

Mr. Gliddon and the band are to be congratulated upon the splendid treat they provided. The next in the series will be a Scotch night.

Another Q. O. Rifle Letter From Mr. Wilfrid Huycke

Aldershot Camp, Sept. 9th.

Dear Daddy and Mother,—I received your letter yesterday at noon, and was very glad to hear from you. The Canadian mail was distributed to us just after we came in from camp parade, and the chap who gave it out told us disappointed ones to go over to the orderly room and see if any thing was for them there. Several of us started out, but found nothing, but on my return to the tent I was agreeably surprised to find your letter, which a second chap had brought around.

Things have been going on pretty smoothly since I wrote you last. On Wednesday morning we paraded down to see the Irish Fusiliers drill, and they certainly had it down fine. Their rifles came up and down altogether, and they all brought their hands up and down with a swing. In the afternoon we went for a route march somewhere—I think it was up around Farnham, but turned around just before we came to the castle. On Thursday, I think, we went for another route march out Farnborough way and then had some trifling drill in the afternoon. We are getting quite hardened now and regard some of our earlier marches as the last lap on the way now.

On Friday morning we had the longest march so far, and it was a corker. I think we went about 12 miles, which was not very bad for a morning's work. We went around in a kind of a circular, and on our way back saw where we had gone out by a large chimney on Basingstoke Canal, and there certainly was quite a bit of country between. The fellows stood the march very well, and only one or two dropped out. The Buffs were with us that day and they had a fife and drum band to make the marching easier for them. We had no band at all, and just went on in our own sweet way, but we get there just the same. We did not have anything to do that afternoon, so some of us just loafed around our tents, while others went down to London. Saturday morning we went down to see the Scots Guards troop the colors—and we certainly saw some fine drilling. We marched down with both bands and lined up along the edge of the parade ground. Both battalions of the Guards were there, and they made a brave show. After a little arm drill the band marched out to the front and struck up their regimental air. It was fine to see how their drummers played. There were a whole lot of them, and they all brought up their stocks at the same moment and then back upon the drums. The first time they marched around the field they used a long, slow step suitable to the music, as the band was playing some kind of a slow march. I could not describe their step, but they kind of raised their legs and then drew their toes outward. After they had all gone around this way they marched around to ordinary time, and they certainly showed us a few things. We did not have to march around after they finished, and I certainly am glad we didn't.

All the regiment got leave to go to London from Saturday to Monday morning at reveille, so the afternoon trains for London were all crowded. Another fellow and I went up on the 2.05 and got in London about 3. We saw the outside of the Parliament buildings and the courts outside, but were just about half an hour too late to get inside. We then went across to Westminster Abbey and saw most of it. We saw the graves or tombs of all the English kings and queens. We saw the original part of the chapel which was built by Edward the Confessor, his tomb, and then all the part that was added later by Henry III. I could not begin to tell you the graves of all the persons we saw, but I think we saw about all that was going. We saw the Coronation chair and the Stone of Scone in it. There were a lot of initials cut on it too, I think, but they have got it roped off now. There were also some coffins of some of the old barons of England from the 12th century down, with the figure of the man cut in bronze on the outside. Some of them were considerably battered up, but there were some very good ones. Most of the kings' and queens' tombs had no statue over them, and it was funny to see some of the generals, like Gen. Monk, with a great big statue over his tomb. With all the kings and queens were some of the great ministers like Cecil and Burleigh. It was rather queer to stand almost where old William the Conqueror was crowned and all the kings since then. It made you feel rather old. In many places the abbey has suffered from violence in the time of the destruction of the abbeys and the Reformation, but there is a whole lot left. We saw the tombs of all the other notables, great soldiers and sailors, statesmen and poets. Most of them had a tablet put over them. There was no extra charge to see them. We spent most of our time in the abbey, but did not see it all thoroughly; and I intend to go back again when we are there for our four days. On our way up town we passed most of the Government offices in Downing Street and all around there. Of course, we couldn't get past Trafalgar Square, and there we saw the Nelson Monument and the British lions. In the evening we went for a ride in a motor bus and then for a walk along the Thames Embankment, where Cleopatra's Needle and the inimitable sphinxes are; it was rather radk then and we could not see the hieroglyphics cut on it, but will see that again. After it got dark we went to the Terry Theatre, where May Robson was playing in "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary." It was very amusing, and we had a good laugh quite often. It was something like "Charley's Aunt"—a young fellow, three or four college chums, who were always getting into scrapes, a girl, and his maiden aunt, who paid his bills, but getting disgusted over some frivolity, disinherited him, but after a trip to New York conquered her dislike for cities, and became the gayest of the gay. After the show we happened to run across Hatton and a friend of his on the Strand. We caught the 12.15 train for Aldershot, and arrived there about 2 a.m. We missed reveille, breakfast and everything else, and just missed being stuck on the guard for the day. There were only three privates in the company lines this morning, and we all bunched in one tent. In the morning the orderly corporal came around, got one of us for police, and wanted another for guard, but we explained that we had bicycles hired down town for a trip around the country (which was quite true); so after a little discussion we escaped, and lingering no longer left for Aldershot, where we got the bicycles our man had left for us the evening before. We mounted, and I had barely got across the road when off came the pedal and its attachment to the sprocket, and there was I without a wheel. Of course, we took it back, but the fellow who hired it out was out of town, so we left it with the man who had it stored for us.

Monday, noon. I was writing this in the canteen, but "lights out" sounded, so I had to get out and am starting again on Monday. Then we hunted all over town for another shop and at last found one. After a little haggling we got another wheel and started out a little before twelve. We first went to Farnham, and after going through part of the town we came to Farnham Castle, which is situated on a hill overlooking the village. We rode around the castle and spoke to several villagers, who said that we could not get inside. After looking around for a while outside we determined to go up and ring the bell of the front door and take a chance of being forcibly ejected, when one of the men around the place came and told us we could go around inside. We went in and climbed up on top of the keep, which was built in the time of King Stephen. It is still in good repair, but it looks as if the whole top storey, except a piece of about 20 yards, has been demolished. On the top of the keep there is a rock garden of flowers. We also saw the little portholes where they used to pour out their boiling oil and shoot their arrows. There was a staircase from the top of the keep to the bottom, and the stone steps are in some places very worn out. (This blot was caused by a fellow throwing a blanket over me.) On the side of the stair case was a little room with some old rusty tools in it—this was the guard room. The stair case went down to the residential part of the Bishop of Winchester's house, so we did not enter in. On one side of the keep was a great big hole, bricked in with comparatively recent stone to the remainder which evidently was a breach which had been made. After wandering around the grounds for a while we left it and rode on through several little villages. We saw a place called Bordon, about 6 miles away on the signboards, and on arriving there we found it was another camp like Aldershot. We went on a little farther and came to a little village called Headley. There was a beautiful little church built about 1717. It was nearly all covered over with ivy. Inside on the top it had old, old oak beams, and the seats were of oak and very straight-backed. It had a very old wooden porch, where they kept their list of voters and everything else. We went around in a kind of a circle and came eventually to Frensham Park and Crooksbury, which Conan Doyle speaks about in Sir Nigel. It was just a kind of a little lake, with a few swans on it, but it was rather interesting historically. I wanted to go to Waverley Abbey, which was only about 2 or 3 miles away, and Tilford, but the chap I was with had a pain in his side so we came straight on home. We passed for the most part through very picturesque country lanes, with trees on each side. The roads in some places were beneath the ground level and the trees growing on both sides made it a regular arch. There were very many large oaks along the road side, which were a little different from what we have in Canada.

After the first few days we had pretty good weather here and not much rain. One evening after tea three of us got a boat and rowed up the Basingstoke Canal, passing a couple of old bridges. There is a soldiers' church here, with tablets to soldiers all along the walls. Hung up there are some old flags which are all shot to ribbons.

This morning we went for a march out a few miles on the moors, where a company of Yorkshire Light Infantry shot against moving targets of artillery, cavalry and infantry. They were dummies, and were worked by pulleys or something. The cavalry came down the road and the infantry shot, the bullets spattering all around them. For infantry practice they shot against some little iron shields, which were knocked down when hit. Then we marched back home and saw the Buffs give an exhibition of attacking a hill. They skirmished up, firing blank ammunition, and looked very well.

There is an awful mix-up in our tent now. Half the tents were taken down this morning and the fellows had to double up, so now there are 13 in our tent—blankets, clothing all over. We go out on the manoeuvres to-morrow morning, and I suppose it will be pretty stiff. Just a minute ago Premier Whitney and Dr. Pyne passed through here, and of course the fellows cheered them a little. I am enclosing a couple of post cards, and perhaps you can recognize my smiling countenance. One is our company and I am on the top row. The others are mess orderlies, and I am near the end in the background. There is also a little snapshet taken in Levis.

I suppose you will be in Peterborough soon, and the summer will soon be over. It is rather cool down here now, and Saturday night we all had five blankets each, and we were nice and warm. I must close now and get these things posted.—Your loving son, WILFRID.

STOMACH DISTRESS AND DYSPEPSIA GO

Makes Your Out-of-order Stomach Feel Fine in Five Minutes

As there if often some one in your trouble, why don't you keep some family who suffers an attack of Indigestion or some form of Stomach Diapepsin in the house handy?

This harmless blessing will digest anything you can eat without the slightest discomfort, and overcome a sour, gassy Stomach five minutes after.

Tell your pharmacist to let you read the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily see why it makes Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Heartburn and other distress go in five minutes, and relieve at once suhe miseries as Belching of Gas, Eructations of sour, undigested food, Nausea, Headaches, Dizziness, Constipation and other Stomach disorders.

Some folks have tried so long to find relief from Indigestion and Dyspepsia or an out-of-order stomach with the common, ever-day cures advertised that they have about made up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe theirs is a case of Nervousness, Gastritis, Catarrh of the Stomach or Cancer.

This, no doubt, is a serious mistake. Your real trouble is, what you eat does not digest; instead, it ferments and sours, turns to acid, Gas and Stomach poison, which putrefy in the digestive tract and intestines, and, besides, poison the breath with nauseous odours.

A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion, and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the Stomach, is waiting for you as soon as you decide to try Pape's Diapepsin.

A SIMPLE METHOD OF DE-GERMING WATER

The Toronto Telegram furnishes the following simple way of destroying morbid germs in water, so as to make it wholesome for drinking or domestic use.

How to provide pure water inside of ten minutes, ready for use in the home or field, by the house wife or river driver, has been discovered by Dr. G. G. Nasmith and Dr. Graham of the Provincial Board of Health. The whole equipment necessary for the work consists of an ounce or two of good chloride of lime, a spoon and a cup and a pail.

Dr. Nasmith believes this discovery should prove invaluable to miners, prospectors and travellers in northern Ontario. He declares that this method will produce almost sterile water in ten minutes.

How to Purify It.

The operation consists in rubbing up in a cup of water, a teaspoonful of the chloride of lime, diluting this cup with three more cups of water, and then adding a teaspoonful of this solution to a two-gallon pail of water to be purified, mixing up the pailful thoroughly. This will give between four and five parts of free chlorine in a million parts of water and will effectually destroy in a few minutes all typhoid and colon bacilli or other dysentery producing organisms in the water. The water so treated is without taste or odour, and the trace of chlorine which is in itself harmless, rapidly disappears.

Tried It on Bay Water.

Drs. Graham and Nasmith have experimented together on Toronto bay water and tap water, which had been inoculated with billions of typhoid and colon bacilli, "with the invariable result that all the pathogenic organisms have been destroyed."

If this means is as effective as it is simple and cheap it will be a tremendous boon to humanity. One can once more drink even Toronto water without feeling as Socrates must have done when he was swallowing the hemlock.

Government statistics furnish ample evidence that local option and reduction of licenses does not curtail drunkenness. Why not advocate the drinking of Regal Lager and promote true temperance.

A WONDERFUL REMEDY

Orange Lily is daily curing the most obstinate cases of Female Disorders. Falling of the Womb, Leucorrhoea, Painful and Suppressed Menstruation, etc., etc., are all of them relieved from the start by its use, and a few weeks' or months' treatment accomplishes a complete cure. This remedy is a positive, scientific preparation, and is based on the discoveries of Pasteur and Lister. It is an applied treatment; that is, it is not taken internally, but is applied direct to the suffering parts, and it, therefore, acts with all the certainty of the known laws of chemical action. As it comes in direct contact with the diseased tissue, its antiseptic and nerve-food properties cannot help have a beneficent influence. I receive from 10 to 50 letters daily, speaking of the benefits and cures it is performing, and so sure am I that it will do what is claimed for it that I will send, absolutely free, a 25c box to every suffering woman who will write for it. Price, $1 per box, which is sufficient for one months' treatment. Address, MRS. FRANCES E. CURRAH, WINDSOR, ONT.

MORE ARRESTS ARE LIKELY

Brockville, Oct. 1.—On the 15th inst., Robert E. Cughan, manager of the Farmers' Bank in Athens, and Melvin Forrest, teller in the same institution, were arrested and brought here to answer to a charge of theft.

The accusation against Cughan is "that within the past five months he did steal and convert to his own use a sum believed to be in the neighborhood of $900. The same charge rests against Forrest, with the amount at $500. Both cases came up yesterday for a preliminary hearing before Police Magistrate Deacon.

Forrest elected to be tried summarily and pleaded guilty. He was remanded for sentence, and will be used by the crown as a witness against Cughan, who pleaded not guilty.

Forrest, it is understood, will make restitution and throw himself upon the court for mercy.

A High-Handed Act.

Winnipeg, Oct. 1.—T. L. Humberstone, M.A., B.Sc., of the University of London, who is in Canada arranging plans for the Congress of Universities of the Empire, which is being held in England in 1912, complains that he was ejected from the Soo train, which leaves Winnipeg for Chicago at 6 o'clock, by American immigration officials here. Humberstone had a ticket for Toronto, and hoped to make the trip by way of Chicago.

Cotton Mills Close Down.

London, Oct. 1.—The Board of Trade intervened yesterday in an attempt to avert the lockout in the cotton mill industry, which was threatened for Oct. 3.

The masters and the workmen met at Manchester last evening, but the conference broke up without a settlement having been reached. The employers' federation therefore ordered their mills to close at noon to-day.

Hearst a Factor.

$17,000 IN GOLD GONE

Vancouver, Oct. 1.—It has just leaked out that a big mail robbery took place at White Pass on the Yukon Railway, between White Horse and Skagway, on Aug. 17, when lead brick was substituted for gold bullion.

This following the theft of bullion between Fairbanks and Seattle seems to indicate an organized gang on the Yukon River route.

Postoffice Inspector Greenfield from Vancouver, and several other officers are working on the case.

The missing gold is valued at $17,000, and although the robbery took place on American territory, it was a consignment from Dawson, and looted from the Canadian mails.

Indict Police.

New York, Oct. 1.—As a result of the disclosures of vice conditions at Coney Island following the recent official investigation under Acting Mayor Mitchell's direction, a dozen indictments, said to be of police officers charged with responsibility for law observance at the resort, were returned yesterday by the King's County grand jury. It was unofficially stated that one of the indictments was against Police Inspector John J. O'Brien. The indictments, with others, returned against proprietors of alleged disorderly resorts, swell to 30 or more, the total of persons under indictment as a result of the Coney Island scandals.

Customs Increase.

Ottawa, Oct. 1.—Another increase of over one million dollars in a month is shown by the customs figures for September, which are out to-day. The total collections for the month were $5,467,739, as against $5,427,458 for September last year.

For the first six months of the fiscal year the collections have totalled $35,559,544, an increase of $6,778,476.

RHEUMATIC PAINS

Not Due to Cold, Wet Weather—The Trouble is Rooted in the Blood

Many people believe that the twinges and tortures of rheumatism are due to cold, damp, or wet weather, and treat themselves by rubbing with liniments and lotions. This is a serious mistake, and one which allows the disease to progress to such an extent that it is often impossible to get it out of the system. Rheumatism comes from poisonous acid in the blood, and it must be cured through the blood. All the liniments and rubbings and so-called electrical treatment in the world will not cure rheumatism. This is a medical truth which every sufferer from this excruciating trouble should know. Rheumatism can only be cured by driving the poisonous acid out of the blood, and enriching and purifying it. There is no medicine will do this so speedily and surely as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They actually make the new, rich, red blood, which drives out the poisonous acid, upbuilds the system, and makes the sufferer well and strong. It is because they do this that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured thousands of cases of rheumatism after all other treatment had failed. As proof we give the case of Mrs. F. X. Boisseau, St. Jerome, Que., who says: "Almost two years ago I was a terrible sufferer from rheumatism. The trouble first located in my right leg, rendering all work impossible, and walking excessively difficult. I tried to cure myself by means of all sorts of liniments and lotions, but without avail. The trouble was constantly growing worse and the pain more and more unbearable. Finally the disease spread to other leg, and I was all but helpless, and I was completely discouraged, thinking I would be a sufferer for the rest of my life. At this time I read an advertisement in our home paper, of this trouble being cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I decided to try them. I first got four boxes of the Pills and after using them for several weeks I could see that the painful rheumatism was gradually disappearing. I continued taking the Pills however, until I had used about a dozen boxes, when every symptom of the trouble had disappeared, and I could walk as freely as ever I did, and do my housework without the least trouble. I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to every rheumatic sufferer."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Second Cousin Who Is Suing to Have Aged Lothario's Marriage Annulled Says He Wanted to Marry Her—Fraser Thought Cartier Was Premier and Lord Monck the Governor-General of Canada.

Barrie, Oct. 1.—"The idiocyncrasies of the 82-year-old bridegroom," would seem an appropriate title for the peculiar law suit that confronted Justice Britton in the assizes here yesterday, by which Catharine McCormick, maiden lady, hopes to have her octogenarian second cousin, Michael Fraser, declared insane and incapable of handling his own affairs, whereby she hopes to annul his marriage to 35-year-old Hannah M. O. Robertson of Dundas, last January, and thus prevent an estate of $80,000 passing into the hands of strangers upon his death.

For a so-called "civil" suit, the evidence yesterday showed anything but amity between the opposing factions, and the court-room, which, yesterday morning, was the scene of one of the saddest tragedies, when two people were sentenced to death, was suddenly converted into a theatre of crude burlesque. Wave after wave of laughter swept the crowded room, and as ridiculous instances pertaining to the case came to light from the witness stand.

There are three eminent sanity experts ranged on one side against equally eminent experts on the other, three who will attempt to show that old Michael Fraser was and is of sufficiently sound mind to appreciate the seriousness of taking unto himself a wife, and three who will say that he is a lunatic.

The defence of the marriage will be supported by the expert testimony of Doctors N. H. Beemer, superintendent Mimico Asylum; C. K. Clarke, Toronto Asylum, and J. H. Cameron, M.D., insanity specialist of Toronto University. Associated with them are: Doctors Russell, ex-superintendent Hamilton Asylum; P. H. Spohn, ex-superintendent Penetang Asylum, George Bowman, Penetang; and Dr. Richard Raike, of Midland. On the side of the plaintiffs are Drs. Arthur Jukes Johnson, and J. M. Cotton of Toronto, and Edward Ryan, superintendent Rockwood Asylum, Kingston. Dr. Ryan gave evidence last evening to show that Fraser was a victim of senile dementia, and it was unshaken in a rigorous cross-examination by Counsel J. K. King, K.C.

Justice Britton decided to hold the balance of expert testimony for Osgoode Hall. The judge also intimated to Mr. King last night that he would not bring old man Fraser down to-day from Midland.

The evidence of Robert McCormick and Catharine McCormick went to show that insanity was prevalent in the Fraser family, from the father of the seven boys down to Michael. Of the whole seven boys, Samuel, who, was once reeve of Tay Township, was the only one that didn't show insane proclivities, they swore.

Richard Hartley and Wm. Smith neighbors, corroborated the observations of the McCormicks as to Michael Fraser's peculiarities, and told of the measures the second cousins adopted to try and prevent the alleged marriage. From Smith it developed that a self-appointed committee assumed charge of Michael's affairs upon the death of the last surviving brother, John, and through this committee, Robert McCormick got $3,000 and his sister $1,000 from Michael, after his brother's demise, Aug. 31, 1909.

On Sept. 30, Michael and Miss Robertson planned to get married, which the "committee" succeeded in thwarting, it appears. Mrs. Robertson then threatened to bring a breach of promise suit, and Dr. McGill, on the "committee," told her to go ahead and he would make the judge laugh at her by relating Fraser's physical and mental incapacity.

Miss Catharine McCormick, plaintiff, was put on the stand by A. E. Creswicke, K.C., and corroborated in detail the testimony of her brother as to the tendencies of the whole Fraser family.

"What other indications did you observe of insanity?"

"He cursed and swore about taxes, and the town and the country in general, though he didn't swear in former years."

Justice Britton: "Apparently, then, he was afflicted with some mania against schools and taxes, as his brother John was?"

"Yes, just the same." From John's death on Aug. 31, he had acted queerly towards women. "He asked me to marry him on the day of John's funeral, and again on the second of October. While the funeral service was on he asked Miss Brown to play the piano, and he wanted both her and me to sit on his lap."

Miss McCormick intimated that it was an evidence of insanity on Michael's part to want to marry his second cousin.

"Did he speak of Miss Robertson."

"Yes, and I said, 'Don't talk nonsense,' and he said, 'Perhaps it is nonsense.' Then he told me how she loved him. She used to sit on his knee and kiss him and tell him she loved him better than King Edward or anybody in the universe."

Dr. Edward Ryan, medical superintendent of Rockwood Asylum, Kingstonfi examined Fraser on June 14 last, in the presence of Doctors Raikes, Jukes, Johnson, Clarke and Cotton. He found the heart enlarged and hardened. Fraser had the date of his birth correct, and gave the names of his brothers, but wasn't clear as to whether they were living or dead. First, he said two were dead, and he had seen John two months ago. None had died in the asylum. He had said Monck was the present Governor-General and Cartier was Premier. He didn't know who represented the county in the Parliaments.

Busy Berlin.

Berlin, Oct. 1.—This has been a year of substantial growth for Berlin. Population shows an increase of about 900, bringing the total up to 14,500 and in nine months over $200,000 worth of new buildings have been erected.

THE IRISH HEAR "T.P."

Enthusiastic Assembly of Irishmen Crowd Massey Hall to Hear the Journalist and Parliamentarian, Who Is In America Getting Money For Political Chest—Staying With D. D. Mann.

Toronto, Oct. 1.—T. P. O'Connor, M.P., founder of The Star, The Sun, The Weekly Sun, "M.A.P.," and "P.T.O.," editor-in-chief of The Era, president of the United Irish League for a quarter of a century, was the greatest Irishman in Canada yesterday, and will remain long enough to celebrate his 62nd birthday on Oct. 5 on Canadian soil.

"Tay Pay" was here four years ago, and as he approaches the grand climacteric, gives every evidence of having developed and mellowed into one of the ripest and sanest-minded men in British politics to-day. His address last night on "The New Ireland" was a model of moderation and eloquent exposition.

Mr. O'Connor also addressed the Toronto Press Club last night, and it is no breach of confidence to say that a more high-minded standard was never set up for any body of professional men. Mr. O'Connor carries his ideals into his own journalistic practice and into his politics. They may be briefly defined as fair and clean. Mr. O'Connor while in Toronto is the guest of D. D. Mann and will attend the Woodbine to-day and remain over Sunday in the city.

He is here for the purpose of assisting in the replenishment of the warchest of the Irish parliamentary party. Mr. O'Connor would prefer to call it the peace-chest, perhaps, but it would not be so generally recognized under that designation. It was under the banner of peace, however, that last night the replenishment went up in the neighborhood of $2,000. If all the other Canadian and United States burghs do as well the $100,000 asked for will not be long wanting.

An Irish concert preceded the address. President Roche of the local branch of the league introduced Hon. J. J. Foy, acting premier, as chairman of the meeting. Consequently there was no treason talked, and the sanguinary Sassenach was comfortably buried away and unmentioned even in the briefest obituary notice.

LADY EDGAR DEAD

Authoress and Women's Worker Passes Away In London, Eng.

Toronto, Oct. 1.—The death took place suddenly yesterday in London, Eng., of Lady Edgar, widow of the late Sir James David Edgar, K.C.M.G., C.C., the death of whose brother, Col. Bramley Ridout, was chronicled only yesterday.

Lady Edgar, accompanied by two of her daughters, Miss Beatrice and Miss Marjorie, left Toronto last spring for a prolonged visit to England and the continent. After a visit to Rome she returned to London in June to be present at the marriage of her son, Keith Edgar, an officer of the Royal Engineers stationed in India. After this Lady Edgar spent the season touring abroad or with friends in England and Scotland. For some time during the summer they were the guests of Lord and Lady Aberdeen at the vice-regal lodge in Ireland. Up to the last Lady Edgar had been in the best of health.

Matilda Ridout, Lady Edgar, was a daughter of the late Thomas Gibbs Ridout, and a grand-daughter of Hon. John Ridout, who was surveyor-general of Canada from 1810 to 1829. She inherited literary tastes, writing several interesting and valuable books dealing with Canadian affairs. One of these, "The Years of Upper Canada, in War and Peace," was largely compiled from records and letters left by her father and grandfather, both of whom took an active part as officers during the troublous times of the war of 1812. Another work well-known to students of Canadian history is a contribution to the Makers of Canada series, the "Life of Gen. Brock."

Matilda Ridout married James David Edgar in 1869. She was actively interested in her husband's political career, accompanying him to British Columbia when he was despatched thither on an important political mission by the Mackenzie Government in 1874. In her former residence on Bloor street she was noted as a most charming hostess, and later, from 1896 to 1899, as wife of the Speaker of the House of Commons at Ottawa, she filled an important social position with grace and dignity.

As president of the Woman's National Council, Lady Edgar accompanied that great organization to the Pacific coast in the summer of 1907.

To Enlarge 24th Regiment.

Chatham, Oct. 1.—At the meeting of the Kent County W.C.T.U., it was decided to institute a campaign against the use of cigarettes by miners. The association will personally see that the law is more strictly enforced. They will also seek to have the evils of intemperance taught in the public schools. Mrs. Holmstead of Wallaceburg was elected president.

Col. Hodginson, D.O.C., of London, has approved the plans to enlarge the 24th Regiment to make it a county regiment. Several towns have indicated a desire to contribute companies. The companies in Wallaceburg will be the first to enter.

Charles Chenell, a Swede, employed on J. S. Fraser's farm, in Dover Township, yesterday morning tried to adjust some of the machinery under the engine without first shutting off the steam. The machine started, and he was crushed to death.

William Evans, a little son of William Evans of Wallaceburg, fell from a tree yesterday morning and was seriously hurt. His companions dared him to climb up and he lost his hold.

Let us buy a 50-cent bottle of Psychine (pronounced Si-keen) from your druggist and give it to you (free) to prove its great value.

Psychine is the greatest vitality builder of the age.

For thirty years Psychine has been curing almost every disease that is due to run-down vitality.

Hundreds of thousands have used Psychine with wonderful beneficial results.

We have received thousands of unsolicited testimonials from people whom Psychine has cured, of in many cases, hopeless ailments.

There are still thousands of people suffering from disease, however, whom Psychine can benefit.

There are still thousands who are trying to cure themselves by wrong methods, who are using dangerous and hurtful medicines.

There are still thousands who are gradually losing their vitality—from whose body the necessary resisting power to disease is slowly but surely slipping away.

There are still those who soon will hear the dread "call in the night" if they do not take prompt action.

To these we have the above message, viz.:

"Let us buy a 50-cent bottle of Psychine from your druggist and give it to you, free, to prove its great value."

That 50-cent bottle of Psychine will tell you more powerfully than mere words can how tremendously beneficial Psychine will be for you.

It will give you an unmistakable indication of its wonderful power to renew the bodily vitality, to strengthen the phagocytes (the white corpuscles), the policemen or scavengers of the body.

* * *

The Surgical Department of the Japanese Army, in the Japo-Russian war, first drew the attention of the scientific world to the function of the white corpuscles of the blood or phagocytes

Foreign medical men were astounded to see Japanese soldiers with wounds that had not been cleansed or dressed for days, that were apparently dirty, ill-kept, and altogether unsanitary.

Yet these dirty wounds healed marvellously; no army the world had ever known had such a wonderful record for the recovery of their wounded as the Japanese army.

* * *

There are two kinds of corpuscles in your blood, you know, red and white.

The red carry nutrition, the white are the policemen or scavengers of the body.

Whenever a disease germ enters the body, these white corpuscles attack and literally eat it.

A wound that attracts disease germs from the air is cleansed and healed by billions of phagocytes, or white corpuscles, devouring these unwelcome disease germs.

Any disease can be cured by these white corpuscles if they be in sufficient number or strong enough to attack and devour the germs that cause the disease.

If they are not in sufficient numbers or strength, then the disease germs eat them and disease claims the body.

That's the cause of every disease to which humanity is heir.

* * *

It is only within recent times that we have come to know how these herbs act.

Now scientists tell us they increase the strength and numbers of the white corpuscles or phagocytes.

In Psychine we have some of the most healing and beneficial herbs in the world, herbs that increase and strengthen the white corpuscles.

From Arabia comes one herb, from South America another, China and Japan produce a third, while the jungle of India yields a fourth.

All these herbs are recognized by the medical profession as being the most beneficial to health that they know.

That's why Psychine, in the third of a century it has been made, has cured hundreds of thousands of people who suffered from the following diseases:

| | |
|---|---|
| La Grippe | Bronchial Coughs |
| Bronchitis | Weak Lungs |
| Hemorrhages | Weak Voice |
| Sore Throat | Spring Weakness |
| Anaemia | Early Decline |
| Female Weakness | Catarrhal Affections |
| Indigestion | Catarrh of Stomach |
| Poor Appetite | Night Sweats |
| Chills and Fevers | Obstinate Coughs |
| Sleeplessness and Nervous Troubles | Laryngitis and Dyspepsia |

That's why we believe it will be beneficial to you.

Now we don't ask you to take our word for the tremendously beneficial effect of Psychine. Fill out the coupon below, mail it to us, and we'll give you an order on your druggist (for which we pay him the regular retail price) for a 50-cent bottle of Psychine to be given you free of cost.

We will undoubtedly buy and distribute in this manner, hundreds of thousands of these 50-cent bottles of Psychine.

And we do that to show our entire confidence in this wonderful preparation.

A confidence that has been based on our 30 years' experience with this splendid preparation with a full knowledge of the hundreds of thousands of cures it has made.

THE DELINE CASE

The Toronto Saturday Night Makes Some Comment

The Toronto Saturday Night says: While rural localities enjoy the boons of fresh air and sunlight, and although one is informed that the farmer is undoubtedly the most independent man in the world, episodes constantly come to light which show the darker side of the picture. The Deline tragedy in the rocky uplands of Peterboorugh County is such an event. The post mortem examinataion showed that the dead woman was well-nourished; otherwise the consensus of the testimony at the inquest was thats the man and wife and infant had lived like swine. The woman was clothed in rags; she had no shoes to her feet; no furniture in the hovel where they lived. In truth, until the merciful call of death, she lived in disgraceful squalor which must have been even more disgusting in the winter months. Apparently there was no neighbour willing to lend a hand to elleviate these conditions. Now, in a city like Toronto, such a condition of affairs could not permanently continue. Some pastor or prelate, some parish worker or charitable visitant would have sought out the woman and have seen to it that she and her baby enjoyed some rudimentary comforts at least. It is true that rural social life teems wit hmutual services of the kindliest nature, but on eve rycountryside there is the neglected cabin with its semi-Ishmaelite inhabitants, and in such hovels the seeds of rural crime are sown.

LINDSAY MAGISTRATE LIKES OUR PAVEMENT BY-LAW

(Lindsay Post)

An east ward citizen was ned $4.70 inclusive out the police court to-day for allowing his cow to be driven over the boulevard in front of Mr. Sparling's residence on Colborne street east.

In giving judgment in this case the magistrate cited what he had seen in the Globe regarding a bicycle by-law in force in Peterborough. In that city no one is allowed to ride a bicycle on the pavement and the by-law is rigidly enforced. Wednesday morning 11 offenders were fined in the police court. In Lindsay bicyclists have been allowed certain privileges under the bicycle bylaw. They are allowed to use the walks on condition that they exercise discretion, and dismount when meeting pedestrians. The privilege, however, has been abused and there has been a tendency to ignore this and other bylaws. The boulevards of the town, the magistrate said, must be protected from damage.

JOHN J. McGRAW PICKS THE CUBS TO WIN SERIES

Manager of New York Giants Gives His Views on the Approaching Battle for the World's Championship---Thinks Cub's Pitchers are as Good as Connie Mack's Working Staff.

(By John J. McGraw)

Now that Philadelphia has won the pennant in the American League and Chicago in the National every one interested in baseball is asking just one question:

"Can the Athletics beat the Cubs?"

In that problem all the baseball interest left in the season of 1910 centres. Everything else of importance has been settled and just that one baseball question remains unanswered.

Of course the result of the series alone will answer it. Of course to one man the dope means only one thing, and that is that the Athletics can beat the Cubs, while to another the records and personnel of the teams point out the Cubs as the only possible winners.

Now, I believe the Cubs will beat the Athletics. Understand, that is what I think from the records and the makeup of the teams. But baseball is the most uncertain thing in the world, and in a short series all the dope is likely to be upset, as in the case of the world's championship games between the White Sox and the Cubs in 1906.

Understand, I do not believe the series will be a runaway for the Chicago Club, but I feel sure the Cubs will in the end win the championship of the world again. Fans will say the East has never lost a world's series to the West. Is that any reason why it cannot be done? Again, it has been said that, according to the laws of chance and probability, the American League is due to win a world's championship. Such laws of chance and probability are not worth the word usually associated with a tinker when it comes to superior baseball strength. And I believe that the Cubs have the greater baseball machine. Why? Listen.

In the first place, the National League is an older organization, in which are more seasoned players. The Cubs are old campaigners, veterans of many world's championship series. The fight for supreme baseball honours will be nothing new to them. They have been through it all before. How many of the Athletics were on the team when they played my club for the world's championship in 1905?

Connie Mack has a young team, always a disadvantage in a short, critical series. They are likely to blow at any time. That is why Chicago has won so many games from the Giants this season. They have been old, steady campaigners. That alone is a big advantage when a pitcher starts to "blow" and the break comes in the game, as a "break" comes in every game.

MORE FINISHED MACHINE

Next I believe that the Cubs are a more finished baseball machine. They play better inside ball. They have had the advantage of having played together for several years. The men know one another and realize exactly what each player will do under certain given conditions. But they are getting old, it has been said. If they are they have shown few indications of it this season.

I believe that the Athletics are a great ball club, but they have been so much better than any other team in the American League this season that they have had no one to give them a real hard fight. Philadelphia has been out ahead during the whole race. On the other hand, the Cubs have had to fight Pittsburg and the Giants until far past the middle of the season.

Taking the teams man for man, I believe that the balance lies with the Cubs. Chance has a far superior catching department, and that is the backbone of any ball club. In Kling and Archer he has two of the best bank-stops now playing ball.

Thomas, the Athletics' best catcher, is a good workman, but he lacks the head of Kling and he is very uncertain on foul flies. For a pitcher to have his mate dropping flies is at least annoying and tends to upset the whole team.

I consider the pitching departments to be about a stand-off. Both teams have wonderful twirlers. In Coombs the Athletics have a man who has shown wonderful form this season. He has pitched better ball than any any other box artist in any league according to his record. Bender is another great pitcher, but I believe that in Cole and Brown, he of the three digits, the Cubs have the equals of Coombs and Bender. Pefister is a strong left-handed pitcher and easily equals Plank, the Athletics' southpaw.

These are the pitchers who will probably bear the brunt of the box work in the series. Of course, the Cubs have Reulbach, than whom there is none better when he is right, and Ritchie to supplement the work of the other three. Philadelphia has Dygert, who has improved wonderfully of late, and Krause, who has gone back this season, to piece out the work of the others. So the pitching staffs appear to be about equal.

Both the infields are wonderful fielding machines and very fast. The batting strength is about balanced. Collins and Baker are harder hitters than Steinfeldt and Evers, while Chance and Tinker are better stickers than Barry and Davis. If Chance is unable to play first base, that will give Mack's team an advantage, but the Chicago manager has been laying off for the series, and he told me only yesterday that he expected to get into the games.

I believe that the Cubs have the best outfield in the world. All the men are great ground coverers and hard hitters. Hofman, in centre, guards acres and sticks up with the best of them. He is a better elder than Oldring. Murphy and Schulte about balance, both as fielders and hitters, while Sheckard would seem to have it on Lord.

It is this batting and fielding strength in the outfield that are going to count heavily in the Cubs' favor. The Chicago outfielders cut off hits, are students of the batters, and all are fine throwers. Cutting off runs at the plate is very helpful in a close game.

Now that I have sized up the men of the line let us take a look at the managers, the men behind these two machines. Both are great generals and both are fighters. That is what counts in baseball. Chance has built up one of the greatest baseball teams that was ever put together. Always he has one finger on the pulse. He knows just what his men can do and what to expect of them. He is resourceful and a quick thinker. He is also a wonderful man on inside ball. He has the ability to get many runs with few hits, an admirable faculty in a manager.

Mack is silent, cunning, resourceful. His men know him, like him and work for him. He holds himself in the background, but ever is he the man behind. A splendid epitaph for this shrewd Scotchman would be, "He knew baseball." From the bench he runs his team, and he does it better than any other bench manager that I ever knew.

In comparing the ringmasters for the coming show I should say that it will be a case of Greek butting against Greek. Mack in a few years has built up a wonderful fighting team out of absolutely new material, a team that has won a pennant, and with hardly a man of his old 1905 championship team.

As I said, I believe that the series will be a hard fight. I think that the odds should be about 10 to 9 on the Cubs. I look for no runaway victory, but I believe that the Cubs will finally win out on the shade that they have in the batting, the tint that they have on the Athletics in certain departments which I have mentioned, and their longer experience, which has made them veterans and less easily upset.

Of course, some heretofore almost unheard-of player may come to the front and shine as the hero of the series. Some emergency batter may break up a critical game at a critical moment. Some almost obscure pitcher who has been hiding his light under a bushel may get his chance and save the world's championship for his club, as "Babe" Adams did for the Pirates last year. In Zimmerman, for instance, Chicago has a fine pinch hitter and a valuable utility man in case of injury to any of the regulars.

How the games will go depend largely on how the pitchers are worked. Undoubtedly there will be plenty of jockeying before the games so that certain star pitchers will not work against other stellar gentlemen. Coombs should win his games and Cole should win his.

The Athletics are weak against left handers, and Pefister probably will pitch a victory if he is steady. Mack would not work Coombs against Pefister, for instance. Te Cubs also have a groove when it comes to left handers, and it would not be surprising to see Plank come home a winner if he can keep his feet on the ground.

Of course there may be upsets. One team may run away with the series. The Athletics may win in a stroll. The Cubs may have an easy time. But that's not the way the dope looks to me. But then, you know the uncertainty of the old game, and that, after all, is what makes it interesting.

Pro. Team For Peterborough? Forget It Mr. Irving

BERLIN, SEPT. 30.—The professional hockey backers are assured of teams from Brantford, Galt, Berlin, and Waterloo. Promoter Irving has been down east in Peterboro and Port Hope, and hopes to get a district there, the winners to meet the westerners for the finals. The Twin City teams are anxious to see Toronto enter a team, as they have always been a good drawing card. For Berlin, Lehman, the goalkeeper, H. Anderson, H. Corbeau, Gross, and Schmidt are all in town, and others are ready to don the uniform when called upon.

Hamilton Tigers Practices Are Not Very Enthusiastic

Up at Hamilton the fans are a trifle sore on Tigers' practices, not because there are not enough out, but because there is no system to their work. They punt and run and tackle spasmodically, and there is no real, lively, scrappy work-outs like Argos are having. In fact, one paper calls the practices frolics, and says that on the ground of condition alone Argos should wallop the stripes off the Tigers in Saturday's game.

One Hamilton paper says: "A large crowd was on hand for the work-out, and while considerable satisfaction was expressed at the number and quality of players in uniform, it was the general opinion that the men are not getting the drilling that is necessary. But with few exceptions, the players are in far from sound condition, simply owing to the fact that they have been given little real hard work. Saturday's game with the Argos will be the first real practice that the players have had this year. Those held so far have been but a frolic for those engaged. It seems time for someone to get busy."

The candidates the kind of work that counts, and the absence of someone who is able to handle a squad of candidates for a senior team in a proper manner. There is too much listlessness about the work, and a decided lack of concentrated effort. No effort is being made to work out any new plays or combinations, while the players are suffering from a total lack of drilling, such as would result had the club an intermediate team which could be utilized to give the senior men a practice game a couple of times a week.

"There is no practice so productive in results as that gained in lining up against another team, as it not only affords these in charge an opportunity to see the men in action, but also gives them an opportunity to correct weaknesses and improve the team work. Saturday's game with the Argos will be the rst real practice that the players have had htis year. Those held so far have been but a frolic for those engaged. tI seems time for someone to get busy."

NEW COMPANY A GOING CONCERN.

THE PORT ARTHUR WAGON COMPANY, LIMITED, is a new Company, but will commence business under the most favorable auspices, having agreed to take over the Speight Wagon Company, Limited, of Markham, which is a going concern with a production capacity of four thousand wagons per year, and having its entire output for the ensuing year already sold. The intention is to transfer the operations of the Company to a new factory to be erected at Port Arthur.

UNSURPASSED LOCATION OF PLANT.

The location of the new factory is without doubt the finest in Canada, and will be situated on the shore of Thunder Bay at Port Arthur. It is unexcelled for the assembling of materials required in manufacturing wagons and sleighs, and has a commanding position in regard to the facilities for handling its freight by rail and water, which gives the Company a great advantage over its competitors.

CONCESSIONS.

The Company has obtained valuable concessions from the City of Port Arthur, which include a grant of twenty acres of land, a 200-foot dock site, and exemption from taxation for twenty years, except local improvement and school rates. The City of Port Arthur further guarantees bonds of the Company to the extent of $100,000.00 at 5% for twenty years.

NEW FACTORY 815 MILES NEARER THE GREAT NORTHWEST MARKET.

The new factory will be fireproof, built in the most modern style, equipped with machinery embodying all the latest improvements, and thoroughly up to date in every detail, with a capacity for turning out 10,000 wagons a year. The advantages derived by the Company in locating at Port Arthur are numerous, the chief one being, perhaps, the enormous saving in freight, Port Arthur being 30 cents per 100 lbs. nearer the market than any other wagon factory in Canada. This alone gives a saving in freight of $3.50 per wagon. Coal can be delivered from the American ports to Port Arthur at a freight rate of 32½ cents per ton to Woodstock and $1.00 to Petrolia.

CONTRACTS.

This Company has a contract with the John Deere Plow Co., Limited, of Winnipeg, for supplying its total requirements of wagons and sleighs. That Company states that its requirements for the year 1911 will be 4,500 wagons and 1,500 sleighs.

The Company has a further contract with the Tudhope, Anderson Company, Ltd., of Winnipeg, to supply it with wagons for a period of five years, with a minimum average of 2,000 wagons per year and a maximum of 5,000 wagons per year.

It is well known that thousands of farmers are annually pouring into the Northwest, and it is confidently estimated that the above requirements will be more than doubled in the near future. Last year an immense number of wagons was imported into Canada and sold in the Northwest, upon which a duty of 25% was paid.

RAW MATERIALS.

This Company will be able to obtain much of its raw material in its immediate vicinity, thereby effecting a saving of many dollars in freight. With all the advantages enumerated, it is certain that within a very short time the plant will be taxed to its full extent.

MANAGEMENT.

The Company has been fortunate in being able to secure the services of Mr. T. H. Speight as its Manager. He has been associated with the Speight Wagon Company, Limited, for the past eighteen years, and is widely known for his integrity and business ability.

The following certificate has been prepared and certified by Messrs. Jenkins & Hardy, of Toronto, Chartered Accountants:—

H. BATEMAN FOX, ESQ., 154½ Toronto Street,
Secretary-Treasurer Port Arthur Wagon Co., Limited: Toronto, August 11th, 1910.

Dear Sir,—We have examined the books of The Speight Wagon Company, Ltd., at Markham, Ont., for the period December 1st, 1909, to July 31st, 1910, and certify that based upon the contract sale prices to the John Deere Plow Company, Limited, the net profit on its sales was 14%.

Yours truly,
(Sgd.) JENKINS & HARDY,
Chartered Accountants.

ESTIMATED PROFITS

It is estimated that the sales of wagons, sleighs, wagon parts and trucks for the first year will amount to $275,000. The profit of 14% upon this amount is $52,500.

No estimate has been taken of the saving in freight by reason of manufacturing point being nearer the market, and the closer proximity to points at which lumber can be more advantageously purchased and delivered than at Markham, Petrolia, Woodstock or Chatham, nor of any profits accruing to Company from rentals of dock, etc.

A further saving will also be made by the Company by reason of its freedom from all taxation (except school and local improvement taxes) for a period of twenty years.

(f) The Company proposes to issue bonds to the extent of $100,000 for twenty years at 5%, guaranteed by the City of Port Arthur. The Company has already allotted 2,500 fully-paid shares of the common stock of the Company for the rights, privileges and franchises agreed to be given by the City of Port Arthur. (g 1) There has been transferred to the Company for the shares above mentioned, all the right, title and interest in and to the following rights, privileges and franchises, namely:—(1) A twenty-acre site within the city limits of Port Arthur, on the waterfront. (2) A 200-foot dock site. (3) The guarantee by the City of Port Arthur of the bonds of the Company to the extent of $100,000 at 5%. (4) Freedom from taxation for twenty years, saving and excepting local improvement rates and school rates. (g 2) This Company has also entered into a contract with the Speight Wagon Company, Limited, for the purchase, free from liability, of its real estate, plant, machinery, stock-in-trade, contracts, good-will, patents, and its whole undertaking and assets, except book debts, as a going concern.

The consideration for the transfer of the above assets to seven hundred and fifty shares of the preferred stock of the Port Arthur Wagon Company, and twenty-five thousand dollars in cash, and the Port Arthur Wagon Company, Limited, is also to pay for the actual stock-in-trade of the Speight Wagon Company, Limited, in cash at cost price.

(h) The amount paid or payable as purchase money in shares for the above rights is set out in clause (f) and (g) 1 and 2. No fixed amount has been paid for good-will. (i) The commission paid for subscriptions for stock shall not exceed ten per cent. (j) The estimated amount of preliminary expenses, exclusive of commission, if any, is three thousand dollars. (k) No amount of cash is to be paid to any promoter other than commission for sale of shares. (l) The date of the contract referred to in clause (g 1) is the 3rd day of September, 1910. The parties to the contract are The Trusts and Guarantee Company, Limited, as Trustees, The Port Arthur Wagon Company, Limited, and the Imperial Trusts Company of Canada as Trustees. The date of the contract referred to in clause (g 2) is the 6th day of August, 1910. The parties to the contract are The Port Arthur Wagon Company, Limited, and The Speight Wagon Company, Limited. (m) All the above-mentioned contracts may be inspected during office hours at the office of the solicitors of the Company. (n) Auditors and bankers have been appointed as hereinbefore set out. (o) No Director has any interest in the property proposed to be acquired by the Company other than Christian Kloepfer and T. H. Speight, who are shareholders in The Speight Wagon Company, Limited. No cash or shares of the Company are to be paid to any Director to qualify him or otherwise for services rendered, and no Director has any interest in the promotion of the Company. (p) A by-law has been passed increasing the number of Directors to twelve. (q) This prospectus has been duly filed with the Provincial Secretary. Dated this 23rd day of September, A.D. 1910.

Evangelistic Campaign To Commence At Park St. Church

The public are again reminded of the visit of Dr. Sam Luttrell, of Denver, Colorado to Peterborough.

The doctor is known as "The miracle of grace." He is, so to speak, a living commentary of the fact of miracles. He was down and out, knocked out by sin, but the grace of God, through Christ, picked him up, and has kept him since. He is no faddist; he tells the facts of saving grace. Come and hear him at Park street Baptist church to-morrow.

My brother, are you the victim of a habit that enslaves you?

Come and hear what "The Son of Judah," the invincible, irresistible Christ, can do for a man who will only trust in His keeping power."

THE JEWISH NEW YEAR

Will Be Observed by the Jews of the City on Monday Evening Next at the Christian Science Hall—Rabbi From Toronto To Be Here

DAY OF ATONEMENT

The New Year of the Jewish Church will be observed by the Jews of the city on Monday evening next, at the Christian Science Hall, on Aylmer St. The meeting will be largely taken up in prayer and supplication. This is the most solemn day in the Jewish year, and is observed in a very quiet manner. These meetings have, heretofore, been held at the home of Mr. Bernard Lastar, Simcoe street, but the number of Jews here now has become so large that it necessitates the hiring of a hall. A Rabbi from one of the Toronto Synagogues will be present and conduct the service. On Thursday week the Jews will observe their day of atonement, a day which they devote entirely to fasting.

OBITUARY

MRS. LETITIA FINLAY.

At 565 Harvey street, Peterborough at the the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. Malcolm Kidd, this morning at one o'clock, Mrs. Letitia Finlay, widow of the late John Finlay passed away at the mature age of 95 years. The cause of death was a paralytic seizure, which came upon her last Sunday, the first serious illness of her long life of practically perfect health. Mrs. Finlay has been a resident of Canada for seventy-seven years, coming from her birthplace, County Ulster, Ireland, with the family to Peterborough in 1833. A few years after her arrival in Peterborough she removed to Dummer, where she formed part of, and helped to organize, the first Baptist congregation in Dummer. She returned to Peterborough to reside, thirty-six years ago and has remained h re ever since, with the exception of a few years spent in Guelph. During this time Mrs. Finlay was a faithful worshipper in the Murray street Baptist church, until advanced age prevented her attendance at services. While she lived in Dummer Mrs. Finlay knew wel Mrs. Catharine Parr Traill and Mrs. Susannah Moody during the period of production of their well known books on life in the back woods. Her surviving children are Mrs. M. R. Kidd, 565 Harvey street, city, and Mrs. James A. Bell, Smith township. The late Mrs. J. C. Turnbull was her eldest daughter. At the time of her marriage, in 1848, to her late husband, who died about thirty-five years ago, she became a loving and dutiful mother to his six orphaned children, three daughters, all of whom surive her. Sons are Wm. Finlay, Rapid City, Manitoba; John Finlay, ex-M.P., Norwood; and Thos. E. Finlay of Lucknow, Ontario. The daughters are Mrs. J. Crysdale, Lakefield; Mrs. Robert Harvey, Water street, city; and Mrs. George Elliott, Norwood.

The funeral will take place on Monday, after services at 2 o'clock, held at Mr. Kidd's residence, and proceed to the Little Lake cemetery for interment.

SMALL BLAZE

The fireman received a call from Box 17 this morning at 11.20 and owing to a worn out wire it the time they had to wait for the second round of the alarm, as the bell had been ringing all morning. However they were on the scene of the trouble in due time and a chemical sufficed to end the blaze. It was only a chimney blaze at the home of Mrs. Edward McColl, 307 Townsend street. No damage was done.

OPENING RALLY A.Y.P.A.

CURE FOR CANCER

Dr. Frederick Hears French Scientist in Toronto.

Dr. E. V. Frederick was in Toronto last night attending the lecture given by Dr. Louis Wickham, of Paris, France, before the Academy of Medicine. Dr. Wickham, who is chief of one of the departments of the Radium Laboratory at Paris, was induced to visit Toronto, by Dr. Aikins and others, and his lecture dwelt with his discoveries and experiments in the use of radium in the treatment of cancer and other skin diseases. He emphasized the fact that radium should not be used as long as there was a chance from surgery, but should be employed in conjunction with surgery of cases where the disease was regarded incurable by operation.

While refusing to claim that radium is a positive and final cure for cancer, Dr. Wickham, does say that radium will certainly help the surgeon in treating cancer; furthermore, that he personally knows of two or three hundred cancers that have been healed locally, many cases being superficial, and some of them deep.

A DAY IN A COAL MINE

The Examiner is glad to be able to give its readers to-day an article descriptive of the life of the coal miner in England, which was written especially for this paper by Mr. Jas. Pitchford, a recent arrival from England, who, with his four sons, has taken up residence in Peterborough. The Examiner is indebted to Mr. Pitchford for this very interesting article, which appears on page 5 of this issue.

CHOICE FURS!

Direct From Trapper To Wearer

THIS YEAR marks a new epoch in the history of this, the largest and most reliable Fur House in Central Ontario. An ever increasing demand for our Furs from all points in Canada has compelled us to open a new store in Regina, the capital city of Saskatchewan.

The increased output of our Factory incident to this expansion of business enables us to lower the cost of highest class Furs to a figure never before realized.

We wish particularly to emphasize the fact that we manufacture all Fur articles we have on sale, under the direct supervision of practical Furriers, members of our firm. This insures the highest degree of perfection in workmanship and fit and also enables us to guarantee our Furs to be exactly as represented.

Comparison is always a help in forming an opinion of the real value of any Fur garment, therefore we extend an invitation to all interested purchasers to carefully examine our stock before buying.

Queen's Own Rifles Passed Through City This Afternoon

Travelled in a Special Train in Two Sections — Peterborough Boys With the Regiment Were Allowed to Stop Here Instead of Going On.

A FINE BODY OF MEN

Peterborough had a chance this afternoon to see the Queen's Own Rifles, the crack Toronto regiment which has won so much fame for itself and for Canada by its brilliant showing in the manoeuvres in England. The regiment passed through the city between 1 and 2 o'clock this afternoon on two special trains, the first arriving at 11.45 and the other about twenty minutes afterwards. Unfortunately the local authorities had no information as to the movements of the Regiment or some sort of a reception would undoubtedly have been arranged. As it was, very few people knew of the coming of the regiment, and as a result there was only a handful present when the first section pulled in. Among the officers of the 57th Regiment present were Captains Cluxton, Mills and McLean. Mr. Rupert Gliddon, leader of the 57th Regiment band, who at one time was a member of the Queen's Own, was on hand to shake hands with his old comrades. Mrs. Blackwell, Mr. G. W. Hatton and other friends of Privates Holden Blackwell and Walford Hatton, who accompanied the Queen's Own, were also present in the crowd at the station. These privates, with Private Wilfrid Huycke, son of His Honour Judge Huycke, were permitted to leave the regiment here instead of going on to Toronto. Private Herb Routley, another Peterborough boy, was on the first train, but went through to Toronto, where his parents are waiting to welcome him.

The band of the regiment was on the first train and struck up a lively march as the train pulled into the station and the lusty cheers of the riflemen. Afterwards the band played the Maple Leaf and the regimental march.

The Queen's Own look as if the campaigning among the British regulars had done them good. They are sun-burnt and healthy looking, and when they reached Peterborough were in the best of spirits although anxious to be home.

"I never appreciated Canada so much" said a private to the Examiner," as when we were on the ocean coming back."

"Oh but it was a great trip," said another.

"I suppose you wouldn't have missed it for anything?" asked the reporter.

"I certainly wouldn't, but I don't think I'd care to take another just now," was the reply.

"We have been on this hally train for twenty-four hours," was the information volunteered by another rifleman. They have been holding us up all along the line."

"You'll have a long march in front of you when you get to Toronto," remarked the Examiner man.

"Oh, that's a trifle now," was the reply. "It would have seemed long a few months ago, but it will not worry us much now after the marching we had in England."

"Say, talk about receptions," said another. "You should have seen the reception we got at Aldershot. I never saw anything like it in my life. You couldn't march. They clapped us on the back, shoved mugs of beer in our faces and the women wanted to kiss us. They broke right into our ranks and tokeepin formation was out of the question." "It sure was a grand trip and the people in England could not have used us better."

A reception committee from Toronto met the rifles here. It consisted of Ald. Maguire, Controller Ward and Secretary J. W. Somers. With them were half a dozen caterers' assistants from Toronto in charge of dainty individual lunches for the officers and men. The refreshments provided consisted of roast chicken, sandwiches, cake and fruit, and would no doubt be appreciated by the soldier men.

The Queen's Own are expected to arrive at Toronto at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

THE ROYAL COMMISSION IS HOLDING SESSIONS IN THE CITY TO-DAY

The members of the Royal Commission on Technical Education arrived in the city on Saturday night and were met by Mayor Morrow, Mr. L. M. Hayes, chairman of the Board of Education and Dr. McNulty, chairman of the Board of Health, and escorted to the Oriental Hotel.

The Commission have spent this morning in visiting the Canadian General Electric Works, the Quaker Oats Company and other factories, and also some of the schools.

This afternoon a session was held in the assembly hall of the Collegiate Institute for the purpose of hearing evidence in regard to the requirements of Peterborough from the standpoint of technical education. For this purpose the leading manufacturers of the city as well as the educational authorities weer present to present their opinions.

The taking of evidence will be continued this evening, when another session will be held in the Collegiate Assembly Hall, commencing at 8 o'clock. Representatives of the labour men will give evidence. The public is cordially invited to be present and to give their views upon the subject as they see fit.

Defective Gas Connection Almost Causes A Tragedy

Stanley Macey, a young man about 17 years of age, who resides with his parents at 468 Gilmour street, was yesterday morning nearly asphyxiated by gas, while taking his usual morning bath. He went into the bath room, closed the door and window, and turned on the gas to warm the water. There has always been a defect in the gas connections so that a little gas escaped and the young man was not aware of this fact.

He felt a sensation of smothering and went back into his room, and suddenly thinking of what might be the cause of the trouble, he ran back to the bath room and shut off the gas. He then ran to the open window and got some fresh air after which he proceeded down stairs. He passed his father on the way to the dining room and the latter asked him a question, which he failed to answer. He was fast becoming unconscious. Soon after this he sank into a state of unconsciousness, and a doctor was summoned. The young man is now fully recovered and none the worse of his experience. It has become known since that he is the second victim to this defective gas connection, the first, however, was a little more serious.

ENCOURAGEMENT TO ENTERPRISE.

Judging by the customs returns for September, Peterborough is getting her full share of the trade prosperity that prevails throughout the Dominion. The general returns show a very large increase in customs receipts, the index of commercial activity and popular prosperity. The customs returns for the port of Peterborough for the month of September, 1910, show an increase of $8,066 over the figures of the corresponding month of 1909—from $32,648.14 to $40,714.79. This is equal to about twenty-five per cent. increase. This should be a subject of congratulation to Peterborough because the rate of increase is in excess of the general increase that has taken place throughout the country. This is an encouragement to us to persevere, to take increased interest in promoting the growth and prosperity of our city. We need more manufacturing establishments; as a condition we need more power, and we need to be more alert in taking every step, of availing ourselves of every opportunity, to add to the conditions that will conduce to our growth and progress. We have a splendid foundation laid and we should busy ourselves in building upon it. The most dangerous element in human affairs is degenerating into the habit of drift, of getting into a condition of dry-rot, of neglecting to be alive to our duties, our responsibilities and our opportunities. Peterborough's present prosperity is a strong encouragement to greater enterprise and more concerted and energetic action. We must not drift in the wake, but lead the van.

THE SPIRIT OF RUSH.

The lamentable loss of life and injury to persons, resulting from the automobile races for the Vanderbilt Cup in NewYork illustrate the fatal folly of the national characteristic of our neighbours, an unholy desire to gain the goal, without counting the cost of the mad rush, considered necessary. The automobile was converted into a car of juggernauts, and it seems to be a subject of indifference that the road to the winning wire should be over the mangled bodies of men. In the same way the frantic haste to get rich does not count the cost, in the destruction of moral obligations or in human suffering and hardship. The plunging car of maniimum grounds to dust the bodies of men, rolls over the wrecks of homes and human happiness in the race to the goal of wealth. We have not escaped the infection in this country. Though in lesser degree, we have the same sport of haste and recklessness. It is shown in our gain-getting, in our educational ambitions, in our social scramblings for place, and in our automobiles. Beset with the spirit of reckless spend for mere spend sake, we see some persons drive automobiles at dangerously and recklessly rapid pace. Yesterday afternoon an auto car was driven at whirlwind speed through the streets with no apparent necessity to reach any place at any given time—merely for the gratification of a senseless desire for speed, to the imminent danger of children, the occupants of the vehicle themselves and to other vehicles. The drivers of automobiles who drive furiously, like Jehu, the son of Nimishi, through busy streets, mus tbe some blood relation to the fool that rocks the boat, and are fit subjects for the law of suppression.

LAND TAXATION.

The question of the relative taxation of improvements and land values, has come to be a live question, and will probably be heard of at the next session of the Legislature, when the annual job of tinkering the venerable assessment Act comes to be undertaken. The interests most directly concerned in the removal of the recognized inequity of the present system assessment for taxation purposes will be heard. The Dominion Trades and Labour Congress at the recent annual convention at Fort William came out strongly for the proposed amendment to the Assessment Act of Ontario regarding the taxation of improvement values at a lower rate than land value. In addition to the resolution in favour of the amendment the congress urged all other labour bodies to take up the same matter.

The resolution, which has not been published in full in any of the Eastern Canadian paper, is as follows:

"Resolved, that the Dominion Trades and Labour congress, representing organized labour throughout the Dominion of Canada, and now in annual session in the city of Fort William, wishes to go on record as heartily approving the proposed amendment to the Assessment Act of Ontario to permit municipalities, if they so desire, to tax improvement values at a lower rate than land values; business assessments, incomes and salaries to be classed with improvement values, and the difference in the rates to be determined by the municipality.

"This congress would urge on all labour bodies throughout the Dominion to work for amendments to the Assessment Acts of the various provinces on similar lines to the proposed Ontario amendments, and to this end be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Sir James P. Whitney, Premier of the Province of Ontario, and to the premiers of the other provinces of this Dominion."

The proviso to leave the action optional with municipalities, places the matter in the hands of those most directly affected, and removes any feeling that drastic changes will be forced by legislation.

BERLIN'S GREAT DAY.

Berlin is to have a three days' demonstration in connection with the inauguration of Niagara electric power in that stirring town — on October 11th, 12th and 13th. In connection with this the following circular headed the "Power Bund" is issued. While the municipalities are yet to prove the value, of power thus made available, from an economical as well as economic standpoint, it will be observed that the tone of the circular, the grandiloquent vein in which it is expressed, seems somewhat like whistling to keep the courage up—the language smacks a good deal of the power company promoters' eloquence. If Niagara power is secured, at what proves by experience to be a reasonable rate; it is a proper subject of enthusiasm, for the western peninsula, but cannot be expected to arouse corresponding enthusiasm in the rest of Ontario, which, while contributing to the cost of bringing "Ningara power to the doors of the municipalities of Western Ontario," does not enjoy any benefit beyond contemplating the good luck of its neighbours. The formal opening will be by the Premier, Sir James Whitney; and Berlin is hardly using him fairly. He will find that Berlin in its circular has pretty well exhausted the language of enthusiasm and adjectives. However, the occasion justifies the style; it may prove prudent to employ the language of poetry in announcing the important event, the prose may come with pay day. Sir James Whitney declared a few years ago that Niagara Power should "be free as air." It is to be hoped that Berlin and other municipalities will not realize that there was a good deal of air in such a declaration, but that Ningara power in her case, as in the case of the other municipalities may prove the great boon and instrument of progress which it is expected to be. The following is the circular of invitation:

Niagara Power is at the doors of the municipalities of Western Ontario, a ready servant. Its energies will be turning the wheels of industry, lighting the marts of commerce and illuminating the homes of a score and more of towns and cities within the electric zone before the snow flies.

The Hydro-Electric Commission, a state board appointed by the Province of Ontario, with splendid foresight, indomitable courage and in face of strenuous opposition, has woven a web of transmission lines from Niagara Falls to Toronto on the East and Windsor on the West, and Berlin on the North ata the behest of a group of 35 municipalities.

It was a vast work, undertaken by the people of a state. A unique piece of publi cownership, which ensures to Ontario for all time to come—cheap power, cheap light and cheap heat.

This power line carries the highest voltage of any line in existence, namely, 110,000 volts, and its workings will be an object of interest to electrical engineers over the entire continent.

The official openings of this great The official opening of this great lin, Canada, on Oct. 11th next, and will be made the occasion of a 3 day demonstration. The Ontario Cabinet, the Hydro-Electric Commission, the members of the Provincial Legislature, the mayors and editors of Canadian and American cities will attend.

Berlin was selected as the point at which this demonstration should be held because the movement to obtain Niagara power for the union of municipalities was launched there and it was the first municpality ready to receive it.

Berlin owns all its public utilities: Water, gas, electric light and power and street railway systems. It has over 70 manufacturing plants and is one of the greatest industrial centres in Canada.

Extensive preparataions are being made for entertainment of their guests. In addition to the speech-making, when the switch is pushed in, there will be a grand street illumination, an exhibition of electrical machinery and appliances and an official banquet. It will be a brave day for Berlin, for Ontario and for public ownership.

THE RECOMMENDATION TO MERCY.

(Toronto Globe.)

Very few who take the trouble to read the evidence in the Orillia child-murder case will have any doubt that while the mother committed the crime as she described it, the father was the persistent instigator of the deed, and that is much worse than being a mere accessory, either before, or after, the fact. It is a fair inference from the revelations of the trial that the girl is simple-minded, which intensifies the inhumanity of the strong-minded man who was able to bring her under his influence and subject her for months to treatment that would have appeared incredible if it had not been admitted. He is left without a vestige of defence by the fact that much of the girl's story is amply corroborated by the testimony of other witnesses, and that on the main issue his own letters are quite sufficient to convict him without her evidence at all. His persistence in the most execrable use of his power in the face of the strenuous endeavour of her relatives to drive him away from her shows that he belongs to the very worst type of criminals let loose to gratify their animal lusts at a cost fearful to society as well as to their victims.

Why a jury should, in such a case, have thought of appending to their verdict a recommendation to mercy is exceedingly hard to understand. It could not have been mere sympathy with the criminal, for his crime is about the very last that would draw a particle of sympathy from any juror who was not himself dead to all human feeling. The crime of infanticide is a peculiarly callous and repulsive sort of murder, and this was a peculiarly callous and repulsive case of it: the father of an illegitimate child, with legitimate children of his own, urging the child's mother to make away with it and directing her how to accomplish his fell purpose. There is no assignable or conceivable ground on which such a man ought to have the slightest chance to escape the doom he incurred and deserved.

It should never be forgotten in all such cases that the main justification for capital punishment is that it may deter others from committing crimes similar to those which have been thus punished. Now, the crime of infanticide is far more common than it ought to be and very much more frequent than it used to be. If those proved guilty of a specially flagrant case of child-murder are to escape their proper and duly assigned punishment, this will have the effect of lessening the risk attending the commission of such dastardly crimes. If McNulty escapes the death penalty there will be little chance of ever seeing it visited on any future infanticide, for there never was a worse specimen than he is.

OBITUARY

HAROLD JAMES THOMPSON.

The death occurred yesterday (Sunday) of Harold James, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Thompson, 393 Aylmer street. The funeral took place this afternoon at 1.30 to Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. JAMES HARDING.

Margaret Harding, wife of Mr. John Harding, of 4 Dunlop street, Auburn, died in Nicholls Hospital yesterday. The deceased, who was thirty-three years of age, had a large circle of friends who will regret to learn of her demise. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

MRS. J. B. O'DETTE.

The death occurred this morning at 3.45 of Isabelle Shearer, wife of Mr. J. B. O'Dette, 39 Crescent street. Deceased was 45 years of age, and was a life long resident of Peterborough. She was well known and highly esteemed and the news of her demise will bring genuine sorrow to many a heart.

She leaves to mourn her loss, thirteen children, six sons and seven daughters. The sons are Messrs. Vernon, John, Joseph, George, Albert and James, all of this city. The daughters are Muriel, Murie, Pauline, Alberta and Agnes, of this city; Mrs. J. J. Jones, 13 Lansdowne street and Mrs. James Friedley, of Orillia.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday. Service will be held at the church of the Sacred Heart at 9 o'clock and the remains will then be conveyed to St. Peter's cemetery for interment.

Pain in Heart

"For two years I had pain in my heart, back and left side. Could not draw a deep breath or lie on left side, and any little exertion would cause palpitation. Under advice I took Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy and Nervine. I took about thirteen bottles, am in better health than I ever was, and have gained 14 pounds."

MRS. LILLIE THOMAS,
Upper Sandusky, Ohio.

For many years Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy has been very successful in the treatment of heart troubles, because of its tonic effect upon the heart nerves and muscles. Even in severe cases of long standing it has frequently prolonged life for many years after doctors had given up all hope, as proven by thousands of letters we have received from grateful people.

"THE PILLAR OF LIGHT"

By Louis Tracy, (Copyrighted)

So it was with quickened interest that she set herself to listen to the story of Enid's parentage and if her fear of local gossip-mongers shrank as her perception of Enid's real social position increased, much may be forgiven to the motherly sentiment that no wife can be too good for an excellent son.

Meanwhile Brand and the sorrow-laden girls, ushered by obsequious servants to the entrance hall, were constrained to comfort themselves with true British phlegm in view of the interest caused by their appearance.

The hour was not late, about half-past nine. Even whilst the hall porter was summoning a cab the news spread, within and without, that the lighthouse-keeper and his daughters, whose exploits filled the minds of all men, were standing near the door.

Several people, complete strangers came to them and offered warm congratulations. A smart journalist pressed forward and wove his own complimentary utterances into an interview. A crowd gathered quickly on the pavement. Policemen, those marshals of every English demonstration, cleared a path for them through the throng. So, with smiling words on their lips and anguish in their hearts, they made a triumphal exit. How little could the friendly enthusiasts who cheered them realize that these three had been atrophied by the deadly malevolence of fate in the very hour when a great achievement had ended happily.

Enid suffered almost as keenly as Brand and his daughter. Their joys and sorrows were hers. The startling nature of Brand's avowal rendered it difficult for either Enid or Constance to piece together certain fragmentary memories of Mrs. Vansittart's odd behaviour during her enforced sojourn on the rock. So thoroughly had she shattered those dimly outlined impressions by the quietly vivacious charm of her manner at dinner that they both experienced a jumble of sensations. A terrified woman, in wet and torn clothing, cowering in the gaunt interior of a storm-girt lighthouse, is a very different being when attired in expensive garments, and surrounded by the luxuries of a first-class hotel.

It was a relief to drive to their cottage in silence, yet, so easily moulded is our human clay, it was a greater relief when the tension of the noisy rattle of the cab was relaxed. It cost some effort to assure Mrs. Sheppard, a buxom, motherly soul of sixty or thereabouts, that they could not possibly eat any supper. The effort was forthcoming. They pleaded weariness, and at last they were alone.

Constance knelt by her father's side when he dropped listlessly into the armchair placed in his accustomed corner.

"Now, dad," she said, bravely unemotional, "there will be no more tears. Tell me all that I ought to know."

Enid drew a hassock to his feet and seated herself there, clasping her hands about her knees.

"Whatever she did I am sorry for her," said the girl decisively. "And she cannot have been a really bad woman, dad, or you would not have loved her once."

Brand sighed deeply. His strong will had deserted him for a little while. He shrank from the ordeal before him. Why should he be called on to sully the mirror of his daughter's innocence by revealing to her the disgrace of her mother

"Don't tell me if it hurts you, dad. I am content to bear more than I have borne to-night if it lessens your sufferings," she whispered.

He placed an arm around each of them.

"It is God's will," he said, "that I should have to face many trials at a period when I expected nothing but some few years of quiet happiness."

"Nothing in this world can part us from you," said Constance.

"You forget, Enid, that there is a grave chance of you, at any rate, leaving me for another," he said.

She blushed.

"That is the worst of girls getting married," she protested. "They are supposed to be delighted because they are going to live with strange people. Girls who are of that mind cannot be happy at home. If I thought that being married to Jack implied separation from you and Constance—"

"You would give him up, and weep your eyes out." He pressed her pouting lips together as he went on: "Now, my dear ones, I wish both of you to be prepared for very unexpected changes. Two most important events in your lives have taken place within a few hours. Constance, if you saw your mother to-night, Enid also saw her father. I have known for two days that Enid's father is Mr. Traill."

For an instant, it must be confessed, Constance and Enid alike feared that the mental and physical strain he had undergone had temporarily deranged him. It was not sheer incredulity but real terror he saw in their eyes. Somehow, their self-effacement in his behalf touched him more keenly than anything else had done during this troubled period.

He bowed his head. A strong man in agony cannot endure the scrutiny of loving eyes.

"Enid," he said, brokenly, "my words to you must be few. Good fortune needs but slight explanation. The proofs of my statement I do not possess, but Mr. Traill's letter to me could not have been written by such a man if he were not sure of his facts. Here it is. Read it aloud."

He handed her her father's plain-spoken communication. Constance, incapable of deeper depths of amazement than those now probed, looked over her sister's shoulder. Together they deciphered the somewhat difficult handwriting of a man whose chief task it had been to sign his name.

This drawback was good in its result. They persevered steadily to the end. Then Enid, the comforter, broke down herself.

"It cannot be true, dad," she cried. "I have been one of your daughters all my life. Why should I be taken from you now?"

"I believe it is quite true," said Brand, quietly, and the need there was to console her was beneficial to himself. "Mr. Traill speaks of proofs. You have met him, but it is not believable that he would make these solemn statements without the most undeniable testimony."

"Indeed, Enid," murmured Constance, "it sounds like the truth, else he would never have spoken so definitely of my father's first claim on your affections."

Brand stroked the weeping girl's hair.

"One does not cry, little one, when one is suddenly endowed with a wealthy and distinguished relative. Now, I did not spring this revelation on you without a motive. If a clearance has to come let us, at least, face every consideration. Providence, by inscrutable decree, ordained that my wife and I should meet after twenty-one years. That cannot have been a purposeless meeting. In my careless youth, when I assigned all things their scientific place, I have scoffed at presentiments and vague portents of coming evils. I retract the immature judgment then formed. During the height of the hurricane, when I feared the very lantern would be hurled into the sea, I was vouchsafed a spiritual warning. I could not read its import. These things baffle a man, especially one whose mind leans towards materialism. Nevertheless, I knew, though not in ordered comprehension that my life was tending towards a supreme crisis. As the storm died, so I became normal, and I attributed a glimpse of the unseen to mere physical facts. I was wrong. The coming of that ill-fated vessel was heralded to me. I lacked the key of the hidden message. Now I possess it. On board that ship, Constance, was your mother. How strange that her advent should be bound up also with the mystery of Enid's parentage."

"Father, dear, if you can bear it, tell me of my mother. She knew me, and that is why she asked me to kiss her."

"She asked you to kiss her?" Each word was a crescendo of surprise.

"Yes. One night she came to me. Oh, I remember. She wished Mr. Pyne to telegraph to his uncle. When he quitted us to take the message, she, too—how weird it all seems now—admitted that she experienced some thing of the intuitive knowledge of the future you have just spoken of."

"I am not surprised. Poor Nanette! She was always a dreamer, in a sense. Never content, she longed for higher flights. She was a woman in ambition ere she ceased to be a child. When I married her, she was only eighteen. I was ten years older. My thought was to educate her to a somewhat higher ideal of life than the frivolities of a fashionable world. It was a mistake. If a girl harbours delusions before marriage the experience of married life is not a cure but an incentive. A less tolerant man would have made her a safer husband."

Constance would listen to nothing which would disparage him.

"I hate to be unjust to her even in my thoughts, but where could she have found a better husband than you, dad?"

Sore, Chafed Aching Feet

Made Well and Comfortable by the Soothing Effects of DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Tightly imprisoned in the modern shoe the feet perspire and the skin is chafed and irritated until it is in anything but a healthful condition. Possibly you never thought of Dr. Chase's Ointment in this connection, but it brings wonderful relief and comfort almost instantly.

Powders are often worse than useless, because they clog the pores of the skin and prevent healthful action.

Dr. Chase's Ointment is so healing and soothing that it takes out the itching, burning, stinging sensations, and makes walking a pleasure.

It keeps the skin soft and pliable and prevents the formation of corns and bunions.

The better you become acquainted with Dr. Chase's Ointment the more you will marvel at the scores of ways in which it can be used wherever there is itching of the skin or a sore or wound that refuses to heal.

Try it when occasion arises and you will wonder how you ever got along without this great skin treatment. It brings relief quickly and is almost magical, as a healer of raw, inflamed skin.

Do not be satisfied with a substitute. If your dealer does not keep Dr. Chase's Ointment, write for a free sample box to Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

PEOPLE'S PULPIT.

BLOOD ATONEMENT FOR SIN IS A NECESSITY

"The life of the flesh is in the blood; and I have given it to you upon the altar, to make an atonement for your souls; for it is the blood that maketh an atonement for the soul" (Leviticus xvii, 11).

Brooklyn, N.Y., October 2.—Pastor Russell of the Brooklyn Tabernacle addressed a large and very attentive audience to-day at the Academy of Music from the above text. He said:

Ours is a day in which, more than ever before, the statement of our text is disputed—disbelieved—by Jews, Gentiles and Christians. The great Christian author, St. Paul, agrees exactly with the words of Moses in our text, saying, "Without the shedding of blood there is no remission of sins" (Hebrews ix. 22). The orthodox Jew and the orthodox Christian, therefore, are in substantial agreement as to the foundation of things and the unorthodox are in agreement of opposition. The latter agree that there is no necessity for Sin Atonement—that the later thought of all the wise men of the earth, the greatest ministers and rabbis, is that there is no such thing as Original Sin; hence could be no such thing as necessity for cancelling it—of making an atonement or satisfaction to Justice on behalf of it. Two things have contributed to these unorthodox, unscriptural views.

(1) The agnostic Jew not only disputes the Bible as an authority on the subject, but, in addition, admits to himself that if the shedding of blood, if the sacrifices commanded by the Levitical code for Sin Atonement be admitted to be right and necessary, it would involve the thought that the Jewish people have had no Sin Atonement in any sense of the word for more than eighteen centuries, because Sin Atonement must be made according to certain specified conditions or else it could not be made at all. The loss of the Ark of the Covenant containing the Law, and covered by the mercy-seat, was one of these disasters. The destruction of Jerusalem, the City of the great King, was another, and, above all, the Law required that the sacrifices should be killed, and the presentations sacrificially made to God, only by a priest who could show his lineage as a son of Aaron.

(2) Since the destruction of Jerusalem A. D. 70, the Jewish nation has been scattered and devastated by their foes—some of these, alas, claiming to be Christians and dishonoring the name of Jesus! As a result all official records and genealogies of the Jewish people are broken, vitiated, destroyed. Undoubtedly there are numerous descendants from Aaron living to-day; but, since they cannot prove their descent, they are absolutely forbidden to attempt to make a Sin Atonement on the Atonement Day. Viewing the matter from this standpoint the unorthodox Jew feels all the more inclined to repudiate the necessity for any Sin Atonement. Alas, indeed, many of them seem not only to have lost confidence in the Mosaic arrangement, but to have lost faith entirely in a personal God. We hope and believe that many of these are sincere and will be blessed and assisted back to faith shortly and to a better understanding of the holy Scriptures and of God's dealings with their nation.

In view of what we have said, all must see that it would be impossible for the Jews properly to observe the Atonement Day, having no priest nor other facility necessary to the requirements of the Law. Nevertheless, an outward show of ceremony is kept up. On the proper Atonement Day of their year, the Tenth Day of the Seventh Month, the Jew figuratively acknowledges that the merit of the previous sacrifice has expired. He fasts. He prays, according to the original program. But he has no priest. No bullock is slain for the sins of the tribe of Levi. No goat is slain for the sins of the other tribes. And no blood is taken into the Most Holy to make an Atonement. Not only have they no priest to officiate, but they have no mercy-seat. Some of them wring the neck of a rooster, swinging it over the head three times. But this was not the sacrifice of the Day of Atonement and could not take its place.

We should not be misunderstood as holding up the Jew to ridicule. Quite to the contrary, we sympathize with him. We appreciate his reverence for the Divine Law and his desire for fellowship with God in the cleansing of his sins. We would, however, suggest to them that nothing is to be gained by deceiving themselves and each other into the supposition that their Atonement Day brings them any relief or harmonizes them in any sense of the word with the Almighty. What they do is a mere farce. The sooner this be acknowledged the sooner will their honesty in the matter bring them into the proper condition of heart to recognize that the sins of more than eighteen centuries rest upon them uncancelled and that this is the explanation of the calamities that have befallen them.

When Israelites come properly to understand the situation, they will see that all their hopes centre in Messiah's Kingdom. Messiah is not only the great King typified by David and Solomon, but he is also the great Priest typified by Aaron and more particularly by Melchisedec, who was a priest upon his kingly throne. So Messiah will not only be the great King over Israel and the world, but he will be the great Priest whose application of his own merit will effect the cancellation of sins forever. He will not re-introduce to them sacrifices of bulls and goats, but will make known to them that those sacrifices were mere foreshadowings of better sacrifices—so much better that they will not need repeating yearly, but work a perpetual cancellation of the sins of Israel and all the children of Adam.

All the worldly-wise of Christendom have reached the point of repudiating the testimony of the Old Testament and the New respecting the need of a sacrificial death for the satisfaction of Divine Justice, the cancellation of sin and the restitution of the sinner to Divine favor. The claim of the so-called New Theologists repudiates the fall, repudiates the ransom and repudiates a restitution to all that was lost—claiming that nothing was lost and that all we have is gain. Thus the world and its wisdom know not God and appreciate not his arrangement that, as death came upon mankind through the sin of one man (Adam), even so a restitution to life should come to all men through Christ—that "as all in Adam die, even so all in Christ shall be made alive."

These worldly-wise cannot deny the fact that there is sin in the world and that there is death in the world and that the tendency of all sin is towards death. They cannot deny that death is gaining a greater hold than ever before upon our race. Insane asylums, prisons and reform schools show that, notwithstanding our educational facilities and wonderful achievements under the enlightening influences of the New Dispensation now dawning—nevertheless, the insanity statistics and the prison statistics and the physical statistics show that, in spite of everything, our race is becoming mentally, morally and physically weaker day by day. It is for them to explain how these facts fit to their theory of Evolution.

By the term Christian we refer to those who intelligently believe the explanation of the Bible respecting sin, that it is a violation of the Divine Law and carries with it a penalty—that Father Adam was created as sinless as are the angels and as perfect as they, only on a little lower plane of being. Obedience was required of him as the price of Divine favor and everlasting life. Disobedience thrust him from Paradise into the unprepared earth to wrestle with the thorns and thistles, where the decree, "Dying thou shalt die," accomplished his execution. His race was in his loins and naturally shared by heredity his weaknesses and death penalty, so that the entire race is a dying race. But the Creator was unwilling that Adam and his children should die as brutes. God did not revoke his decree of death nor give any intimation that he had done unjustly in condemning his creature. He did, however, provide a way for their relief. He provided that, as the first man alone had sinned actually, so one Redeemed alone would be necessary for the race. And to him he offered a great reward, so that his sacrifice for sins would work out to his own advantage, as well as to the sinner's. A part of the reward was the high exaltation to the heavenly nature—far above angels, and the gift of the Kingdom of earth necessary for the overruling and subduing of the spirit of rebellion in the world and for the exaltation and uplifting from sin and death conditions of all the willing and obedient of Adam's entire race.

From the Divine standpoint "the man Christ Jesus gave himself a ransom for all," for Adam's entire race, to be testified in due time. He antityped the bullock of Israel's Atonement Day, as well as antitypedthe priest who slew the bullock—because he offered up himself. Rewarded by the Almighty, he was raised from death to the spirit plane, higher than the angels. Applying his merit to the antitypical Levites, "the household of faith," "the Church of the Firstborns," he then began a work little understood by either Jews or Christians, but nevertheless clearly outlined in the Word of God. His work throughout this age has been the gathering of the elect class—which is chosen because of faithfulness to him and obedience in walking in his steps in the narrow way. These, composed both of Jews and of Gentiles, have for centuries been in course of development — their sacrifices being typified by that of the Lord's goat on the Atonement Day. Their sacrifices are small and lean like that of the goat, in comparison to the bullock But they are accepted by the Great High Priest, and the offering of their sacrifice is counted as his sacrifice Thus eventually the High Priest will complete his work of sin-atonement (we believe very soon) and then his second application of the blood upon the Mercy-Seat will be made, just as it was written in the Law, "On behalf of all the people," only that "all the people" on the larger scale will not mean merely the Israelites outside of the Levites, but will mean the whole world of mankind outside of the household of faith, the antitypical Levites. Forthwith the whole world will be turned over to Messiah, the antitypical Prophet, Priest, King, Mediator, Judge. Then for a thousand years the world will receive the blessed, uplifting influences.

There will come in Israel's share in the great work of recovering the world to God. They are still beloved for the fathers' sakes and the gifts and calling of God to them are things he will not repent of. At that time the great antitypical Prophet, Priest and King will begin his work as a Mediator. At that time he will mediate by bringing into operation the New Covenant which God promised he would make with Israel and Judah, "after those days"—after the days of their humiliation and being cast off they shall be reclaimed and uplifted and blessed and used of the Lord. This is God's Covenant with them when he will take away their sins—when by virtue of the "better sacrifices" their sins shall be absolutely and forever cancelled by the antitypical Priest, of whom the Prophet David wrote, "The Lord hath sworn, and will not repent, Thou art a priest for the age after the order of Melchizedek"—a kingly priest on the spirit plane (Psalm cx. 4).

The word Atonement or At-one-ment signifies the bringing of persons alienated or estranged back into harmony, sympathy, union. Many are perplexed at the doctrine of blood-atonement so prominently set forth in the Bible. The shedding of blood is somewhat strange, therefore, to those who do not understand the philosophy of the Divine Plan of Salvation, why God should have required a blood-atonement for sin. Sometimes the very people who object to blood-atonement believe something much more awful—that an atonement for sin can be effected by hundreds or thousands of years of most terrible torture—Some believe even worse than this—that an everlasting torment penalty for sin will be exacted of all except the saintly few of humanity. How inconsistent and illogical we have all been in our reasoning upon religious subjects!

In Scriptural usage blood stands for, or represents, the life. In harmony with this is our ordinary use of the word. We read, "The blood of Jesus Christ our Lord cleanseth us from all sin." Here the word blood stands for death, or rather, for the merit of the sacrificial death of Jesus. His death would have been equally efficacious as man's Ransom-Price if his side had not been pierced. It would have been equally meritorious if he had died in any other manner, except that he was to take the place of the sinner to the very last degree—as the Mosaic Law declares, "Cursed is everyone that hangeth upon a tree," thus branding crucifixion as the most ignominious form of death.

But why should God require the death of a victim as a basis for the forgiveness of the sins of Adam and his race? We reply that God's Law was intended to be an illustration of the exactness of Divine Justice. Justice could not punish Adam nor his children with everlasting torture or any other of the horrible things we once imagined. The severest penalty of the Divine Law is represented in our common law, which, as an extreme penalty, requires the death of the transgressor. Adam, having been sentenced to death, would have had no future opportunity for life—neither by resurrection nor otherwise. Adam's children, sharing his weaknesses, would have had no opportunity to regain life, because justice is unchangeable. If it was just to condemn sin, it would be injustice to rescind the penalty and set the culprit free. Divine Love has provided a way by which Adam and his children are all to be freed from death and have an opportunity of eternal life—not by violating the requirements of Divine Justice, but by fulfilling them. Hence in due time, the man Christ Jesus died for the man Adam, to cancel his sin, to satisfy his penalty. And since his sin and penalty have been inherited by his children, the one sacrifice for sin is sufficient for all.

The work of atonement is not completed. The first half of atonement is the satisfaction of Justice. But even this part is not yet completed. The Redeemer presents his sacrifice in two parts, according to the type. The first effusion of his blood spoke peace to believers who now have the ears to hear and the heart to obey; the second effusion, as shown by the Law (Leviticus xvi, 15), will make reconciliation for the sins of all the people—the whole world of mankind. Then the other part of Atonement begins.

After the Divine reconciliation comes human reconcilintion. The great Messiah will not require sacrifices of humanity, but, on the contrary, will open the blind eyes and cause the knowledge of the grace of God to reach Adam and every member of his race. Then all willing for reconciliation will be helped by the great Mediator of the New Covenant and by Israel, his Chosen People and earthly representatives. The object to be accomplished during Messiah's reign is the bringing to all the willing and obedient the restitution which God has promised—restitution to all that was lost. Ultimately Messiah will transfer the allegiance of the whole world (perfected by him) to Jehovah God, that he may be all in all (I. Corinthians xv, 28).

THEY ACTUALLY CURE RHEUMATISM

Gin Pills Prove It

It is one thing to claim to cure Rheumatism. It is quite another to do it.

Gin Pills bear out every claim we make for they are not a "favorite prescription" or a "marvellous discovery" or a "wonderful secret preparation."

They are simply a common-sense, scientific combination of medicines that have proved their value in Rheumatism, Kidney and Bladder Troubles, and Disorders of the Liver.

Cogden, N. S., July 1st, 1909.

"I have been troubled with Rheumatism so bad that I could not work. A doctor tended me and advised me to go to the hospital but all of no good until a friend told me to try Gin Pills. I did so and after using a few boxes, I am perfectly cured. I am recommending Gin Pills." D. J. LAWLER,

There is no reason why Mr. Lawler's case should be any different from yours. He took Gin Pills and cured himself of Rheumatism. Why don't you take them and cure yourself?

We will let you test them free. A sample of Gin Pills will be sent you, absolutely free, if you write the National Drug & Chem. Co. Limited Dept. B. Toronto. 26

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

I WONDER if it's America's trick to talk and judge of things of which one knows practically nothing, at first hand, or just a human habit—as wide as the world.

For it may be both, but it's certainly the first.

We were talking of Oscar Wilde the other day. A young college graduate was of the group. She appeared painfully shocked. "How can you like his poetry? I think it's dreadful," she said.

We asked what she had read of him.

She tried to mention something, stammered a bit, mentioned a poem which was really written by Swinburne, and finally acknowledged that she really couldn't remember what she had read just at that moment.

"But I always heard that he was a very immoral man, and that his poetry was very improper," she concluded, virtuously.

Isn't that quite a typical case of this tendency to talk without any basis of personal knowledge?

In much the same way, how many people make fun of Ibsen and Browning, and tell how involved and uninteresting and unnecessarily abtruse their books are, when they—the critics—have never really sat down for half an hour and read the writers they are judging.

It's often the same way with public affairs. It seems to me that vague rumors, general impressions, and not specific information, stand behind many of the opinions one hears expressed on public matters. How many people, for instance, rage against Cannon and Aldrich and Payne, and exult at Uncle Joe's downfall, who could no name any specific thing that any of these men have done.

In a general way, they think of these senators as having too much connection with trusts and monopolies and railroads, but ask for a specific instance of just how these men have betrayed their country's trust, and I doubt if three out of five of the critics could give it.

How many people who protest against "that terrible tariff bill that makes the cost of living so high," really know any of the specific provisions of that bill?

Now, mind, I'm not trying to defend Cannon or Aldrich or Payne, or the tariff bill.

My personal sympathies are most decidedly not in that direction. Besides, that's politics, and I have been politely, but most emphatically, warned that that is a man's province and I must "keep off the grass."

All I want to make you realize is how prone many of us are to talk and judge on subjects of which we have little or no first-hand knowledge.

Have I succeeded?

Ruth Cameron

MISSIONARY SUNDAY IN THE METHODIST CHURCHES

Special Services Were Held Yesterday During Which the Annual Appeal for Missions Was Made---Large Congregations Were Present.

Yesterday was an important Sunday with the Methodist churches of Peterboorugh, in all four of which the annual anniversary was observed. Special speakers, who have made a study of missions, delivered impressive addresses from the pulpits at both morning and evening services and the special offering for the use of missions was taken up. In all four churches there were especially large congregations at both services and the offering received was correspondingly large.

The special speakers for the day were Rev. Chas. E. Manning, B.A., Secretary of the Home Department of Missions of the Methodist church, Rev. T. E. Shore, M.A., B.D., Secretary of Foreign Missions of the Methodist church, Rev. Dr. Endicott, one of the Methodist church's ablest missionaries who is home from China just now on a furlough and who has the work in that country at his finger tips, and Mr. R. S. Downie, B. A., principal of the Central school.

At Charlotte street church Rev. Mr. Manning preached in the morning and Rev. Mr. Shore in the evening.

The speakers at the George street Methodist church were Rev. Dr. Endicott in the morning and Rev. Chas. Manning in the evening.

The pulpit at St. James' Methodist church was occupied by Rev. T. E. Shore in the morning and Mr. R. S. Downie in the evening.

At the Mark street Methodist church Mr. Downie delivered the address in the morning and Rev. Dr. Endicott in the evening.

At an open meeting of the Charlotte street Sunday school in the afternoon Rev. Mr. Manning gave a very impressive missionary address to the members of the school.

STRONG APPEAL MADE TO LEAD THE CHRISTIAN LIFE BY DR. LUTTRELL

Three Weeks' Revival Opened at Park St. Baptist Church Yesterday With a Stirring Sermon —Campaign is Bound to be Productive of Good.

A FORCEFUL SPEAKER

"There is nothing admirable in human nature. God has had His hands full ever since He made man."

"Some of us are pretty much stuck on ourselves, until we see ourselves with the searchlight of truth."

"The man who sits in his pew, and who sees beside him a man he knows is in darkness and does not tell him of the love of God, is also guilty of sin."

"All the water that flows over Niagara, used in Baptism, could not wash away your sins. It takes the blood of Jesus Christ."

"There are not devils enough in Hell, nor wicked men on earth, with as many wicked women, to take you out of God's hands, if you are once in them."

"Higher criticism never yet saved a soul. Our pulpits are rotten with it."

"There are some women who would rather go around with a lap dog by a string than have a child to look after."

In a manner outspoken and convincing, the above utterances were pressed home to the congregation that assembled at Park street Baptist church yesterday morning, it being the opening service of a three weeks' revival, to be conducted by Rev. Dr. Luttrell, of Denver Col. Dr. Luttrell is a forceful man. His words carry conviction, and his hearers cannot get away from the truths that he lays before them. He is a man of experience and speaks from experience. His is the testimony of his own conversion, and the saving grace of God as shown in his own case. His svisit to Peterborough is bound to bear fruit, and his remarks during the next three weeks will no doubt be the means of bringing many souls nearer to Christ.

In the twenty-ninth chapter of the first Book of Chronicles is found these words, "When the burnt offering began, the song of the Lord began also," and on this verse the speaker based his remarks. At the outset the reverend gentleman referred to the condition of the Israelites after God had led them forth from the land of bondage. God had trouble with the Jewish people after that, and even yet, man was continually a source of trouble to Him. After His unbounded goodness to them, it would be thought that gratitude alone would have kept them straight but it didn't. "How much different are we Canadians to-day?" the speaker asked. "Do we not go on sinning and forget to thank God for His unfailing goodness to us? The most amazing part is that God loves the ungrateful sinner. The blood of Christ is flowing as freely now as when the first drop fell, and yet we do not let it drop on us. The song of the Lord wafts healing, pardon and peace over a congregation, but not until a burnt offering is made. Recently in Toronto a man called on me, and asked me to pray for his boy, who was taking to drink. I asked him to stay awhile and we would pray together. He reluctantly remained. How could that man expect his boy to be saved when he himself had not made his burnt offering. The man who sits in his pew and knows of a sinner beside him whom he could help and does not do it, is also guilty of sin. When you make a burnt offering the song of God keeps ringing in your ears."

Dr. Luttrell, in continuing, remarked that water in Baptism could not save a man. It took the blood of Jesus Christ. Referring to the signing of pledges as a means against the practice of certain wrong-doing, he intimated that he did not believe in it. He himself, he said, had signed enough to paper a wall. There was no groaning in the Christian life. There was a great difference between religion and salvation. There were too many people who sat in church with their umbrellas up, as it were and refused to let the showers of blessings descend on them. He urged his congregation to make their burnt offerings. He spoke of the absence of family prayer in the home, and the reason why so many boys are going astray, and so many girls running to the roller rink and five cent shows, is attributed to the faithlessness of the mothers and fathers. They had not made their burnt offerings. Much good would be done and much help given to others by testimony and he urged his hearers not to be afraid to come forth.

Rev. Mr. Luttrell spoke to young men at the Y.M.C.A. in the afternoon and to a large congregation at Park street church in the evening. Meetings will be held each evening for the next three weeks.

At the evening service Dr. Luttrell spoke on the "Partnership of Jesus," choosing his text from the ninth verse of the first chapter of the first epistle to the Corinthians.

KIDNEYS ACT FINE AFTER A FEW DOSES

Most Severe Backache, Bladder and Urinary Misery Vanishes

The real treachery and danger in kidney trouble is because the first symptoms are always seen in other parts of the body before anything wrong is noticed with the kidneys themselves.

The moment you suspect any kidney, bladder or urinary disorder, or feel a dull, constant Backache or the urine is thick, cloudy or offensive or full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a scalding sensation, begin taking Pape's Diuretic as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, at any price, made anywhere else in the world, which is so harmless or will effect so thorough and prompt a cure.

Put an end to kidney trouble while it is only trouble before it develops into Dropsy, Gravel, Diabetes or Bright's Disease.

Pape's Diuretic acts directly upon the kidneys, bladder and urinary system; cleanses, heals and regulates these organs, ducts and glands and completes the cure within a few days.

Pains in the back, sides or loins, rheumatic twinges, debilitating headache, nervousness, dizziness, bilious stomach, prostatic trouble, sleeplessness, inflamed or puffy eyelids, weakness, worn-out feeling and many other symptoms caused by clogged, inactive kidneys promptly vanish. Frequent, painful and uncontrollable urination due to weak or irritable bladder is overcome.

Your physician, pharmacist banker or any mercantile agency will vouch for the responsibility of Pape Thompson & Pape, of Cincinnati, who prepare Pape's Diuretic 50 cent treatment—sold by every druggist in the world.

SMALL BLAZE

Spontaneous Combustion Gave Brigade a Run to 224 Dublin Street

Spontaneous combustion was the cause of a small blaze which gave the fire brigade a run to the residence of J. S. Martin, 224 Dublin street about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Some clothes which had been rolled up and stowed away in a clothes closet caught fire and an alarm was sent in, to which the brigade responded in record time. No damage was done, the incipient fire being extinguished without the use of chemicals or water.

"A YANKEE RAJAH"

Beautiful and Novel act Being Shown at the Royal

At the Royal Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of this week, the Miss Florence Pierce Co., presenting "A Yankee Rajah," now at Dreamland, have a very beautiful and novel act. They carry their own special scenery, electrical novelties and effects and the stage, during their specialty, presents the most dazzling appearance. Their act comprises mystifying illusions in legerdemain, illustrating, singing, and Miss Florence Pierce is without question the most artistic rapid crayon artist ever seen in this city. The lady introduces an original novelty of drawing pictures rapidly with pencil strapped to her foot or elbow. There is a lot of variety in their offering. It is a decided novelty, and was well appreciated.—From the Evening Record, Traverse City, U.S.A.

UNVEILED MONUMENT

About fifty of the members of Sherwood Forest Camp, W.O.W., drove out yesterday to Cottesloe cemetery, Douro, and unveiled the monument erected by the order to the memory of Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor.

Rev. H. Brown, of Warsaw, gave a splendid oration and in the course of his address he made mention that while not a member of the society, he thought it was a grand thing to see the members of the order so willing to fulfil their obligation, and said they deserved credit for driving such a distance to show their respect and esteem to one of their deceased members.

Mr. W. T. Collins, Deputy Head Consul was in attendance and gave a brief address on the order and what the order is doing. He said the order had erected some 30,000 monuments.

Mr. Fred Dummitt acted as Master of Ceremonies.

No less than three hundred people were present, some of them coming miles to witness the unveiling ceremony. This is one of the outstanding features of the order, that no Woodman shall lie in an unmarked grave.

The Woodmen wish to publicly thank the Rev. Mr. Brown, of Warsaw, for the courtlines and kindness he showed and for the assistance he rendered at the service.

THE SACRED HEART T. A. S. ATTENDS HOLY COMMUNION

Two Hundred Members Were in Line—A Showing That Speaks Well For the Work in the New Parish.

SPECIAL SERVICES

On Sunday morning the members of the Sacred Heart Branch of the T. A. S. attended Holy Communion in a body, this being their second quarterly communion. There were about two hundred in line, which speaks volumes for the good work being done in the new parish. The Mass, which was a special one for the T. A. S. members, was said by Rev. Dr. O'Brien, who took occasion to compliment the men on the fine showing made, and urged them to keep up the good work until every man in the parish became a total abstainer. He remarked that sights such as was witnessed that morning made the angels in Heaven rejoice, and would bring down God's blessing upon the members and their families. After Mass the members remained for a short time for the purpose of renewing their pledge. In the afternoon, the regular meeting was held in the Society's Hall, the basement of the church having been very nicely fitted up for that purpose. Several new members were added to the rapidly increasing membership. A social club was organized, the members of which will be entertained by the Pleasure Club in connection with St. Peter's T. A. S. on Wednesday evening next.

The first of a series of sermons to be preached during the coming winter, each one being an exposition of some Catholic belief, was delivered at Vespers by Rev. Father McGuire, of Douro. His subject was "Devotion to the Holy Rosary." October being known among Catholics as the month of the Holy Rosary, special services will be held every night during the month at 7.30.

Congregational singing was introduced after High Mass yesterday for the first time, and proved highly successful. It is the intention to continue the practice after both Mass and Vespers. There will be a Child's Mass said each morning at 8 o'clock, for those attending school. The grounds around the church have been ploughed in preparation for seeding, and when finished will present a fine appearance. Taken altogether Sacred Heart parish is in a flourishing condition. It is earnestly hoped that there will be continuance of the same.

Here Are The Graceful Becoming Coats Women Will Soon Be Needing

Just as soon as the chill of Winter makes itself felt a woman needs her Fall Coat. Whether for walking, general wear or dress occasions an outer-garment of appropriate weight becomes absolutely indispensable.

We are now ready with an authoritative showing of fashionable models. Long garments that completely envelope the figure predominate. They are more practical and better adapted to the graceful unbroken outline characteristic of the season's styles. Shorter models have not however been entirely neglected. Every individual preference may find expression in our new stock which embraces some of the best outer-garment values we have ever offered.

FRESH FALL STYLES

Women's Fall and Winter Coats

EXCLUSIVE HIGH CLASS GARMENTS

MANY and varied are the styles in cloth, color and trim shown this season in our large stock of Women's Coats. They range from the smooth cloths to the coarse Tweed effects; from the strictly tailored to the elaborately trimmed coat. The favorite feature of the fall season is the Presto Collar, which is equally pretty whether opened as a tailored collar or closed in a double military effect. There are various collar effects such as the double and single guard, the flat "Peter Pan," shawl, or the strictly tailored. Prices of the Cloth Coats range from $10.00 to $40.00 Note the Women's and Misses' $10 Coat.

The "Caracual" and "Pony Coat," this season are prime favorites, taking the place of the expensive fur coats; a very dressy, neat garment, rich in appearance and moderate in price, $25 to $45. The "Sealette" Coat is much in vogue to-day, representing and replacing largely the real seal coat. See our stock to-day. Price $50.00.

Another Q. O. R. Letter From Mr. Wilfrid Huycke

Q. O. R. on Manoeuvres.
Sept. 20th, 1910.

Mes chers petits fleurs et sœurs.—I think this will be my farewell letter, as we leave for home about Saturday. We left London this morning and marched to one of the stations, where we took the train for the finish drill. After a couple of hours travel we got off at a little station called Whitchurch, about 57 miles from London. After a little wait at the station we marched two miles to where the camp is for the night. On the way we passed by some estate with a wall all around it. There were a lot of pheasants in the fields and on one of the hills there were a few deer grazing.

Not much has happened since I wrote last time, so consequently there is not much to say. I was on guard all day Saturday, and could not go anywhere that day. On Sunday some of us went to Westminster Abbey for service and after that I walked up the Thames embankment, to the King's College, Cleopatra's needle, and a few other places. In the afternoon I went through the National Art Gallery. They have pictures there from the earliest Italian painters, down to Turner and Landseer. There were a lot of Rubens, Holbein, Titian, Raphael, Andrea del Sarto, etc., etc. Some of the earlier ones were rather dilapitated, but the great majority of hem were as good as new.

After that I went up to the British Museum for an hour or two, and saw some of the things I didn't see before. In the evening I went up to a grand band concert in Hyde Park. There was quite a large crowd there and some very good music. Monday, I went down to the business part of the town and saw the Royal Exchange, the Law Courts, and finished up with the Zoological Gardens. In the evening I went down town, and tried to get a text book to read on the way over. We stayed around the barracks all morning, turning in our green uniforms and packing our kits. I suppose most of you are in Peterborough now, going to school, and getting the house fixed up. The papers will probably say when the Q. O. R. gets home, so you can tell where I am. I will try to get off at Cobourg, instead of going on to Toronto. If you are at Peterborough I will go out anyway. I suppose Meredith's calves are getting better now. I think something was the matter with them when I last heard of him. Has the social season started in Peterborough. With love to all, and hoping to see you soon,

Your loving brother,
WILFRID.

Thursday, Sept. 8, 1910.

Dear Brothers and Sisters.—You are probably wondering why my last letter closed so suddenly, but I will explain. It was written (the last of it) in Aldershot, where we were all in confusion; half of the tents were down, and those inside them were divided up among the other tents. Leave to go down town was refused, and as I was expecting to finish up and go down to buy some stamps and post it, I was in a box. After a little talk, one or two fellows were appointed to go down to do the errands for the crowd, so I had to hurry up to catch them.

I am writing this out on the manœuvres, on a common, away back of nowhere. We started out on Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock, and marched through parts of Surrey and Hampshire. It was rather interesting, and we marched about fifteen miles, getting into Chawton Park, where we camped a little after one o'clock. The scenery was just about what we are getting accustomed to—quiet lanes with hedgerows. There are ten battalions in our division of about 800 each, and then the engineers, army service corps, army medical corps, etc., bring it up to about 10,000. That excludes the cavalry and artillery, which came in this afternoon, bringing our force up to about 12,000, I think. We are the attacking force, but I don't know what we are going to attack. We led in marching out the first day, and so we set the pace. They march us for about an hour, and then give us five or ten minutes rest, and then on we go. Towards the end of the first day my feet got rather blistered, but they were not very bad. We had rather a decent time in Chawton. There was a game of football between some of our fellows and the Buffs, but there seemed to be about 80 on a side. There was another game in progress, too; two fellows got in a ring, each tied with a string of equal length to a peg in the centre. One had a bell which he rang and the other had a little bag with hich he tried to hit him. Both were blindfolded and it was rather amusing to watch them.

The next morning we struck our tents, had breakfast and started out on the march again. We stopped about the same distance to Livingston Park, a little distance from a hamlet called Itchen Abbas, or about three miles from Abresford. This was a little town and the people in it all turned out and gave us a good reception; we marched right through, however. That noon my feet were rather sore. I had five blisters on them, which were rather inconvenient. They got in such cunning places too—between your little toe, on your heel, and all over. When you put your foot down you seem to be stepping on gravel. Quite a few other fellows have sore feet, too, but you wouldn't know it. We were reviewed by the Duke of Connaught yesterday afternoon. Last night one of the Lincolnshire Regiment was killed and another hurt. He was driving a water cart when the horses bolted, throwing the driver off, the wheel passing over his head. One of the horses broke its leg and it had to be shot.

TO-NIGHT'S CONCERT

Read the following press notices on the Canadian Jubilee Singers, who are appearing at the Conservatory of Music this evening, under the auspices of the A.Y.P.A. of St. John's church:

Evansville, Wis.

Standing room was at a premium in the M. E. Church Wednesday evening, all being so anxious to listen to the Canadian Jubilee Singers, whose notoriety had gone before them and none were disappointed, for the singing, recitations, and entire entertainment gave such general satisfaction that several went from this city to Oregon to listen to them there the following evening.—The Enterprise.

Cedar Falls, Ia.

The Canadian Jubilee Singers gave a most interesting and enjoyable concert at the M. E. Church Saturday night. A large audience greeted them and everybody was pleased with the programme and the excellent rendition given. Sunday night they gave a sacred concert in the M. E. church and a large edifice would not hold all who desired to listen to the melody of these people. The entire company possesses well-trained voices, and the entertainment was one of genuine merit. The Epworth League, under whose auspices the concerts were given, is to be congratulated over the success of their venture. The members of the company are cultured, refined people and made a most excellent impression, aside from their musical ability.—Cedar Falls Record.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Do not forget the Rugby meeting at the Y.M.C.A. to-morrow night, when members of the Association who are interested in this line of sport are requested to meet in the club room of the Association at 8 pm.

The Senior "Gym" class will hold its opening session this evening at 8 p.m. If you are contemplating joining this class, get into your "Gym" togs and come along to-night and get in on the ground floor.

The senior business men's class will open Tuesday, Oct. 4, at 5.15 p.m. Several of the business men of the city have signified their intention of joining this class. This class is arranged especially for the busy man, who feels he needs exercise. You need the exercise. We need you. So come along Tuesday, at 5.15 and get in line.

A most generous offer has just been made to the Physical Department of the local Association by one of our city's business men in the person of Mr. Wm. Lech, who has presented a trophy to the Association for all-round swimming and general proficiency in life saving.

This line of physical activities will be in charge of Mr. W. O. Taylor. Mr. Taylor, for a number of years, was one of the leading swimmers of the Montreal Swimming Club, which is sufficient guarantee of his ability to look after this end of affairs.

This along with the excellent trophy, should make this line of our work not only attractive, but should go a long way toward helping to develop useful men to have in any community, men who are able to save life and restore the apparantely drowned. The Association feel very grateful to Mr. Lech for his practical appreciation of the service which the Association is endeavouring to render to the men and boys of Peterborough.

MILLIINERY

A great painter was once asked what he mixed with his paints. His reply was "brains sir."

A few ribbons, lace and plumes alone will not make Millinery.

But when you mix these with artistic skill, you have a creation that is worthy of admiration.

Miss Noble, our head milliner, is an artist of rare skill She makes a study of faces and figures and is thus able to produce harmonious effects.

During the past month our Millinery Parlours were just like a reception, so many old and new friends greeted Miss Noble with whole-hearted delight to see her back to Peterborough again.

In bewildering array on all sides are the dainty Parisian and the noted New York models.

Hundreds of varying styles and never two alike.

We feel grateful to the ladies for the appreciation:

If you haven't been here come down and see us. You will be more than pleased.

GREER WILL HAVE HELP

Godevich, Oct. 3.- Provincial Inspector Greer returned to Toronto from Goderich on Saturday after spending a week on the Anderson case, in order to have a conference with Attorney General Foy and Supt. Rogers.

The authorities have determined to leave no stone unturned to locate the murderer of young Lizzie Anderson, and it is understood that another officer will be assigned to the case to assist Inspector Greer. Whatever information has been obtained during the week is being carefully guarded, although rumors of important developments at the inquest on Wednesday are current.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES

TELLER ACCUSED

Brockville, Oct. 3.—The Athens Bank case came up again Saturday before Magistrate Deacon. Melville Forrest, former teller of the branch at Athens gave a mass of evidence, detailing how the money had been taken from the cash from time to time. He also verified a number of weekly statements of the bank and statements of deposit ledger balances, which had been signed and certified to by Cughan, that they were false.

Before the court adjourned, Inspector Fitzgibbon of the Farmers' Bank, swore out a warrant for the arrest of Cughan upon a second charge of falsifying the statements of the bank. The magistrate committed Cughan for trial on the first charge of theft, and remanded him to jail for a hearing on the other.

COMMITTED SUICIDE

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 3.—An unknown man committed suicide by going over the American Falls late Saturday. While fully two score people watched in awestruck horror, he waded out into the rapids above the falls from Luna Island and was carried over the cataract. He was well-dressed and apparently about thirty-five years old.

Aviator's Fiancee Suicides.

Paris, Oct. 3.—As a tragic sequel to the death of Edmond Poillot, the French aviator, his fiancee, who has shown almost uncontrollable grief, went to his grave yesterday and fired a bullet into her heart. Poillot was killed on Sept. 25 while making a flight with a passenger.

BIG FIRE IN GODERICH

Goderich, Oct. 3 About nine o'clock Saturday night fire was discovered in the basement of the Goderich Organ Co.'s factory on the corner of East street and Cambria road. The firemen arrived promptly on the scene and managed to keep the fire inside the building until about 10.30 p.m., when the flames broke through the roof.

There was a strong northwest wind blowing, almost a gale, and it looked as though one section of the town was doomed. Help was telephoned for from Clinton and Stratford.

Showers of sparks and blazing pieces of wood were blown as far as a quarter of a mile on the windward side of the fire, and the flames almost reached across the street. It was only by the energy of the firemen and the citizens that the nearby houses were saved, and, had these caught fire, nothing would have saved the eastern portion of the town.

At 11 p.m. the building was one mass of flames, the roof and the top story of the walls having fallen. The firemen now used all their endeavors to save the other building belonging to the company. At midnight the fire was under control, but still blazing briskly, owing to the oil and other inflammable material in the building.

The Clinton and Stratford Fire Companies arrived on the G. T. R. train at 1 a.m., the train being held at Stratford to load their equipment. Although the fire was under complete control of the local firemen when the visitors arrived, they did some good work assisting to extinguish the fire. All the huge lumber piles at the back of the factory were saved.

The building, plant and stock which it contained is a total loss, amounting to about $100,000, covered by the usual insurance.

The fire started in the northeast corner of the building, in the basement near the oil house. The cause can only be conjectured, spontaneous combustion being the most likely explanation. The watchman was the only person in the building at the time, and had made his rounds at 8 o'clock, and found everything O. K. At a few minutes to 9 o'clock, in making his rounds, he smelled smoke, and immediately turned in the alarm.

HE WAS PARALYZED

Mr. William Brennan, Western Hill, St. Catharines, Ont., tells what it feels like to paralyzed. He lost power of speech, face was drawn out of shape, lost flesh, could not sleep. Five doctors failed to help him. Electricity proved ineffective. He used Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food, until his former good health was restored. Face was restored to shape, power of speech returned, and he gained in weight Says he would not return to former condition for all the gold in the country.

Lock-Out Short Lived.

Manchester, Eng., Oct. 3.—The lockout by the Federation of Master Cotton Spinners Saturday of the operatives in 500 mills is likely to be of short duration. George R. Aswith of the Board of Trade, who has the matter of a settlement in hand, has secured the approval of operatives to the revised terms of a compromise proposition, which the employers are expected to accept. Indications are that the mill will soon be re-opened.

Twenty Buildings Destroyed.

Utica, N.Y., Oct. 3.—Entailing a loss of more than $100,000, fire destroyed twenty buildings in the Village of Camden, N.Y., early yesterday. The blaze originated in the Whitney House, a frame structure, and, fanned by a strong wind, spread rapidly. An appeal was sent to Rome for help and members of the fire department and apparatus succeeded in getting control of the blaze after about four hours' hard work.

ARE PICTURES OF HEALTH

Hard Work Has Agreed With the Canadian Militiamen.—Sir Henry Pellatt's Son Is Improving, and Colonel Decides Not to Go Back to England For a Couple of Weeks — Officers Recovering.

Quebec, Oct. 3.—The steamer Canada of the Dominion Line, bringing the Q.O.R. fresh from their English laurels, arrived in port at 10.30 yesterday morning. The commissioner's wharf had been decorated with flags of all nations, on account of the arrival of the regiment.

Earl Grey, accompanied by Lady Grey, stood on the dock and watched the regiment disembark and get into regimental formation. Then he walked in front of each company with Col. Sir Henry Pellatt, and looked the men over. After that he returned to his carriage in front of the corps, mounted that and gave an address. He said:

"I congratulate you, gentlemen, on the parts you have individually and collectively played in what appears to have struck the popular imagination as an almost epoch-making one in the education of the Empire. We have read with pride the reports of the enthusiasm evoked in England by the smartness and efficiency of the Queen's Own, and more especially have we learned with loyal gratification of the royal marks of approval and encouragement the regiment received from our sovereign."

Col. Pellatt is looking the picture of health, having received at sea by wireless good news of his son. He refused to be transferred in midocean from the Canada to the Empress of Britain, to return to England, according to arrangements taken, preferring to stay with his regiment and return his men to Toronto, but he intends to start in eight or ten days from Toronto for London, to bring back his son with him, when he will be well enough to undertake the trip.

Out of thirty-six officers, ten, said Col. Pellatt, has been affected with typhoid fever in England, which, according to him, had been caused by certain poisoned food that they had eaten, or bad water they had drunk somewhere. His son had been very low for some days, but he was considered now as out of danger and progressing very favorably. The latest news says all the officers who have been left in the hospital are in fair way of recovery.

The hard work has done wonders for the men physically. Their friends will be surprised when they get home. During manoeuvres the fat ones lost their superfluous flesh, and all hardened up. Those who arrive home lean can blame it on sickness. The ones who were not sick have spent the week getting fat. It is surprising how plump one can become during a week of inactivity after a long season of hard work. However, the seasick ones have been doing fairly well in the eating line for the past two or three days.

On Tuesday a storm sprang up, and about ninety per cent. of the regiment were sick. In calm weather half the regiment is fed at once and the other half the next. During the storm, and for a couple of days after, there was only one sitting, and there was sparse attendance at that. Thursday the biggest storm since March last swept the ocean, but strange to relate, few were ill. The men had become inured to life on "the briny," and took an interest in watching the huge waves. Consequently the attendance at meals was fairly large.

Missing Men Not Found.

Kenora, Oct. 3.—The return yesterday afternoon of one of the searching party who left five days ago to find the missing men, Charles Jones and Stanley McCanon, who disappeared twelve days ago while hunting on the lake, brought to town only the sad intelligence of the discovery of their canoe upside down in the main channel of Whitefish Bay. Two paddles, besides McCanon's coat and a cap belonging to Jones, were found, making very conclusive evidence as to the fate of the two men.

Freighter Foundered.

Detroit, Oct. 3—The package freighter New York, operated by the New York Steamship Co. of this city, foundered yesterday morning in Thunder Bay, off Point Aux Barques, Lake Michigan. Her crew was picked up in yawls by the steamer Matagla, bound for Cleveland.

Marine men here think the freighter mentioned is "The City of New York," which was bought some years ago by George Plunkett of Cobourg.

100,000 Received Papal Blessing.

Philadelphia, Oct. 3.—More than 100,000 persons in this city received the papal blessing from Cardinal Cincento Vanutelli, legate of Pope Pius X., when he and other high dignitaries of the Roman Catholic Church attended the dedication of the first Greek Catholic Ruthenian cathedral in the United States, and the laying of the corner-stone of the new edifice for St. Patrick's Church.

Engine Upset at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Oct. 3.—A Canadian Northern switching engine ran down a St. Boniface street car in Norwood Saturday and upset, and the rear trucks of the trolley car were torn off. The car was crowded with passengers and great excitement was caused. Dr. A. Meindls of Winnipeg cut his hand by jumping through a broken window but the other passengers escaped injury.

City Hall Burned.

Three Rivers, Que., Oct. 3.—The City Hall was partly destroyed by fire a three o'clock yesterday morning. The fire originated in the theatre room.

Population of St. Catharines.

St. Catharines, Ont. 3.—The assessors' roll, returned to the office of the city clerk Saturday, shows the population of St. Catharines to be 13,859, an increase of 595 since last year. The total assessment is $6,579,261, an increase of $371,768 over the previous year.

NINETEEN ARE DEAD

Unknown Scoundrels Dynamite Building and Cause Great Loss of Life to Non-Union Paper In California, and Proprietor Says Union Men Did It — Three Similar Attempts Made In the City.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 3—The building occupied by The Times Publishing Co. was destroyed by fire Saturday morning and there is a heavy death list, estimated at between 15 and 20.

An attempt to destroy the residence of Gen. Harrison Gray Otis, publisher of The Times, by an infernal machine was made following the explosion which earlier destroyed the buildings and plant of The Times. A suspected effort to blow up the auxiliary plant of that paper is also reported. It was however, in the destruction of The Times' buildings that the only serious damage was done.

The fire was proceeded by an explosion and immediately the building was enveloped in flames. The explosion occurred on the second floor of an addition to the old building.

The editorial rooms were on the third floor, but it is believed the greater part of the men on this floor escaped death.

One of the reportorial staff, so far as could be learned, was in the local room at the time of the explosion.

The mortality was not confined to The Times' employes, for one fireman lost his life.

A powerful infernal machine was also found Saturday in the residence of Secretary Zeechandlaar, secretary of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association.

Gen. Otis, who is on his way home from Mexico, and other responsible heads of The Times, unequivocally charge The Times' building disaster and the narrowly averted attempts at further destruction of life and property to labor union sources. The leaders of union labor repudiate the accusation, and offer all aid in their power to detect the culprits.

The Times made public the following telegram from Gen. Otis: "Your wire, with its terrible news, reached me this morning. I am amazed at the desperation of the criminal conspirators in destroying The Times' building, and slaying its loyal defenders, whose loss I deeply depiore, but The Times itself will live on, bravely defending the vital and essential principle of industrial freedom, under which law must yet triumph in the entire nation." (Signed) Harrison Gray Otis.

For twenty years, following a quarrel with the Typographical Union, and the changing of The Times to a non-union paper, Gen. Otis has fought unionism. He has been ably seconded in this fight by the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, whose secretary's home was the object of a frustrated dynamiting attempt Saturday.

The president of the local Typographical Union issued orders that union printers may work with the non-union printers of The Times in any of the local newspaper offices in setting up copy for The Times. This was announced after a consultation of the union men and the managers of other newspapers.

The City Council met in special session Saturday and appropriated $25,000 to determine the cause of The Times' explosion, and provided a reward of $2,500 for the capture of those responsible for the outrage.

Mayor Alexander and the City Council, meeting with other city officers and labor union leaders during the day, agreed to call off the union labor parade, planned for next Monday night as a demonstration against the local conditions alleged to be hostile to the interests of union labor.

The death list of the disaster probably will total 19. There are four known dead, and 15 are missing, whose bodies probably lie in the still smoking ruins of The Times building.

The entire building was in ruins at 1.45, and but two walls were standing. In addition to the complete plant of The Times, the building contained the large jobbing and commercial plant of the American Engraving Co. The property loss is estimated at $500,000.

The force of the explosion was exerted on the mechanical departments of the paper, and most of the dead and injured were members of these departments.

Managing Editor Harry E. Andrews said: "The Times building was destroyed by dynamite this morning by the enemies of industrial freedom. The Times itself cannot be destroyed. It will soon be reissued from its auxiliary plant, and will fight its battles to the last."

Two men were arrested about two blocks north of The Times' building, and are being held for identification.

The Times employed non-union printers and maintained a large battery of linotypes for teaching operators in the use of these machines.

Recently union labor forces have been engaged in a life-and-death struggle in Los Angeles with the merchants inclined to favor the open shop system.

What Will Directors Do?

London, Oct. 3.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Many rumors are afloat regarding what the Canadian Pacific directors may announce regarding land either in the form of an extra dividend of a bond bonus. It is admitted that the directors may do nothing, but it is suggested that the shareholders would not be inclined to surrender everything to posterity.

Aeroplane for Warship.

Paris, Oct. 3.—Admiral Boue de Lapeyere, the Minister of Marine, has ordered the re-arrangement of the superstructure of the torpedo depot ship La Foudre, for the accommodation of aeroplanes. This is the first step in the practical employment of aeroplanes in the navy.

Tablet to Goldwin Smith.

Ithaca, N.Y., Oct. 3.—Cornell University is to erect a memorial tablet in Goldwin Smith Hall, in honor of the late Prof. Goldwin Smith, upon which will be inscribed a copy of the clause in his will bequeathing more than $900,000 unconditionally to Cornell.

T. C. S. RUGBY TEAM TO PLAY COLLEGIATE HERE

The Collegiate Institute rugby team played a practice game on Saturday afternoon with the Rough Riders. The students won handily and their team so far looks as strong as last year.

Cat Ray's aggregation will have their first match of the season on Saturday when the first team of Trinity College, Port Hope, will be here. The Central Park representatives have laid out a hard schedule of practices this week and hope to defeat their old rivals from the lake town. The game should be well worth seeing.

The annual cross country runs of the Collegiate Institute in connection with the annual sports are taking place this afternoon over the usual course.

The annual field day of sports under the auspices of the Collegiate Athletic Society will be held on Friday afternoon of this week. An unusually interesting programme is being arranged.

BATTLING NELSON IS AFTER AD WOLGAST

Hokewisch, Ill., Sept. 29.—If Battling Nelson survives the automobile trip he is planning, he will be back in the ring not later than February or March, providing again that one Ad. Wolgast decides to fight, as becomes a real champion, and quit the stalling which has characterized his every action since he won the title from Nelson on Washington's birthday.

Nelson, in an interview given out here, seems determined to force Wolgast into a return match. The Dane, as usual is going about the affair in a businesslike manner, and believes that a strong campaign of publicity will soon create a demand on the part of the public which Wolgast cannot afford to ignore.

"Since winning the title from me, Wolgast has fought one battle," says Nelson. "That was an easy ten-round no-decision affair with Jack Redmond, a good fighter, but not in the championship running. He has consistently ignored the demands made upon him by myself and other high-grade light-weights and has become known as the champion staller, rather than the champion lightweight. He is a disgrace to the ring. He has now mapped out four imaginary battles to quiet the public, but he has again ignored the man who is most entitled to a battle.

"Any champion who loses a title after the battle I gave Wolgast is entitled to a return match. I gave return matches to Corbett, Britt, Gans, Herrera and, in fact, any man who thought he had a chance after I defeated him. My title was clear out and undisputed. I passed up nobody, while Wolgast, on the other hand, has fought nobody. In forcing him into a return match I am not asking anything unreasonable or any thing that I have denied others. We can fight, and fight to a finish, at Reno and get a barrel of money for it, too.

"I am now starting on an automobile trip with Abdul, the Turk, my trainer and Mr. Tawnes of Kansas City, and will be gone three months. I weigh 150 pounds and have some thing on which to train—a statement I could not make when I fought Wolgast before. The public has always accorded me the distinction of being absolutely on the level, and I am sure the press and public will stand by me in my demands for a return match for my title.

"I have notified John R. Robinson, who is now touring with his own show, the Sam T. Jack company, to start a press compaign immediately against Wolgast, and this interview is the first gun of our battle. Robinson is a master of all arts of my game and he knows my ideas and stand better than anyone else. We will be in constant communication by wire and letter and I am ready to back up any statement he may make regarding a return battle."

Nelson looks in perfect health. His color is better than ever and his three months at Yellowstone park have shown their effects. The Dane is heavy and rugged and filled with all the oldtime confidence and courage that made him champion.

TYPICAL COACHING BY HUGH JENNINGS

Time—The present.

Place—Any American League park where Detroit plays.

Character—Hugh Jennings (by himself.)

Davy Jones walks, "Now, Del, my boys, don't hit it too hard. (One ball.) Yah!" Jennings picks half a dozen blades of grass, carefully separates them, expectorates on his hands, takes a position facing the batter, looking at the ground so he can't see the umpire. (Two balls.) "Ee-Yah! Dat-a-boy, Del," (shaking both fists over his head and kicking out with right foot.) (Three balls.) "Ump de di ah we. (One strike.) That's it, Del; it didn't look good, did it? (Delehanty flies out.) Never mind, Del; you tried hard. Come on, Matty, get hold of one. Yah. Don't hit it too hard, Matty; just a nice single over the first baseman's head. Ee-Yah! (Pulls grass.) Come on, Matty, get started. (Pitcher throwa to first almost getting Jones.) Pret-ty, pret-ty. A miss is as good as a draft from J. Pierp, Davy, my boy. You've got 'em guessing. Wah Whee! Come on, Matty, two and two. He's afraid of you, my boy. (Jones steals.) Now Matty! Now! now! (Matty hits to short.) Come on, Matty! hurry! hurry! HURRY! McIntyre out by a foot.) Almost made it, Matty, my boy. You had 'em scared all right. Oh, oh, OH! See who's here. Now, Sam, hit it easy. Don't kill anybody, Sam. I hate to say what's going to happen here in a minute. Whee-e! Um didi dum dum. Wah! (Cautioned by umpire for making too much noise.) I beg your pardon, Mr. Umpire. (Picks grass, shakes fists at ump and grins at the crowd.) Wow! Oh, say, if you ever hit that one, pal, they's have to call out the police to find the ball. (Claps hands.) Now Sam, hit this one as hard as you please. Wah! Be sure and touch every base when you go around, Sam. (Crawford flies out.) Come on, George, we want this one, you know. Wow! That-a-boy, George. I like the old pep. (Looks away when umpire wig-wags him to be quiet, and carefully picks grass.) You cawn't get it! You cawn't get it! (To the catcher after a foul fly.) Nice stop, Mr. Umpire! Zing! Right on the seam, George! Hurry, boy, hurry! Looks runny, doesn't it? Come on, Donie, my boy. Don't hit it very hard—just over the infield. It don't make any difference where you hit it, you know. Hit it somewhere. Casey! Now, Casey, be sure and touch every base. Hit it wherever you want to, Casey. Whee! That's it. You've got to get 'em over for thta boy, Ralph! Ralph! Just like Casey did, Ralph. Now, Casey, don't stop at third; just keep on going when Matty hits it. To da da dada de dum. Wow! Nice catch, my boy; that beat us out of a run."

Aged Woman Found Dead And Her Money Gone

NEW YORK, SEPT. 30.—An investigation, on the theory of murder for robbery, has been begun by the police of Long Island City into the death of Mrs. Margaret Geib, of No. 237 Flushing Avenue, Asteria, who was found dead in her home yesterday in circumstances indicating that death had not come from natural causes.

Mrs. Geib, who was sixty-eight years old, was a widow and lived alone in a three room flat over a paint shop conducted by Louis Schroeder. Schroeder went to the Graff Street police station in Astoria, yesterday, and said he had not seen Mrs. Geib since Wednesday, and that he believed an examination of her rooms would show she had met with an accident.

The door of the flat was forced and Mrs. Geib was found lying on the floor of her kitchen. Her dress was open at the throat as if she had torn it away while struggling for breath.

Coroner Schaeffer was called in, and after a superficial examination gave it as his opinion that Mrs. Geib had died of apoplexy, and issued a permit for the removal of her body to Nelson's morgue, in Long Island City. An autopsy will be held there to-day.

SUSPICIONS AROUSED

Up to this point there had seemed to be nothing suspicious about the woman's death, but just before the body was taken to the morgue, Mrs. Geib's son, John Geib, a florist, living at No. 131 Jackson Avenue, Long Island City, came hurrying to the mother's death. He had been informed by a policeman, who was sent to his place of business, but was not able to find him immediately.

From John Geib the police first heard what prompted them to a fuller investigation into the circumstances of the woman's death.

Geib asked at once that they see if a leather bag containing several thousand dollars was tied by a chain about her neck, and when he was informed that Coroner Schaeffer had examined the body and found no money or other valuables he asked that the apartment be searched for the money or for a bank book.

His mother, he said, recently had received about $4,000 from the city as an award in condemnation proceedings following the acquisition by the city of a strip of property owned by her near the Astoria approach to the Queensboro Bridge. He had advised her to place the money in a bank, but she had refused and had sewn it in a leather bag which for more than a month she had worn by a chain about her neck. That she had the money and was in the habit of carrying it about with her in the manner described was common knowledge in the neighborhood, he declared.

WOMAN'S DRESS OPEN

As soon as he learned that Mrs. Geib's dress had been found open at the throat he declared himself more certain than ever that a crime had been committed. It was possible, he thought, that his mother might have deposited the money in a bank within the week just passed, but he said he had frequently urged her to do so, but she had refused.

A careful search of the rooms after Mrs. Geib's body had been removed failed to reveal either a bank book, money or any memeranda indicating the deposit of money.

On the other hand nothing about the place supported a theory that the home had been entered forcibly or that Mrs. Geib had been attacked. She apparently had been dead several days. A careful investigation and the autopsy that will be held to-day will, it is expected settle definitely whether or not Mr. Beib's theory of robbery and murder is correct.

Vandals Used Blue Paint.

Berlin, Oct. 3.—The opening of the new $3,500,000 town hall at Dresden by King Frederick Augustus of Saxony Saturday was marred by the offence of a gang of vandals during the night.

The magnificent white marble flight of steps, 72 meters long, was painted blue throughout. It was only by the efforts of an army of workmen that the building was made partly presentable for the ceremony.

To Form Part of Line.

Winnipeg, Oct. 3—It has been learned here that the Canadian Northern line, now in course of construction northwesterly efrom North Battleford, will be diverted to the west to connect with the Yellowhead Pass line at St. Albert, north of Edmonton, and will form a section of the main transcontinental line. The road will open up a magnificent farming country between North Battleford and St. Albert.

Drunk on Duty.

Winnipeg, Oct. 3.—John W. Elger, motorman on the street railway, pleaded guilty in the Police Court Saturday to a charge of being drunk while on duty, and was fined $50 and costs or one months.

STRATHORMOND STABLES ONCE MORE SHOW THEIR CLASS

At the Montreal Horse Show on Friday, the Montreal Herald states that the high steppers, "Loch Ryan Princess" and "Perfect Dream," owned by Hon. Mr. Stratton, of Peterborough were adjudged the best pair hitched to a spider Stanhope or other appropriate trap, giving them a win over the well known local pair, "Fluffy" and Frills." In the Friday afternoon and evening events, Hon. Mr. Stratton's horses carried off the following prizes:

Class 50—Pair of mares or geldings to be shown before a demi-mail spider or other appropriate trap, for gentlemen's use—1st Hon. Mr. Stratton Peterborough, with "Loch Ryan Princess and Perfect Dream."

Class 57—For the best collection of three harness horses, not under 15 hands, to be shown in single harness—1st Hon. Mr. Stratton, Peterborough, with "Premier," "My Pride and "Perfect Dream."

Saturday's Results.

Class 52—Judging five harness tandems not over 15 hands, two inches—1st Hon. Mr. Stratton, Peterborough, with "Loch Ryan Princess" and "Perfect Dream."

Class 56—Judging two four-in-hands—1st Hon. Mr. Stratton, Peterborough, with "My Pride" and "Perfect Dream," and "Premier" and "Loch Ryan Princess." These four horses were adjudged the best four-in-hand that have ever been shown in the Montreal arena. They were the admiration of the great crowd present, and when the ribbons were placed the horses acted as if they knew what they were receiving.

Mr. And Mrs. Allen Honoured By Their Douro Friends

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Allen, of Douro, was the scene of a pleasing event on Friday evening, when about a hundred of their friends gatahered to say farewell on the eve of their departure for Vancouver B.C., and to show their appreciation of their many acts of kindness. Mr. Allen was born in Douro and has resided there for sixty years and his wife is also an old resident. They are known fro mone end of the district to the other and have a host of friends to whom their departure from the community brings a distinct sense of loss.

Although shadowed by the sense of imminent parting a very pleasant time was spent. Mr. Allen was presented with a handsome suit case and a pair of gold cuff links, while Mrs. Allen was the recipient of some costly pieces of silver. The presentation was made by Mrs. Patrick Fitzpatrick, while the following address was read by Mr. Whibbs:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Allen,—It is with feelings of deep regret that we assemble here this evening to bid you farewell.

Since you are about to leave for your new home in the West, we feel that we cannot permit you to go without expressing our appreciation of your many acts of kindness while amongst us.

In you we know we are losing very dear friends, whom it will be difficult to replace. You have ever been ready to help those in difficulty and cheer those in trouble. Your company ha salways been a source of enjoyment to us and many happy remembrances have we of pleasant days together.

We ask you to accept these gifts as a slight token of esteem from your many friends who join in wishing you all success in your new home and who pray that God's blessing may be with you in all your undertakings.

Signed on behalf of your friends—
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moher,
Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Moher, Sr.
Mr. and Mrs. James T. Collins.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen and their family leave for their new home in the West to-morrow. Their friends in Peterborough county will wish them every happiness on the Coast.

PONTYPOOL MAN FINED FOR BEING DISORDERLY

A man giving his name as George Bailey, and his home as Pontypool, was up in the police court this morning on a charge of being drunk and disorderly in a public place. On Saturday he was in a local hotel and was the instigator of a quarrel between another man in the hotel and himself. The proprietor tried to call up the police station on the 'phone, but Bailey grabbed him and held him, saying he had reasons to keep him there. Bailey pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $2.00 and costs, amounting to $6.50. He did not have the money, but stated he could get it from a friend at Bridgenorth. He was taken down to the cell until the money could be gotten.

GUILD OF GOOD FELLOWSHIP WAS LAUNCHED YESTERDAY

The Guild of Good Fellowship, of which Rev. Chas. Carpenter, assistant at St. John's church, is the sponsor, was launched at the Princess theatre yesterday afternoon and the maugural meeting may be considered as a complete success. There was a splendid attendance of men, considering the project was a new one and they displayed much interest in the service, which was hearty and free from formality in its nature. It was opened with the singing of a hymn in which an orchestra assisted.

Rev. Mr. Carpenter delivered an interesting address, taking as his subject, "The Making of a Man." The chief features in his remarks were the necessity of development of one's capabilities, so as to bring out the best that was in a man. He advised his hearers not to be one-sided men, but to study themselves. Self-research was absolutely necessary if a man was to succeed. Mr. Carpenter dealt with his subject under the headings of physical, moral, spiritual and intellectual.

The services will be held in the Princess theatre every Sunday afternoon between 3 and 4 o'clock. It is proposed to have a discussion, in which every one is cordially invited to take part. The Guild of Good Fellowship promises to be a great success, and Rev. Mr. aCrpenter is to be commended upon the interest he is displaying in the men of the city.

WHY THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN CITY AND PORT HOPE WHEAT PRICES?

Farmers are anxiously inquiring why wheat sold in Port Hope on Saturday at $1.00 per bushel, while the market price in Peterborough was 90 cents per bushel. There must be some answer to this reasonable question, assuming that the facts are as stated, and there is no room for doubt on this point. Would not our Board of Trade do well to make some inquiry to discover the cause. This would be a big step towards providing a remedy for a condition that militates against the value of Peterborough as a farmers' market and a big benefit to our own local merchants and the city generally.

ARRESTED FOR CHILD MURDER INFANT FOUND IN TRUNK

Examiner Special.

SHERBROOKE, QUE., OCT. 3. — May Doherty, aged 20, has been arrested on a Coroner's warrant, charging her with child murder. She was a domestic and left her trunk at a local hotel. When the proprietor opened it to seize goods for board, he found a male child strangled.

CAMPAIGN WILL BE KEPT UP BY THE Y. M. C. A.

The campaign for 500 new members for the Y.M.C.A. closed on Saturday night with 310 new names added to the roll. One would suppose from the above statement that the workers would feel discouraged. This, however, is not the case, for they realise now that ten days was all too short a time in which to land such a number of new men. So many men signified their intention of joining at a later date, that the members are going to continue right on quietly interviewing the balance of the men in the city until they have secured all who can be induced to join.

Mrs. Papps is in a serious condition and may not recover.

SOAP SCATTERED

Soap took a drop to-day, but in the article itself, not in price. One of the Canadian Express Company's waggons, with a load of soap, was standing at the C. P. R. freight sheds and the horse started off with the load itself. Just as it turned on to George street for the north, the vehicle overturned, throwing the soap in all directions. Some of the boxes burst and the soap was strewn all over the street. A number of willing hands assisted in gathering up the soap, and not much damage was done. The horse was caught before it ran far.

Many Lives Lost In Gales.

London, Oct. 4.—Many lives are reported lost in terrific gales which have lashed the North Sea, hurling several wrecks on the coast in the past twenty-four hours.

The steamer Welbome foundered in the gale off Cromer and was sunk The engineers were drowned and several of the stokers were reported missing. The others on board were saved after a long fight against the sea. Despatches to mercantile marine agencies yesterday reported that several other vessels, most of them fishing craft, are believed to have been lost.

Near 15,000 Mark.

Berlin, Oct. 4.—Assessment Commissioner Huelmergard has submitted the assessment returns for 1910, showing that Berlin has had one of the most prosperous years in its history. The population shows an increase of 936, making a total of 14,600, just 400 short of the necessary 15,000 before Berlin enters the ranks of cityhood. The total assessment amount- to $6,764,551, an increase of $325,433. There were 290 births recorded. Dogs number 186.

MANY LIVES ARE LOST

Thirty-One Men Cannot Be Accounted For In Catastrophe to Barge In the Hudson River — Young Midshipman Saves Sixteen Lives — No Bodies Have Yet Been Recovered — Memorial Service.

New York, Oct. 4.—Six sailors included in the tentative death list caused by the swamping of a barge being towed to the battleship New Hampshire in the Hudson River on Saturday night, are reported safe today. Five others reported as missing, but not recognized as being aboard the barge, turned up safely. This cuts the list of probable dead to 24, with eight missing, 31 in all.

In the face of these cheerful developments, two other drownings among sailors of the fleet occurred yesterday. One of the crew of the Kansas, believed to have been Eugene Audit, gave his life in attempting to save a young woman visitor to the battleship. She was rescued, but he perished. Last night a sailor, cleaning the side of the hospital ship Solace lost his balance, and was swept under the vessel by the tide.

Grappling for the lost New Hampshire men brought no results yesterday. One sailor's body was found, but examination showed it to be that of Joseph V. Dudley, a coal-passer from the repair ship Panther. He had been missing since Sept. 28.

Memorial services for the dead were held on the New Hampshire yesterday afternoon.

On the quarter-deck and in the forecastle the talk Sunday on the New Hampshire was the heroism of Midshipman Godfrew de Courcelles Chevalier, who commanded the steamer and sailing launch on Saturday evening.

Probably never in the history of marine rescues has one man succeeded in saving so many lives in one evening as did this gritty midshipman of the U. S. navy.

At first he worked in utter darkness, guided only by the cries of men who were drowning. His work was made easier at the start by the men following his directions when he reached them and helping in his efforts to save, but later, as the struggling sailors became more and more exhausted, his work became increasingly difficult.

Several times he was grabbed around the neck and partly throttled by terror-stricken sailors and then dragged under, only to fight himself free and once more go after his man.

His men on the launch implored him to give up and come on board, but Chevalier's reply was to swim off in search of another man in need of help. Slowly the number of those he rescued mounted up. More and more apparent it became that he was working on nerve, desperation and grit only.

He dragged his sixteenth man to the side of the steamer, and as the latter was hauled on board Chevalier once more started to swim off. He was not quick enough, for one of the steamer's crew reached over, and, with the assistance of another, managed to haul him on board. Chevalier did not know what he was doing; probably he had not been actually conscious for some minutes, a fixed determination dominating his mind and driving him machine-like to his work. He fought wildly to go overboard again. "They are drowning out there!" "They are drowning out there!" he cried over and over.

By Wireless 5,000 Miles.

New York, Oct. 4.—A new long distance record for wireless transmission is claimed by the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co., which announced yesterday that the officials were informed in a despatch from London that Mr. Marconi, who is now in the Argentine Republic, has successfully received signals direct from Glace Bay, Nova Scotia, and from Clifton, Ireland, although the power station, now almost completed, in the Argentine Republic, the distance is estimated at 5,600 miles.

Has Concussion of Brain.

Guelph, Oct. 4.—A St. Andrew's College student named Lerge, a member of the Rugby team that was here on Saturday playing with the O. A. College team, was accidentally hurt during the game and sustained concussion of the brain. He was removed to the General Hospital, where the doctors have good hopes of his recovery, though they state that he will have to remain there under careful treatment for a week or more.

The Plague in Mauretius.

London, Oct. 4.—Ten deaths occurred from plague in Mauretius Island in the week ending Sept. 29, according to a cablegram received yesterday from the governor. There were twenty new cases developed in the same time. Mauretius is a British colonial possession in the Indian Ocean.

Dined With King Frederick.

Copenhagen, Oct. 4.—King Frederick received Brooker T. Washington, and conversed at length with him on the subject of the colored race yesterday. Last night he dined at the palace, meeting the members of the royal family, including the Queen-Mother, Alexandra.

Lisbon, Oct. 4.—Prof. Bombarda, a Republican deputy and militant anti-clerical, was shot and dangerously wounded yesterday, by an army lieutenant, who was formerly a patient in Bombarda's hospital.

Operation on Senator.

Rochester, Minn., Oct. 4.—United States Senator Lafollette entered St. Mary's Hospital yesterday afternoon to prepare for an operation to-day for gall stones.

WELCOME QUEEN'S OWN

Sir Henry Pellatt In His Reply to the Civic Welcome, Says That the Q. O. R. Have Learned Many Things and Are Full of Admiration For the British Soldier—Managed to Hold Their Own.

Toronto, Oct. 4.—To say that the home-coming of the Queen's Own Rifles was an auspicious occasion would be to put it far too mildly. Seldom has a great civic event been attended with more enthusiasm or carried out with greater punctuality and success. From the moment the men detrained at North Toronto to the time when, surrounded by their happy relatives they broke ranks in the armories and scattered to their homes, it was one long, spontaneous, glorious welcome home from the fifty thousand or more who were out to see them to the boys in khaki who had been showing the regulars over home the sort of men they bred in the militia of Canada. The station platform, notwithstanding the admonitions of the police, "only uniformed men allowed through here," was completely filled with the eager relatives of the regiment. To the east of the station building, a temporary stand had been erected, for the use of the mayor, the City Council, and the notables of the regiment, and around this were clustered his worship, the entire Board of Control, and a liberal sprinkling of lesser lights in the shape of aldermen, all resplendent in top hat and frock coat. Others who were on hand included Hon. J. J. Foy, Hon. Dr. Reaume, Col. Grasett, Col. Delamere, Hugh Blain, Col. Langton, Major Caldwell, Magistrate Kingsford, Prof. Van der Smissen, J. W. Curry, K.C., Hon. J. S. Duff ex-Mayor Oliver, and Norman Macrae, Sir Henry's partner.

First among the returned wanderers came Lt.-Col. James Mason, who was greeted by a hearty handshake from all present, and before he had finished greeting all his friends, half the regiment had detrained and Col. Pellatt was in the midst of an uproarious throng. He was quickly led to the front of the little stand, where he could look down on the serried ranks of his followers, who were by now drawn up, line upon line, and, occupying all the ground to the south of the station yard.

All having been settled in their appointed places, an expectant hush fell on the assemblage, and Mayor Geary advancing to the front of the stand, delivered the civic address.

Amid a great burst of applause, Sir Henry Pellatt, looking tanned and very soldierly in his spic and span khaki, stepped forward to make reply. He said, in part:

"During our visit to the Motherland we have had very great pleasure in acknowledging many grand and enthusiastic receptions, but I can safely say, your worship, that not one has been appreciated more than the magnificent reception tendered to us to-day by our fellow-citizens of the grand old City of Toronto, our home.

"Our welcome to the Motherland was truly British with one exception only, that the old traditional British reserve was cast to the winds and we were made to feel at once that we were heartily welcome.

"Our men have been on their mettle, the watchword being 'Steady, Queen's Own, the Buffs are looking.' The good name of the regiment, the reputation of our city, and, above all, of the Dominion we were representing were kept ever in mind, and if we have won the respect of the British regulars with whom we were so closely associated on the manoeuvres, then truly our imperial undertaking has fulfilled all the purpose that we of the Queen's Own could desire or hope for."

At the south entrance of the armories stood Gen. Cotton, Col. Galloway, Col. W. C. Macdonald, Col. Chadwick, Col. Robertson, and a number of other officers of the local regiments, and great was the rejoicing as they fraternized with their brother officers returned from over the ocean.

The total cost of Col. Pellatt's magnificent gift to his regiment can only be roughly estimated at present, but it is safe to say that he will have to foot a bill of from sixty to seventy-five thousand dollars before all expenses are paid, while incidental expenses to the men themselves and to the Government will amount to another thirty thousand.

Poison In the Gravy.

Chatham, Oct. 4.—Five members of the family of T. S. Stegmann, together with a guest, were poisoned on Saturday night by eating gravy stiffened with flour in which rough on rats had been mixed. The flour had been placed on a pantry shelf. The cook did not know the poison was in it. All the victims will likely recover.

Big Increase In Exports.

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 4.—The largest total in the history of the colony was reached by the exports from Newfoundland during the past fiscal year. The figures show that the amount was about a million dollars larger than that of the previous year. Pulp and paper exports amounted to $750,000.

Want City to Offer Inducement.

Chatham, Oct. 4.—The Lyons Tailoring Co. of Hamilton have approached the city, with a view to finding out if Chatham will offer any inducements to them to move their plant here. Windsor has already made them a proposition.

Prince Rupert, Oct. 4.—C. H. Gilroy and Alexander Allen, both civil engineers, were drowned Saturday in Woodworth Lake, when their canoe upset. Gilroy has relatives in Regina and Winnipeg. Allen was a native of Scotland.

U.S. HAVE GUNS ON BIG LAKES

The Nashville, Which Was Recently Brought Up From the Sea, Is the Scene of Regular Work With Real Shells and a Real Marine Target — Rush-Bagot Treaty Is Coming Up For Discussion.

Ottawa, Oct. 4.—A display story, in a Chicago Sunday paper, telling of big gun practice there for the first time by the men of the U.S.S. Nashville, a cruiser attached to the naval militia, revives the discussion concerning the usefulness that is served by the Rush-Bagot treaty that was supposed to prevent just such a sort of thing in the great lakes.

For the first time since the Nashville was brought inland from the Atlantic coast the Illinois naval reserves are, it seems, to have an opportunity to discharge regulation war shells from its batteries of four-inch guns and six pounders and three pounders. Until yesterday the volunteer tars have had no real opportunity to test themselves and their weapons. Although the trim and business-like Nashville has been used by the reserves for two seasons efficient target practice on shipboard has not been a possibility.

Expert "gun pointers" indeed have been developed among the Chicago ship divisions. They have had all their practice by means of "sub-targets," with which only 22 calibre rifles were discharged. Last fall the officers and crew attempted some real range work at sea, but met with baffling difficulties both on account of weather and insufficient target arrangements.

This season the U. S. Government, which has taken the naval reserve boys of the country close to its official heart, came to the rescue. A regulation navy target, the kind used by marksmen on the men-of-war in smashing world records with thirteen inch devastation tubes, was shipped to Chicago last week.

The Nashville's armament is thoroughly up-to-date, in contrast with the obsolete allotment of ordnance usually doled to a militiaman. The ship's death-dealing equipment consists of the following:

Eight 4-inch guns, two 6-pounders, two 3-pounders, two 1-pounders, and two Colt automatics.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

"I'm so discouraged," said the sick lady across the street. "Here I've been dieting and doing without candy and eating eggs, and taking exercise and cold baths, and doing everything else that doctor tells me to for six months, and I'm nowhere near well. I don't believe he's much good.

The sick lady across the way broke down after six years of overwork. For six years she worked in an office where she had to work overtime three or four days in the week. For six years she abused her stomach by hurried breakfasts, followed by wild dashes for the train, and frequent cold and hasty lunches at noon. For six years years she failed to take enough exercise and outdoor air. At the end of the time she broke down completely.

And now after six months of hygienic living, she is complaining because she is not entirely well yet. It takes two or three days to tear down a house that it takes as many weeks to build.

Just why should one expect to reverse the ratio and and build up one's body house in about one-hundredth the time it took to tear it down?

Does it seem exactly sane or reasonable or fair?

I heard a woman making a very extravagant purchase the other day. Or rather, I heard her telling about it.

It didn't cost her but fifty cents, but I think it was one of the most extravagant purchases I ever heard about.

This was the way of it:

We were on shipboard. The lady's ten-year-old son was sick and the stewardess had advised castor oil.

"Didn't he make an awful fuss about taking it?" someone questioned.

"Oh, no," she answered, cheerily. "I suppose he would have, but when he starts to make a fuss, I always tell him I'll give him fifty cents if he will be good, so that's what I did to-day."

Many things lose their value if they are bought. Friendship is one of them and obedience is another. The woman who buys her child's obedience instead of receiving it as her due is making a most extravagant purchase, because she is laying up trouble for herself by every cent she spends that way.

I was telling someone of the incident and my feelings about it.

"But I think it was nice to give the little boy fifty cents for taking anything so nasty as castor oil," she protested. "I don't see why he shouldn't have a reward."

Neither do I. But that wasn't a reward. It was a bribe. He wasn't given it because he had been good. He was offered it on condition he would be good.

And I think there's a world of difference between those two.

Ruth Cameron

By Louis Tracy, (Copyrighted)

"My methods cannot have been so ill-considered if they have brought me two such daughters," he said, with a mournful smile. "But there! I am only deluding myself into a postponement of a painful duty. My secret must out—to you, at any rate. When I married your mother, Constance, I was an attache at the British Embassy in Paris. Her maiden name was Madeleine Nanette de Courtray. Her family, notwithstanding the French sound of her name, was almost wholly English. They were Jersey people, recruited from British stock, but two generations of English husbands were compelled to assume the style de Courtray owing to entailed estates on the island. There is something quaint in the idea, as it worked out. The place was only a small farm. When we were married the stipulation lapsed, because it was more advisable for me to retain my own name. I was then the heir to a title I can now claim. I am legally and lawfully Sir Stephen Brand, ninth baronet, of Lesser Bambledon, in Northumberland."

"And you became a lighthouse keeper!"

It was Enid who found breath for the exclamation. Constance braced herself for that which was to come. That Stephen Brand was a well-born man was not a new thing in their intelligence.

"Yes, a cleaner of lamps and transmitter of ship's signals. Have we been less happy?" A most vehement "No!" was the answer.

"Don't run away with the idea that I was, therefore, endowed with ample means. There are baronets poorer than some crossing-sweepers. The estate was encumbered. During my father's life, during my own until five years ago, it yielded only a thousand a year. Even now, after fifteen years of retrenchment—you both forget that whilst I was stationed at Flamborough Head I was absent for a few days to attend my father's funeral—it produces only a little over three thousand. Enough for us, eh, to enjoy life on? Enough to satisfy Lady Margaret's scruples, Enid, as to her son's absurd notion of matrimony? Enough, too, Constance, to mate you to the man of your choice, whatever his position?"

"Dad," murmured Constance, "is there no hope of the old days coming back again?"

"Who can tell? These things are not in mortal ken. I need hardly say that my allowance of one third of the family revenues was barely sufficient to maintain a junior in the diplomatic service. Yet I married, Heaven help me, in the pursuance of an ideal, only to find my ideal realized, after much suffering, on lonely rocks and bleak headlands. With strict economy we existed happily until you were born. My wife, at first, was sufficiently delighted to exchange Jersey society for Paris and the distinguished circle in which we moved there. But you were not many months old until a change came. A Frenchman, a rich fop, began to pay her attentions which turned her head. I do not think she meant any harm. People never do mean harm who accomplish it most fatally. I did that which a man who respects himself loathes to do—I protested. There was a scene, tears, and wild reproaches. Next day the crash came. She endeavoured to mislead me as to an appointment. God knows I only wished to save her, but it was too much to ask me to pass over in silence the schemes of a libertine, though he, too, was infatuated by her beauty. I discovered them in a clandestine meeting, and—and—my blood was hot and the country was France. We fought next morning, and I killed him."

Constance bent her head and kissed his right hand. Here, at least, was a lineal descendant of nine generations of border raiders, who held their swords of greater worth than musty laws.

Brand's eyes kindled. His voice became more vehement. The girl's impulsive action seemed to sanctify the deed.

"I did not regret, I have never regretted, the outcome of the duel. He was mortally wounded, and was carried to his house to die. I fled from Paris to escape arrest, but the woman in whose defence I encountered him behaved most cruelly. She deserted me and went to him. Ask Mrs. Sheppard. She was your English nurse at the time, Constance. It was she who brought you to England. I never met my wife again. I believe, on my soul, that she was innocent of the greater offence. I think she rebelled against the thought that I had slain one who said he worshipped her. Anyhow, she had her price. She remained with him, in sheer defiance of me, until his death, and her reward was his wealth. Were it not for this we might have come together again and striven to forget the past in mutual toleration. The knowledge that she was enriched with that man's gold maddened me. I could not forget that, I loathed all that money could give, the diamonds, the dresses, the insane devices of society to pour out treasure on the vanities of the hour. By idle chance I was drawn to the lighthouse service. It was the mere whim of a friend into whose sympathetic ears I gave my sorrows. It is true I did not intend to devote my whole life to my present occupation. But its vast silences its isolation, its seclusion from the petty, sordid, money-grubbing life ashore, attracted me. I found quiet joys, peaceful days, and dreamless nights in its comparative dangers and privations. Excepting my loyal servant and friend, Mrs. Sheppard, and the agent and solicitors of my estate, none knew of my whereabouts. I was a lost man, and, as I imagined, a fortunate one. Now, in the last week of my service—for I would have retired in a few days and it was my intention to tell you something, not all, of my history, largely on account of your love-making, Enid—the debacle has come, and with it my wife."

"Father," asked Constance, "is my mother still your wife by law?"

"She cannot be otherwise."

"I wonder if you are right. I am too young to judge these things, but she spoke of her approaching marriage with Mr. Traill in a way that suggested she would not do him a grievous wrong. She does not love him, as I understand love. She regards him as a man admirable in many ways, but she impressed me with the idea that she believed she was doing that which was right, though she feared some unforeseen difficulty."

Brand looked at her with troubled eyes. It is always amazing to a parent to find unexpected powers of divination in a child. Constance was still a little girl in his heart. What had conferred this insight into a complex nature like her mother's?

"There is something to be said for that view," he admitted. "I recollect now that Pyne told me she had lived some years in the Western States. But he said, too, that her husband, the man whose name she bears, died there. My poor girls, I do, indeed, pity you if all this story of miserable intrigue, this squalid romance of the law-courts, is to be dragged into the light in a town where you are honoured. Enid, you see now how doubly fortunate you are in being restored to a father's arms—"

"Oh, no, no!" wailed Enid. "Do not say that. It seems to cut us apart. What have you done that you should dread the worst that can be said? And why should there be any scandal at all? I cannot bear you to say such things."

"I think I understand you, dad," said Constance, her burning glance striving to read his hidden thought. "Matters cannot rest where they are. You will not allow — my mother — to go away—a second time—without a clear statement as to the future and an equally honest explanation of the past."

This was precisely the question he dreaded. It had forced its unwelcome presence upon him in the first moment of the meeting with his wife. But he was a man of order, of discipline. The habits of years might not be flung aside so readily. It was absurd, he held, to inflict the self-torture of useless imaginings on the first night of their home-coming after the severe trials of their precarious life on the rock.

Above all else it was necessary to reassure Constance, whose strength only concealed the raging fire beneath, and Enid, whose highly strung temperament was on the borderland of hysteria.

He was still the arbiter of their lives, the one to whom they looked for guidance. He rebelled against the prospect of a night of sleepless misery for these two, and it needed his emphatic dominance to direct their thoughts into a more peaceful channel.

So he assumed that settled purpose he was far from feeling and summoned a kindly smile to his aid.

"Surely we have discussed our difficulties sufficiently to-night" he said. "In the morning, Constance, I will meet Mr. Traill. He is a gentleman and a man of the world. I think, too, that his nephew will be resourceful and wise in counsel beyond his years. Now we are all going to obtain some much-needed rest. Neither you nor I will yield to sleepless hours of brooding. Neither of you know that, not forty-eight hours ago, I made myself a thief in the determination to save your lives and mine. It was a needless burglary. I persuaded myself that it was necessary in the interests of the Trinity Brethren, those grave gentlemen in velvet cloaks, Enid, who would be horrified by the mere suggestion. I refuse to place myself on the moral rack another time. In the old days, when I was a boy, the drama was wont to be followed by a more lively scene. I forbid further discussion. Come, kiss me, both of you. I think that a stiff glass of hot punch will not do me any harm, nor you, unless you imbibed freely of that champagne I saw nestling in the ice-pail."

They rose obediently. Although they knew he was acting a part on their account they were sensible that he was adopting a sane course.

Enid tried to contribute to the new note. She bobbed in the approved style of the country domestic.

"Please, Sir Stephen," she said, "would you like some lemon in the toddy?"

Constance placed a little copper kettle on the fire. Their gloom had given way to a not wholly forced cheerfulness—for in that pleasant cottage sorrow was an unwelcome guest when they were surprised to hear a sharp knock at the outer door.

At another time the incident, though unusual at a late hour, would not have disturbed them. But the emotions of the night were too recent, their subsidence too artificially achieved, that they should not dread the possibilities which lay beyond that imperative summons.

Mrs. Sheppard and the servant had retired to rest, worn out with the anxious uncertainties of events reported from the lighthouse.

So Brand went to the door, and the girls listened in nervous foreboding. They heard their father say:

"Hello, Jenkins, what is the matter now?"

Jenkins was a sergeant of the police whom they knew.

"Sorry to trouble you, Mr. Brand, but an odd thing has happened. A lady, a stranger, met me ten minutes ago and asked me to direct her to your house. I did so. She appeared to be in great trouble, so I strolled slowly after her. I was surprised to see her looking in through the window of your sitting room. As far as I could make out, she was crying fit to break her heart, and I imagined she meant to knock at the door, but was afraid."

"Where is she? What has become of her?"

Brand stepped out into the moonlight. The girls, white and trembling, followed.

"Well, she ran off down the garden path and tumbled in a dead faint near the gate. I was too late to save her. I picked her up and placed her on a seat. She is there now. I thought it best, before carrying her here—to tell you—"

Before Brand moved, Constance ran out, followed by Enid. In a whirl of pain, the lighthouse keeper strode after them. He saw Constance stooping over a motionless figure lying prone on the garden seat. To those strong young arms the slight, graceful form offered an easy task.

Brand heard Enid's whisper:

"Oh, Connie, it is she!"

But the daughter, clasping her mother to her breast, said quietly:

"Dad, she has come home, and she may be dying. We must take her in."

He made no direct answer. What could he say? The girl's fearless words admitted of neither "Yes" nor "No."

He turned to the policeman.

"I am much obliged to you, Jenkins," he said; "we know the lady. Unless—unless there are serious consequences, will you oblige me by saying nothing about her? But stay. When you pass the Mount's Bay Hotel, please call and say that Mrs. Vansittart has been seized with sudden illness and is being cared for at my house."

"Yes, sir," said the sergeant, saluting.

As he walked away down the garden path he wondered who Mrs. Vansittart could be, and why Miss Brand said she had "come home."

Then he glanced back at the house, into which the others had vanished. He laughed.

"Just fancy it," he said; "I treated him as if he was a bloomin' lord. And I suppose my position is a better one than his. Anyhow he is a splendid chap. I'm glad now I did it, for his sake and the sake of those two girls. How nicely they were dressed. It has always been a puzzle to me how they can afford to live in that style on the pay of a lighthouse keeper. Well, it's none of my business."

Piles Or Hemorrhoids

This Most Torturing Disease Invariably Yields to DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Piles and Dr. Chase's Ointment are connected in the minds of most people because this treatment is recognized as about the only actual cure for this annoying disease.

Until you have tried Dr. Chase's Ointment you will not believe how quickly it brings relief from the nasty, itching, stinging, burning sensations.

It is just as sure to make a cure if you persist in its use. Naturally and gradually the ulcers in the rectum are healed and cured and life is again made worth the living.

It doesn't mattter what the cause, Dr. Chase's Ointment will bring you relief every time, and that right quickly. Put it to the test and you will be able to write just as enthusiastic a letter as this one:

Mr. James Hurley, Poekshaw, Gloucester Co., N. B., writes: "I cannot find words of praise to express my opinion of Dr. Chase's Ointment. For thirty years I was troubled with itching piles and tried all sorts of remedies, none of which gave me more than temporary relief. What other treatments have failed to do Dr. Chase's Ointment has done. It has positively cured me of itching piles."

If you can get Dr. Chase's Ointment to-day you can make this your last day of suffering from piles. Should your dealer not have Dr. Chase's Ointment in stock write to us for a free sample box, or enclose 60 cents for a full size box, which will be sent postpaid.

No substitute will satisfy you if you realize the merits of Dr. Chase's Ointment. For sale by all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

OPERATION HER ONLY CHANCE

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lindsay, Ont.—"I think it is no more than right for me to thank Mrs. Pinkham for what her kind advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. When I wrote to her some time ago I was a very sick woman, suffering from female troubles. I had inflammation of the female organs, and could not stand or walk any distance. At last I was confined to my bed, and the doctor said I would have to go through an operation, but this I refused to do. A friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now, after using three bottles of it, I feel like a new woman. I most heartily recommend this medicine to all women who suffer with female troubles. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills and think they are fine."—Mrs. FRANK EMSLEY, Lindsay, Ontario.

We cannot understand why women will take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, without first trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration.

You are only eye-wise when you buy a metal bed. You see but the externals; and you cannot know if the real quality is there. We make it needless that you should see more than this "Ideal" trademark on the footrail. That makes it sure you are buying wisely. For this is the trademark only inspections made certain the bed might fitly bear.

Forty inspections—to make certain an Ideal-trademarked bed will not rattle; will not wobble; will not fail to stand hard, long service. "Ideal" Metal Beds are made — not merely marketed. Study that idea.

Yes, they may cost a little more—a very little more. But you would not weigh that little against the satisfying knowledge that your "Ideal" Metal Bed is the best bed value you could have bought.

That is true whether you pay three dollars or much more than that. For you buy the same quality in every "Ideal" Metal Bed, whatever its price. Read "The Philosophy of Sleep"—an interesting little book we'd like to send you—free. Ask for Booklet No. 125

Love's Quest in Vain; Found Her Old Lover Wedded

Special to The Examiner.

VANCOUVER, SEPT. 30—The body of a woman, whose features had been rendered unrecognizable by the action of the waves, was found in a crevice in the rocks on the west point of Bowen Island yesterday morning, and although identity has not yet been established, the provincial police are inclined to believe that in the finding of this body is the sequel to a love tragedy. The only report of a missing woman, apart from the First Narrows accident—and the condition of the body disposes of any idea that it might be the body of Miss Young—is that relating to the disappearance of Miss Esther Johnson, who came all the way from Sweden to wed her sweetheart, only to learn on her arrival at Annacis Island on the Fraser river, that he had transferred his affections, and married another woman.

Since meeting her old sweetheart, and upbraiding him for his conduct, Miss Johnson has not been seen, and friends of the parties believed that in a fit of despair she had suicided by throwing herself into the river. The meeting with her sweetheart was about the 15th of August, and the length of time the body found yesterday must have been in the water corresponds with that lapse of time. The body was found by Mr. Henry Houghton and other employes of the powder works at Tunstall Bay and was brought into Vancouver by Provincial Constable Munro. He states that the body is that of a woman about 5 feet 7 inches in height, dressed in a blue skirt and waist, dotted with white spots, wearing black stockings and tan boots. The underclothing was of substantial make. The clothes contained a silver watch and chain, cuff links were in the blouse sleeves, and a gold locket containing a wisp of hair. Around one wrist was a bracelet of brownish hair.

There have been other instances of the bodies of people who were drowned in the Fraser river found long afterward near Bowen Island.

INDIAN RIVER NEWS ITEMS

Examiner Special.

INDIAN RIVER, OCT. 1.—Farmers are busy now making preparations for the approaching winter.

Indian River Baptist church held a social a few weeks ago, which proved quite a success. Misses Bryce and MacFarlane and Mr. and Miss Weir, all of Keene, very ably displayed their musical talents by assisting with the programme.

Mr. Archibald Shearer passed through the village of Westwood last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kidd who have been away on their honeymoon are residing at their home here.

Messrs. Tib Elmhurst and Robert Hope left here on Friday night last to go travelling.

Mr. Macleod has resigned his services as pastor of Indian River Baptist church.

Misses Mabel and Mary Elmhurst attended prayer meeting at Villiers a few weeks ago.

Business will be slow here on Wednesday as most of the clerks and prominent business men will in all probability attend the Keene fair.

WOMEN HAVE BACKACHE

Many women have kidney disease and do not know it because they attribute backache to other causes. The use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-and Liver Pills makes short work of backache and prevents serious trouble from deranged kidneys. Ask your neighbors about this great family medicine.

NEW CHURCH OPENING

The rector of All Saints' has succeeded in arranging for the opening of the new church a four Sundays' programme of preachers that has probably not been before equalled in Peterborough. The church will (D. V.) be formally opened on October 23rd. There will be a choral celebration of the Holy Communion at 8.30, administered by the rector. At the eleven and seven o'clock services the honour of preaching the first sermon is extended to the Bishop of the Diocese. The arrangements are not completed yet, but a men's mass meeting to be addressed by some prominent layman on the afternoon of either the opening or the following Sunday, is being planned for. Promises from the male members of many of the Protestant churches in Peterborough have already been received to help in a good male chorus. A children's service will be held on one of the afternoons. On October 30th, Rev. Dr. Griffith Thomas, the new Professor of Ecclesiology and Old Testament in Wycliffe College, will be the special preacher. He is the author of several books on "The Catholic Faith." Dr. Thomas is one of the ablest scholars of the Anglican church.

On November 6th, Rev. Dr. Symonds, of Montreal, has provisionally promised to come. Dr. Symonds was for many years the popular rector of St. Luke's. He will lecture on the following Monday on "The Life and Writings of Anthony Trollope." The last of the special services will be on November 13th, when Right Rev. Dr. Mills, Bishop of Ontario, will be the special preacher.

RALLY DAY AT HASTINGS

Examiner Special.

HASTINGS, OCT 5.—"Rally day" was duly observed in the different churches of the village on Sunday last and addresses were delivered, particularly to the children. The floral decorations were quite in harmony with the occasion and reflected great credit on the committees in charge. Rev. Mr. Foster, of Castleton, occupied the pulpit of the Methodist church at both services and delivered two very thoughtful addresses.

Rev. C. W. Barrett was in Castleton taking charge of the work there in the absence of the pastor.

Mr. Jack Collins, of Otonabee, was renewing old acquaintances here last week.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church held their regular monthly meeting on Thursday at the home of Mrs. R. C. Doxsee. One of the most important items of interest was the election of officers for the ensuing year. The result of the ballot was: Mrs. J. Fleming, pres.; Mrs. W. Atchison, secretary; and Mrs. T. Huycke treas. After disposing of other matters of business in connection with the church, Mrs Doxsee served tea and cake and a pleasant season of social intercourse was enjoyed by those present.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Doxsee and Miss Anna have returned after a pleasant visit with friends in Detroit, etc.

We are pleased to see Mrs. Hess out after having been confined to her home with serious illness.

The many friends of Mrs. Geo. Brooks will regret to learn she is seriously ill.

We are pleased to learn that Mrs. Anderson, of Toronto, formerly of town, is somewhat improved and hopes are entertained for her recovery.

Miss Blanche Humphries, of Seymour, has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Humphries.

Miss Stella Burgess spent Saturday and Sunday at her home in Norwood.

Mrs. Pelton and daughter of Nova Scotia are spending a few weeks with her son here.

Miss Hormel, of Port Hope, has been the guest of her uncle, Mr. Geo. Hormel.

Mr. Ernie Tate, of Peterborough, visited friends in town last week.

A coloured troupe of 25 individuals gave a concert in the town hall on Monday night. The hall was filled, but a great number were sadly disapointed in the programme.

Dr. Wade has returned to his practice here after a prolonged absence.

We regret to state that Mr. J. Johnston is still in a critical condition.

Mr. J. Miles, of Dummer, was in town on Thursday.

Mr. Al. Humphries attended the Roseneath fair on Friday last.

LAKEHURST NEWS

LAKEHURST, OCT. 5.—The many friends of Mr. Peter Bell will be pleased to learn of his recovery after his accident of a month ago.

The farmers are busy taking up potatoes these days and the general report of crops is good.

Miss Mabel Thompson and Miss Jennie Weir attended the Lakefield fair Wednesday last.

Quite a number of young people enjoyed at a hop at a Cedardale cheese factory Friday night and report a good time.

Miss V. Flynn, spent Tuesday evening with her friend Miss C. Adams.

Miss Annie and Mr. Harry Shearer spent Sunday at their home here.

Mr. B. Atkinson visited Miss Edna Shearer Sunday evening last.

We are pleased to learn that Mr. W. J. Northey is rapidly recovering under the care of Dr. H. O Boyd.

The threshing mill is now heard throughout the land and the turnout of grain is fairly good.

MARRIED IN VAULT

Special to The Examiner.

ROANOKE, VA., OCT. 3.—In the vaults of the National Exchange Bank, and in the presence of President J. B. Fishburn and other officials of the institution, W. P. Snidow and Miss Rose Price of Mountgemery County, Va., were made man and wife.

The groom is eighty years old, while the bride gave her age as thirty. Mr. Snidow came to the bank and asked that a minister be sent for. This was done, and the ceremony was performed immediately.

Following the marriage, Mr. Snidow deposited $2,000 to his wife's credit and the couple left to attend the fair.

POUNCES ON HAT

Examiner Special.

DES MOINES, IOWA, OCT. 3.—Attracted by the rooster which adorned a new chanteeler Fall bonnet worn by Miss Lucy Livingston, a big gray tomcat pounced from a tree upon the wearer as she was passing through Drake Park, severely lacerating the young woman's face and almost destroying the headgear.

Three deep cuts from the cat's claws were made on the girl's face. She was attended by City Surgeon Fagen. Miss Livingston is a student in Drake's University and lives at Garden Grove.

The girl declared the cat was perched in a tree watching for birds, and when it caught sight of her that it pounced upon it with the intention of making a meal of it.

BOSTON'S BARBER REGULATIONS

Board of Health Orders Sterilization of All That Barbers Use on Customers.

A special despatch from Boston, May 5, 1909, to the N. Y. Sun gives new regulations of the Boston Board of Health as to barber shops: "Mugs, shaving brushes and razors shall be sterilized after each separate use thereof. A separate, clean towel shall be used for each person. Material to stop the flow of blood shall be used only in powdered form and applied on a towel. Powder puffs are prohibited." Wherever Newbro's 'Herpicide' is used for the face of scalp after shaving or hair cutting, there is no danger of infection, as it is antiseptic and kills the dandruff germ. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

For sale by McDermid and Jury, druggists; also Payne's drug store. $1 bottles guaranteed.

AGES TOTAL 485

Special to The Examiner.

MORGANTOWN, W. VA., OCT. 3.—Oliver Brooks, of Easton, aged seventy-five, and the youngest of six living children whose ages aggregate 485 years, walked briskly to this city, a distance of ten miles, attended to some business, turned around and walked back again the same day. It is believed the Brooks family holds the record for longevity.

The other children are Mrs. Julia Ann Bowers, of Cheat Haven, Pa., aged eighty-five; George Brooks, of Oregon, aged eighty-three; Mrs. Elizabeth Lyons, of Gladesville, W. Va., aged eighty-two; Mrs. Margaret Blosses, of Cheat Haven, Pa., aged seventy-nine; Mrs. Minerva Baker, Cheat Haven, Pa., aged seventy-seven.

BARES SECRETS TO WIN THE BALDWIN MILLIONS

Boston Woman Fighting for Daughter Reveals Her Life Tragedy---Tells Whole Story of Romance With Rich California Turfman.

LOS ANGELES, OCT. 1.—As a prelude to what promises to be the bitterest kind of a battle for the millions of the late E. J. (Lucky) Baldwin, Mrs. Lilian Ashley Turnbull, of Brookline, Mass., has laid bare the whole history of her life, especially that portion of it in which "Lucky" Baldwin was conspicuous.

The litigation, which is to involve the estate of "Lucky" Baldwin, was precipitated when Gavin McNab, of San Francisco, filed in the Superior Court of this county a petition asking for a distribution of the estate. The petition is to be heard Monday. It is the intention of the attornys for Mrs. Turnbull to halt the distribution proceedings with a contest to be filed within the next few days.

Mrs. Turnbull's story of her association with "Lucky" Baldwin was recited while her attorneys were conferring on their plans. It is given in full herewith:

By Lillian Ashley Turnbull.

For years I have guarded th secret of my life in order that my child should be protected. I have gone among strangers, using a strange name, working and slaving that my little one should have the necessities of life, pledging my relatives that they would never hint to her the tragedy of my younger days—and then to find in the end that it has all been useless, that she herself discovered my secret.

To teach my child to pray for her father, to remember him lovingly, to remember the man that did me the greatest injustice a man can do a woman has been my aim.

Had anyone a harder load to bear—had any mother a greater task? There is only one thing I can do now, and that is to see that my little baby, born of sorrow, comes into her own. Since she had to be told the story it is only right that she should receive her daughter's share.

E. J. Baldwin died on the anniversary of our marriage. Beatrice was at boarding school and I had gone from my home in Brookline, Mass., to visit in New York. I was stopping at the Belmont, and my sister Emma called upon me. She brought me the papers telling of Baldwin's death. We read them together, and knowing that Beatrice was coming to see me, I placed them in my suit case where I thought she would not see them.

I left her alone in the room while I saw a friend in the hotel parlour. In arranging my things, for we were to leave for Boston that night, she discovered the papers. She read of Baldwin's death interestedly and suddenly she discovered my name. She knew that my maiden name was Ashley, for she knew the uncles, and their names were Ashley. She had heard me call them Lillian. I had told her that her father had died in California when she was a wee bit of a girl, and never dreaming that she would ever know who her real father was, I had told her little anecdotes of my life in the West.

DISCOVERS THE SECRET

She saw by the Eastern papers that I had a child. She scanned the papers to find the child's age. It corresponded with hers. She began to think. She began to understand why reporters had been besieging us all that day. She wondered why she had never visited her father's grave and why she had not met any of her relatives. Then she knew.

To my dying day I will never forget the look on her face when I re-entered the room. She seemed to have grown from a baby into a woman.

"Mamma," she cried, "why didn't you tell me—why didn't you tell me?"

"That man is my father," she said, pointing to the article in the paper. "He is my own, my very own father, and all these years I have so longed to have a daddy of my own. And now he is dead."

I tried to quiet her—for she was hysterical. Then I told her—so very, very little though. I could not tell her all my sufferings—I could not tell her of the great wrong. But I admitted that he was her father. I told her that he had married me, but after she was born he never seemed to care for us. I told her as gently as I could, and all the time my heart was breaking. I would rather have died, than to let Beatrice know, (illegible) which, as often played me a (illegible) trick, seemed against me.

"Why did you tell me that my daddy was dead?" asked Beatrice.

"Because he is and has been dead to you many years," I replied.

"Yes, mother," replied my little girl, and she said it so bravely, "you're right. It was better that you told me that he was dead, since he never cared for me."

The next day Walter L. McCorkle called on us. We did not leave that night as planned. Both Beatrice and myself were too upset to travel.

My sister Emma was present, and I told them that Beatrice had discovered my life's story, that she was E. J. Baldwin's child.

Later mother died, but before her death she told Mr. Balch to pay me the money due on the notes. It was the only heritage she had to leave me.

When I left Boston I went to live with Mr. and Mrs. Thompson at Winchester, Mass. Before this I had been the guest since mother's death of a lady and her daughter at Jamaica Plain. This was the address that Baldwin knew.

He came East. His horses, I believe, were racing that summer at Sheepshead Bay. He called at Jamaica Plain, but when h discovered I was living at Winchester he left immediately and called upon me at my home. He was gracious, told me that he was anxious to see the little girl with whom he had been corresponding so many years. He invited Mr. and Mrs. Thompson and myself to be his guests in California. He told us wonderful tales of this wonderful State.

OFFERS COLLEGE COURSE

He talked to me of my future. I told him I was ambitious to go to College. I was attending high school at the time, and he offered to defray the expense of putting me through Wellesley. He explained that he had a great deal of money, and he wanted me to be a daughter to him. I thanked him, but told him that Mr. and Mrs. Thompson were so good to me I could not think of leaving them.

"They don't need you, and I do," he replied.

I was firm, and he left for the North the same day that he arrived.

A year later a party of people were going to California and I was invited to join. The man and his wife agreed to pay all my expenses—for, you see, I was a moneyless little orphan and never could have gone otherwise.

We started West and I wrote Mr. Baldwin how pleased I was to have a chance to visit his beautiful State. From the time we left eNw Orleans I was besieged with telegrams from Mr. Baldwin, inviting our party to visit San Francisco. I replied, telling him that it would be impossible as the rest of the party was to go to Mexico while I remained in Los Angeles at the Hotel Westminster until they returned.

I arrived in Los Angeles and went to the Westminster, which was run by Milo Potter, and a telegram again arrived begging me to go north and wait for the others there.

Instead I went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Wade at Cucamonga, and remained there a week. When I returned to the hotel I found not only telegrams and letters from Mr. Baldwin, but money to defray the expense of the trip.

Mr. Baldwin was always good hearted and kindly in regard to money matters, and I suppose he thought that the reason I did not go north was on account of my financial affairs.

He begged me to be to him a daughter. He said he was growing old and wanted a fresh young face like mine around and he wanted me to cheer his older days.

This did not appeal to me, as I told him again that I could not think of leaving Mr. and Mrs. Thompson.

The next day he called for me and took me driving, then to the theatre in the evening. It is strange how well one can remember things. The play was "Francesca da Rimini." Warde and James were the stars. I remember that evening so vividly.

Afterward he had a supper prepared for me. At that supper I had my rst drink of champagne. I even remember the brand—it was Roederer. During supper he told me that he and his wife had separated years before and were divorced. He asked me to be his wife.

He said it would be necessary for the time to keep the marriage secret, as he had many important deals on, and for fear that Aunts would make trouble. He had objected to her marriage because she was too young and he said she might object to this because he was marrying a girl so young. He said it would only be necessary to keep it secret for several months and then we could announce it and we would go for a long honeymoon trip.

Our marriage by contract followed.

Sam Crane Calls The Cubs To Put It Over Athletics

Dean of American Baseball Writers Gives His Reasons for Saying That Chance Has a Better Team Than Mack.

DIDN'T KNOW ABOUT EVERS

With the National Cubs and the Philadelphia Athletics having the pennants of their respective leagues virtually tucked away so deep in their uniform shirts that none of their rivals can possibly "touch" them for the coveted prizes, it is up to the fans the country over to speculate mentally—and financially, too, if they are so willed—on the winner of the world's series.

The contests, tow, that take place annually now every fall for the gonfalon of the universe have taken a world-wide importance as deciding what team and club is entitled to fly the streamer that is emblematic of the baseball supremacy. And it is an honour that carries with it all that counts for the best there is in our great national game, a sport that is now so wide in its scope that other nations have taken it up to an extent that is bound to make the pastime all national in a shorter time than is generally anticipated.

The world's series has developed into the chief baseball event of each year, and has been so established by the National commission, the supreme court of baseball having been put in full control of everything connected with it.

The wranglings that would likely arise if the clubs thmselves had charge of the arrangements are thus averted and the rules are laid up to the minutest point, and thereby a standard of sportsmanship has been established that secures the confidence of the public, the players and everybody concerned, that is so absolutely necessary for an event of so much importance.

That the National commission has done its work well in past series is shown by the unanimous approval it has met with.

TELLS WHY CUBS ARE BEST

My opinion is that the world's series of 1910 will be won by the Chicago Cubs, but by a margin of victories ever their strong Quaker rivals so small that it will take the full seven games to tell the result.

This is figuring the thing down pretty close, but the teams from every angle appear to be so evenly matched that only the most rabid partisan of each could hardly predict a walkover.

I base my opinion on the fact that the Cubs will show a bit more class, because of the predominance of older and more experienced players on their teams, and where teams are so even in playing ability, that little finesse that advantage of class shows, no matter how slight, will always tell.

It is generally acknowledged that the Cubs have the superior catchers. Kling had the reputation, before he decided to lay off a year, of being the best and heaviest backstop in the country. It took him no little time this year to "come back," but I am free to state that he is one of the few that has, and I consider Kling at the present time as being the same old important cog in the Cubs' make-up that makes it the most perfect baseball machine the game has ever seen.

Without Kling the Cubs were not the same perfect piece of machinery, as their loss of the National league pennant last year proves. They have made a procession of this season's race, but Kling, the missing cog, had to be back to preserve the old frictionless smoothness.

Archer is a good catcher—a grand one, no doubt—but he is not yet the classy man behind the bat that the veteran is.

CLASS LIKELY TO DECIDE IT

And, as I said before, it is class that causes me to nick the Cubs as the next world's champions.

Against Kling and Archer, the Athletics will present Thomas and Livingstone. The former is an ex-Yankee, and while he has improved as a backstop since then, he cannot approach the Chicago crack in all that goes to make a top-notch catcher. Ira is a good mechanical man. He thinks he knows as much real baseball as his Cub rival, but he doesn't. There are things that can be pulled off on Thomas that he would be still thinking about in his naturally slow-minded way, that Kling would, with his quicker working and more active mentality, have already performed to counteract, and be pulling off something new himself.

Thomas has to stop and think, while Kling does what he has to do intuitively. It may be by reason of longer experience, perhaps, but to my way of thinking it is superior class. That Thomas is the better batter according to the records does not appeal to me at all. This opinion of mine is not influenced by figures, past or present, but by what I know of both teams, and both Kling and Thomas.

Archer is a superior backstop to Livingstone.

As to pitchers, I will say that I considered this spring, and do now, that the Athletics have the best pitching staff in the country, and that it will be up to Bender, Coombs, Morgan and Plank to make the series as close as I have predicted. Dygert and Krause may be called on, but I don't think so.

The quartette of cracks first named will do the bulk of the work, with Bender and Coombs given the preference. These two will doubtless keep the Cubs guessing. Against the Quakers' great staff the Cubs will have Brown, the hero of three world's series, who may be going back a wee bit physically, but he will be there this time with his old needle working, and that will count.

Reulbach, if right, will, I should imagine, be a close understudy to the veteran. Overall and Pfeister will doubtless figure in the games, and Cole, the pitching sensation of the National League this year, will be given a chance if any of the more experienced pitchers show weakness. But Manager Chance is as wise in his generation as our old friend Connie Mack, and he will depend on his vets until he is forced to do otherwise.

ATHLETICS HAVE BEST PITCHERS

I will accord the Athletics as having the superior pitchers.

As to first basemen, I will pick Chance as having a shade on Harry Davis. I fully appreciate Davis in all of his great ability, both as a fielder and a batter, but one who has seen Chance when he has a fight on his hands such as this series is bound to bring forth knows that he is always at his best, and I do not know of any other first baseman than Hal Chase whom I would prefer to see on the bag. But Chase is in a class all by himself.

Chance's many world series battles may also possibly count in his favor when it comes down to the pinch times. But Harry Davis' good old lengthy swats over the back fences also come in very handy in the pinches.

But taking everything into consideration, I feel that Chance has the shade over Davis.

Now, coming to the second baseman, that requires some figuring, allow me to whisper. Evers I have always considered to be the brainiest player who ever covered the important position. Everything he does when it is up to quick thinking to perform, he seems to do by intuition. He is really the best intuitive player I ever saw.

He might have studied up that play when he made Umpire O'Day think that Merkle failed to touch second base. I think he had, because Bob Emslie, who was umpiring on the bases at the time, failed to see Merkle do anything but what was legitimate, while O'Day, who was not so located that he could see what Merkle did unless he was blessed with second sight, did fall for what Evers said he ought to have seen.

Anyhow, Evers got away with it, and also the Giants' rightful "rag." But that did not emphasize, to my mind, that Evers was a heady player. I had stamped him as such long before that.

CLOSE AT SECOND BASE

Evers is not the hitter that Eddie Collins is, neither can he field any better nor run bases with perhaps as much daring and dash, but I have always noticed that Johnny Evers is always on hand to take any advantage his opponents, in moments of thoughtlessness, give him, and Evers is not a poor batter by any means. Now it is a question with me if Evers' quick-thinking ability—intuitiveness if you will—will not even him up with all the strength that the sensational little second baseman of the Athletics will show in the coming world's series.

I am willing to give Collins a shade on Evers, but only by a hair.

Tinker, of the Cubs, is like Evers, a heady players, and his great value to his team is enhanced by being able to have such a brainy side partner to work alongside of. The team work between the pair is something to ponder over, and goes a long way toward forming the wonderful baseball machine before mentioned. Tinker is as game as a pebble, too, and in such contests as this series will result in he will show very strong all around.

Barry has made an enviable record with the Athletics and is a splendid player, but he has not had the experience in crucial struggles as has Tinker, and that may count against him in comparison with his veteran rival. I feel that Tinker will show up a bit the stronger.

APACHE SCOURGE

PARIS, OCT. 3.—The question as to the most effective manner in which the Apache scourge is to be dealt with is at present greatly exercising the minds of the law-abiding section of the community. The hooligans of the outer boulevards and the fortifications no longer make any pretence of defending their misdeeds on the ground that they have received provocation or have killed some one in a moment of madness. They now attack for the wanton pleasure of attacking, and slay for the cruel gratification of counting another victim.

More children display murderous proclivities and battles in which lads and girls take part, plying the long knife or blazing away with the revolver, are becoming more and more frequent.

Nor is this deplorable state of things limited to the Apache element. In a fit of passion sweethearts or married couples fire or throw vitriol on each other, and now this epidemic of violence is spreading to the working class. Brute force is, in fact, largely in the ascendant, and it is widely admitted that unless a firm stand is made, the evil will go on increasing until no man's life will be safe.

ERR ON SIDE OF CLEMENCY

A good deal is being said just now of the efficaciousness of British methods of dealing with such crimes, but, unluckily, French sentimentality abhors recourse to the lash, arguing that it cannot be applied to a citizen without infringing the dignity of a human being; and then, too, judges and juries have long been erring on the side of clemency. The misapplication in so many cases of the First Offenders' Act has evoked a remonstrance from the Minister of Justice, and, moreover, jurymen are too prone to be carried away by the clever pleading and the brilliant eloquence of the defender of an individual who is being tried for murder; so that their verdict is too often dictated by a desire to pay a tribute to the barrister's talent. Juries, again, have a secret dread of responsibility, as they seem to imagine that if they pronounce the prisoner to be guilty his life will be in some measure on their own heads. Add to this the campaign against capital punishment which has long been actively fostered by various sections of the Republican party, and it will be seen that the law has now few terrors for criminals, who, even if they are caught, have a good chance of escaping conviction, and who are perfectly aware that even if they are sentenced to death the odds are considerably against their being brought to the scaffold.

PRISONERS TOO COMFORTABLE

So thoroughly is this realized by the respectable portion of the population that it has recently displayed a tendency to take the law into its own hands, and thus many murderers who have been detected on the spot have had a better experience of the preliminaries of lynching, and have only left that spot with breath still in their bodies owing to the almost superhuman efforts made for their protection by policemen, who had conspicuously failed to save their victims from their daggers or revolvers.

Now prisoners are being rendered too comfortable, and a writer to-day contrasts the hardships to which soldiers in barracks are subjected with the really luxurious arrangements which are in vogue at one of the principal jails in the country, where, for instance, the cells are kept warm with an elaborate heating apparatus, illuminated with electric light, and very neatly furnished, while soldiers shiver round a stingily fed stove and have wretched quarters.

The writer states that last year more than three hundred loads of coal found their way to this same jail, while the largest barracks in this city only received eighteen cartloads during the same period, although the number of the troops and that of the prisoners is exactly the same.

"HUMA NLIFE AT LOWEST PRICE"

Senator Gervais, who is one of the Socialist representatives of the Department of the Seine in the Upper house, publishes an emphatic protest against all the indulgences shown to criminals, and says that there is only one thing which is not being included in the general rise of prices, and that is the price of human life. This he attributes to the abuse of sentimentality in dealing with crime, and he declares that if democracy is to be kept from recourse to lynch law, firmness must be displayed.

Admitted Her Guilt.

Belleville, Oct. 4.—Mabel McMullen, a young woman, is under arrest here charged with housebreaking and theft. The accused, after her arrest admitted that she was guilty of entering Sheriff Morrison's residence in this city and stealing therefrom furs, clothing, etc., to the value of about $300. She was at one time a servant in the sheriff's house and knew its surroundings. She was arrested Sunday evening at Trenton as she was about to board a train for the west.

A trunk containing the stolen articles was upon the train and was taken to Toronto, but subsequently returned to this city yesterday. She was remanded to jail for a week.

Room for Good Ones.

New York, Oct. 4.—Sir James Whitney, Premier of Ontario, who is en route for Toronto, in an interview, said: "We have plenty of wheat land in Ontario, and what's best is covered with pulp wood.

"Our agents are overrun with people, but there's room for good ones always. Any man who can keep his eyes open in Canada can be well to do—not wealthy, but well to do—in ten years. England is looking at Canada now.

"The people from the United States are running over into the northwest every day. Americans who remain in Canada for a while are well satisfied with their prospects."

Charged With Child Murder.

Sherbrooke, Oct. 4.—May Doherty, a girl about 20 years of age, was arrested by High Constable Moe Sunday on a coroner's warrant charging her with child murder. She had been engaged for the past month at Cottage House, Lennoxville. She left the hotel on Friday night and said she would return for her trunk on Saturday morning. The proprietor was directed to certain suspicious circumstances and he immediately began to investigate. He sent for the village constable who forced open the trunk and they found the dead body of a newly-born male child.

Wife No. 2 Is Willing To Live With No. 1

Climax Of Bigamy Case

PHILADELPHIA, OCT. 3.—Harry C. Jaixen, a self-confessed bigamist, is loved so much by wife No. 2, that in court here she declared herself to be willing to share him with his first wife, if wife No. 1 would only withdraw the bigamy charge she had brought against him.

WANTED TO SHARE HUSBAND

"If you will only do that," said wife No. 2 ,who, before her marriage was Miss Adelaide Jackson, of Collingwood, N.J., "and will let me live in the same house with you, I will go to work. All I wish is to be near him. I don't care if he did desert you. I love him, and will go on loving him forever."

When wife No. 1 refused to hear any such arrangement wife No. 2 threw herself into Jaixen's arms.

"I won't give him up," she shrieked hysterically. "I love him and he loves me."

Magistrate Morris, before whom Jaixen had been arraigned on the bigamy charge, ordered a constable to separate Jaixen and his second wife. He was led away to jail weeping after he had been held for trial.

Jaixen, who gave his age as twenty-seven, admitted at the hearing that he had married wife No. 2 at Beverly, N.J., in May last, without severing the matrimonial ties which bound him to wife No. 1. He married the latter seven years ago, and she declared that he deserted her shortly after the birth of their second child.

DESERTED WIFE FOUND HIM

The 1st Mrs. Jaixen said that she returned to the home of her parents, No. 861 North Forty-seventh Street, upon being deserted, and that she worked to support herself and the children, Harry, six years old, and Stephen, who is four to-day. Tiring of the struggle, she informed the magistrate, she made a search for her husband and secured from him a promise to contribute to her support. She asserted that he promised to mail her money each week.

When he failed to do so, Mrs. Jaixen instituted another search for him, which ended in her calling on last Sunday evening at No. 1513 Garnett Street, where she was met at the front door by wife No. 2, who was surprised to learn that she was not Jaixen's legal wife.

Wife No. 1 said that she had been informed her husband was ill with consumption at the Garnett Street address and declared that she was not aware that he had married a second time until informed of the fact on Sunday evening.

NO USE FOR MONEY

Examiner Special.

SANTA CRUZ, OCT. 3.—To suddenly be transformed from a wandering prodigal without a place to lay his head, to a man worth $38,500, is the experience of R. E. Ramage, a good-looking fellow of thirty years, who drifted into this city two weeks ago.

He went to Swan's restaurant for a handout, and was willing to work. He did chores for a few days, when a letter came from an uncle, J. A. Wortman, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, stating that he had more money than he needed, no direct heirs, and he wanted to do something for the nephew who left his farm when fifteen years old.

Ramage was asked to meet the uncle at San Luis Obispo, and he lost no time in getting there. He has just returned after receiving this little fortune, still wearing his working clothes and ready to work at anything. He does not know what to do with so much money. He said he would continue to wear working clothes and pretend to be poor, so designing girls will not bother him. His money is in the bank, and he expects soon to work on a farm near Merced.

THE WONDERFUL FEAT OF AN INDIAN GIRL

VALENTINE, NEB., OCT. 4.—As a sprinter, Mrs. Running Horse, a Sioux Indian squaw, 20 years of age, belonging to the Pine Ridge agency, a short distance from here, takes the prize.

The occasion was the last day of the Cherry county fair. As a feature, a foot race for Indians, open to the world, had been arranged. It was for a prize of $300 on a straightaway track, a distance of 300 yards. There were 129 entries, including men and women, one of the entrants being Mrs. Running Horse, who carried off a $200 prize at a foot race at Rapid City, S.D., last summer.

Three days prior to the race here it was thought that Mrs. Running Horse was out of the running, for she had just given birth to a bouncing boy. However, she was in at the finish, as well as at the start.

The Running Horse camp was about eight miles from town, and the day of the big race just as the Indians were lining up for the start, an Indian woman was seen coming across the prairie, carrying a baby in a blanket on her back.

On she came like the wind, and getting into line, passed her baby over to another Indian woman, tossed off her blanket and stripping surplus clothing, as straight as an arrow, stood at the chalk line, waiting for the report of the pistol which would announce the start. It came, and without any jockeying, 129 male and female Indians got away. From out of the crowd, like an arrow from the bow, sped Mrs. Running Horse. She gained rapidly and was soon ahead of all of her competitors except Lone Wolf, a young athlete. For 100 yards the man and woman ran side by side, and then gradually she pulled ahead of him, running like a deer. When within fifty yards of the goal she seemed to gain strength and speed, and crossed the line 81 xyards ahead of Lone Wolf.

Returning to the starting point, Mrs. Running Horse, amid the cheering of the crowd, accepted her money and then received her baby in her arms, none the worse for the run, except that she was slightly winded. The judges caught her time at 28⅓ seconds.

Packey McFarland Will Soon Drop Out Of The Ring

CHICAGO, OCT. 3.—Packey McFarland, who is at present in New York, will soon drop out of pugilism, according to a statement made by him during the recent fiasco between Ad Wolgast and Packey in which the latter played a very prominent part. The writer was present when the articles of agreement were signed and forfeits posted ,also an eye-witness to the greasy pole act played by the "pride of the Stock Yards." Packey has put up a very stiff battle for the retention of that forfeit, for be it known the losing of five simoleons is like wringing so many drops of heart blood out of him.

In speaking of the affair, McFarland admitted that he knew he could not do the weight.

"I have been on the road for three weeks," said Packy, "and the very best that I can do to-day is 138 pounds. I am not going to kill myself for a few dollars; in fact, I expect to quit the ring now for good."

Asked if he wouldn't go on and fight the welterweights, where he most assuredly belongs, he shrugged his shoulders, like one who didn't care to take a chance with a fellow of his size.

The first big wager on the forthcoming White-Wolgast battle, scheduled for Milwaukee, October 7, has been placed by Krone & Message, of this city, for Joseph Woods, the well-known Western sportsman. Woods took the short end, laying $800 to $500, Wolgast, of course, being favorite. Numerous small wagers have been recorded during the past few days, but this quotation can be some quarters it was thought that the accepted at the prevailing odds. In Michigan wild-cat would rule as short as 2 to 1, but this is very doubtful.

On the face of it, the match appears to be all that could be desired. In the first place, White, who recently gave Jack Redmond the trimming of his life, is apparently a very willing lad and game to the core. In his battle with Redmond, who held Wolgast to a draw, White showed startling improvement.

In White, Wolgast faces a gamer man than Redmond and one that will occasion him more trouble. Redmond's forte is walloping away at the head and face of his opponent, while White is strictly a body puncher. On the face of it it looks like a battle from the tap of the gong

Shiloh's Cure quickly stops coughs, cures colds, heals the throat and lungs. . . . 25 cents.

SURRENDERS

LANDER, WYO., OCT. 3.—Bascom Skaggs, aged twenty- rode into Lander a few days ago and surrendered himself to Sheriff Stough, stating that he had shot and killed William Harris, a homesteader living near Pacific Springs, about fifty-five miles southwest of Lander. The killing occurred at the Harris place and was the outgrowth of range trouble.

Skaggs was a camp mover for Kinch McKinney, an extensive sheep owner, and he had been ranging his sheep closer to the Harris homestead than the owner liked, and this led to the altercation which resulted in the killing. The Sheriff, Coroner and county attorney have gone to the scene of the killing to make an investigation.

NO USE FOR MONEY

Saunterer Special.

SANTA CRUZ, OCT. 3.—To suddenly be transformed from a wandering prodigal without a place to lay his head, to a man worth $38,000, is the experience of H. E. Ramage, a good-looking fellow of thirty years, who drifted into this city two weeks ago.

He went to Swan's restaurant for a handout, and was willing to work. He did chores for a few days, when a letter came from an uncle, J. A. Weatman, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, stating that he had more money than he needed, no direct heirs, and he wanted to do something for the nephew who left his farm when fifteen years old.

Ramage was asked to meet the uncle at San Luis Obispo, and he lost no time in getting there. He has just returned after receiving this little fortune, still wearing his working clothes and ready to work at anything. He does not know what to do with so much money. He said he would continue to wear working clothes and pretend to be poor, as deluging girls will not bother him. His money is in the bank, and he expects soon to work on a farm near Merced.

THE WONDERFUL FEAT OF AN INDIAN GIRL

VALENTINE, NEB., OCT. 4.—As a sprinter, Mrs. Running Horse, a Sioux Indian squaw, 20 years of age, belonging to the Pine Ridge agency, a short distance from here, takes the prize.

The occasion was the last day of the Cherry county fair. As a feature, a foot race for Indians, open to the world, had been arranged. It was for a prize of $300 on a straightaway track, a distance of 300 yards. There were 120 entries, including men and women, one of the entrants being Mrs. Running Horse, who carried off a $200 prize at a foot race at Rapid City, S.D., last summer.

Three days prior to the race here it was thought that Mrs. Running Horse was out of the running, for she had just given birth to a bouncing boy. However, she was in at the finish, as well as at the start.

The Running Horse camp was about eight miles from town, and the day of the big race, just as the Indians were lining up for the start, an Indian woman was seen coming across the prairie, carrying a baby in a blanket on her back.

On she came like the wind, and getting into line, passed her baby over to another Indian woman, tossed off her blanket and stripping supplus clothing, as straight as an arrow, stood at the chalk line, waiting for the report of the pistol which would announce the start. It came, and without any jockeying, 120 male and female Indians got away. From out of the crowd, like an arrow from the bow, sped Mrs. Running Horse. She gained rapidly and was soon ahead of all of her competitors except Lone Wolf, a young athlete. For 100 yards the man and woman ran side by side, and then gradually she pulled ahead of him, running like a deer. When within fifty yard of the goal she seemed to gain strength and speed, and crossed the line 81 yards ahead of Lone Wolf.

Returning to the starting point, Mrs. Running Horse, amid the cheering of the crowd, accepted her money and then received her baby in her arms, none the worse for the run, except that she was slightly winded. The judges caught her time at 28¾ seconds.

Packey McFarland Will Soon Drop Out Of The Ring

CHICAGO, OCT. 3.—Packey McFarland, who is at present in New York, will soon drop out of pugilism, according to a statement made by him during the recent fisaco between Ad. Wolgast and Packey in which the latter played a very prominent part. The writer was present when the articles of agreement were signed and forfeits posted, also an eye-witness to the greasy pole act played by the "pride of the Stock Yards." Packey has put up a very stiff battle for the retention of that forfeit, for he it known the losing of five simoleons is like wringing so many drops of heart blood out of him.

In speaking of the affair, McFarland admitted that he knew he could not do the weight.

"I have been on the road for three weeks," said Packy, "and the very best that I can do to-day is 148 pounds. I am not going to kill myself for a few dollars; in fact, I expect to quit the ring now for good."

Asked if he wouldn't go on and fight the welterweights, where he most assuredly belongs, he shrugged his shoulders, like one who didn't care to take a chance with a fellow of his size.

The first big wager on the forthcoming White-Wolgast battle, scheduled for Milwaukee, October 7, has been placed by Krone & Messenger, of this city, for Joseph Woods, the well-known Western sportsman. Woods took the short end, laying $800 to $700, Wolgast, of course, being favorite. Numerous small wagers have been recorded during the past few days, but this quotation can be some quarters it was thought that the accepted at the prevailing odds. In Michigan wild-cat would rule as short as 2 to 1, but this is very doubtful.

On the face of it, the match appears to be all that could be desired. In the first place, White, who recently gave Jack Redmond the trimming of his life, is apparently a very willing lad and game to the core. In his battle with Redmond, who held Wolgast to a draw, White showed startling improvement.

In White, Wolgast faces a gamer man than Redmond and one that will occasion him more trouble. Redmond's forte is walloping away at the head and face of his opponent, while White is strictly a body puncher. On the face of it, it looks like a battle from the tap of the gong.

SURRENDERS

LANDER, WYO., OCT. 3.—Bascom Skaggs, aged twenty-rode into Lander a few days ago and surrendered himself to Sheriff Stough, stating that he had shot and killed William Harris, a homesteader living near Pacific Springs, about fifty-five miles southwest of Lander. The killing occurred at the Harris place and was the outgrowth of range trouble.

Skaggs was a camp mover for Kinch McKinney, an extensive sheep owner, and he had been ranging his sheep closer to the Harris homestead than the owner liked, and this led to the altercation which resulted in the killing. The Sheriff, Coroner and county attorney have gone to the scene of the killing to make an investigation.

A SIMPLE DISGUISE.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook Just Changed Name to F. A. Cook.

London, Oct. 4.—If Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the Arctic explorer, is in London, as recent cables to the United States declare him to be, he is doing an admirable job of self-effacement.

Dr. Cook, in an alleged interview, said he left New York Nov. 25, 1909, the time of his disappearance, for Toronto, thence to Halifax, thence to Liverpool, thence to Gibraltar, then to Tangier, Morocco, then to Portugal, and from Lisbon to Buenos Ayres; then around the Horn to Valparaiso, Chili; then across the South American continent by horseback and stage over the lordly Andes Mountains and back to Buenos Ayres, and from there to Liverpool and London. He has made his headquarters in the English capital since last May, taking occasional jaunts to the continent. Most of the time he had his wife for companion. His children are in European schools.

One of Dr. Cook's most surprising assertions is that for the most part he traveled openly under his own name, the only effort at concealment being that he would register with his initials "F. A. Cook" instead of "Frederick A. Cook," as in the heydey of his fame.

Praises Canadian Scouts.

Liverpool, Oct. 4.—Sir Robert Baden-Powell, interviewed here, had high praise for Canada's Boy Scouts. He said the movement helps to develop the Imperial spirit, and the best men in the country are taking the movement up. Referring to his visit to the United States, he said there was no doubt the boys of Canada have a better knowledge of woodcraft and more experience of the veldt, but some of these places are growing into big towns, and the scout movement would help prevent the wastrel and hooligan element.

On the voyage home he wrote a scouts' guide book for Canada. He visited seventeen centres in Canada and found them all organized in the right way.

Grain by G.T.P. Delayed.

Winnipeg, Oct. 4.—Unexpected delays prevented the starting of the first trainload of grain over the National Transcontinental Railway from Winnipeg to Fort William, but it is expected that it will go out to-day. The Grand Trunk Pacific has not yet taken over the line, but the work is being done under agreement between J. D. McArthur, contractor, the National Transcontinental Commission and the G. T. P. Connection at the west end will not be ready for several months, on account of delays caused by St Boniface City Council and other railway companies, which have blocked the laying out of the line into Winnipeg.

Under $16,000 Bail.

Brockville, Oct. 4.—Yesterday afternoon R. E. Cughan, ex-manager of the Farmers' Bank at Athens, was brought before Police Magistrate Deacon and admitted to bail until the 14th, when he will appear for a preliminary hearing on the charge of falsifying returns to head office. The magistrate fixed $8,000 bail, the same amount demanded by Judge McDonald, who will try him on the charge of theft on the 21st. The combined bail in the two courts is $16,000, and of this Cughan's personal bond is $8,000, and two sureties, Able Cughan and A. Wendling, $4,000 each.

To Commandeer Autos.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—A plan to make all private automobiles available for military service in time of necessity, is suggested by Major-Gen. F. D. Grant, who until July 1, commanded the Department of the Lakes, in his annual report for that Department, made public yesterday.

The Cholera In Naples.

Rome, Oct. 4.—According to the official bulletin for the past twenty-four hours, there were eight cases of cholera and five deaths in the City of Naples; seventeen cases and eight deaths in the Province of Naples, and one case and one death in Apulia.

Arrested In Florida.

Berlin, Ont., Oct. 4.—The authorities yesterday received word from Jacksonville, Florida, of the apprehension of Joseph Abraham, a Syrian, wanted here for an alleged theft of $1,400 from Mrs. J. E. Neville.

Will Build Chinese Battleships.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 4.—In an interview during the five minutes stop of a New York-St. Louis train during the night, Lee Sum, chief secretary for Prince Siium of China, is credited by The Gazette-Times yesterday with the announcement that a contract for two Chinese battleships to cost $15,000,000, had been awarded to Charles M. Schawg, head of the Bethlehem, Pa., Steel Corporation.

Try This Home-Made Cough Remedy

Costs Little, But Does the Work Quickly, or Money Refunded.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16 oz. bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You will find that this simple remedy takes hold of a cough more quickly than anything else you ever used. Usually ends a deep-seated cough inside of 24 hours. Splendid, too, for whooping cough, chest pains, bronchitis and other throat troubles. It stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

This recipe makes more and better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly and tastes pleasant.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guiaicol and all the natural pine elements which are so healing to the membranes. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This plan of making cough syrup with Pinex and Sugar Syrup (or strained honey) has proven so popular throughout the United States and Canada, that it is often imitated. But the old, successful formula has never been equalled.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

A limited supply of veal calves sold at $4 to $7.50 cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

There was a fair supply of sheep and lambs, which sold as follows: Sheep, ewes, at $4.75 to $4.85, the bulk going at $4.80; lambs, the bulk sold at $8, with one or two small lots at $8.10.

Hogs.

W. J. Johnston, buyer for Gunns, quoted selects, fed and watered, at $8.65, and $8.50 to drovers for hogs f.o.b. cars at country points.

Union Stock Yards.

MONTREAL, Oct. 3.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market receipts were 2000 cattle, 2270 sheep and lambs, 2000 hogs and 200 calves. The supply this morning amounted to 1200 cattle, 1225 sheep and lambs, 1200 hogs and 200 calves. Owing to the continued liberal supplies of northwest ranch cattle, coupled with fair receipts from Ontario and Quebec points, prices show a decline of ¼c to ½c per pound. The demand was fairly good on account of favorable weather for keeping stock. A few very choice Ontario steers sold at 6c to 6¼c, but the bulk of the trade in choice stock was done at 5¾c to 5¾c; good at 5c to 5½c; fairly good at 4¾c to 4¾c; fair at 4c to 4¼c, and common at 3½c to 3¾c per pound. There were quite a number of bulls on the market, which sold at 2½c to 3½c per pound. Another feature was the weaker feeling for hogs, and prices show a decline of 25c to 35c per cwt., attributed to more liberal offerings, and in sympathy with a recent decline in Toronto market. A fairly active trade was done, and sales of selected lots were made at $8 to $8.25.

Supplies of sheep and lambs were fairly large, and demand good. Sheep sold at 3½c to 4c, and lambs at 5½c to 6c per pound. Calves were wanted, and prices are steadily tending towards a higher level. Sales of good to choice stock were made at $10 to $15 each.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Oct. 3.—Cattle—Receipts, 5130 head; fairly active and 25c lower; prime steers, $7 to $7.50; shipping, $6.85 to $6.50; butchers, $6.75 to $6.80; heifers, $4.25 to $6; cows, $2.75 to $5.80; bulls, $3.75 to $5; stockers and feeders, $4.25 to $5.75; stock heifers, $3.75 to $4. Fresh cows and springers, $2 to $4 lower, $35 to $65.

Hogs—Receipts, 13,600 head; fairly active; pigs, 10c higher; others, steady; heavy, $9.75 to $9; mixed, $9.15 to $9.25; yorkers, $9.10 to $9.25; pigs, $8 to $8.10; roughs, $7.75 to $8; stags, $6 to $7; dairies, $8.80 to $9.15.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 23,100 head; slow, wethers, steady; others, 10c to 25c lower; lambs, $5.50 to $6.80; a few, $7 yearlings, $6.25 to $5.50; wethers, $4.50 to $4.75; ewes, $4 to $4.25; sheep, mixed, $3 to $4.40.

Killed Duck Shooting.

Kingston, Oct. 4.—Clarke Chadwick, Gananoque, while on a duck-shooting expedition near that town on Saturday afternoon, was accidentally shot by a gun discharging in the boat in which he, his brother and another companion were seated. He died an hour or so afterwards. All three young men fired at a flock of ducks, and the recoil caused the boat to rock. In the flurry one of their guns went off, the charge lodging in Chadwick's abdomen, bladder and intestines.

New Catholic Bishop of Keewatin.

Winnipeg, Oct. 4.—Announcement was made yesterday morning of the appointment of Rev. Ovide Charlebois, O.M.I., one of the earliest Catholic missionaries in the West, and until recently principal of Industrial School at Duck Lake, Sask., as bishop of the newly-established Diocese of Keewatin. Announcement of a bishop for the Diocese of Regina will not be made for some time.

Steamer Ran Aground.

Morrisburg, Oct. 4.—The steamer Senator Derbyshire, loaded with pulpwood, en route for Waddington, N.Y., ran aground opposite here yesterday. The channel to Waddington is a very narrow one, and has only been used this season by the large steamers.

Admitted Theft.

Winnipeg, Oct. 4.—William Gardiner, aged 19, the suspected bellboy of the Alexandra Hotel, has admitted the theft of the Countess of Antrim's jewels, stating that he had no trouble, but simply walked in and carried them off.

Buried Mrs. Crippen.

London, Oct. 4.—The coroner issued an order Saturday for the burial of the body found in the cellar of the home of Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, and which the coroner's jury found to be that of Belle Elmore, the doctor's wife.

Will Investigate Railway Wages.

Winnipeg, Oct. 4. Judge McGibbon of Brampton, Ont., chairman, F. H. McGuigan and Mr. Lee, comprising the royal commission appointed by the Dominion Government to enquire into the grievances of the maintenance of way men of the C.P.R., C.N.R. and G.T.P., last evening opened the first session of the board, which will last all week. Evidence will be taken and referred to the Department of Labor at Ottawa.

Maintenance of way men all through Canada have been asking for some time for increased wages, and the appointment of the present commission is the step taken by the Government to avert what might have been a serious strike.

Consistory November 2.

Paris, Oct. 4. The Rome correspondent of La Liberte say that a consistory has been definitely fixed for Nov. 21, when Pope Pius will name twelve cardinals, of whom ten will be Italians and two Frenchmen.

Broke a Propellor Blade.

Port Colborne, Oct. 4. The steamer Seguin broke one of her propeller blades in the canal yesterday, and is detained here while a diver is at work making repairs.

AN APPEAL TO REASON

TWELVE months ago, after prolonged investigation and experiment, we pinned our faith to the Knight motor as the greatest improvement of the decade in automobile construction.

Many believed us, bought cars and are to-day congratulating themselves on their judgement.

There were croakers then, perhaps there are to-day, but we have only pity for them.

THEY SAID The engine was an experiment, forgetting that it had stood the greatest engine test on record before the Royal Automobile Club of Great Britain and Ireland.

THEY SAID It will not stand up on Canadian roads, although they knew a challenge of $1,000 was open to anyone who wished to test his motor against the Knight for reliability.

THEY SAID That it would not be taken up in Europe, for the Daimler Company were about to discard it. We know what we say, anyone can verify it now, that the leading concerns of six European countries of Europe have adopted the Knight motor.

THEY SAID No one in the United States would take it up. We know that over twenty of the largest concerns in the United States have from time to time applied for consideration in the American rights. We know to-day that leading United States firms will announce [illegible] with Knight motors in another twelve months despite the fact that agents of some of these concerns profess great skepticism about the Knight motor to-day.

We seldom refer to or bother about the suggestions of interested opponents. We want, however, to report our conviction, formed a year ago, and confirmed by twelve months of experience in the factory, on the road, and in the users' hands.

That the Knight motor far surpasses the old valve type, and that it is only a question of time before it entirely supersedes it in all high grade cars. Get a car that will be up to date the longest.

Our 1911 model is out, but our 1910 users can smile, for their car is up-to-date still. 1911 is only a refinement in details on 1910.

CITY ASSESSORS RETURNED THEIR ROLLS THIS MORNING--OVER ELEVEN MILLIONS

Interesting Figures From Assessors' Reports--Population Shows Increase Over Last Year but the Gain is Not So Marked as Last Year.

TOTAL STATISTICS

The city assessors, Messrs. T. B. McGrath and T. J. Wilson, returned their rolls this morning, completing the assessing work of the year. While space, or time, does not permit of the publishing of the complete figures by wards in today's issue, the summary for the whole city is given below. A study of the figures will prove interesting. The population of the city as indicated in the assessor's returns is 16,923, a gain during the year, although not as large as the gain made in 1909. The assessment has grown during the year and has now reached the very considerable total of $11,439,930. The figures for the different wards of the city will be given tomorrow. Here is the recapitulation for the entire city.

THE BOILER EXPLODED SEVENTY WERE KILLED

Special Wire to The Examiner.

COLON, PANAMA, OCT. 4.—Boiler explosions, followed by the immediate sinking of the Pacific Company's steamer Chirque, caused the death of seventy persons. News has just arrived here, although the accident took place a week ago today, ninety miles off Panama. Twelve survivors have arrived here, some of them having existed the last day by eating portions of the flesh of their dead comrades. It seems most of the casualties took place when passengers and crew crowded into the overcrowded boats. The wireless operator failed to raise assistance.

PUBLIC MEETING TO DISCUSS THE QUESTION OF PAVING THE STREETS

Matter Was Again Before the Council Last Evening---Ald. Bradburn Offers to Pay for Paving Louis Street on Straight Frontage Tax---Motions and Amendments.

At last night's Council meeting His Worship Mayor Morrow again raised the question of street paving. He offered that a resolution might be passed to the effect that any street petitioned for would be paved on a 60 and 40 per cent. basis, the principle upon which sidewalks are paid for. This basis was the committee's recommendation based on information acquired by them in other cities.

Many resolutions and amendments and amendments to the amendments, were then the order of the night, until everyone concerned grew quite bewildered. However, out of the buzz of conflicting opinions and suggestions, there finally emerged the following tangible offerings:

Ald. Butler thought a public meeting should be called to discuss this question, any old time next year would do. The public had petitioned against the measure.

Ald. Phelan favoured the public meeting suggested, but let it be soon.

Ald. Turner thought the right policy to pursue would be to clear the poles off the streets first, have all connections made and the streets double tracked, then talk about street paving.

Ald. Bradburn believed in street paving as an economic measure. He would not object to a straight front age tax, providing those paying the same were relieved of street maintenance assessment. "Pave Louis street and I'll pay the whole cost, provided it is extended over 20 years, 5 and.

Ald. Morgan would vote for street paving on a straight tax.

Ald. Hicks thought a 60 and 40 per cent. basis the most equitable man ner of paying for such work.

"Pave Louis street," reiterated Ald. Bradburn, "and I'll pay for it either on a straight frontage tax, or on a 60 and 40 per cent basis."

Ald. Dolfus wanted the Council to get busy and push this matter through on business principles. "Don't be catering to every individual opinion you hear," he added.

Most of the aldermen agreed that the work once undertaken would be approved of by the ratepayers.

Ald. Butler moved, seconded by Ald. Phelan, "that a public meeting be called by the mayor within two weeks to discuss this question with the ratepayers."—Carried.

Graphic Story Of The Atlantic Coast As Told In "The Vulture"

A graphic story of the Atlantic Coast is William F. Mann's newest offering, "The Vulture," written on new lines and out of the ordinary, by W. M. Fletcher. Full of colour and action, inspiring in its theme, thrilling in its situations, and declared to be one of the most perfectly constructed plays on the stage. It depicts life in the locale of the story, as it could be pictured only by one intimately acquainted with the passions, impulses, and motives which inspire deep in the heart of nature. It tells the story of a lone girl (a character similar to Hilda in "The Wolf") full of undeveloped love, which awaits its calling only to find that she has grown to womanhood. Throughout the play there is a tenderness and natural wisdom which speaks volumes. This strongly acted and more strongly constructed production will be offered at the Grand Opera House on Saturday, Oct. 8th, matinee and night for your approval, and should prove an oasis in the desert of trashy plays.

AUDITORIUM ROLLER RINK

HAS STREET RAILWAY CO. KEPT FAITH?

Ald. Turner and Some of the Other Members of the Council do not Think That They Have —Promised Extension.

WILL BE TAKEN UP

Ald. Turner brought a matter before the City Council last evening, namely that of the extension of the street railway here. He stated that when the Company received its franchise from the city, it promised that it would make certain extensions. Ald. Turner did not think that the Company had kept faith, and several aldermen agreed with him. Ald. Turner moved, seconded by Ald. Duncan, that the matter be referred to the Manufacturers' Committee, and that Mr. Larmouth be asked to attend a meeting of the committee.

ABDUCTION CASE HEARD IN TORONTO

Mrs. Cowan of Palmerston Refuses to be Reconciled to Her Husband and Judge Dismisses the Charge.

"A TISSUE OF LIES"

Special Wire to the Examiner.

TORONTO, OCT. 4 — "I'll come back to live with Norman, not with you," declared Mrs. Lottie Cowan, of Palmerston in Judge Denton's court this morning, when her husband suggested that they should be reconciled. Mrs. Cowan had charged her husband with abduction, in taking the boy Norman after they had separated. Judge Denton after characterizing her story as a tissue of falsehoods, dismissed the charge. It looks as if the couple will continue to live separated, but Cowan will have their boy.

REV. DR. O'BRIEN HONOURED BY PAST PRESIDENTS OF ST. PETER'S T. A. SOCIETY

The Former Spiritual Adviser of the Society, Was Presented With Handsome Album Containing Photographs of Past Officers

AN ENJOYABLE EVENING

A very pleasant event took place last evening at the residence of Rev. Dr. O'Brien, when the Past Presidents of St. Peter's T.A.S. met and presented him with a beautiful album containing pictures of the several presidents who have occupied the chair since the organization of this well known society. After all had assembled, Mr. Joseph Begley stepped forward and delivered the following address, the presentation being made by Mr. O'Hern:

Dear Father, The past presidents of St. Peter's T.A.S. have appointed me to make a few remarks in explanation of why we are gathered here this evening. In the first place we wish to renew our friendship and it possible to cement that friendship with stronger ties. It has been our privilege to know you more intimately than the average member. We are in a position to know how much you have contributed to the well being of our society and the happiness of mankind. When man looks back upon his past and realizes what it might have been it is sometimes a sad reflection, and when the fruits of his mistakes weigh the heaviest upon him and when the trials and tribulations of the present appear more than the human heart can stand, it is then that the character of the priest and yours in particular brings that man to realize that life is worth living after all. The true moral character of a man is what he knows himself to be, and there is not one of us but must say we are better for having known you, and we know ourselves in a manner that we would not, if we had not known you. You will say, as you have said before, that of yourself you have done nothing extraordinary. We know the work was accomplished and could not have been done without generalship, that called for considerable self-sacrifice on some one's part, and we know who took the particular part and how well it was handled. It is not every one that can take his school companions and lay out a path for them to follow and keep them on that path. It is not everyone that can change the very character of men who are old enough to be their father. You call this work your duty. Such devotion to duty is rare in this age of dollars and cents, in this age when people's Christianity is weighed in the balance with their commercial standing. The pleasant duty and the duty that brings recompense is not hard to perform. We who know something about the inside workings of our society, know how you never shirked when the unpleasant duty presented itself and no one knows how much of this duty there is to be done in a society of this kind, and no one will ever know how much you have had to handle. If St. Peter's T.A.S. should ever forget our good friend, to use a Vaughan expression, we would be tempted to chuck it, but it never will, not as long as the auld gaurd (as Father Frank has called us) is in existence. Some time ago you expressed some admiration for the work done by the past presidents and for the way they have stuck to the society and proposed that they set a group picture.

REPRESENTATIVE CITIZENS EXPRESS VIEWS IN FAVOUR OF TECHNICAL EDUCATION

Royal Commission on Technical Education Concluded Taking of Evidence Last Night---Manufacturers, Labour Representatives, Educationists, Give Their Opinions ---Interesting Testimony.

The Royal Commission on Technical Education finished its taking of evidence in Peterborough last night, when an interesting session was held in the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute, which lasted three hours. The attendance was much larger than in the afternoon, a representative gathering of citizens being present who took a lively interest in the proceedings. Dr. Robertson, the chairman of the commission briefly explained the objects of the commission for the benefit of those who had not been present in the afternoon.

Mr. H. D. Burnett, of the lamp department of the C.G.E., was the first witness called. He stated that his department employed about 125, mostly girls. Manual training for them would be an advantage to these girls as it would cultivate manual dexterity and intelligence. In certain parts of the work girls of a high degree of intelligence were required and difficulty was experienced in some cases of getting that kind. Mr. Burnett was certain that manual training in the schools would be of benefit as the girls would be better equipped to carry on their work. For the boys of the department a course in mechanics and general machinery would be desirable.

The City Commissioner.

City Commissioner Duggan was next called. He stated that the industries of Peterborough were growing. He had found that the people of the city were having no difficulty in securing work. On the other hand he did not think that the manufacurers were having any difficulty in securing men unless it was skilled labour. Peterborough had advantages in the way of water power not fully developed and was an excellent railway centre. The Board of Trade was quite anxious and desirous of securing more industries. Nothing had been done by the Commissioner along the lines of technical education, although Mr. Duggan stated that a system of this kind would undoubtedly prove beneficial.

For the Pattern Maker.

Mr. Raymond Tisdale, pattern maker in the Peterborough Lock M'fg Co was the next witness. There were two pattern makers employed there. He had learned his trade in that concern by serving four years. He had taken a course in a Correspondence School in mechanical drafting He thought he would have gotten more good from going to a school, and was sure that all young men would attend schools if they were provided. He was sure that industrial training would be highly in the interests of the pattern makers. It had been discussed in the Pattern Makers' League, of which he was a member.

The Moulders.

Mr. Hugh Robertson spoke of the moulders. He was employed at the Wm. Hamilton M'fg. Co He had served a regular apprenticeship of four years. He had taken a short course in mechanical drawing and had found it useful to him. There were four apprentices employed in his department. A course in a suitable school where a boy could be taught something of metals, chemistry, etc., would be of much practical use to a boy learning the moulding trade. He believed the youngest men of the trade would attend such night schools if there were any in Peterborough. He was sure that the Moulders' Union would welcome a system of technical training. Mr. Robertson considered that a course in the Collegiate was a proper thing for any one who had the opportunity. He believed that if a system of technical education could be formed in the Public school it would be of advantage. A night school would, however, be appreciated by working men's sons. To Mr. Simpson Mr. Robertson said that the environment of a moulding shop was not the best for its occupants on account of bad ventilation, washing facilities, etc. The moulders' union of Peterborough had discussions upon subjects pertaining to their work.

The Carpenters.

Mr. S. J. Anglesey, representing the carpenters, was next called. He had not served an apprenticeship to learn the carpentry trade nor for the mill wright trade. He began to pick up the trade fifteen years ago. He had not attended night schools or taken in a correspondence school. He believed a night course in cement construction, mechanical drawing, etc., would be of the greatest service to him. He was sure the apprentices especially would be glad to join such schools. His union always a vocated technical education.

Mr. D. W. Dumble.

Mr. D. W. Dumble, speaking for the Board of Education said that the public school attendance in Peterborough was 1960 pupils and that there was ample accommodation for them and the Board had a number of spare rooms available in one school. They had built very largely in the past few years. A system of compulsory attendance was in force and it had been found that the children attended with reasonable regularity. The worst cases come from poor and improvident homes, who would not make good pupils or good workmen either. Speaking of the manual training and domestic science work in the schools of Peterborough Mr. Dumble explained that the Board had the services of a teacher employed in connection with the Normal school half of whose salary was paid by the Ontario Government. The system had been in force for a couple of years, and had given satisfaction to the Board who were anxious of arranging for more advanced training in technical work and had petitioned the Minister of Education to that effect. The domestic science work had proved satisfactory and the Board was satisfied with the progress that had been made. The speaker believed in the benefits of the teaching of domestic science to the girls, as it taught them to be economical and to secure the best results from the material in hand.

The Public School Inspector.

Mr. A. Mowat, Inspector of Public Schools for Peterborough, stated that the public school staff of the city consisted of 55 teachers. Manual training and domestic science had been in operation in the schools for two years and had given satisfaction. He had found no complaint from teachers as to the work of their pupils in other subjects being kept back by the attention to manual training and domestic science. These subjects were taught only in the fourth book of the Public schools. He believed that the Public school pupils should get at least two years of this training. He was sure that if night schools were to be started in Peterborough there would be no difficulty in securing competent teachers from the public school staff. Peterborough was especially fortunate in comparison with other places in having an unusually large number of male teachers upon its staff. Mr. Mowat stated that about 95 or 100 passed from the Public schools into the Collegiate Institute and about the same number dropped out. These were boys and girls who under the present conditions, were possible to be got at. Mr. Mowat stated that he would be in favour of making the age up to which it was compulsory to attend school fifteen instead of fourteen, although he admitted that might work hardship upon the parents in some cases. In answer to a question from Mr. Jas. Simpson as to whether he would favour making a compulsory standard to which pupils must attain before leaving school, instead of an age limit, Mr. Mowat replied that it was worth thinking about.

Principal of the Collegiate.

Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, principal of the Collegiate Institute, stated that he had been engaged in teaching in the Collegiate Institute in Peterborough for seventeen years. The present building had been occupied for two years and just provided ample accommodation for the pupils. There were no rooms for manual training or domestic science, the pupils going to other buildings for this work. Mr. Kenner explained the different courses in connection with the Collegiate work, stating that there was a two year commercial course, a general course, a teachers course, and a course for those who desired to take up the learned professions. As far as technical training was concerned the Collegiate Institute was merely dabbling in it. About sixty boys each year studied the work two hours each week. Mr. Kenner stated that the chief fault and handicap in connection with Collegiate work was the multiplicity of subjects. He believed that the academy should be kept separate from the manipulative; that the boy who intended to go on into the learned professions should not have his work interfered with by manual training. On the other hand he thought that boys who intended to go into industrial work should be prepared for it by technical training. He considered Latin and Greek of great importance, even to the farmer or to those taking up commercial work. It was, he thought, just as important for those who were to teach in Public schools as nature study or manual training as they broaded the mind and got people out of the narrow groove. He did not object to manual training for those who wanted to take up industrial pursuits, but did not think that it should be made compulsory upon all students of the Collegiate Institute.

Chairman Robertson took advantage of the opportunity to congratulate Mr. Kenner upon the handsome and well kept appearance of the Collegiate, both outside and in and upon the excellent quality of the pupils he had seen there.

Gin Pills Sent Free

Yes, we send Gin Pills free to every sufferer from Kidney and Bladder Trouble, Rheumatism and Lame Back. We want all sufferers to test Gin Pills, and use for themselves that these pills actually cure all such diseases. No matter what your experience has been with doctor's medicine and advertised remedies, we want you to try Gin Pills. And we let you see how much good they will do you by sending you a free sample, because we think your experience will be exactly like that of Mr. Webster's.

Skippens, Ont., Dec. 10th.

"I have used the sample box of Gin Pills you sent me and have received great relief. I enclose you P. O. Order for $2.50 for half a dozen boxes."

RICHARD WEBSTER.

You see, Mr. Webster first wrote for a free sample of Gin Pills. He tried them. They did him so much good that he was glad to send the money for 6 full size boxes because he felt that he had found a cure for his trouble.

Do the same. Write the National Drug & Chem. Co. Limited Dept. B. Toronto, for a free sample. Then you will be in a position to decide whether Gin Pills are the right remedy for you. 27

TECHNICAL EDUCATION.

The visit of the Royal Commission on Technical Education elicited yesterday a great deal of information that was not new nor needed by thoughtful men, as to the necessity, demand, and importance of Technical Education. We need technical education for two chief reasons. First, because we need it for the best equipment of our boys and girls if they are to take and keep their proper places in the industrial race. We need it, secondly, because we have it not. Educationists generally recognise the fact that the tendency of our educational system, as applied, through the medium of our primary and secondary schools, is to give prominence in both facilities and impulse to prepartion for professional life. Not even are our secondary schools primarily equipped and administered to provide the most urgent need to complete our educational cycle—the preparation of teachers for our public schools. But there is, as far as general application, almost absolute absence of systematic attention to technical education. While educational culture and professional life are not to be underrated, the practical side demands the greatest attention. The vast majority of our population enters industrial life in some form, either in the workshop, or factory, or on the farm—for the farm is the greatest unit of manufacturing industry in the world. To maintain expensive educational institutions, that do not even adequately provide teachers, and only turn out a few professional acolytes, is certainly failure to meet the demand of the age. Canada is a country of infinite and practically infinite variety of resources. To realise upon these to the highest advantage needs a population of skilled workers, such as a properly devised and applied system of technichal education would provide. To this end, the Royal Commission on Technical education is the most important agency of progress of the generation. Their report will form the basis upon which the provinces, to which the duty belongs, can rear an effective system of training the youth of Canada in a way to give the highest degree of fitness for the work in which the mass of our population must engage.

PILES [illegible] DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

A VERY GOOD IDEA.

In another column will be found outlined the needs of a very commendable scheme of help inaugurated by the Young Women's Christian Association. The world is full of heroines in petticoats—of noble women who under compulsion join hands with the husband or with themselves in the strenuous battle of keeping the wolf from the door, and sustaining the litle lives committed to their charge. In this work many are hampered by the necessity of leaving tender children at home, exposed to danger by fire and the greater possible danger of vicious association apart from a mother's watchful eye. To meet a distinct want, the Association has provided a Day Nursery or what the French call a creche, where upon payment of a trifling fee, the infants or other children of women who go from home to daily work, are fed and cared for, kept warm and safe from harm. In this work the Association needs assistance, for the nominal trifle paid by mothers, is not enough to cover the expense of the maintenance of the nursery in efficiency. The Association requires several articles detailed elsewhere and their demand is commended warmly to the practical attention of those, who have by them many articles, whose destiny is destruction by moth and rust, which if turned over to the Day Nursery of the Young Women's Christian Association, will help in doing a splendid work; one that will provide for the safety and comfort of children and help women to carry to their daily toil, lighter hearts from the knowledge that, while they work, no harm that human care can ward off, can come to their little ones. Worry is more wearying than work; and while work, as the lot of humanity, cannot be avoided, much, if not all, worry, can b lifted from the hearts of the toiling mothers.

LIVING.

Our United States cousins are inclined to vote Canadians slow; New Yorkers, especially, are inclined to regard existence in a small city like Peterborough as existence in a cemetery, or similar lively place. It all depends on the view of what constitutes living. In New York, judging from investigations made there, there were a year or two ago, 101,277 rooms in tenements absolutely without windows, not counting the thousands of windows that open upon the enclosed and roofed court of apartment houses. To persons living in civilized conditions in the matter of housing, such as obtain in Peterborough, such a mass of misery as the windowless rooms represent, is not conceivable. To every one of us God's pure air is open and God's pure sunshine can pour its beneficient radiance into practically every room of every home. And it is a home in contrast with the kennels that shelter the denizens of crowded humanity in New York and other large cities. There, there is no living; it is merely animated death, days of mad rush, or hungry, prowling, waking nightmares, followed by a few hours of squalid darkness in windowless dens, less comfortable and less inviting than the earth burrows of the wild beasts, for these at least, if they are dark, are fed with pure air; whereas, in the seething tenements of great cities air, foul and polluted as the exhaled breath of a buzzard, is, even at that, measured out by the pint. We, in this happy city, and happy province, do not know how fortunate and happy we are. Young men and girls, who long for the life of great cities do not know what they long for. One dollar in Peterborough, or any where else in Ontario will buy more solid comfort than twice that amount in New Pork, or other big cities, for there are things that much money cannot buy—pure air, unpolluted sunshine, wide spaces, happy surroundings, and peace and rest. Why should the call of the cities, especially in foreign lands, have so much lure in it. In no country under the wide dome of heaven's blue sky is there so much general comfort, so much gentility of healthy climate, so happy civil and social conditions, so much distributed competence, so much general condition of happy living and the real life as there is in the Province of Ontario. To the happy Canadian, who longs for green pastures—where no grass grows, and apples of Sodom are the plentifullest fruit—might well be given the paradoxical advice, travel and see the world, but stay at home, if you would enjoy real live living.

"MADE IN CANADA."

(Ottawa Free Press)

Canadian manufacturers do well to exploit the "Made in Canada" brand by newspaper advertising.

Unquestionably the effect of the campaign will be felt by those manufacturers who so brand their goods. It will reach some manufacturers who have never invested in printer's ink. It may demonstrate to them the value of advertising.

The effects of this "Made in Canada" campaign, if rightly conducted, are liable to be as great on manufacturers themselves as on the public. For while the public will be educated to look for the "Made in Canada" mark, some manufacturers who have hitherto not seen it may perceive the benefit which comes from publicity.

For manufacturing is divided into three main divisions, purchase of raw material, production of the manufactured article, and sale of same. Advertising is an engine which promotes quick and economical selling. It is a force which familiarizes the public with a product. It is an agency not employed to as great an extent as it should be by many Canadian manufactures.

CARING FOR THE TEETH.

(Toronto Globe)

It is only of late years that from a sanitation point of view serious attention has been given to the danger to general health from allowing the teeth to become decayed. It has been a widespread assumption that "toothache" is a comparatively trifling though a painful malady. The sounder pathalogical view is that it is not a malady at all, but a symptom of the existence of abnormal conditions in the mouth. The acute pain is a friendly warning by nature that there is something wrong which ought to be righted, and the science and practice of dentistry are now so well understood that it is just as absurd to neglect abnormal conditions in the mouth as it is to neglect them in any other part of the body.

This is the doctrine proclaimed by the Ontario Department of Agriculture in a bulletin prepared and published for general circulation through the medium of its Women's Institute branch. It is entitled "The Teeth and Their Care," and has for sub-title "Dental Hygiene and its Relations to Health." It deals in an interesting and suggestive way with the necessity for maintaining the mouth in good sanitary condition, the diseases of the teeth, the importance of proper mastication, and the bad effects of the loss of teeth on the personal appearance of those who lose them even by extraction. There are several very well executed diagrams to illustrate and enforce the information embodied in the letter-press, wheih has been prepared by the Educational Committee of the Ontario Dental Society.

The publication of this bulletin is peculiarly timely for Toronto, which has just embarked on a system of medical inspection of schools. There is a staff of nurses who ought to be well instructed as to the care of the teeth in order that they may correctly and usefully inform teachers about the hygiene of the teeth as well as of the mouth generally. These nurses report conditions to the Board of Inspectors, and cases calling for expert attention and perhaps treatment are then handed over to the medical supervising officers. Didatic hints as to the necessity for and the advantage of proper and not difficult precautions may be made very much more impressive and effective by the possession of accurate knowledge of the subject, even if it be only general and non-technical. In bad cases the parents should be at once notified so that the growing child may have the advantage of his ordinary evolution to help him out of the worst of his childish troubles in this part of his body.

Uncle Sam's Relation To Canada And Reciprocity

That the Republican leaders in the United States hope to use Canada to pull Republican chestnuts out of the fire was the conclusion come to by Mayor Goffatt, after spending a few days in New York last week, during the course of which he took occasion to make close enquiries into the political situation, and had conversation with some prominent members of the dominant party.

His Worship went to New York, in fact, largely for the very purpose of estimating the business and political situation there, because these factors have an important bearing on the fur trade. He found that the business prospects on the other side of the border are anything but bright. Not in many years has he seen so little building going on in New York, or so large a number of men out of work. On former visits to the fur manufacturing district of the city, signs "Operators wanted" might be seen in the window of nearly every establishment. At present these signs are conspicuous only by their absence. There has been a tremendous contraction in the steel and iron industry of late, and even a reasonably good harvest has failed to give any buoyancy to trade.

The unsatisfactory condition of business is ascribed largely to the political chaos which has developed across the border. The old parties seem to be breaking up. One chairman of a district in New York told His Worship that there were thousands of men in his own district who did not know whether they were Republicans or Democrats, or what they were. The same condition obtains throughout the whole country. Keensighted men with whom he talked expressed the opinion that the outcome would be the formation of a new party, composed of the better elements from both the Democrats and the Republicans. They were convinced however, that Theodore Roosevelt would not be the leader of this new Progressive party. They believe that ere the time comes for its organization "Terrible Teddy" will have talked himself out. Some of those who are afraid of his revolutionary ideas are said to be encouraging him to talk with this end in view. Many people are opposed to Roosevelt, because they fear that if he were to return to the White House, he would be practically an autocrat and dictator. This feeling is particularly strong among the foreign element, who have had enough of autocracy in Europe, and want no second Kaiser Wilhelm rule over them.

Mayor Goffatt found great interest taken in the development of Canada. It is one of the chief topics of conversation among moneyed New Yorkers. They know as much of the facts as we do here on the ground—and perhaps more. They believe that Canada is to afford the greatest market, and opportunities for money making, in the world for the coming fifty years. The New York papers devote columns, and sometimes pages, to the discussion of Canadian affairs.

But deep as is the interest in Canada among the investing classes, it is the politicians who are most anxiously turning their eyes in this direction. The Republican leaders count on using Canada to save the Administration and the party from defeat. They realize that the tariff must be lowered. The people are determined on that. But they think that if they can induce the Canadian Government to enter into a reciprocity treaty, they will "save their face." The lowering will then have the appearance of a good bargain. Besides, it will give the Americans a firmer hold on the Canadian market, and will forestall any arrangement for an Imperial Zollverein, which is a great bugaboo to United States commercial men.

"We quite recognize that, to be fair, we should cut down our tariff to the same level as yours, if we want reciprocity," said one prominent Republican to His Worship. "Our tariff is twice as high as yours at present. But if we can induce your Government to reduce your tariff twenty per cent. in return for reducing ours by the same percentage, it will, of course, be better business. We shall then still retain the relative advantage over you, and shall secure the cheaper food supplies which our people demand. But if your Government won't bargain, we shall have to bring down our tariff anyway."

The Republican leaders are encouraged to hope that this little game will be successful because of the weakness shown by the Laurier administration in the dispute over the minimum tariff last winter. The waving of the big stick then brought the Canadian Government to its knees. "You Canadians saved Taft that time," a Democrat said to Mayor Goffatt. "If he had attempted to enforce the maximum tariff against Canada there would have been a rebellion in this country. It was a pure game of bluff, and the action of the Canadian Government in consenting to lower certain duties saved the President from an ignominious backdown. You will be playing his game ish if it enters into any reciprocity treaty."

Mayor Goffatt came home from his trip convinced that the Canadian Government will be exceedingly foolish if it enters into any reciprocity treaty at the present juncture, no matter what terms are offered by the United States. The treaty would be designed entirely to serve the ends of American politicians, and would bring to Canada no advantages which she will not obtain with a little patience, without any concessions on our part.

Notice to Creditors

In the matter of Michael C. Tooley of the City of Peterborough, in the County of Peterborough, Hotel Keeper, Insolvent.

Notice is hereby given that the said M. C. Tooley, formerly carrying on business as a hotel keeper at the City of Peterborough, has made an assignment under R.S.O. 1897 chapter 147, of all his estate, credits and effects to Walter Stewart Davidson of the City of Peterborough in the County of Peterborough, Solicitor, for the general benefit of his creditors.

A meeting of creditors will be held at the office of the said assignee in the Bank of Commerce building in the City of Peterborough on Wednesday, the 12th day of October, A.D., 1910 at the hour of 11 o'clock in the forenoon to receive a statement of affairs, to appoint inspectors, and for the ordering of the affairs of estate generally. Creditors are requested to file their claims with the assignee with the proofs and particulars thereof as required by the said Act on or before the day of such meeting.

And notice is further given that after the 12th day of November, A.D., 1910, the assignee will proceed to distribute the assets of the estate amongst the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to the claims of which notice shall then have been given and that he will not be liable for the assets or any parts thereof so distributed to any person or persons of whose claim he shall not then have had notice.

W. S. Davidson,
Assignee.

Dated at Peterborough this 1st day of October, A.D., 1910.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Winnipeg Paper Calls J. Crough A Phenomenon In Athletic Field

An Interesting Sketch of Deaf Mute who Until a Year Ago Was a Prominent Figure in Athletics in This City.

STAR AT ALL SPORTS

The Winnipeg Free Press has the following interesting reference to Jack Crough, formerly of Peterboro:

Possessing deafness, dumbness, and the ability to scintillate in nearly every branch of athletic sport is the somewhat remarkable accomplishment of Jack Crough, who is now a resident of Winnipeg, and who will be found on the back division of St. John's rugby team in their game against the rowing club this afternoon.

Crough comes from Peterboro, Ont., and is a graduate of the Ontario school for the deaf and dumb at Belleville. His achievements in the realm of sport are as numerous as the colors of Joseph's coat and as diversified as they are plentiful. It is doubtful if any deaf mute in Canada has attained the same success as an athlete as the former Peterboro man; in fact, he is somewhat of a phenomenon in this line.

Probably no other deaf mute in the world has a record that can equal that of Crough's. He plays rugby and association football, hockey, lacrosse, baseball, basketball, has figured in several wrestling matches, and in 1910 won the all-round championship of Peterboro at a meet held under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A. As an athletic prodigy, Crough is a good deal more of a wonder than "Dummy" Taylor, erstwhile big league pitcher and one of the star twirlers of the Buffalo team of the Eastern league during the season just closed.

SUCCESS ON THE GRIDIRON

Rugby is one of the most difficult games that a deaf person can engage in on account of the plays being based entirely on signals, but despite the fact that he cannot hear the numbers called, Crough manages to know what play is being put in operation and seldom if ever makes a mistake. He is said to be the only deaf mute in Canada who has attained success on the gridiron. An alert brain and a pair of keen eyes enable him to participate in the "trick" plays with as much skill as a player possessing all his faculties.

Crough started to play rugby in 1902 when he was spare man for the Peterboro team that won the intermediate championship of Ontario. In 1902 he played outside wing for the Peterboro team and in 1904 was full back for the Hamilton Tigers when they won the senior championship of Ontario. In 1905 he was outside wing for the Peterboro team that won the intermediate championship of Ontario, and the next year played the same position for Peterboro in the Ontario senior union. In 1907 he played outside wing and left half back for Peterboro when that team won the senior championship of Ontario and lost to Montreal, champions of the "Big Four," in a match for Dominion honours. Crough played full back for the Peterboro team in 1908, and afterward came west. He played half back for St. John's intermediates in one game in Winnipeg last fall, and so impressed the critics that he will be found on the St. John's seniors this season. He can kick with either foot, has a sure pair of hands and the speed to make him a good ground gainer.

STAR AT ALL SPORTS

A half dozen years ago Crough, during a sojourn in British Columbia, played on the Nelson association football club that won the championship of the Kootenay district, and a few years later was a member of the Peterboro football team that won the championship of the Midland district. He has also been captain of the deaf mutes football team of Toronto. During the past summer he played for the Hibernians in the Winnipeg senior league, and was one of the stars of the eleven. He also played on the team representing Ireland and Wales in the match against the Scottish representatives for the international honours of 1910.

In hockey Crough has a good record. He was a member of the Peterboro team that won the intermediate championship of Ontario in 1902, and in 1904 played on the team that won the championship of the Manufacturers' league in Toronto.

Crough has played lacrosse with the Peterboro team, and several years ago made a good showing in the welterweight class at the Canadian wrestling championship bouts in Toronto.

By trade, Crough is a brass finisher, and is employed in Winnipeg in that capacity at the present time.

FUSIE AND CARLISLE THE WINNERS IN CROSS COUNTRY RUN OF THE COLLEGIATE

Senior Winner a Dark Horse---Came Home by Himself, Winning by 200 Yards, But the Junior Contest Was a Battle Right to the Finish, Carlisle Winning by a Scant Six Inches.

Clarence Fusie won the senior event and Murray Carlisle captured the junior contest in connection with the annual cross country runs of the Collegiate Institute Society held yesterday afternoon.

The course for both races was the same as last year. The start was on McDonnel Street, opposite the school, and the course was along McDonnel Street to the boundary, along the boundary to Smith Street, down Smith Street to Water, down Water to McDonnel, and along that street to the starting point.

Fusie, a lanky newcomer from Campbellford, about whom little was known, was the dark horse in the senior race, and like some dark horses came through handily. There were three other starters—Harold Hill, Roy Dixon, and Nagle Phelan. Hill was strongly favored for the event, but could not get closer than second. The four starters bunched for the first half of the course, but between the two hills on Smith street Fusie cut loose with a spurt that steadily took him away from the others, and he was never in difficulties afterwards. He nished fresh and strong, 200 yards in front of Hill, who took a cramp half way over the course. Hill was an easy second. Dixon and Phelan had a merry battle all the way down Water Street for third position, which Dixon finally captured. All four finished in good shape. The time—16 mins. 18 secs.—was good, although not up to the record. The distance is estimated at 2¾ miles.

THE JUNIOR RACE

The junior race was a different position, and ended up in a desperate battle to the line between Murray Carlisle and Clare Stewart, the former finally capturing the honours by a scant six inches. The two hung together all through the course. Carlisle took the lead on Smith Street, but Stewart sprinted and closed up the gap and was on Carlisle's heels on the long run down Water Street. As they swung around onto McDonnel Street Carlisle cut loose with a sprint that gave him a twenty yard lead, which he maintained until seventy-five yards from the finish when Stewart shook out a reef and by a beautiful sprint caught Carlisle three yards from home and passed him a yard from the line. However, thinking that he had finished he slowed up long enough for Carlisle to spurt and shoot past, winning by six inches. It was the closest finish in the history of the event, and until the judges had given their decision many of the spectators could not determine who had won. There were seven starters. The time for the juniors was 18 mins. 15 secs.

1. Murray Carlisle.
2. Clare Stewart.
3. McIntyre.
4. H. Quinn.
5. L. Anderson.

The other starters were H. Dixon and M. Hnycke.

The Collegiate Institute pupils and staff were out in force for the contests. The jumping events will take place at Riverside Park on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons, and the annual field day will be held in the same place on Friday, the school being given a half-holiday. Additional interest is being taken in the programme this year on account of the fact that the staff has kindly donated a cup to be given the form whose representatives win the most points in the different events, senior and junior alike to count. With favorable weather the meet should be one of the most successful in the history of the Collegiate Institute.

First Rugby Game Of The Season Here Saturday

The first Rugby game of the season will be played here at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon when the Collegiate Institute will hook up with the senior fourteen of the Trinity College School. The two teams are old rivals and the game should be well worth seeing. Under Dr. MacPherson's coaching Collegiate team has rounded into good shape, and although Richardson, Geale, Gibson, Berritt and Rankin of last year's back division are all missing good substitutes have been found to take their places and the team has shown up splendidly in practice. According to Pete Campbell, the old T. C. S. player, the Port Hope aggregation is even stronger than last year, having been reinforced by a star Upper Canada half back, who is billed as a grand punter. They have been practising faithfully, and will undoubtedly prove very awkward adversaries for Captain Ray and his Collegiate Students on Saturday. The first game of the season should attract a big following.

The Programme For The Collegiate Field Day

The annual field day of sports in connection with the Collegiate Institute will be held at Riverside Park on Friday afternoon and an unusually interesting programme has been arranged. The fall drill of the 57th Regiment until further orders was completed last night when a march-out, headed by the brass and bugle bands was held from the armouries. There was a good turnout of the regiment and the parade was witnessed by a large number of citizens. No orders were read last evening and the weekly drills will be discontinued until further orders which probably means that they will not be recommenced until the usual time next spring.

A SPLENDID 'LUNGE

It remained for the fag end of the fishing season to mark one of the biggest captures of the year. Yesterday, Messrs Albert Jones and W. Clarke were trawling near the G.T.R. Railway bridge above the locks when they hailed a beauty which when landed was found to weigh exactly twenty pounds. It is one of the finest lunge pulled out of the Otonabee for some time.

MURRAY ST. BAPTISTS HAVE CONGREGATIONAL REUNION

Most Enjoyable Evening Was Spent by the Congregation Last Night Delightful Programme Rendered

ATTENDANCE LARGE

The annual congregational social Reunion of the Murray Street Baptist Church took place in the basement of that church last night.

The meeting was a complete success from beginning to end. From eight o'clock until ten-thirty the basement was thronged with young people enjoying interchange of social amenities. At 8.30 a musical and literary programme started, which was of exceptional merit, and was capped by an informal banquet, truly sumptuous in every detail of appointment and quality.

The items on the programme were as follows:

A short address by Rev. Mr. Webb, who acted as chairman.

The Misses Elcome rendered a very pleasing musical selection, which won the applause of all present.

Miss Clara Kidd then sang a solo, entitled, "On the bonnie, bonnie banks of Loch Lomond." It was very much applauded and appreciated.

The next item on the programme was a piano solo by Miss Quinn, which was greatly appreciated.

Mr. Elcome spoke on behalf of the Bible Class.

This was followed by a humorous quartette by Messrs. Cochrane, Riddell, Harding and White, entitled, "Steal Away."

Miss Millar then rendered a pleasing violin solo.

Miss Elcome favored the audience with a song. This item was especially well rendered and greatly applauded.

Mrs. Millar sang a solo to the accompaniment of a violin and piano.

Miss C. Kidd sang another much appreciated solo.

Mr. Bruce Quinn sang a song which was very much appreciated and especially applauded.

The repast then followed, and a very enjoyable time was spent. The meeting drew to a close about 10.30.

A. Y. P. A. SOCIAL AT ST. JOHN'S WAS A SUCCESS

Informal Reception to Rev. and Mrs. Carpenter Was Included With a Splendid Programme.

AN ENJOYABLE EVENT

The A.Y.P.A. apron and tie social held last night in St. John's School, was a great success, a large crowd thronging the rooms, which had been specially decorated by Mr. A. Kingscote. Mr. R. J. Devey, President, presided, supported by Rev. Canon Davidson, Rev. Chas. Carpenter, Mr. A.E.Coulthard, Mr. J. H. Burnham, Mr. H. Cluxton and Mr. Chas. Coleman, and the occasion was made an informal reception to Rev. and Mrs. Carpenter and family. The Rector, Messrs. Burnham and Cluxton, voiced the kindly feelings of the parish to the new assistant, who received a hearty reception on rising to address the gathering.

A good programme was furnished, as follows:

Violin solo, "Reverie," Vieuxtemps, Master W. Wilson.

Song, "Down the Vale," Miss Hinchcliffe.

Song, "The Violet Girl," Miss Quartermaine.

Song, "Lam, Lam, Lam," Mr. Halpany.

Song, "Nightingale and the Rose," Mrs. Perks.

Violin solo, "Raff's Cavatina" Master W. Wilson.

Song, "Kilts," Mr. Barrett.

The violin solos were well rendered, and Master Wilson has, no doubt, a brilliant future before him. Mrs. Wilson played his accompaniments. The other numbers were accompanied by Mr. R. J. Devey.

Mr. Halpany brought down the house with his song, and all the performers were well received.

The tennis prizes were presented by the Rev. Canon Davidson, who eulogized the work of the tennis committee in running such a splendid club.

Ladies' singles, Miss Lilian Dean.

Mixed doubles, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Richardson.

Gentlemen's singles, Mr. W. L. Richardson.

The prizes were handsome "Roy Studio" views of St. John's church, except that of the Gents', singles, which was an engraved bronze tablet by Clark & Sons. Mr. W. L. Richardson has taken an active part, both in city and club tennis and plays a hard game, and withal a gentlemanly one.

At the close refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. R. J. Devey, Miss Layfield and Miss Ida Wesley, who, with the other members of the committee, are to be heartily congratulated on the success of the evening.

A verse of the National Anthem concluded the proceedings about 10.30 p.m.

NO INDIGESTION OR STOMACH DISORDER

No Gas, Heartburn, Headache or Dyspepsia Five Minutes Later

Why not get some now—this moment, and forever rid yourself of Stomach trouble and indigestion? A dicted stomach gets the blues and grumbles. Give it a good eat, then take Pape's Diapepsin to start the digestive juices working. There will be no dyspepsia or belching of Gas or eructations of undigested food; no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach or heartburn, sick headache and Dizziness, and your food will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odours.

Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents for a large case at any drug store here, and will relieve the most obstinate case of Indigestion and Upset Stomach in five minutes.

There is nothing else better to take Gas from Stomach and cleanse the stomach and intestines, and, besides one single dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all your food the same as a sound, healthy stomach would do it.

When Diapepsin works, your stomach rests—gets itself in order, cleans up—and then you feel like eating when you come to the table, and what you eat will do you good.

Absolute relief from all Stomach Misery is waiting for you as soon as you decide to take a little Diapepsin. Tell your druggist that you want Pape's Diapepsin, because you want to become thoroughly cured this time.

Remember, if your stomach feels out of order and uncomfortable now, you can get rid of it in five minutes.

ANNOUNCEMENT

To my Friends and the General Public of Peterborough—

I beg to notify my friends and the public generally, that I have disposed of my drug business to Mr. W. J. Kent, a gentleman whom I can recommend to the people of Peterborough as one fully capable to run a drug business in an up-to-date manner in every respect.

In making this announcement, I beg to thank my many patrons for all their kindnesses shown to me in the past 30 years, and trust that they will give the same confidence to my successor as they did to myself.

It affords me very great pleasure to feel that in retiring from the drug business I am placing that business in the hands of a gentleman who is in every respect worthy of the confidence and esteem of the citizens of Peterborough.

(Signed) H. S. MACDONALD,

With reference to the above I beg to announce to the people of Peterborough that having purchased the business of Mr. H. S. Macdonald. I feel that my long and varied experience in every line of the business justifies me in saying to the people of Peterborough that my constant aim and desire will be to give them a service in the drug and sundry line second to none in the business. Having ample capital I do not intend to be undersold and at all times will guarantee the quality and standard of my goods to be equal to the best procurable.

The stock being badly depleted I am purchasing new lines in every department and hope to have them ready for your inspection in the course of a week or two. Eighteen years' experience as a prescription specialist will be sufficient guarantee that this particular branch of the business which I intend to personally supervise will lead to the best results for both the medical man and his patient. Uniformity of quality and drugs, true to name, will always prevail.

W. J. KENT.

The Evangelistic Campaign At Park Street Church

Another interesting meeting was held last night at the Park Street Baptist Church. Dr. Luttrell took for the foundation of his address, St. Luke 5; 1-11. "He spoke about the success of failure. Deep sea fishing was a hard task, and required pluck and courage, but to go on a deep-sea fishing expedition in daylight, would appear to an old salt, the height of folly. But Peter says: "We have toiled all the night, but nevertheless at Thy word, we will let down the nets." Daylight fishing in the deep might appear ridiculous, but it always pays to obey God's word. When God says: "Launch out into the deep", we should obey. The pathway of failure with God means success. Dr. Luttrell spoke in a very pathetic way as he related some of the failures of his life. There were four things in the narrative, he said. They were: "Failure, Meeting Jesus, Assured success, Overflowing."

The meetings are growing in interest, come and enjoy the meeting this evening at eight o'clock.

The "Naked Truth" Makes Its American Debut Scores Toronto Triumph

Examiner Special.

Toronto, Oct. 3

City Editor, Examiner.

The first American production of "The Naked Truth" took place at the Royal Alexandra theatre here to-night under the direction of William A. Brady, the New York independent manager. Henry E. Dixey was the star and was supported by a company including Marie Nordstrom, Ruth Shepley, Isabel West, Dorothy Davies, Lillian Dix, Marie Pert, Blanche Bryant, Kenneth Davenport, Herbert Standing, Spottswood Aiken, Frank Hatch, Frederick Roberts and George Ives. Mr. Dixey appeared in the role of Boinard Darrell, now being played in London by Charles Hawtrey. The star was forced before the curtain at the end of the second act and responded with a humorous speech in which he thanked the Toronto audience for its applause and hilarity. The play is a continuous round of laughter from beginning to end and the company played the three acts as if they enjoyed the work of making the audience hold its sides. Several well known New York managers, who were present to witness the premier declared it to be a greater comedy than "Charley's Aunt". Mr. Brady made a magnificent production and the ladies were gorgeously gowned. "The Naked Truth" is the work of George Haston and W. B. Maxwell, two London playwrights. Charles Hawtrey sent his congratulations from the Prince of Wales Theatre, London, and wished Mr. Dixey a long and prosperous season. Following a brief tour of the principal Canadian towns, Mr. Dixey will appear in New York for an extended engagement at a prominent Broadway theatre.

FATHER VAUGHAN

Once More Comes Into Prominence —This Time in New York!

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 4.—That Reverend Father Vaughan, recently in Canada and now touring the United States has run foul of the Presbyterians of New York, is evidenced by a despatch to-day which tells of the bitter repudiation by pulpit and pew of Father Vaughan's utterances in New York, to the effect that Protestantism leads to paganism.

OBITUARY

MARGARET L. FLANAGAN.

One of Peterborough's well-known residents passed away last night at 8.10 in the person of Margaret L. Flanagan, wife of the late Dr. John O'Sullivan. The deceased was 60 years of age and has been a resident of this city for the past forty years. During that time she had a large number of friends who will mourn the loss of one so beloved. The death occurred at her residence, 539 George street. She is survived by an only child, Miss Marion O'Sullivan, who resided with her mother. She has the sympathy of a large number of friends in her deep bereavement.

The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon. Service will be held at the church at 9 o'clock, and the remains will then be conveyed to St. Peter's cemetery for burial.

IN MEMORIAM

MARKS—In sad but loving memory of our dear Stella:

Two years have passed, our hearts are still so sore,
As time goes slowly by we miss her more;
Her loving smile, her sunny face,
There is none can fill her vacant place.
The blow was hard, our loss severe,
But soon we'll be forever there at rest.

next witness called. He stated that there were one hundred and thirty nine pupils taking the one year course in that institution. Upon its completion those who had taught before were given a permanent second class certificate and the others an interim second class certificate valid for two years. Part of the work of the school, about twenty-eight out of thirty-five hours each week, was academic, the remainder practical and observation work. The pupils have had some work in nature study before coming to Normal, but none in manual training or domestic science, so that the work done in those lines is elementary. Mr. Walker believed that if the pupils had been taught this work in the early school days there would be no difficulty in securing teachers to teach these subjects. The Normal School was largely a technical school, leading to the teaching profession. The weakest subject with the pupils, he found, was arithmetic. The drawing was better now in the public schools than five years ago.

Mr. H. B. Cowan.

The last witness to give evidence was Mr. H. B. Cowan, publisher of the Farm and Dairy, Canadian Horticulturist and Canadian Florist, who spoke for the agriculturists. He explained the details of the farm contest recently conducted and stated that two of the winners in the preliminary were Peterborough county farmers. Everything about the farm was considered in the contest. The winning farmers, he thought, had won success because of qualities inherent in themselves, and not from any special advantage that they had over the others. Mr. Cowan was asked to write his opinions as to how other farms might reach the same object of efficiency as the prize winners.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Royal Commission opened its sessions here yesterday afternoon in the Collegiate Institute Assembly Hall, with Mr. James W. Robertson, C.M.G., L.L.D., presiding and Hon. Neville Armstrong, N. Sydney and David Forsythe, B.A., in attendance. The chairman in his opening remarks, stated that Canada was a great, a matchless country, rich in fertile fields, in mines, in water power. Canadian should live up to what they had. They should match their priceless inheritance by living on a high plane. More than any other nation, Canada was impressing itself on the nations of the earth. Virile, young, it was doing and dominating. But there was no use in dominating unless it was done in the right way. The quality of the life of the people was what counted. It took a long while to make the man of the twentieth century, and it does not yet appear what they shall be."

Coming to the Commission of Technical Education, Dr. Robertson said its purpose was to secure intelligence in labour, which was acquired only by doing things. Of all the captains of industry examined by the commission not one was occupying a position of power who hadn't begun by working with his hands.

The boy should be trained to work with his hands. Deprive a boy of working with his hands until he is 15 years of age, and he would ever after hate manual labour. The primary object of an education was the earning of a living; the second object was making living worth while.

The three great fundamentals of life were described as gathering wealth by intelligent labour, making homes and keeping them, and teaching children to be practical.

Mayor Morrow was the first called to give evidence before the Commission. In answer to questions put to him by Dr. Robertson, he said Peterborough had a population of 17,000 and was growing rapidly. The chief means of keeping up the city was its manufactories. Peterborough was also an excellent agricultural centre. There was a good railway service and plenty of water power, which was not utilized to its full extent. It was a good place for the workingman to live, and there was but little evidence of idleness. The tax rate was 22 mills, 9 1-4 mills being devoted to schohol purposes.

Mr. Robert Dobie, Mechanical Superintendent of the Canadian General was called. He stated that he had the control of the employment and conduct of the workmen, of whom there were 1500. There were twelve distinct departments. In the tool room were employed about the highest skilled workmen. He said that there was an apprenticeship course of 4 years. The first year an apprentice was paid 5 1-2 cents an hour, the second 6 1-2, the third 7 1-2 and the fourth he was paid ten cents. He was given at the expiration of his term $100 bonus by the company. In answer to a question as to night schools, he said that they tried to get their apprentices to go to a night school.

He didn't think there were many taking any course in the correspondence schools. In the tool shop they had some highly skilled men, some from Germany and others from the United States. It was impossible to get them in Canada. The ones from Germany are more thorough, but not more intelligent than the Canadians. There was no reason why they should not be as good. He was a strong advocate of night schools and of technical education. He remarked that there were men in the works who could not even read. Mr. Dobie stated that he himself had attended night classes while taking practical work in the various departments of the motor shops of the G.T.R. He thought there were many men who would attend night school if there were any. Many boys came to the works at the age of fourteen. He believed they should be kept at school longer. When asked if the company was enlarging their works with a view to employing more men, he said that they were enlarging in order to have more room, not necessarily to employ more hands. Mr. Dobie certainly believed technical education was an advantage.

Ald. G. A. Gillespie, President of the Board of Trade, in answer to the chairman, said that the Board of Trade had never discussed technical education, but believed with the chairman, that such a discussion would be profitable.

Mr. Charles J. Caley, works manager of the Peterborough Lock Company, was next called. At the lock works there were employed 130 men. He estimated that ten per cent. of these men were skilled labourers. He said that they could use more highly skilled men, but they were not to be had. For apprentices in a factory he believed that the practical work would be improved by additional study of a technical nature. Mr. Caley was a strong advocate of the trade schools. He stated that in the United States apprenticeship was dying out and it was more specializing He stated that he would have more apprentices if there was a trade school to draw from. The trade schools give a technical and theoretical knowledge, and then a boy could enter upon an apprenticeship, in order to obtain the practical work.

Mr. L. Magie, electrical engineer at the C.G.E. works; was called. He stated that there were sixteen seventeen engineers employed at the C.G.E.. He stated that they took Collegiate men in his department for a four years' course. He believed night schools would be advantageous. A boy who left school at fifteen was at a decided loss. It was a mistake to let a boy go into a factory before the age of sixteen.

He believed that experienced men in his department would not mind giving two or three evenings a week to teaching if night classes were formed.

Hon. Mr. Stratton, M.P., member for West Peterborough, was called upon and testified in answer to a query that he had been in public life for a number of years, and that he was also interested in manufacturing enterprises and in a local newspaper. He said that the district around Peterborough was well adapted for farming and the farmers, he believed were all pretty prosperous, and were making progress. He thought that education along these lines would be productive of good results. Speaking of transportation facilities, Mr. Stratton said that Peterborough excelled. The city had the C. P. R. from east to west on the main line. From north to south Peterborough had the Grand Trunk, of which there were two branch lines, each terminating at the water. With the Trent Canal almost completed from Lake Ontario to Georgian Bay miles and miles of well developed country will be served, as well as tapping a vast area of raw resources of all kinds with all the advantages of water transport. He didn't know of any place so well suited for technical education as this city. He was convinced that both a day and night school would be better. With the tremendous advantages of power as at Burleigh Falls, Lakefield and other dams along the river, Peterborough was bound to become an industrial centre. Mr. Stratton pointed out that while militarism was an absolute necessity, he didn't see why the armouries could not be used without conflict for other public purposes, such as technical education. Peterborough was a military centre, thus the armouries. This explanation was made to the chairman by Mr. Stratton in answer to a question as to how often the armouries were used. Mr. Stratton strongly approved of technical education.

Mr. Andrew McFarlane, of the Wm. Hamilton Co., was the next speaker. He strongly approved of night classes in technical education, but the difficulty was to get young men to attend them. As soon as the hockey season commenced there was no one there but the teacher.

The Commission then adjourned until the evening.

CITY COUNCIL REGULAR SESSION TRANSACTED MUCH BUSINESS

Reports of Committees Adopted With Some Changes--Clause Prohibiting Trains Whistling Was Struck Out---Fixed Assessment of $25,000 Granted Peterborough Lock Company---Other Matters.

The regular monthly meeting of the City Council was held last evening—Mayor Morrow in the chair, and there being present, Ald. Hicks, Duncan, Buller, Gillespie, Morgan, Metheral, Graham, Batten, Phelan and Turner.

The minutes of the last meeting were taken as read.

COMMUNICATIONS

A communication was read from Mr. Joe Kelly, secretary of the Peterboro Poultry Association, asking for the usual grant for the annual show. Finance Committee.

The Lundy Shovel and Tool Co. Limited wrote that they were desirous of obtaining the sole right to place piping in the streets of Peterboro for the transmission or supply of natural gas or oil within the bounds of the city. Manufacturing Committee.

W. H. Andrews wrote asking for position as caretaker of Isolation Hospital.

The folllowing statement of assessment roll ending Sept. 20, 1910, was submitted by tax collector Green:

The report was adopted.

MANUFACTURERS' COMMITTEE

Council of the City of Peterborough.

Gentlemen:—

Your Manufacturers' Committee beg leave to report and recommend as follows:—

1. That the part of King street, described as follows:—Commencing at the point of intersection of the north side of King street with the east side of Hunter Street, thence easterly along the north side of King Street two hundred and twelve feet six inches more or less to the south-east angle of the land granted to Mrs. Margaret A. Rogers by Letters Patent dated December 12th, 1901, thence southerly at right angles to King Street twenty-one feet, thence westerly in a line parallel to King stret ninety-eight feet six inches, and thence in a direct line to the place of beginning; be closed and conveyed to the Peterborough Canoe Co., in exchange for a strip of land fifty feet wide immediately east of the Canadian Pacific Railway spur line and extending south from the south side of King street produced, across the property deeded to Mrs. M. Rogers by the City Trust Commissioners, providing that the part of King street so closed shall be used for manufacturing purposes and if the property now owned by the Peterborough Canoe Co., east of Water Street and north of King street is sold to the Canadian Pacific Railway or any other person or company for any purpose other than manufacturing or if the said part of King street ceases to be used for manufacturing purposes the said part of King Street shall revert to and again become the property of the City.

2. That the Chairman of this Committee and the City Solicitor obtain evidence that all the conditions of By-laws Nos. 1334 and 1482 have been compiled with by the Colonial Weaving Co., and that if they have been compiled with a cheque for $3,500 be issued to the company upon guarantee satisfactory to the City Solicitor that the company will continue to comply with the terms of the By-laws being given, and that the debentures for this sum be issued and that the Finance Committee be authorized to sell them.

3. That the City Solicitor be authorized to consent to an order from the Board of Railway Commissioners permitting a siding to be constructed by the Canadian Pacific Railway across Dalhousie Street to the factory of B. F. Ackerman, Son & Co., on the usual terms.

4. That the assessment of the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Co., be fixed at $25,000 for ten years for Municipal purposes including business assessment.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

G. A. GILLESPIE.
Chairman.

With the exception of clause three, which was left over until a settlement could be reached between Mr. Ackerman and Dr. Morrow, the report was adopted.

Deputations.

Mr. A. R. Kidd complained that he is threatened by the Solicitor with suit for arrears of taxes—1907-1908—on a lane in the rear of his premises on Westcott street. He has yet to learn for what this lane is assessed, not having received an assessment schedule for the same. This was referred to the Finance Committee.

R. C. Braund asked that the building by-law be so amended as to permit of his building across the creek on Charlotte street. Mr. Braund explained that it would be impossible for him to erect a solid rear and front brick wall across the street without obstructing the flow of water. He also asked concessions regarding the regulation brick partition walls.

The by-law was amended to permit of Mr. Braund's new store being erected as follows: The east and west walls to be of brick 14 inches thick, the centre walls of lath and plaster only, the concrete superstructure to be spanned by steel girders. The frontage will be mainly of plate glass while the rear wall is to be covered by asbestos and sheet steel. Metal lath is to be used.

The Mayor thought it a mistake that Mr. Braund should be permitted to erect this building of a width of 4 feet, with but the two extreme side walls of brick. This store will span the creek a distance of thirty feet, and his Worship argued that it would be impossible to erect any solid brick partition wall there from the ground up. But within the remaining 24 feet, which are to be divided into two stores, he submitted that a brick partition wall should be enforced. It was a mistake, he urged, that a building 4 feet wide, with no brick partitions between the three stores included, should be erected within the fire limits. A fire in one store would soon wipe out the whole building, which is not fair, to say the least, to tenants. Besides, an undesirable precedent is being established.

However, the building by-law was amended to meet Mr. Braund's requirements, as specified above, although the metal lathing provision was added after his Worship's objection had been recorded.

By-Laws.

By-laws to authorize the construction of sewers and concrete walks passed its several readings.

A by-law, increasing the salary of Tax Collector Green, by $100 a year, passed its several readings. The increased salary to start from October 1st.

Aldermen Duncan and Buller thought it time to call a halt in the way of increasing salaries.

Ald. Bradburn explained that after paying his help, Mr. Green had but $800 left, which he did not consider sufficient for a man who collects $352,000 of the city's revenue.

Ald. Phelan supported Ald. Bradburn.

A by-law appointing Messrs. E. H. D. Hall, H. R. H. Kenner and David Spence the Council's members of the new public library board, passed muster. One to retire each year. These gentlemen's term of office will expire as follows: Mr. Hall, in February, 1911; Mr. Kenner, February, 1912; and Mr. Spence, in February, 1913. The Council intend that Mr. E. H. D. Hall shall be reappointed next February, when his short term will expire.

The Public and Separate school boards will be asked to appoint their members to the new library board.

Ald. Duncan moved, seconded by Ald. Bradburn, that applications received for janitor and librarian of the new library be handed over to the new committee.

Other Business.

A by-law granting the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company fixed assessment of $25,000 for ten years, was passed. The company is to employ an average of 100 hands the year round.

Ald. Bradburn moved, seconded by Ald. Phelan, that the City Treasurer be instructed to issue to each of the assessors a cheque for $200.—Carried.

Ald. Bradburn moved, seconded by Ald. Gillespie, that Ald. Turner be granted two months' leave of absence. —Carried.

WHOLE FAMILY WAS AFFLICTED

BUT DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS RESTORED ALL TO PERFECT HEALTH

Father, Mother and Daughter after years of suffering are made healthy and happy by great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

St. Leon Standon, Dorchester Co., Que., Oct. 3.—(Secial).—That Dodd's Kidney Pills have no equal as a family medicine is proved conclusively by the statement of Mr. George Lacasse, a well-known resident of this place. His statement given for publication is:

"For twelve years I had pains in the small of my back. My head would ache and my muscles would cramp. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me.

My little girl had nervous trouble. She was so bad that she could not keep her hands and feet quiet. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured her."

Is it any wonder that Mr. Lacasse is shouting the praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills. He has learned through experience as have thousands of other Canadians that Dodd's Kidney Pills cure Kidney Disease no matter where it appears, or in what form it is found. Dodd's Kidney Pills should always find a place in the family medicine chest.

REV. DR. O'BRIEN WAS HONOURED BY PAST PRESIDENTS

Under those circumstances, we thought you would desire to possess something of this nature. We present you with an album, containing our photographs. We hope that in future, when looking through it, you will never have to refer to any one of us as a used-to-was, but on the contrary you will be able to say as the years go by, we have become stronger advocates of total abstinence. We hope and pray that God may spare you to us for many long years to keep up the good work, and we have resolved, no matter how kickers may kick or with what weapons knockers may knock, we are going to stand shoulder to shoulder with you in the good work.

Rev. Dr. O'Brien, in accepting the gift, was visibly affected and assured them that he would always prize it as one of his most valuable souvenirs of the many pleasant hours he had spent with the society. He reviewed the work of the ten years in which he was spiritual director, and stated that if it were not for the grand work done by every officer and member of the society in furthering the cause of temperance his efforts would not have met with the success they had. He trusted that the kindly feeling now existing between sister societies would continue. He would ever remain a staunch friend of St. Peter's T.A.S. and hoped they would still continue the good work of making homes brighter and mothers and children happier, and in so doing bring down God's blessings on themselves and their families. He reminded them in so doing that they were doing God's work in receiving the fallen. In conclusion he hoped this would not be the last reunion, but hoped to meet them all again at the end of the next ten year term.

The Rev. Father McColl on rising, expressed the pleasure it gave him to be present to do honour to the Rev. Dr. O'Brien, and referred to the good work done by him in the cause, work which was not always pleasant. He assured those present that he had often seen a look of discouragement on the Doctor's face, but his well known strength of character knew no defeat. It only served to spur him on to ultimate success. He also prophesied great results for the Sacred Heart branch and looked forward to the time when they could visit them in a fine new hall. He said that with the energy already displayed it was bound to come.

Father McAuley in a few words explained that he was also in the fight and was meeting with gratifying success.

After short speeches by all present, being a review of the work done during their several terms in office, and a most brilliant and witty speech by the Mark Twain of the society, the old friend of the T.A.S., Dan Cushing, refreshments were served by Doctor O'Brien, assisted by Father McAuley and some time was spent in pleasant conversation. The gathering broke up, with all well pleased at having taken part in a very pleasant event.

WEDDING BELLS

QUIGLEY—KENNEDY

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Paul's church, Lakefield, this morning, at 8 o'clock, when Miss Alice Kennedy, daughter of Mr. Patrick Kennedy, was united in the bonds of holy matrimony to Mr. Michael Quigley, formerly of Douro, now of Toronto. The nuptial mass was sung and the marriage ceremony performed by Rev. Father Phelan.

Mr. Jos. Quigley, brother of the groom, was best man, and the bride was attended by her sister, Miss Emma Kennedy. The bride was given to be married by her brother, Mr. Michael Kennedy, and during the mass Cherubini's Ave Maria was sung with pleasing effect by Mr. Jos. Cornier.

The bride was gowned in turquoise blue silk, with seal trimming.

For the past six years Miss Kennedy has been the efficient organist of St. Paul's church. Last night she was waited upon by a committee representing the congregation, and presented with an address and a substantial purse. The choir also remembered their former organist in the form of an address, accompanied by the gift of a clock and carving set.

Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy left on the noon train for Peterborough, en route to Toronto, their future home.

JUBILEE SINGERS AT CONSERVATORY

The Jubilee Singers appeared here last night at the Conservatory Hall, under the auspices of the Young People's Society of St. Luke's church. The hall was filled to its full capacity, and a most enjoyable time was spent. The company consisted of the following:

Miss Isbell, soprano.
Miss M. Cooper, Soprano.
Miss G. Thompson, reader and alto.
Mrs. S. Cary, pianist.
Mr. M. C. Williams, baritone.
Mr. N. O. Patterson, bass.
Mr. H. Berry, tenor.
Mr. W. T. Cary, manager.

A choice programme of unusual merit was given. Each number was greatly appreciated and this fact was evidenced by the loud applause from the enthusiastic audience. The programme was as follows:

Opening Chorus, Company.
"Hail! Hail! Hail!" led by Miss G. Thompson.
"Zion Weep Alow" led by N. O. Patterson.
"Sons and Chorus, led by H. Berry.
"Reign Mase Jesus," led by Miss Cooper.
"High Time," led by M. C. Williams.
"Sinner Get Ready," led by H. Berry.
"Rise and Shine," Company.
"Get on Board," led by M. C. Williams.
"Laying Low," led by Miss Isbell.
Closing chorus, Company.

Part II.

Opening chorus, Company.
Trio, Selected.
Soprano solo, Miss Isbell.
Reading, Miss Thompson.
Mixed Quartette, selected.
Bass solo, N. O. Patterson.
Closing chorus, Company.

Owing to the pleasant evening a large number of people turned out, and everything was a complete success.

ENGLAND MAY INTERFERE IN THE SERIOUS SITUATION IN PORTUGAL

Report From Washington to That Effect—Rumour Says That King Manuel Is Safe on Brazil Warship—He is Held Responsible For Trouble.

SPAIN'S PRECAUTIONS

Special Wire to the Examiner.

ROME, OCT. 5.—On the receipt of a message from the Papal Nuncio at Madrid, confirming the Portugal outbreak, the Pope directed Nuncio Libson to urge the Catholics to support the Monarchy. The message adds that in case of Manuel's death the Pope would hold the clergy indirectly and partly responsible. The clerical party has been bitterly opposed to the Government's breach of its Liberal policy

England May Intervene.

WASHINGTON, OCT. 4.—It is believed here that England will interfere in Portugal on behalf of Manuel, King Edward took a great interest in King Manuel, and it is believed King George will take a similar attitude to his father. In this he would be sustained by the inherent British faith in a monarchical form of government.

Spain Takes Precaution.

BARCELONA, SPAIN, OCT. 5—Fearing that trouble in Portugal might inspire a similar outbreak in Spain, the Government has strengthened the garrisons in Catalonia, and rigorously enforced a press censorship.

Manuel is Safe.

PARIS, OCT. 5.—According to a despatch received here King Manuel has taken refuge on a Brazilian warship, with the Brazilian President, DeFonseca, who was visiting him.

King is Responsible.

BADAJOZ, SPAIN, OCT. 5.—The revolution in Portugal was hastened by the Government's action in adjourning parliament. The Republicans, fearing they were to lose the fruits of their long campaign, redoubled their activity. The climax was reached in the assassination of Dr. Bombarda, King Manuel himself is held largely responsible for the crisis. He has lost much of his popularity because of the reports of his excesses in private life. The crowning misstep of the Government was its recent anti-clerical activity, by which it hoped to pacify the Republicans, but which resulted not only in failure to win them, but alienated the clerical element of the population.

Fighting General

SAN SEBASTIAN, SPAIN, OCT. 5.—Couriers arriving here from Portugal frontier bring advices that rough fighting is general in all the country between the Revolutionists and Loyalists. In many cases the troops are taking no part, but are displaying revolutionary tendencies.

How He Escaped.

BADAJOZ, SPAIN, OCT. 5.—Refugees arriving here say that King Manuel owes his escape to the Brazilian warship only in the fidelity of his body guard, in hiding in the barricaded palace and fighting off a large number of Revolutionists. Then the navy and warships began to bombard the palace. While some kept up the fight others took the King out through a secret exit. How they got him to the Brazilian warship the refugees were unable to say.

British Cruisers Move.

GIBRALTAR, OCT. 5.—Two British cruisers left last night for Lisbon, under rush orders, one was under steam already to sail to China.

Widespread in Extent.

PARIS, OCT. 5.—Dr. Magalhaes Lima, one of the Republican leaders of Portugal here on a lecture tour, says the Portugal revolution is more widespread and carefully planned than the outside world had any idea of. Now that it has begun it would only end with victory.

Still Doubts

BADAJOZ, SPAIN, OCT. 5.—Great doubts are still entertained as to King Manuel's safety. No word has been received. He had just returned to Lisbon after a pleasure trip to the north during the afternoon. All Royal standards were taken from the public buildings, and all insignia of monarchy removed.

PARKER TRIAL

Examiner Special.

BELLEVILLE, OCT. 5.—At the trial of Robert Parker this morning, on a charge of murdering Wm. Masters, Frank Countryman, a neighbour said he had heard the prisoner threaten to shoot Masters. Clara Mash said that two weeks before the murder she had heard Parker say that it would not be well with Masters if he interefered with his (Parker's) traps. Mrs. McCaule said that on the morning of the shooting she had met Parker, who had a shot gun.

CAPT. THOMAS HAD VERY NARROW ESCAPE IN WEST WARD FIRE

Home of Frank Saddler Visited by a Midnight Blaze Which Did Considerable Damage---Fire Brigade Captain Went Down With Falling Roof---Fire Team Ran Away During Excitement.

A disastrous fire broke out last night in the residence of Mr. Frank Saddler, 522 Sherbrooke street, shortly before 11.55. A call was sent in to the brigade from box 31 at that hour, and although they responded promptly the fire had gained considerable headway. The exact cause of the fire is as yet unknown. It soon burned up beside the chimney and the roof was in a blaze on the inside. A ladder was placed up beside the chimney and Capt. Thomas climbed up and was busily engaged with one of the hose plying a stream into the garret, which at that time was all in a blaze, when with a crash the chimney came tumbling down and came within a hairsbreadth of striking Capt. Thomas. This was not all, but firemen Messrs. Beal, Crouter, Baker and Chief Howard were standing on the floor with another hose and how they escaped uninjured is a miracle. As soon as the chimney fell, that portion of the roof at which Capt. Thomas was working gave way and he fell to the floor, only to find himself buried in a heap of burning debris. It is remarkable that he escaped with only a few bruises. The onlookers were greatly agitated over the affair. At last the men got the fire under control and at 1.55 it was completely extinguished. When they got through with the fire they turned their attention to the fire team and waggon, which they had left in charge of a bystander, who had gotten tired of his job and left the team in the meantime, when to their great astonishment they found that the horses had left on a chase. When they left they were going west, so a Mr. Dunsford was sent after them. He found them eating grass about three miles out in the country, no damage having been done either to the waggon or themselves. Luckily for the firemen they had taken all the tools and things that they needed at the fire, off the waggon on the start or things would have had a more serious aspect.

When the team were brought back to the Hall and everything was again in order, another call from box 31 was received at 5.03. It was at the same place. Some of the wires which had not been cut had started a blaze and the men stayed until six o'clock.

Mr. John McWilliams is the owner of the property and in consequence will be the loser. The damage is estimated at between $600 and $700.00. The property was insured in the London and Lancashire Fire Insurance Company for a sum thought to be sufficient to cover the loss.

AUTO TURNS TURTLE OCCUPANTS UNHURT

Miraculous Escape of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sherin, of Lakefield---On Their Way From Toronto Car Went Into Ditch and Upset but the Party Got Through Without Injury.

An automobile party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sherin and family, of Lakefield, had a miraculous escape from serious injury last evening when their car went into the ditch half a mile from Fraserville and turned completely over. They were returning from Toronto and were running at a good rate of speed when suddenly a brake gear refused to work and the car shot from the road and turned turtle, upsetting its six occupants.

Strange to say, not one of the six people was hurt in the least, and the car, after a careful examination, was found to have escaped without suffering any damage. The party were enabled to resume their journey as soon as the car had been righted, with the assistance of the near-by residents. It appears that the accident was caused by a small piece of metal being jolted into the brake gear, making it useless when called upon.

Peterborough Cheese Board Has A Regular Meeting

The regular meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board was held this morning. It was largely attended, and there were boarded 3,625 cheese. The bidding opened at 11 1-8 cents, by Mr. Cook, which was raised to 11 3-16 cents by Mr. G. A. Gillespie, and Mr. Watkins went 11 1-4 cents. At this figure, Mr. Watkins called Keene, Shearer, Central Smith and Warsaw. He bid 11 3-16 cents for further choice, but Mr. Gillespie took the balance of the board at 11 3-16

The cheese boarded is as follows:

TWO WAYS.

Sir Henry Pellatt, with his Britannic tour of the Queen's Own, though he shed no drop of blood, has won a greater victory for empire consolidation, done more to vivify the imperial idea, than blood drenched fields of conquest. His idea was an imperial one, imperially carried out—in an all round way worthy of Canada and worthy of the empire. It was a Canadian enterprise, and served to show to the world that Canada, in imperial spirit, in resource of means and men, is worthy of the foremost rank she holds. It was all Canadian from start to finish, a Canadian captain of finance, Canadian volunteers, carried to and fro from British port to British port by Canadian ships. This is as it should be, and is a standing reproach—six hundred strong—to Sir James Whitney who, returning from a British visit landed at a foreign port. If Sir Henry Pellatt and the Queen's Own had done a similar thing we should have had Sir James Whitney belching forth denunciatory adjectives, like the reverberating roll of an intoxicated thunderstorm. There are two ways of showing loyalty to empire, one by consistent Canadianism of deeds; the other by posing as a maker of empire, and after placing Asquith nowhere and reducing Lloyd-George to a pigmy, recrossing the Atlantic and placing the first footstep on foreign soil.

HOME RULE.

A man with all his limbs sound can hardly appreciate the grumbles of a man with a leg missing. Canada with the enjoyment of complete home rule cannot fully appreciate the aspirations of Ireland and the other members of the United Kingdom for home rule. Yet not one fair and generous minded Canadian can fail to sympathize with the mission of Mr. T. P. O'Connor nor withold a hearty recognition of the temperate and sane nature of his advocacy of Irish self-government. He is speaking in this country, in an atmosphere of home rule and the great success it has achieved in Canada lends force to his contention that the federal principle that gives and guarantees the people of this country individual and united self government would be a good thing for England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales. Home Rule would be a simple measure of justice, for Ireland and its coming at no very distant date, is a reasonable anticipation. The subject is now discussed with less of prejudice and ill-feeling than has obtained in the history of the agitation. It may be argued that Ireland will not use the boon of self government wisely. It is probable that at the beginning Ireland may make mistakes; she will have an apprenticeship in self-government to serve. The conditions will differ from those in Canada where self government is, so to speak, indigenous; where we were born to it and for more than half a century have known nothing else. As a matter of simple justice, Ireland and the others if they want it, should have home rule or self government, something like that Canada enjoys and something like what has been recently granted South Africa. Ireland and Irishmen have done much in the past to hold the empire together and to extend and consolidate British principles and influence. Many of Britain's greatest generals and soldiers at times when the sword was needed to clear the way for the advance of civilization, were Irishmen. Theology, social expedients and domestic training in this age have taken on the principle of the law of love and kindness. Penalty and repression are no longer thundered from the pulpit nor the ferule made the instrument of discipline in our schools and homes. Penalty and repression have been tried upon Ireland for centuries with sorry success. Why not try a little trust, a little kindness, a little justice. The Irish are human enough to respond to kind, just and generous treatment, as they are human enough to kick against injustice. Why not treat the Irish as brethren and fellow subjects? Why not cease treating that country like a penal colony?

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The distinguished services of the commanding officer of the Queen's Own deserves recognition. As the Toronto Star might say, Pellatt should be promoted to the rank of Pill.

Any tariff negotiations for reciprocity with the United States must reckon first with the Canadian Preference, next with the British Preference. Any reciprocity suggestions that sacrifice a title of either is automatically ruled out of court.

It was once a common boast, remarks the Ottawa Free Press, that Ontario had the best educational system in the world. But the system has not progressed with the times, or with the needs of the province. We have had to look to the Federal Government to supply the deficiencies of the provincial administration. The technical education commission is really a reproach to Ontario.

It is always the way, wails the Bobcaygeon Independent. Here is an expert from England who has come over to investigate Canadian explosives, and Premier Whitney is away in England. Of course there is M. Bourassa, who is a fairly good sample, but, pshaw! if our own dear Premier home, Ontario would shew that investigating Englishman something that would blow his blooming head off within half a mile.

CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES.

(London Advertiser.)

Our American cousins have accepted with good grace their reverse in the fisheries dispute. The submission of the case to arbitration was in itself a neighbourly act, a token of a new attitude towards this country. It would not be meeting them in this spirit to bang and bolt the door against their overtures for reciprocity. In consenting to at least discuss the matter the Canadian Government commits itself or the country to nothing. The Washington Government knows that Canada occupies a strong position, and can neither be wheedled nor threatened into concessions. For the first time in over half a century Washington is disposed to give as well as to take. For the first time in half a century Canada is able to exact full return for any favours.

The Government of Canada has no intention of committing suicide by making a present of the Canadian market to American manufacturers. Canadian interests have been carefully conserved by the Laurier Government in any dealings with the United States, and will not now be betrayed. Liberals at least ought to trust their leaders. If an agreement favourable to Canada cannot be reached, there will be no agreement at all. To say to a friendly president and a friendly cabinet that we will even refuse to talk business would chill the growing warmth of feeling between the countries. It would not be good business, good neighbourhood, good manners, or even good imperialism.

SIR JAMES REITERATES IT.

(Toronto Star)

Sir James Whitney complained somewhat bitterly in England that Canadian papers had drawn unwarranted conclusions from his Old Land utterances. "Scandalous misrepresentations" was the term which he used to describe the comments which were made on this side of the Atlantic. In order to clear up all doubt as to his meaning, he issued a second statement to the Standard of Empire and in the course of this he expresses the following views:

"In my opinion, the refusal of Great Britain even to discuss proposals for Imperial preferential trade is from an economic point of view, deplorable, and from a political point of view it may well prove to be disastrous.

"I say deliberately that the effect of your attitude in the matter is to stimulate any forces that may be working to break up the Empire and baulk the high destiny of the race."

"This is a confirmation, rather than a denial, of the reports of the Premier's earlier interviews which were published in Canada. After thinking the matter over, Sir James "deliberately," as he assures the interviewer, reiterates his opinion that the ties of Empire are a matter of tariffs. Even were tariff pronouncements within the purview of Sir James Whitney, his utterances abroad would stan das a rather undesirable comment upon his faith in the solidarity of the British Empire."

In other words, according to Sir James Whitney, Canada's loyalty to the Empire is based on bread and butter. That is to say, if Canada cannot get the big end of a trade arrangement with the Mother Country, smash goes her connection with the Empire. This is characteristic of the Tory element of the Conservative party. When parliament decided against the contention of the "mossbacks" in the matter of the Rebellion Losses Bill, they resorted to the incendiary's torch, and the parliament buildings were burned. When they could not have their own way, they signed a manifesto demanding annexation to the United States. Later in our history, when some really loyal person told the Mail that the "National policy" would endanger British connection, its answer was: "So much the worse for British connection." It would be unwise to revive these examples of bread and butter loyally—loyalty as the price of party success, or in the intrests of a fiscal fetesh—were it not that the leader of the party in Ontario, so far as leadership is recognized, has revived the argument. Sir James Whitney's position is such as to say, "Canada is loyal, not from love or affection, or duty, but because it pays." No more vicious moral doctrine could be preached than to urge that we should do right, not because it is right, or a matter of duty, but, because it pays. These things would not need to be revived except as reminders to that section of Conservatism—unreasoning Toryism, that arrogates to itself all loyalty and devotion to British institutions and imperial interests. In Great Britain the Tory party call themselves Unionists, as if in default of their party and their policy prevailing the United Kingdom will dissolve. This gratuitous arrogance of claim, shows the narrowness and bigotry of a party or political position which claims—to point the basic motive—that unless landlordism, exemption from fair taxation, and privilege of the privileged are preserved—unless the common people are kept in their place and made to pay taxes without complaining, the national sky will fall.

Progress Of Good Roads Movement In The Province Of Ontario

Three things occurring simultaneously call attention to the movement now generally in progress for the improvement of the highways. These are the publication of the Annual Report on Highway Improvement, Ontario, 1910; the intimation that Nova Scotia has adopted a Good Roads policy and the announcement that within a few days there will assemble at St. Louis the third National Good Roads Convention of the United States. As a direct result of the public sentiment which has been aroused by the National Good Roads convention, there have been formed in many of the states in the Middle West organizations to carry on the work of highway improvement. In several states this sentiment has crystalized into the construction of denite projects. In the state of Iowa the highway extending for hundreds of miles—which was temporarily built or repaired for the Glidden motor tour—has attracted so much interest that associations have been formed to bring about the construction of a permanent highway which shall be of standard width and cross section, and on which there shall be a minimum grade. All sharp turns will be eliminated and it is proposed as rapidly as money becomes available, to construct a permanent resilient and dustless road surface of the most approved bituminous material.

In Missouri a similar movement is under way for the construction of a trunk line of highway from the city of St. Louis to Kansas City. In Louisiana, it is proposed to construct a thoroughfare from the city of New Orleans to the Gulf of Mexico; also a marginal road along the Gulf, topping this road by longitudinal lines which will connect with the adjoining states. In the state of Illinois, which has heretofore been most backward in its interest in highway improvement, especially considering the vast resources and assets of its commonwealth, there has been formed an association to prepare a main trunk line, seeking the ultimate improvement of the main arteries connecting the cities and larger villages of the state.

The great interest the governor of Colorado has shown in the Good Roads convention has resulted in the forming of good roads associations in the state. These are co-operating with organizations of motorists to secure the enactment of legislation which will centralize the control of roads in a state highway commission, with the result that money heretofore expended without satisfactory results will now be systematically and economically used in perfecting permanent improvement of the highways.

In the eastern states, even greater progress has been made, and the policy of state roads very generally adopted. In New York, for example, there will soon be a magnificent macadam highway, built by the state, extending all the way from New York City to Buffalo.

The Nova Scotia Government proposes to make a complete and exhaustive survey of the highway conditions and needs of the province. This survey will be conducted by a staff of experts who by reason of their training and experience will be able to lay before the government the fullest information as to the road situation and to formulate a precise workable scheme for adoption. The plan provides for the expenditure on capital account of a considerable amount, possibly several millions of dollars, in improving and reconstructing the highways of the province, and it is an essential feature of this new policy that all highway work shall be performed according to a scientific plan, and under skilled supervision, and that the whole road system of the country shall be brought under common direction and management.

In Ontario 17 counties have established county road systems under the Highway Improvement Act. These are: Carleton, Halton, Hastings, Lanark, Leeds, and Grenville, Lennox and Addington, Lincoln, Middlesex, Oxford, Peel, Perth, Prince Edward, Simcoe, Waterloo, Wellington, and Wentworth. The act is applicable to 37 counties, so that nearly one-half of the province is now working under it.

| | |
|---|---|
| Toll roads purchased | $153,897 |
| Sundry grants to townships, villages and towns | 89,057 |
| Permanent bridges construction | 306,225 |
| Machinery, plant, etc. | 113,544 |
| Road construction and supervision | 1,404,497 |
| Total | $2,128,122 |

Of the above amount the counties have spent $1,418,718. The provincial expenditure extending over eight years has been $709,374, the province contributing one-third of the total, or one dollar to each two dollars raised by the counties. Combining the items of road construction and supervision (the latter about $75,000) the total cost of road construction is $1,404,497, with 1,129 miles of road built, the average cost per mile being approximately $1,250. This, as previously stated, neglects a large amount of incomplete and scattered work, so that the average cost per mile would be less.

EDSON WILL BE A COAL CENTRE

The Canadian Courier prints some comment on Northwest propositions, and says:

A Dominion land surveyor has been out at Edson, Alberta, talking about lignite coal. He says that the Brazeau coal is nearer anthracite than bituminous. Pittsburg experts agree with him.

Two years ago it was that Brazeau got into the popular vocabulary when Col. Talbot, a quiet parliamentary gentleman for Belle Chasse, Quebec, returned from the knees of the Rockies with wonderful tales of new-fangled coal. There was much talk about the Brazeau region. The Canadian Courier published a great illustrated story dealing with the colonel's adventures. But the surveyor says that he "had to be shown." He came he saw, he was conquered.

"I was fairly astonished by what I saw. The coal seams are so deep and solid that you can see them from either side of the river. You don't have to dig at all. The coal is right there on the surface, and it is the hardest coal I have seen anywhere west of Edmonton.

Lignite coal is Alberta's fortune—just now potential. It is lying there under the timber and the smoking lodges of the Stoneys waitin gfor the snort of the railway engine. Edmonton sits on lignite Strathcona. There are cake layers of it thirty feet thick all along the head waters of the Saskatchewan, the place where you can also see weather made. It is Edson which is to be the coal centre of Alberta, according to the surveyor. The G.T.R. is to send a branch down there. That will be the first step in turning a potentiality into actuality. The future of Edson—he has it all laid out.

When the mines begin to cough, he says that thousands of men will be employed there. Hundreds of houses will sprout up. Lots will boom into three figures. The coal will be ported over to Edmonton-supply post and distributing point from Edson.

CHAPTER XVIII.

ENID WEARS AN OLD ORNAMENT

Lady Margaret took her departure from the hotel at an early hour. Her son went with her. Their house was situated on the outskirts of the town, and, although Stanhope would gladly have remained with the two men to discuss the events of this night of surprises, he felt that his mother demanded his present attention.

Indeed, her ladyship had much to say to him. She, like the others, had been impressed by Mrs. Vansittart's appearance, even under the extraordinarily difficult circumstances of the occasion. The feminine mind judges its peers with the utmost precision. Its analytical methods are pitilessly simple. It calculates with mathematical nicety those details of toilette, those delicate nuances of manner, which distinguish the woman habituated to refinement and good society from the interloper or mere copyist.

It had always been a matter of mild wonder in Penzance how Constance Brand had acquired her French trick of wearing her clothes. Some women are not properly dressed after they have been an hour posing in front of a full-length mirror; others can give one glance at a costume, twist and pull it into the one correct position, and walk out, perfectly gowned, with all happy consciousness that all is well.

Every Parisienne, some Americans, a few English women, possess this gift. Constance had it, and Lady Margaret knew now that it was a lineal acquisition from her mother. The discovery enhanced the belief, always prevalent locally, that Brand was a gentleman born, and her ladyship was now eager for her son's assistance in looking up the "Landed Gentry" and other works of reference which define and glorify the upper ten thousand of the United Kingdom. Perhaps, that way, light would be vouchsafed.

Being a little narrow-minded, the excellent creature believed that a scandal among "good" people was not half so scandalous as an affair in which the principals were tradesmen, "or worse."

She confided something of this to her son as they drove homewards, and was very wroth with him when he treated the idea with unbecoming levity.

"My dear boy," she cried vehemently, "you don't understand the value of such credentials. You always speak and act as if you were on board one of your hectoring warships, where the best metal and the heaviest guns are all-important. It is not so in society, even the society of a small Cornish town. Although I am an earl's daughter I cannot afford to be quietly sneered at by some who would dispute my social supremacy."

As each complaisant sentence rolled forth he laughed quietly in the darkness.

"Mother," said he, suddenly, "Mr. Traill and I have had a lot of talk about Enid during the past two days. I have not seen you until this evening before dinner, so I have had no opportunity to tell you all that has occurred."

"Some new embroglio, I suppose," she said, not at all appeased by his seeming carelessness as to what the Dowager Lady Trecarthen or Mrs. Taylor-Smith might say when gossip started.

"Well, it is, in a sense," he admitted. "You see, we are jolly hard up. It is a squeeze for you to double my pay, and, as I happened to inform Mr. Traill that I was going to marry Enid, long before he knew she was his daughter, it came as a bit of a shock afterwards to hear that he intends to endow her with two hundred thousand pounds on her wedding day. Now the question to be discussed is not whether the adopted daughter of a poor lighthouse-keeper who may be Lord This-and-that in disguise is a good match for me, but whether an impecunious lieutenant in the Royal Navy is such a tremendous catch for a girl with a great fortune."

Lady Margaret was stunned. She began to breathe quickly. Her utmost expectations were surpassed. Before she could utter a word her son pretended to misunderstand her agitation.

"Of course it was fortunate that Enid and I had jolly well made up our minds somewhat in advance, but it was a near thing, a matter of flag signals—otherwise I should have been compelled to consider myself ruled out of the game. Therefore, during your teatable tactics, if the Dowager or that old spit-fire, Mrs. Taylor-Smith, says a word to you about Brand, just give 'em a rib-roaster with Enid's two hundred thou', will you? Whilst they are reeling under the blow throw out a gentle hint that Constance may ensnare Traill's nephew. 'Ensnare' is the right word, isn't it? The best of it is, I know they have been worrying you for months about my friendship with 'girls of their class.' Oh, the joy of the encounter. It must be like blowing up a battleship with a tuppenny ha'penny torpedo-boat."

"So her ladyship—not without pondering over certain entries in the Books of the Proudly-born, which recorded the birth and marriage of Sir Stephen Brand, ninth baronet, "present whereabouts unknown"—went to bed, but not to sleep, whereas Jack Stanhope never afterwards remembered undressing, so thoroughly tired was he, and so absurdly happy, notwithstanding the awkward situation divulged at the dinner.

He knew that Brand was not likely to leave them in any dubiety as to the past. Discussion now was useless, a mere idle guessing at probabilities, so he boldly plunged into the mystery as yet surrounding Enid's first year of existence.

Mr. Traill, glad enough to discuss a more congenial subject, marshalled the ascertained facts. It was easy to see that here, at least, he stood on firm ground.

"Your father, as you know, was a noted yatchsman, Charlie," he said. "Indeed, he was one of the first men to cross the Atlantic in his own boat under steam and sail. Twenty years ago, in this very month, he took my wife and me, with your mother, you, and our little Edith then six months old, on a delightful trip along the Florida coast and the Gulf of Mexico. It was then arranged that we should pass the summer among the Norwegian fiords, but the two ladies were nervous about the ocean voyage east in April, so your father brought the 'Esmeralda' across, and we followed by mail steamer. During the last week of May and the whole of June we cruised from Christiania almost to the North Cape. The fine keen air restored my wife's somewhat delicate health, and you and Edith throve amazingly. Do you remember the voyage?"

"It is a dim memory, helped a good deal, I imagine, by what I have heard since."

"Well, on the fourth of July, putting into Hardanger to celebrate the day with some fellow-countrymen, I received a cable which rendered my presence in New York absolutely imperative. There was a big development scheme just being engineered in connection with our property. In fact, the event which had such a tragic sequel practically quadrupled your fortune and mine. By that time the ladies were so enthusiastic about the sea-going qualities of the yacht that they would have sailed round the world in her, and poor Pyne had no difficulty in persuading them to take the leisurely way home, whilst I raced off via Newcastle and Liverpool to the other side. I received my last cable from them dated Southampton, July 20th, and they were due in New York somewhere about August 5th or 6th, allowing for ordinary winds and weather. During the night of July 21st, when midway between the Scilly Isles and the Fastnet, they ran into a dense fog. Within five minutes without the least warning, the Esmeralda was struck amidships by a big Nova Scotian barque. The little vessel sank almost like a stone. Nevertheless, your father, backed by his skipper and a splendid crew, lowered two boats, and all hands were saved, for the moment. It was Pyne's boast that his boats were always stored with food and water against any kind of emergency, but, of course, they made every effort to reach the ship which had sunk them, rather than endeavour to sail back to this coast. As the Esmeralda was under steam at the time, her boilers exploded as she went down, and this undoubtedly caused the second catastrophe. The captain noticed that the strange ship went off close hauled to the wind, which blew steadily from the west, so he, in the leading boat, with your father and mother, you and my wife and child, followed in that direction. He shouted to four men in the second boat to keep close, as the fog was terrific. The barque, the John S., hearing the noise of the bursting boilers, promptly swung round, and in the effort to render assistance caused the second and far more serious catastrophe. The captain's boat encountered her just as the two crafts were getting way on them. Someone in the boat shouted, they heard an answering hail, and instantly crashed into the barque's bows. The sail became entangled in the martingale of the bowsprit, the boat was driven under and filled, and the second boat crashed into her. All the occupants of the captain's boat were thrown into the sea. You were grasped by a negro, a powerful swimmer. He, with yourself and two sailors, were rescued, and that was all. Your father was a strong man and he could swim well. He must have been stunned or injured in some way. The two sailors jumped from the second boat and clung to the barque's bobstays. The whole thing was over in a few seconds."

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

The accompanying letter describes so well the condition of a person whose nerves are weak and exhausted that little need be added.

The danger of such a state of health is sometimes overlooked by persons who do not realize that the next step is some form of paralysis which leaves one helpless in mind and body.

Mrs. Edward Schwartz, Ladysmith, Que., writes: "It is a pleasure to let you know how I was benefitted by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I was run down and weak, unable to do any housework, was easily tired and exhausted, lacked energy and ambition, was very nervous, easily irritated, could not concentrate the thoughts, hands and feet were cold, I could not sleep, had frequent headaches and dizzy spells and palpitation of the heart.

"Nervous prostration was my trouble, but Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cured it all and I cannot find words to express my thankfulness for this wonderful medicine."

The results achieved by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food are often more wonderful than words can tell. In cases such as this patient persistent treatment is necessary, but you are encouraged by steady and natural improvement until the cure is thorough and complete.

There is a satisfaction in knowing that each and every dose is bound to be of at least some benefit in rebuilding the wasted nervous system.

ARTICLES THE Y. W. C. A. DAY NURSERY NEEDS

As previously recorded in the Examiner, there has been established at the Y.W.C.A. buildings, on Simcoe street, a Day Nursery. This nursery is for the reception and care of children of mothers who, from day to day, have to go from home to work, and have no one to leave in charge of their children, not large enough to be safely left alone at home.

A competent woman will be placed in charge of a well warmed comfortable room or rooms, and in charge of whatever children may be left to her care. On the payment of a trifling fee mothers may leave their children at the Nursery from the hours of eight a.m. till 5 or 6:30 p.m. every day of the week except Saturday and Sunday.

What is most needed for the Nursery at present are two or three small cots, some little kindergarten tables, two or three cradles, and toys and anything of the kind that may be used to interest and amuse children. Infant and other clothing will be thankfully received.

Every good and charitable person is urged to take upractical interest in the Y.W.C.A. Day Nursery. This interest will represent in itself a nursery of the tender graces of love and charity that not only enables the possessor and practiser, but shed a brightness over the lives of others.

ANOTHER SUBSTANTIAL RING OF PEOPLE'S CHIMES

The past few days have brought a substantial increase to the funds for the "People's Chimes" among others two substantial contributions have come from the country, and included is the splendid sum of $60 realized from the entertainment of Miss Denison's Bible class in St. John's school house last Friday night. The Chimes Fund is growing surely, if slowly. The subscriptions now total $4,597.47. During the past few days subscriptions have been cashed and the amount of cash now standing ata the credit of the fund is $3095.52, and it is expected that many other subscriptions will soon be paid in.

In addition to yesterday's donations to the Chimes Fund, as recorded above, the Non-Commissioned Officers of the 57th Regiment, at their meeting last night, voted ten dollars to the fund. This introduces a military flavour which is highly appreciated. The men of the Peterborough Canoe Company collected among themselves $6.70 and sent it with the regret that owing to pressing financial claims for the sick prevented a larger sum being subscribed. The fund at noon to-day stood at $5,613.67.

3,000 YEARS AGO THE EGYPTIANS CURED DISEASE WITH FRUIT

To-day, Canadians Are Doing It With "Fruit-a-tives"

—The Famous Fruit Medicine

We are apt to consider the age we live in as the most wonderful age that the world has ever known. It is, in many respects. Yet the ancients surpassed us in some things. Engineers of our 40-story sky-scrapers still marvel at the massive pyramids and the sphinx. So, too, the Egyptian physicians of 3,000 years ago, used fruit juices as a medicine for treating blood trouble, liver and kidney disease, and stomach weakness. Their method of mixing fruit juice as a medicine, is also one of the lost arts. A well known Canadian physician, however, perfected a method of utilizing fruit juices, which is one of the greatest discoveries of modern medical research.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the natural cure for Chronic Constipation, Biliousness, Indigestion, Torpid Liver, Kidney Disease, Pain in the Back, Bad Complexion, Rheumatism, Nervousness, Headache and Neuralgia.

Citizens Should Feel Proud of the Splendid Teaching Staff of the Collegiate Institute—Report of the Special Committee on the Midsummer Examinations Received Last Night.

A GOOD PERCENTAGE

The report of the special committee appointed to report on the result of the Collegiate Institute midsummer examinations was presented last evening, and should be read by every citizen. As Mr. W. H. Hill stated at the conclusion of the reading of the report, the city should feel proud to know that they had such an efficient staff of teachers, and that under them their children were making such unrivalled progress. Dr. Merrison also took occasion to congratulate the principal and his associate teachers on the staff of the Collegiate. The Board had good reason to congratulate themselves.

THE REPORT

The report, which was adopted, is as follows:

The Chairman and Members of the Board of Education.

Gentlemen,

Your Special Committee appointed to report on the results of the Collegiate Institute midsummer examinations beg to report as follows:

The latest report of the Minister of Education gives figures which clearly show two things—first, that the percentage of successful students at the Faculty Entrance and the Normal Entrance examinations is very low, and secondly, that the percentage of successful students at the High School Entrance examinations is 50 per cent. higher than the percentage of successful students at the Faculty Entrance and Normal Entrance examinations. In 1909, at the Faculty Entrance, Part I., 742 candidates wrote, and only 180 passed, or 25 per cent.

At the Faculty Entrance, Part II., 487 wrote, and only 149 passed, or 30 per cent.

At the Normal Entrance, 3,401 wrote, and 1,325 passed, or 38 per cent.

At the High School Entrance, 23,878 wrote, and 14,790 passed, or 62 per cent.

At the last Departmental examinations, 7 students of the P. C. I. tried the Faculty Entrance, Part I., examination, and 5 were successful, or 71 per cent. Six tried the Faculty Entrance, Part II., and three were successful, or 50 per cent.

The average on the two in Peterborough was 61 per cent. for 1910.

The average on the two in the Province was 28 per cent. for 1909 (1910 results not available).

HONOUR MATRICULATION

Seven candidates wrote on the Honour Matriculation examination, and all were successful.

5 first class honours were won, 75 per cent.—1st Class.

4 second class honours were won, 66 per cent.—2nd Class

12 third class honours were won, 50 per cent.—3rd Class.

SCHOLARSHIP EXAMINATION

Four candidates competed for Scholarships, and each of the four won one or more scholarships, a record unsurpassed in the Province. The Scholarship winners are—1, K. Burnett, 2, A. Rosboro, 3, W. Adamson, 4, G. Yenney—100 per cent.

A. Rosboro won the First Edward Blake scholarship in mathematics and science at Toronto University—$204.

A. Rosboro ranked second for the sSecond Edward Blake scholarship in mathematics at Toronto University—$138.

A. Rosboro ranked second for the Second Edward Blake scholarship in science at Toronto University—$138.

W. Adamson won the Prince of Wales scholarship at Queen's University for proficiency in mathematics, chemistry and physics—$160.

G. Yenney won the 8th Edward Blake scholarship for general proficiency.

NORMAL ENTRANCE

Fifteen were sent up for this examination, and six passed, or 40 per cent. In considering the results of the Normal Entrance examination, the following facts should be taken into consideration:

Most of the schools in the Province have a four years' course for this examination, one year in Form I., one year in Form II., and two years in Form III. In our Collegiate Institute it is a three years' course, one year each in Forms I., II., and III. This means that Peterborough students try to do in three years what the majority of students take four years to accomplish. Of the nine who failed, six had spent only one year in Form III. City schools send up comparatively few students for this examination. The $25.00 non-resident fee, which is almost prohibitive, keeps out a very desirable class, namely, the students from the country districts.

There are eight compulsory subjects for this examination. The local students did not confine their attention to these eight subjects, as most of them took, in addition, two foreign languages, which will be required for the 4th Form, and what is more, during the fall term, they also took the Art, Biology, Grammar, and Arithmetic of the Lower School course, and in consequence did not have to write on the nine Lower School subjects at the Normal School in September, at which examination a large number of those who tried were plucked.

Again, two of the nine who failed obtained Junior Matriculation standing on their Normal Entrance papers.

The cases of at least two others who failed on the Normal Entrance examination would appear to merit reconsideration by the Education Department.

One of these secured 62 marks over the 60 per cent. aggregate required, but failed by 5 marks in one subject; the other obtained 32 marks over the required aggregate, and failed by only 4 marks in one subject.

Both of these were recommended by their teachers in their confidential report.

We would recommend that the attention of the Education Department be drawn to these two cases, and would urge that their certificates be granted them since they each obtained a high aggregate and failed by only a few marks on one subject. We understand that the regulations of the Education Department cover such special cases.

Taking everything into consideration the Normal Entrance results were much better than would at first view appear.

JUNIOR MATRICULATION

Twenty-one passed this examination.

There are eleven papers to be passed on this examination. Pupils who pass in at least eight of these are credited with Partial Matriculation standing. The one, two or three papers, as the case may be, in which they fail, may be written off at any one subsequent examination. These pupils are allowed their year; they may enter Form IV., and should not be considered as failures.

Sixteen passed the Partial Matriculation examination.

Thus of the 39 who wrote for Junior Matriculation, 37 are allowed this year, or 95 per cent.

SUMMARY

Form IV., 23 tried, 19 were successful; Form 3A, 15 tried, 6 were successful; Form 3B, 39 tried, 37 were successful; total, 77 tried, 62 were successful—81 per cent.

Only 15 out of 77 will have to take their year's work over again, a very creditable record.

It is only fair to state that 7 candidates who wrote at Peterborough have not been taken into account in the above report. Three of these attended the Collegiate only during a part of the spring term, and were not in attendance at all from September to December. The other four were so hopelessly behind in their work that they were refused application forms, but secured them elsewhere, and wrote and made total failures.

Your Committee congratulate the Board on the splendid standard of our schools, both public and Collegiate, in the recent examinations. The results show faithful and able labors of the staff and assiduous efforts of the pupils, and we recommend that this report be published that the people may realize their good fortune in having such splendid schools.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

NICHOLLS SCHOLARSHIPS

Toronto, Sept. 28, 1910

H. H. H. Kenner,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir,

I am directed by the Minister of Education to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 22nd inst. and to state in reply that the following candidates obtained the highest aggregate number of marks at the different examinations held in July 1910.

Normal Entrance—Miss Elizabeth McNamara.

Junior Matriculation—George R. Scott.

Faculty Entrance, Part I.—Miss Leonora Park.

Faculty Entrance, Part II.—Miss Margaret Anderson.

Honour Matriculation and Scholarship.—Miss G. A. Yenney.

Committee on Appointments.

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education—

Gentlemen,—Your committee on Appointments beg to report and recommend as follows:

1. That Mr. A. F. Hagerman, of North Bay, be appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. A. N. Scarrow, Instructor of Manual Training at the minimum salary of $650.00 with increase according to schedule, and duties to start October 3rd, 1910. This appointment is made subject to the approval of the Education Department.

Mr. Hagerman is a comparatively young man. He was formerly instructor in the Normal School at North Bay, and after careful enquiries your Committee are of the opinion that he is well fitted to fill the vacancy, which already has been obtained.

2. That Miss Letitia J. Elliott, of Peterborough, be appointed on the Public school staff to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Sloan at the minimum salary of $468 with increase according to schedule and duties to start 3rd January, 1911 subject to rules and regulations of the Board. Miss Elliott is the holder of a Second Class Professional and a First Class Non-Professional certificates, and is highly recommended as an excellent teacher.

Respectfully submitted,
W. H. HILL,
Chairman.

The report was adopted.

The report was adopted.

Property Committee.

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

Gentlemen,—Your Property committee beg leave to report that during the summer vacation the following repairs and improvements have been made at the various schools:

CENTRAL SCHOOL.—1. Doors fixed to open outwards. 2—Seating of pupils rearranged so that all of the smaller pupils are on the first floor. 3—Some fixing done to the Kindergarten room.

SOUTH CENTRAL.—1 Four windows placed in the cloak rooms to admit some light into them. 2—Burlap put on the Kindergarten room. 3—A blackboard with liquid slate.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA.—1, Two slate blackboards put into old part of the building. 2—A screen put in the boy's basement. 3—The roof fixed. 4—A fence has been erected on the north end of lot as directed.

KING EDWARD.—1, The windows fixed.

EAST CITY.—The roof fixed.

PARK STREET.—1, The interior of the building kalsomined.2—The furnace and chimney fixed.

The boiler at the Central School has also been repaired as recommended by the boiler inspector.

All of the work has been done to the entire satisfaction of your committee.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

B. F. ACKERMAN,
Chairman.

The report was adopted.

Supervision Committee.

Mr. Crane read the report of the Supervision committee in which he stated that the committee had secured the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium to be used in connection with the Collegiate. The report was adopted.

Other Business.

The resolution passed by the Board in June last to the effect that teachers would have to give three months' notice in the event of their resignation, was recommended to read two months, as several of the teachers refused to sign their contracts, in the event of it being three months.

Four new typewriters are required in the Commercial form of the Collegiate. The matter was left in the hands of the Supervision committee.

The Board then adjourned.

Peerless Peninsular

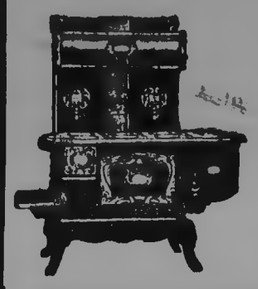
Is Honest All Through— In Little Things As Well As Big

For example, let us take the OVEN.

The oven bottom of all sizes is 20 inches deep. This is the actual depth of the oven floor, the part of the oven that is of the most value to you. We do not include an inch or two in the bottom of the oven door.

Measure the oven bottom of other ranges—especially those with swing doors—and see if the ovens come up to this specification

"Peerless Peninsular" is a big, honestly built range—full size—with all the new conveniences of the most expensive steel ranges—and with the durability of cast-iron which is superior to steel in lasting qualities.



"HARMONY", "CONSTANT" and "ADANAC" have the same quality, workmanship and construction as the "Peerless", the difference is only in the outer appearance.

Let us show you all four styles—or write for illustrated booklet. 111

Garment Manufacturers Have Outdone Themselves in the Splendid Suits we are Showing

The manufacturers of these stylish garments tested their capabilities in making them. They put into them, material of the finest quality—ornamented them with the most beautiful and tasteful trimmings—and used their greatest skill and cleverness in construction. The result is, garments of superb styles and quality—garments of charm and distinction. Following rigorously the latest dictums of fashion, original touches which provide the element of novelty have nevertheless been frequently introduced. You will find in them many exclusive features to recommend them to the woman of exacting taste. Some of the more striking models have not been duplicated, so prompt inspection is urgently recommended. :: :: ::

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT
By Ruth Cameron

I am over thirty. All my girl chums are married. I do not think that I shall ever marry. I might as well make up my mind to that. But even if I am not going to marry, I am not going to be an "old maid," not the sour kind. I have decided that, and I have also decided that the way to do it is to keep in touch with young life. Since I am to have no children of my own, I am going to try to be as interested in and as much with my girl friends' children as possible.

That is the decision that a young woman whom I know made a year ago.

And in that year it has actually so changed and sweetened her from the rather embittered and self-sufficient young person which she was then, that her acquaintances are continually saying to each other.

"What has come over Louise? She has improved so."

And that decision is the secret.

Isn't it a splendid one?

Think of the people that have been affected by it.

There are Louise's friends who to-day enjoy her bright, jolly presence. Whereas a year ago they almost avoided her rather caustic, self-sufficient ways.

There are Louise's father and mother, who are delighted beyond words at having their daughter so much happier and more contented.

There are the half dozen of her friends' children who have learned to call her "Aunt Louise," and to rush to the door to greet her whenever she comes to see them.

And best of all, there is Louise herself, who is replacing discontent and dreariness and unrest by contentment and peace and serenity.

I remember years ago hearing a very fine unmarried woman of forty-five or fifty say, as she looked at another woman's baby:

"That is the hardest thing in my life to me. I don't mind so much being called an old maid. I don't mind so much not being a wife, but the terrible thing is to think that I shall never be a mother—that no little boy or girl will ever say that dear word 'mother' to me."

It seems to me as if deep down in her heart every unmarried woman must have the same feeling, and I cannot think of anything finer than my friend's determination to be a mother by proxy, since she cannot be a real one.

I wonder if there are not some unmarried women among my readers who might make their own and their friends' lives sweeter by adopting that resolution.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE PROTESTANT HOME BOARD

Reports Were Presented at Yearly Gathering Yesterday Afternoon —Business Transacted.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The annual meeting of the Protestant Home Board was held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Webb opened the meeting by leading in prayer, after which the election of officers took place. The following are the officers:

President—Mrs. W. Roger.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Birdsall.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Miss Nicholls.
Treasurer—Miss S. G. Robinson.
Assistant-Treas.—Mrs. R. S. Davidson.
Secretary—Miss Helen Denison.
Assistant-Secretary — Miss Mary Brown.

Secretary's Report.

The secretary and treasurers' report was read next, and adopted. It read as follows:

During the year 1909-10 there have been few changes in the Home. We have had twenty-three inmates in the past year, with an average residence of 292 1-2 days each. Three deaths have occurred and two have been discharged. Seven new inmates have been received.

So far nothing has been done to provide more suitable quarters, but your Board is still hoping that some arrangement may be effected at no very distant date, by means of which your Board may be relieved of some of the burden which they have borne for so long. The most trying feature was the care of the old men.

On May 2nd, 1910, a special meeting of the Board and the Trustees was held, to discuss what propositions should be made to the City Council regarding the building of a new home. It was decided that the Board undertake to raise ten thousand dollars ($10,000) for the work, if the Council would give another ten thousand, and a suitable site for a building.

At the meeting of Sept. 20th, 1910, it was decided that your Board should call a meeting of representative women from all the churches, with a view to finding out what could be done to form an Associated Charities Organization in this city. The object of this association would be the federation of all charitable work and to prevent the overlapping and duplicating which so often occurs. Also to enquire into the causes of poverty and to see what measures should be taken to give permanent relief. This meeting, which was held on Sept. 23rd, in the Y.W.C.A., was well attended and proved most enthusiastic. We trust that before long the association may be definitely formed.

Your Board has been obliged to accept the resignation of their secretary, Mrs. R. F. McWilliams whose removal to Winnipeg made it necessary that she should give up her post. Their warmest thanks are due to Mrs. McWilliams for her most efficient services during her term of office, and for the keen interest she has always shown in all the affairs of the Home. Their best wishes go with her in her future life. Miss Helen Denison was appointed in her place.

Miss Webster, as matron, has proved herself to be untiring in her efforts for the welfare of the Home. Her kind care of all under her charge has been unceasing.

Your board desire to express their sincerest thanks to all who have aided in brightening the lives of the inmates. In this connection we would mention the doctors of the city who have so kindly cared for any who have required their attention.

Also those members of the various churches who have held services on Sunday during the year, and to Miss McCalla and her Bible class, and the members of the Salvation Army who have conducted the week day meetings. We are further indebted to the kind friends of the Home who have sent donations of various sorts, and in many ways have shown their interest in our work.

Our hearty thanks are due to the local press for their kindness in publishing all items of interest in connection with the Home and also in donating a copy of their papers each day.

All of which is respectfully submitted

HELEN DENISON,
Secretary.

BACKACHE GOES AND KIDNEYS ACT FINE

A Few Doses Regulate Your Kidneys and End Urinary Misery

If your kidneys are disordered or you suffer with backache or bladder misery a few doses of Pape's Diuretic now will effect a cure.

Put an end to kidney trouble while it is only trouble—before it develops into Dropsy, Diabetes, Gravel or Bright's disease.

The moment you suspect any kidney, bladder or urinary disorder, or feel a dull, constant Backache, or the urine is thick, cloudy, offensive or full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a scalding sensation, begin taking Pape's Diuretic as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, at any price, made anywhere else in the world, which is so harmless or will effect so thorough and prompt a cure.

Pape's Diuretic acts directly upon the kidneys, bladder and urinary system; cleans, heals and regulates these organs, ducts and glands and completes the cure within a few days.

Pains in the back, sides or loins, rheumatic twinges, Prostatic trouble, debilitating headache, nervousness, dizziness, weakness, bilious stomach, sleeplessness, inflamed or puffy eyelids, worn-out feeling and many other symptoms caused by clogged, inactive kidneys promptly vanish. Frequent, painful and uncontrollable urination due to weak or irritable bladder is overcome.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker of any mercantile agency will vouch for the responsibility of Pape, Thompson & Pape of Cincinnati, who prepare Pape's Diuretic—60 cent treatment—sold by every druggist in the world.

Local People With Manufacturers' Trip To Coast Have Returned Home

After a month of most interesting travel through Western Canada to the Pacific Coast, with Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Stratton and Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Collier of this city returned home on Monday last. It was one of the most enjoyable trips that has ever been conducted and the gathering of manufacturers, with their wives, was one of the most representative that ever assembled. There were 235 in the party, which travelled in two trains. The members of the association were largely from Provinces of Ontario and Quebec. In speaking to the Examiner this morning, Mr. T. F. Matthews stated that the outstanding feature of the trip was the unbounded hospitality of the leading citizens, everywhere they went.

Leaving Toronto on the eleventh, the first stop was made at Port Arthur, where they were entertained on a lavish scale, also at Winnipeg, the reception accorded them was splendid and too much could not be done for the travelling manufacturers and their friends. Other places visited on the way out to Vancouver, where the reception was equally as spontaneous as in Winnipeg were Portage La Prairie, Brandon, Regina, Moosejaw, and Calgary. From Calgary they went to Banff where they spent two days after a strenuous week of travel and social functions. From Banff they visited Laggan, and from there went on to Vancouver, where the annual convention was held. The Association was in session for three days, ending up with a grand banquet. Mr. Matthews was elected a member of the council of the Association. During their stay in Vancouver they were given books of street car tickets, and numerous teas and receptions were held for the ladies, automobiles also being provided for trips about the city. Two days were spent in Victoria. Mr Matthews remarked that he new saw such an abundance of flowers as he did there. It was a beautiful residential city.

Returning they left Vancouver on the 25th of September and came to Calgary, and from there went to Edmonton, where they spent a day. A visit was also made to Saskatoon. They came back by way of St. Paul and Minneapolis where they were entertained by the commercial clubs of these cities. A few hours were spent at the Canadian Sault where the great steel works were inspected. From there they came on to Toronto. While it is realized that the West is progressing, Mr. Matthews stated that a person had no idea of its tremendous prosperity.

HOSPITALITY RECEIVED

Mr. H. B. Collier, of the Collier Electric Company, who with Mrs. Collier, were members of the excursion party stated to the Examiner to-day that the feature of the trip that probably impressed him the most was the unbounded hospitality with which the manufacturers were received. Everywhere they visited they were banqueted and entertained in royal fashion. Automobile trips were provided everywhere and the party had a much better opportunity of getting an insight into the conditions in the west than the average visitor. They bring back with them a host of souvenirs of their Western trip, as manufacturers everywhere had prepared for their visit and had attractive remembrances prepared. Naturally being a party of manufacturers they were importuned everywhere as to the advisability of moving to the West or at least of locating branches there. There were 235 in all in the party which returned by way of St. Paul and Minneapolis. In these western United States cities the Canadian Manufacturers received a surprisingly hospitable reception closely approaching the treatment received on the Canadian side of the border.

ECZEMA FOR 20 YEARS

What is so annoying and disfiguring as Itching Eczema? Mr. Fred W. Clark, Petworth, Adington Co., Ont., writes that his mother suffered from Eczema on both legs for twenty years unable to get relief or cure from doctors or medicine. She found that Dr. Chase's Ointment brought great relief and it soon made the cure complete. He states that no one could have the disease worse or suffer more.

GETTING ANXIOUS

Will Board of Education be Elected by Ward System?

Dr. Morrison made enquiry at the Board of Education last evening, as to how the Board of Education was to be elected at the next Municipal elections. He wanted to know if it would be by the ward system, the same as the City Council. Mr. Hill stated that he had been informed by reliable authority that the new by-law would not interfere with the manner of electing the Board. However, it was referred to the Solicitor for advice.

WOLVES MINER'S ESCORT

Examiner Special.

SEWARD, ALASKA, OCT. 4.—A prospector named Alonzo Wells, who was pursued for fourteen days by a pack of gray wolves in the Hunitna River country, north of Cook Inlet, tells a horrible story of the fate which overtook another miner who was run down by the beasts.

Wells departed from Kaff, on Knik Arm, for Iron Creek, in the Talkeetna range, and when out four days he fell in with the wolves, who dared not attack him because he was armed, yet constantly kept company with him until he reached his destination. Wells would climb a tree at night and lash himself to the trunk in order to sleep while the wolves waited below.

At one point on his journey he heard a man shriekin gfor help. Making his way to the place whence the sounds had come, he found a miner's pack, shreds of clothing, gnawed bones and other evidence that the ravenous beasts had made a meal of a miner.

There was nothing in the pack to reveal the man's identity.

The Evangelistic Campaign At Park Street Church

Quite a number faced the storm last night and were amply repaid by the most stirring address given by Dr. Sam. Luttrell, at Park Street Baptist Church, upon "Two Kinds of Christians." The Doctor gave a graphic character sketch of Nicodemus and Paul. The former representing the man who loses his opportunity because he was too cowardly to stand up for his convictions. The latter, Paul, the type of those who believed things, and was not ashamed of them. The meetings are growing in interest. Come to-night at 8 p.m.

Rev. R. J. Zimmerman At The Bethany Tabernacle

The meeting at the Tabernacle are being continued with much blessing. The message last evening was heart searching and powerful, the text being taken from 2nd Timothy, 2.19-21. "The foundation of God standeth sure, let every one that nameth the name of Christ depart from iniquity. If a man purge himself from these, he shall be a vessel unto honour, sanctified and meet for the Master's use, and prepared unto every good work."

The speaker said that in these days when the false doctrines of Christian Science, Millennial Dawn, Russelism, etc., and Higher Criticism are undermining and wrecking the faith of some, "the foundation of God standeth sure." God's word, though many are trying to pull it to pieces, and denying that it is from God, will still stand when all its would-be destroyers shall have been destroyed. God calls those who by a new birth, become followers of Christ, to "depart from iniquity." God cannot bless those who profess to be Christians but continue to live in sin and worldliness so that they cannot, by their life and conversation, be distinguished from the ungodly, and it is doubtful if many who are called backsliders have ever been really saved. There was a vast difference between the one who is born into a family and the one who comes to dwell with them for a while, but has not the nature or interests of the family in his heart. In order to be a child of God one "must be born again," and when one is by God's grace saved and made His child, he should "depart from iniquity." It is only when one is thus saved, purged from sin, and ha this heart cleansed fro nusin, that he can be a "vessel unto honour, sanctified and meet for the Master's use."

The subject this evening will be, "The will of God, your sanctification."

THE EDUCATION BOARD SELECT REPRESENTATIVES

At the meeting of the Board of Education last evening, the representatives to the new Public Library Board were appointed.

On motion of Mr. W. H. Hill, seconded by Mr. D. W. Dumble, Messrs. Hazen Ritchie, Duncan Walker and A. Mowat were made members of the Library Board. It was pointed out that these gentlemen were chosen as the best qualified from a number of men that had been considered. Mr. Ritchie, being an engineer connected with the C.G.E., was best adapted to choosing literature that would be of profit to employees in that concern; Mr. Walker would represent the advanced students, and Mr. Mowat, the school children of the city.

RAILWAY REGULATION

Although there was little novelty in the railway presentation of their case for the advance of their rates, there was much that was novel in the shippers' contentions. In Chicago it was testified by one railway that forty million dollars of earnings had been put back into the property. In this city it was testified that some thirty-five millions of dollars of earnings had been expended upon the new Pennsylvania terminal. This was in accord with the formerly approved rule of practice by the best roads—"a dollar for dividends and a dollar for betterments." It was this principle of plowing the earnings back into the property which has kept down the capitalization of American railways, at the same time that their rates have not risen with other prices for services and goods.

On this formerly approved principle the shippers' counsel joined issue, taking their cue, it must be admitted, from certain rulings of the Inter-State Commission. These improvements made from earnings were regarded as grievances, and in themselves as proof of extortion. It was asserted as a right that the roads should reduce the rates by whatever sums of earnings they have been accustomed to devote to improvements. Even the misfortunes of the railways were imputed to them for a fault. For example, it was alleged that because one road had lost large sums by equipment frauds, and had prospered nevertheless, therefore it had overcharged by the amount it had lost by embezzlement, and should be held to reduce its rates by the amount of its losses. The broad position of those assuming to act for the general public is that the railways should be allowed to charge no more than would just prevent their setting up a defence of confiscation. And, in estimating their permissible income the railways are held by these spokesmen to be entitled to more than a reasonable income upon the amount of their own funds which they have devoted to the public use.

These gentlemen seem in some danger of winning a battle and losing a campaign. It is conceivable that they may prevent an advance in rates, and come to regret the consequent lack of vitality in the railways. American railways are far from having attained their growth. They are in need not only of income enough to sustain their life, but to stimulate their growth. There is a certain justice in having the funds necessary for their growth contributed by those whose patronage of the railroads is a source of profit, rather than by the general public whose gain from the railways is less direct. If the railways are held to capitalize their betterments, and must borrow the money, interest must be paid on the money borrowed, and the rates must be adequate to pay the interest and provide a sinking fund for the extinguishment of the debt. As interest and sinking fund must come from earnings, it would seem to come to the same thing in the end.

Whatever the merit of this argument on either side, it is plain that a new light is thrown upon what is thought to be regulation of rates. Heretofore it has been thought that the function of government was merely to assume that rates were reasonable and just, that is, neither extortionate nor discriminatory, toward either persons or places. If the position assumed on behalf of the shippers is sustained there is no detail of the management of the railways too trivial for examination and control. It is not enough for the railways to sustain their claim that they need more money. They cannot justify on totals, but must prove in detail just how much they want for terminals, just how much they want for wages, how much for interest, and so on indefinitely.

The railways plead that they cannot do it, and that nobody could. However that may be, it is evident that the success of the contention would establish a new definition of railway regulation, and one not in accord with the present law. New York "Times," Sept. 19th, 1910.

FING R SEVERED

Mr. R. E. Rutherford, of 220 Carlisle avenue, East City, was the victim of a very painful accident last evening, about 5 o'clock. The young man was running a press at the Peterborough Lock Works, and got his first finger on the right hand caught in the machine, with the result that it was severed at the knuckle joint. Dr. Greer was called, and after dressing the wound, had the young man removed to Nicholls Hospital, where his injuries are now being cared for.

RISING IN PORTUGAL

Death of Prof. Bombarda, the Great Anti-Clerical and Republican, Is Cited as Cause of Sudden Uprising In Which All of Navy and Part of the Army Join — Revolutionary Flag Is Now Flying.

Paris, Oct. 5.—The Echo de Paris prints a wireless despatch from its correspondent, dated St. Marie de Lamar, Cape Blanco, 10.20 p.m., saying: "A revolution has broken out in Portugal. A great part of the army and all the navy have gone on the side of the republicans. At 2 o'clock this afternoon a bombardment of the royal palace began. All ingress to the city has been forbidden. It is impossible, therefore, to procure and forward details."

No confirmation of this has been received by the Foreign Office. Telegraphic communication with Portugal has been interrupted since 3 p.m.

The Portuguese legation has no knowledge of a revolution.

Palace Captured.

London, Oct. 5.—The Santander correspondent of The Reuter Telegram Co. confirms the report of a revolution in Portugal, and adds that the rebels have captured the palace.

The News In London.

London, Oct. 5.—According to The Daily Mail, a revolution broke out in Lisbon yesterday. The despatch adds that King Manuel is a prisoner, that street fighting has occurred, that warships are bombarding the palace, that all communication with the capital is cut off.

No Lisbon despatches have been received in London since yesterday afternoon, when the Eastern Telegraph Co. announced the receipt of one from its station at Carcavellos, 11 miles from Lisbon, stating that all communication with the capital was broken.

The Daily Mail prints its report of the revolution without a date line, and it may be based upon a wireless despatch, said to have been received by The Paris Matin, reading: "A revolution has broken out in Lisbon and warships are now bombarding the capital. The army and navy are supporting the revolutionaries."

None of the other London morning papers print Lisbon despatches or have any mention of a revolution.

A Portuguese merchant in London says that he received news of a plot in Lisbon on Monday. The price of Portuguese bonds dropped heavily on the Stock Exchange here yesterday.

Murder May Have Caused It.

London, Oct. 5.—The announcement of the death of Prof. Bombarda, the republican deputy and anti-clerical, who was shot by the army lieutenant, Rabelle, at Lisbon, Monday, may possibly have started a revolution. Bombarda was a distinguished educator. He recently was elected to the Portuguese Parliament in the republican interest. His assailant, according to some reports, was a madman.

Two prominent republicans, Senhors Lima and Relvas, were sent to London last August to assure the British authorities that the approaching establishment of a republic would make no difference in the friendly relations between Portugal and Great Britain, as the alliance was one of peoples, not dynasties.

Royal Standard Lowered.

Santander, Spain, Oct. 5.—A German steamer here has received a wireless from the steamer Cap Blanco of the same line, lying off Lisbon, stating that warships began bombarding the palace just as soon as the rising within the city began. Shortly after the revolutionists hauled down the royal standard over the palace and replaced it with the republican green and blue flag.

ALDERMAN IS FINED

Windsor, Oct. 5.—"No city official has any right to pull a fire alarm box unless there is a fire," declared Magistrate Leggatt yesterday in the Police Court in finding Ald. Hamilton Trumble guilty of sending in a false alarm last Friday night, to test a new ladder truck.

"I shall fine the next person who turns in a false alarm, no matter whether he be a member of the City Council," said the magistrate.

Teachers For Canada.

London, Oct. 5.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The League of Empire is endeavoring to find situations for London's unemployed teachers. Already many have gone to Canada, and it is expected more will go during the winter and spring. It suggested that a loan should be raised to promote the emigration of teachers generally.

Dead From Gasoline Explosion.

Woodstock, Oct. 5.—Mrs. Fillmore is dead at her home in Embro, as the result of injuries received last Friday in an explosion of gasoline. Mrs. Fillmore was cleaning clothes, when the gasoline exploded, terribly burning her hands, head and breast.

To those who suffer sickness, to those who want to be well, we say let us buy a 50-cent bottle of Psychine from your druggist and give it to you free to prove.

The white corpuscles of the blood—the Phagocytes, as they are known scientifically are the policemen or the scavengers of the body.

Not a germ of disease can invade the body anywhere but these white corpuscles get after it. And, if they are strong enough or in sufficient numbers, they devour it.

If they're not strong enough or in sufficient numbers, then the invading army of disease germs triumphs and disease holds the body.

Any preparation that strengthens these white corpuscles or that increases their number, will not only preserve health, but will build up its defences so strongly that contagion or infection are impossible.

* * *

They have been styled nature's own remedies.

Certain herbs more than others are noted for their curative powers.

And it has been found that those herbs that are most effective in maintaining or restoring health, do so by building up the white corpuscles or Phagocytes.

* * *

These herbs are incorporated in Psychine.

And it is the tremendous curative power of these herbs that is responsible for the unequalled record of this splendid preparation.

Think of it. In Psychine we have a preparation that has been in use a third of a century. That has cured hundreds of thousands of many kinds of diseases.

For which we have received hundreds of thousands of unsolicited testimonials.

Robert Parker on Trial for Murder of William Masters Pleads Not Guilty —Witnesses Say Parker Threatened to "Fix Masters for Tampering With Traps—Detective Miller Examines Footprints.

Belleville, Oct. 5.—With calm demeanor, Robert Parker, 71 years old, faced Chief Justice Sir William Mulock all afternoon and evening, charged with slaying in cold blood a neighbor six years his senior. He listened to ten witnesses who gave strong evidence connecting him with the shooting of old William Masters on the morning of Friday, April 28, on a cross-road off the concession line between Belleville and Tweed. Neighbors and relatives of deceased testified that Parker had threatened to blow Masters' brains out, and it was stated by Provincial Detective Miller that the shoes Parker was wearing on the fatal morning fitted precisely into footprints near the spot where the dead man lay, and in the direction whence the shot seems to have been fired.

The crown has still 40 witnesses to be examined before the defence begins. Peter White, K.C., is crown prosecutor and E. Gus Porter, K.C., M.P., is defending the accused.

Both Masters and Parker were trappers and also occupied part of their time gathering driftwood. This rivalry in business is suggested as a pretext for bad feeling. The story is that on Friday, April 8, Masters, who lived near Chapman's Corners, in Hungerford Township, left his house to proceed to a swamp for the purpose of hauling wood. Some time later his team returned home with part of a load and no driver. The family suspected something was wrong and made a search, which resulted in the old man's body being found on the roadway. A bullet had gone clean through his body.

Sarah Masters, widow, testified that there had been trouble between her husband and Parker, the latter on one occasion having threatened to blow her husband's brains out. William and John Masters, sons, detailed the finding of the body.

George Marsh, a neighbor, told of having seen tracks near where the body was found and a boot taken from the body did not fit the track. Witness traced the tracks for some distance.

Alex Wright, a neighbor, swore he had heard Parker make threats against the Masters' family, that he was always quarreling against one person or another, particularly the Masters.

The trial will likely take up two more days.

CONTRACTOR AND INSPECTOR CAME TO BLOWS AND A COURT CASE RESULTED

Inspector Fell Into Sewer Trench During Mix-up and Sustained Injured Eye---Contractor is Assessed $20 by Magistrate Dumble---Many Cases in Court To-day.

Six cases were heard at the police court this morning. Frank Egan and John Murphy pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk and disorderly in a public place. They were fined $2.00 each, to be paid in ten days.

The next case was that of Alfred Huffman, who was charged with being disorderly in a local hotel. The proprietor gave evidence to the effect that Huffman used profane language, broke one or two chairs, knocked down two men, and said he could lick any man in the house. He pleaded not guilty, but was convicted of being disorderly and was fined $5.00.

William Freeburn was caught riding his bicycle on the sidewalk and it cost him $4.60, which he paid out of court.

A rather serious charge was laid against a local hotel proprietor. He was charged with supplying liquor to Alexander Davis, who pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness in yesterday's session of the court. The proprietor pleaded not guilty. He stated that the bartender had asked the boy his age and the latter replied that he was going on 22. The bartender then gave evidence. He corroborated the evidence given by the proprietor, but His Worship D. W. Dumble thought that, acting on their own judgment, they should have known that the boy was not 22. He also intimated that the way the boy put it should have made them suspicious, as the boy had said if he lived long enough he would reach 22; therefore he was not 22 yet. His Worship said that as the proprietor was not in the bar and knew nothing of the proceedings he would be light on him, and fined him $10.00 and costs, amounting to $13.50, which may be regarded as a very small punishment, considering the seriousness of the charge.

The next case was an assault charge. A local contractor was charged with assault by an inspector on sewer work. Crown Attorney R. E. Wood conducted the prosecution, while W. H. Moore appeared for the defendant. It appears that the defendant was contractor for the laying of a sewer, and in the laying of the pipes they had not been placed to suit the inspector, as there was a drop in a certain place which made a bad joint in the connections. The inspector was further ahead, doing some surveying and when he came back and saw the way the pipes were put in, he told the contractor that he would either have to fix them or quit the work. It appears that the contractor thought the former had no right to stop the men from working and asked the inspector to come over and have a look at the work. When he came over there was a flow of words between them and a scuffle ensued, the result of which went rather against the inspector, as he fell into the ditch, sustaining a very sore eye. Much evidence was heard on both sides. After considering the evidence, Magistrate Dumble considered that the contractor should have referred the matter to the city engineer, instead of taking things in his own hands and accordingly fined him $20. The defendant says he will appeal the case.

THE MISSION WORK IN CANADA'S NORTHWEST

Interesting Address at Knox Church by Rev. Mr. Reid, Superintendent of Missions for Alberta---The Conditions of the Work and of the Country---Mormons Are a Menace.

The open meeting at Knox church last night was a complete success, despite the pelting rain which fell. Every seat in the church was occupied and a most interesting and enjoyable time was experienced. The chair was occupied by Dr. Malcolm McCullough, who filled the position in a very capable manner.

The first item on the programme was a violin solo by Master Wilson. This selection was especially well rendered and won the applause of an admiring audience.

Master Wilson is 14 years of age and has already won prominence as a violinist. He received his musical education in Rugby school, England, and also studied in the Royal Academy of Music, London, Eng., from which institute he was given a certificate when only eleven years and six months of age.

The chairman, Dr. McCullough, then introduced Rev. W. D. Reid, B. D., Superintendent of Missions in Alberta, who addressed the audience. Mr. Reid expressed his pleasure at meeting their pastor, Mr. Keith, and to be with the people of Knox church. He explained that when he was down in Montreal in the pursuance of his usual work, he received a call to the West and kept putting off his decision for months, despite the coaxing he received. He, however, felt it his duty to go west and go west he did. He many, he set out for the west. He gave a very characteristic description of the people in Western Canada. One of their good points, he stated, was that they never grumbled about anything. If the crops were not good or anything went wrong, it was all right. They did not grumble, but seemed to have their nature in keeping with the climate, the land of sunshine. Another of their characteristics was the fact that they boost, so to speak, their own towns, and every man sticks up for his own place.

Mr. Reid said that he felt he would like to get acquainted with all these people, and in order to do this he would have to travel long distances and often under extreme difficulties. But in order to become an efficient superintendent and make any success at his work, he said that he felt it a necessity to visit every place in the province, and to become acquainted with the labourers in the Mission field. On the first of March he was in Southern Alberta and visited Red Deer, Lacombe, Edmore and many other places and found it a very strenuous job, as he often had to drive as much as three and four hundred miles to attend services. But now he said, he had the satisfaction of knowing every man on the mission field, the distance he had to go and the kind of people he was labouring amongst.

He also went on to state that the northern part of Alberta, which was before only an uninhabited waste, is now becoming filled up. The people are simply pouring in, he said, and the people in Peace River district were the prize winners in Seattle in the wheat competition. He stated that it was his opinion that Alberta will be a tremendously rich country. Many people who left here poor, are now rich, and in one case he knew of a lady who was manager of one of the churches and who had twenty-five sections of land. The country is rich in coal, he said, and one could dig coal out of the streams anywhere, as veins of it ran in every direction.

But, he said, wealth without religion wa sonly the ruination o fa country. He said that they were also going ahead with education and that many of their schools put to shame those that are here in the east. They also compel the children to attend school. He said that these were all right in their place, but explained that they needed something besides wealth and education—they needed religion. Mr. Reid said that the population was rapidly increasing, and that if it increased as much in the next year as it did this, they would expect at least 100,000 men.

Mr. Reid also went on to point out the number of Mormons, who were establishing themselves in the province. He said that religion simply meant that they had enough religion in them to make them dangerous and although they were called Latter Day Saints, there was not much of the saint about them. They settled in little groups resembling very much Dutch settlements, with their scattered houses. They don't care to mix much with other people. They are after power and have already three representatives in Parliament. They possess great tabernacles and the hymns they sing are a lot of ours revised in a peculiar manner to suit their tastes.

The reverend gentleman also spoke of the poor material that the missionaries had to do their work with. The men were of a poor class in a good many cases. He said that it was astonishing to see the number of converts the Mormons were getting, amongst them being a large number of Scandinavians and many Scotchmen. He said that many men who were in the missionary work and who were elders in the churches of the old land, often joined the Mormon churches and became the enemies of the missionaries and would not mix with them at all. The people are very much divided in their beliefs, the majority of them not having any religion at all. Between 50,000 and 60,000 Galicians inhabit the northern part of Alberta, he said, and will have nothing to do with the missionaries. When their children get hurt or are sick they will not even send for a doctor unless forced to by the Mounted Police.

Mr. Reid spoke of the quality of the immigrants that were coming to Alberta. He said that hundreds and thousands—at least fifty per cent of them, were Americans. Not all American born, but men who had gone to America and later crossed the border again to Alberta. He said that such a large number of men came from Bruce, that the Indians often asked what part of Bruce county Ontario was in. He said that the immigrants were hard men to Christianize, hard to get into the church. They would even tell the missionaries that they came there to work and make money, not to be religious, but he said that the good Americans who were not afraid to boast their colours, made good Christian workers, and some of the most earnest men in Christian work. Mr. Reid in closing, told a few interesting and amusing stories about his own experiences.

Mr. Reid's lecture was greatly appreciated by all and stands a foremost feature in the events at the different churches this season.

The Cross-Aylmer Nuptials

Beautiful old ivy-clad St. John's Church, where so many pretty marriages have been celebrated in the past, was the scene of one of the most charming and chic weddings of the year this afternoon, when Miss Edith Christiana Aylmer, older daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Aylmer, 362 Simcoe Street, became the bride of Mr. Lionel Frank Cross, son of Mr. Frank O. Cross, of Toronto, formerly accountant of the local branch of the Bank of Commerce and now manager of the Pincher Creek, Alta., branch of the same financial institution. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Canon Davidson, rector of St. John's Church, in the presence of some eighty or ninety invited guests.

The charming young bride was given away by her father, Mr. John A. Aylmer. As the wedding party entered the aisle, Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" was artistically played on the organ by Mr. R. J. Devey, organist of St. John's. After the ceremony, Miss Helen Davies rendered in beautiful voice the solo, "Love's Coronation." The bridesmaids were Miss Ara Porteous, of Quebec, and Miss Dorothy Aylmer, sister of the bride. The groom was assisted by Mr. F. D. Kerr, while the three ushers were Mr. Harry Grubbe, Mr. Gerald Rackham and Mr. Douglas Hammond, of Brockville, Ont.

The bride wore a most becoming costume of ivory Duchesse satin, trimmed with fine lace, while the veil which she wore, with the customary orange blossoms, had an unusual interest because of the fact that it had been worn by the groom's mother on her nuptial day. She carried a large bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The two bridesmaids were dressed alike in charming gowns of pale yellow dotted marquisite and wore black velvet hats, while they carried bouquets of yellow 'mums.

Mrs. Aylmer, the bride's mother, wore an attractive costume of black crepe de chene, with touches of blue and white, and a black velvet hat.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Here the spacious drawing room and other apartments had been appropriately and artistically decorated with autumn flowers and leaves, the effect being wholly pleasing. Dainty refreshments were served by Messrs. Coloman Brothers, who catered for the occasion with their usual skill.

Mr. and Mrs. Cross left on the 4.38 C. P. R. train for their new home in Pincher Creek, Alta, going by way of Chicago and St. Paul.

The bride's going-away gown was a navy blue serge tailored suit, with a navy blue velvet toque and marabou stole.

The guests from out of town included Miss Capreol of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Capreol of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Lonsdale Capreol of Toronto, Mr. F. O. Cross and Miss Cross of Toronto, father and sister respectively of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Minty of Toronto, Mrs. Powell of St. Catharines, Miss Fraser and Miss Lyons of Toronto, and Mrs. Corbett of Cornwall.

Mr. and Mrs. Cross have been most popular in Peterborough, and while their departure will leave a gap in many circles that will be hard to fill, they will be followed to their Western home by the good wishes of a very large circle of friends, who will unite in hoping for their continued happiness.

GRAND TRUNK ENGINEERS

For the past few weeks a committee representing the engineers of the Grand Trunk Railway System has been in conference with the superintendent of motive power. So quietly did they carry on their negotiations that although twenty-six of them were domiciled at a Montreal Hotel for weeks there has been no publicity about the matter. The negotiations were carried on with the best of good feelings on both sides and now, it is pleasant to record an agreement has been reached satisfactory to all concerned. The engineers asked for a substantial increase of pay, amounting it is understood to something like 12 p.c. The Grand Trunk was willing from the first to grant them an increase and the result of friendly negotiations is the agreement concluded Thursday. The representatives of the engineers left for their homes on Friday last entirely satisfied with the result of their mission to Montreal.

The angel of poesy is pictured as throwing over the shoulders of youth the mantle of poetic inspiration.

Art is akin to poetry and the artistic lines upon which our coats are cut (they are all cut by skilled professionals) show the graceful lines and individualism that mark the careful dresser.

We have coats running all the way from $5.00 to $30.00, but it is the $15, $18 and $20 coats we want to draw your attention to just now. In these qualities we have something particularly nice we would like to show you, styles that will appeal at once to your judgment when you see them.

In these qualities we can show you many styles and often just one of a style so that you won't see the same patterns again.

Come to-day and look them over, it will be a pleasure to us to show them to you.

WEDDING BELLS

GRAHAM—M'ILMOYLE.

On Tuesday evening, Oct. 4th, 1910, at 344 Rubidge street, by Rev. I. R. Webb, Mr. Ernest Graham of Peterborough, and Miss Hannah McIlmoyle, of Lakefield, were united in the bonds of holy matrimony.

HUMPHRIES—KINGSLEY.

A very pretty wedding took place on the evening of September 28th, at 'Sunny Brook Farm', the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Gardner and sister of the bride, lot 1, con. 7, Dummer, when Ethel Beatrice, youngest daughter of Mr. Paul Kingsley, was united in marriage to George Henry Humphries, also of Dummer. Rev. Matthew Cree, B.A., pastor of the Norwood Presbyterian Church, officiated. The bride looked charming in a dress of blue satin de chene, with overlace and silver trimmings, and wearing the usual veil and orange blossoms, carrying a shower bouquet of roses and smilax. To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Maye Humphries, sister of the groom, the bride entered the parlour leaning on the arm of her father, taking her place under the beautiful evergreen arch, which was nicely decorated with wedding bells and bridal roses. Nieces of the bride, Miss Reta Robb, as flower girl, bearing a beautiful bouquet of white and pink carnations and Miss Vera Gardner, as ring bearer, carrying the wedding ring in the depths of a basket of pink and white asters, attended her. They looked pretty, dressed in gowns of pale blue mull, trimmed with valenciennes lace and insertion. The happy event was witnessed by about ninety guests, including friends from Nebraska, Toronto, and other points. The presents were many, costly and useful, evidencing the high esteem in which the young couple are held, several of which might be mentioned: A handsome combination buffet in quarter cut oak, also a ladies toilet case from her Sabbath School class of the Ninth Line Union Sabbath School, with a nicely written address accompanying it, and a dozen gifts in money, in sums ranging from ten to twenty-five dollars. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold watch; to the attendant maids each a gold locket.

The bride's going-away costume was a neatly tailored suit of green diagonal serge and large black hat.

After the young couple had received the congratulations of the assembled friends the bride led the way to the dining room, which was prettily decorated for the occasion, where a sumptuous repast was awaiting. The following hours were pleasantly spent in games and other amusements.

Mr. and Mrs. Humphries will reside on Lot 2, in the 6th con., in Dummer, and will be at home to their friends after Oct. 12th.

During the evening the Rev. Mr. Cree was called upon to perform another ceremony, that of the baptism of Sarah Bevin Helen, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Scott Seymour and niece of the bride.

WAIT FOR IT

Keeping abreast of the times this season Guy Brothers Big Minstrels which appears at the Grand on next Monday night are carrying ten big vaudeville acts that have 'made good' wherever seen. This feature is in addition to their regular programme of solo vocalists; funny end men; quartette singing and the regulation minstrel ensemble which we all look forward to. The stage setting this season is particularly classy, and the novelty "first part" brings rounds of applause wherever seen. There will be a grand street parade on Monday noon and a concert in front of the theatre at 7.30 p.m.

JOBE PLEADS GUILTY TO A LONG LIST OF BURGLARIES

Breaking into the barber shop of Bruce Patterson, Charlotte street, on the night of August 14th and stealing therefrom cigars, tobacco, three pair of clippers, 29 razors, to the value of $70, and $6 in cash.

Stealing a bicycle from F. Pearson on August 8th.

Breaking into the store of Geo Evans, Aug. 15th and stealing a gray coat, a pair of trousers and a fur-lined overcoat.

Entering the store of Jas. R. Bell, and stealing 15 boxes of sardines, and other articles to the value of $5.00 on Aug. 13th.

Breaking into the store of F. C. Cubitt and stealing 12 fountain pens, valued at $38.00.

Edward Jobe, a young Peterborough man appeared before Magistrate Dumble at police court this morning charged with the above offences and pleaded guilty to all of them with the exception of the theft of a fur-lined overcoat from Geo. Evans, the Hunter street tailor. His confession clears up the series of burglaries that created so much excitement in August. Since then, Jobe, who was suspected by the police and who got away from P. C. Mehurry after an exciting chase on Chambers street has been across the border but was arrested by P. C. Meagher last week soon after his return to the city.

He elected to be tried summarily by Magistrate Dumble on the counts mentioned. Crown Attorney E. E. Wood represented the prosecution. His Worship asked the prisoner if he had any statement to make and Jobe replied that he had nothing to say.

The Magistrate reserved sentence until Saturday morning.

THE REVOLUTION BRINGS FAME TO AN ACTRESS

PARIS, OCT. 6—Mademoiselle Gabydelys, the petite dancer, whom King Manuel, the dethroned King of Portugal, was openly infatuated with, producing incidents which were used by the Republicans, as the immediate excuse for the revolution, is drawing great crowds at the theatre here, where she is a star attraction. There was nearly a panic last night when some spectator said "There's King Manuel," when a late arrival was ushered into a prominent box. It wasn't the exiled King, however.

TWO HUNDRED KILLED IN THE FIGHTING IN PORTUGAL

Special Wire to The Examiner.

MADRID, SPAIN, OCT. 6.—That Spain will follow next door neighbour Portugal into the arms of republicanism is the under current of the feeling here to-day both among natives and foreigners. It is admitted that Alfonso's advisers are in a particularly precarious position. Some are of the opinion that Spain should send troops at once to assist the Royalists of Portugal. Others are fearful that such an act would bring at once a revolution in Spain, where the Republicans are very strong. In the meantime the situation is much aggravated by the official confirmation this morning that King Alfonso is suffering from an incurable malady, known as caries of the bone. It is thought it will eventually incapacitate him. However, several battalions of troops have been hurried to protect the frontier.

LISBON, PORTUGAL, OCT. 6.—Senor Braco, head of the provisional government, Republican, here, and his Minister of Justice, both assert this morning that King Manuel and his relatives are all safely out of the country. This statement, on the part of the revolutionary leaders, seems to indicate that they know more about the whereabouts of King Manuel than the public is aware of. In fact it is thought now that their own agents saw his Majesty safely away. Their theory was that it was better for the Republicans to have King Manuel in exile than murdered. Further reports of fighting, which attended the revolution, indicate that it was spontaneous rioting started all over the city. A priest, who attempted to stem the tide, was thrown into the river Tagus. Officers of troops, who tried to hold the men to the Royalist cause, were riddled with bullets. It is stated that soldiers are now marching in from the provnces who are more Royalist, and so more bloodshed is looked for. Two hundred killed and four hundred wounded is the estimate of casualities in the fighting yesterday. It is continuing to-day.

A CLUE IN MYSTERY?

Special to The Examiner.

GODERICH, OCT. 6.—Detective Greer left here suddenly at midnight last night, to investigate a clue in the Lizzie Anderson murder, and he has been out all morning. Returning at noon to-day he declined to discuss the matter. The inquest was resumed this morning. Only one witness was called, a man named MacGuiry, in reference to a conversation, and nothing important was developed. It is expected that the conclusion will be reached and a verdict given to-night.

JURYMAN ILL

Special to The Examiner.

BELLEVILLE, OCT. 6.—Owing to the illness of a juryman the Parker murder trial had to be adjourned this morning, but may go on this afternoon. The possibility is that a new jury may be sworn. Dr. Bowlby, Reeve of Tweed, was fined $20.00 by Chief Justice Mulock for non-attendance at the court.

NIGHT IN A GAME HOUSE

Special Wire to the Examiner.

MONTREAL, OCT. 6. It was revealed in court this morning that there was blood shed in a fight in the gambling rooms of a first class apartment house the other night. Revolvers and knives were used and the victims were quietly carried away to the hospital. The interior of the house was wrecked. Joseph O'Connor was a defendant this morning, the allegation being that he hired a tough to rough house the place. The case was adjourned.

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE RESULTS

The report of the special committee of the Board of Education upon the outcome of the Collegiate Institute examinations, reveals results that are at once creditable to the students, the faculty, and pleasing to the people at large. It is shown that we have a good staff at the Collegiate Institute, and that the students themselves have taken excellent advantage of the facilities available. The record in the departmental examinations shows, so far as these are concerned, that the Peterborough Collegiate Institute is far ahead of any other school in the province, so far as efficiency is demonstrated by examination results. At the last examinations the average of seven students who tried the examination, was 61 per cent., for 1910. The average in the same examinations throughout the province last year was 28 per cent. The figures for 1910 for the province are not available, but assuming, which is probable that the same ratio will obtain, the record of the Institute, more than fifty per cent. ahead of the whole province, is highly creditable.

The records of the seven students who wrote in the honour matriculation shews that all were successful; five first class honours, or 75 per cent. were taken; four second class honours, or 66 per cent. and twelve third class honours, or 60 per cent. were taken. In the scholarship examinations, a splendid sweep was made, the four Collegiate Institute candidates competing, each won one or more scholarships, which is a record unsurpassed in the province. The success from the scholastic point of view was brilliant, but the financial win was not to be despised. Miss Burnett, the dux of the quartette, won scholarships aggregating $724, and the scholarships won by the others, added, make the total $1,364, not counting one scholarship, whose amount, not mentioned, would bring up the total scholarship fund win by the four Peterborough candidates to, in round figures, $1,500, which, if not representing a corresponding financial advantage, represents a good deal of glory.

While these results redound largely to the credit of the Institute and its students, there is nevertheless a rather robust fly in the ointment. It is to be noted with regret that the candidates in the Normal entrance throughout the province, who were successful, were very few. If our High schools fail to furnish an adequate supply of the raw material of teachers, our Public schools, which are the feeders of the High schools directly, and of the Normal schools indirectly, will deteriorate, and thus the integrity of our cycle of education will be impaired. If the High schools are devoting too much attention to subjects that have yielded such results as are apparent in the honour and scholarship examinations, they are promoting, the more showy interests of popular education at the expense of more important and indispensable interests.

The Examiner yields to none in its recognition of the value of educational culture and the knowledge of Greek and Latin as the foundation of literary culture. The importance of the more substantial subjects is not to be subordinated, but made at least co-equal. The vast majority of our population is doomed to, or, rather, favoured with, the necessity of working; and thus an educational syllabus that provides for practical education which will best equip them for their work, is an indispensable desideratum. One great part of our population is called to agricultural work and opportunities for education and training in that direction are needed. Another great part of our population is destined to engage in industrial occupations, and their education and training should be such as to give them as full and practical educational equipment as possible.

Canada is endowed by nature with an immensity of resources, and upon the development of these resources the growth and material future of our country depend. To make the most of our agricultural resources we need skilled agriculturists. Mr. J. W. Flavelle, a prominent Conservative has been telling our Minister of Agriculture that Ontario is not doing nearly what it should do in crop production, and urging him to remedy this tremendous fault. Canada has an immense store of resources demanding industrial exploitation. To give the largest effect to this demand we need a thorough-going system of technical education, that will fit our boys to become members of the highest class of artizans. The existence of the Royal Commission on Technical Education, is a recognition of the national necessity for systematic educational activity in this direction. It also emphasizes the neglect of the provinces, to which the work of education is constitutionally relegated. The Deputy Minister of Education for Ontario may tell, as he did tell, the Commission in Toronto, that Ontario is doing a good deal—in the way of manual training, in a few schools, and domestic science teaching to remedy the defect. But this is merely skimming and tilming the ulcerous spot in our educational system. It is merely giving a stone, to meet the demand for bread. What is needed is that technical education in its most inclusive sense, should be made a principal part — be incorporated in the very fibre of our educational system. Half measures in technical education, are no better than half measures in farming or any other form of developmental activity. Technical education must not be made a hors d'oeuvre of our educational menu.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A Toronto man bought a downtown property and in two months turned it over at an advance of $75,000. Under a more equitable system, suggests the London Advertiser, at least a portion of his gain would have gone to the community which created it.

It would not be truthful, the London Advertiser thinks, to assert that all the opportunism on the tariff question died with Sir John Macdonald. In the main each party shapes its tariff policy by a calculation of the comparative strength of low tariff and high tariff sentiment. The distinction between the parties is this: The Liberals lean to a low tariff and fix it as low as they think will be tolerated by the country. The Conservatives lean to a high tariff and in office fixed it as high, and tinkered it as often, as they thought the country would tolerate.

TEACHER'S NERVES

Teachers often have the reputation of being cross when the trouble is with the nerves rather than with the disposition. Mr. A. Sutherland, Principal South Bar School, Sydney, N. S., writes: "I was nervous and worried, had indigestion and headache. Doctors failed me. You can depend on me to recommend Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food for I believe it has entirely cured me." Tired brains and feeble nerves are soon restored by this celebrated food cure."

FIRST EVENING OF Y.W.C.A. AMBULANCE CLASS

The first lecture in the course just starting at the Young Women's Christian Association, in the Ambulance Class will begin this evening, Thursday, at 8 o'clock in the green parlour. Any who have not already registered for this class may do so this evening. There will be probably six to eight lectures in the course, at the close of which those in the class desiring to do so, can take an examination. This examination is sent out by headquarters of the St. John Ambulance Association at London, Eng. Those successful in passing it receive a diploma from the above Association. A large number have already signified their intention of taking this course, and it is hoped many more will join the class at the first lecture this evening. Text books can be ordered from Miss Morse. Those joining the class are asked to bring a note book and pencil. The class will probably be followed by a class in Home Nursing which can be taken up independent of the First Aid Course.

Financial Post's Postulate Of Uniform Basis of Taxation

(Financial Post)

Not the least of the problems which are, at the present time, worthy the serious thought and attention of municipal administrators in every section of the country, is that relating to the valuation of real property for purposes of taxation.

Obviously, the basis of valuation has a vital bearing on the net assessment, and on the tax rate, but its influence extends even further. The borrowing power of a municipality is determined and limited to a certain percentage of its assessment, (usually 20 per cent.) It is axiomatic, too, that the assessment has a direct bearing on the price obtinable for debentures, when offered for sale, for it indicates also the repaying capacity of the corporation.

If, then, the assessment of a city exercises a controlling power over the tax rate, the borrowing power, the financial credit and the ability to repay, it is desirable, and urgently so, that some uniform basis of valuation be adopted throughout the Dominion.

We not infrequently hear of some city, in a commendable spirit of competition, quoting its 18 mills tax rate, as against 20 mills of its neighbour. That boast, on the surface, we did appear to be justified. Nothing is said regarding the basis of valuation, which, if investigated, might well have led to the discomfiture of the 18 mills braggart.

Facts justify the statement that the average citizen does not know that differences exist, and those who do know, in a casual way, have failed to grasp the true significance of variety in valuation bases.

Some municipalities take say 60 per cent. of the market value as a basis Others have adopted 70 per cent., or 75 per cent., or may be 80 per cent. as standards. Others, again, may assess the real estate at its full value, and the buildings and improvements at figures ranging from 25 pcr cent. to 60 per cent., or even higher. Vancouver has, as an experiment, this year excluded all buildings from assessment, and the results of this partial endorsation of the principle of Henry George, by that thriving city, will be watched with the keenest interest throughout the land. It is not the purpose to discuss, now, the merits or demerits of the "single tax" plan. The present writer's plea, is, whatever basis of valuation may be considered best, that it shall be uniform.

Suppose three cities, for example, each with an assessment of ten millions, and each levying a tax of 20 mills thereon. A's assessment, however, is based on an 80 per cent. valuation, B's at 60 per cent., while C has exacted the utmost pound of flesh by imposing par, or 100 per cent. Again suppose, for the sake of argument, that par, or full market value has been adopted as the universal standard, how would these three cities be affected? C would remain, as before, with an assessment of ten millions, and a tax rate of 20 mills. The assesment of A has jumped to $12,500,000, with the tax rate reduced to 16 mills. B has increased her assessment to $16,666,666, and effected a substantial reduction of 8 mills on the tax rate.

If, however, it should be decided that 2-3 of market value shall be the basis, then the position of these cities would stand thus:

A, $ 8,333,333—24 mills.
B, $11,111,111—18 mills.
C, $ 6,666,666—30 mills.

Further, this equalization of valuation will have worked a radical change in the borrowing power of each city. Under the original statement, the limit for each city would have been $2,000,000, but, under this last adjustment, A's limit will have been reduced to $1,666,666, B's increased to $2,222,222, and C's diminished to $1,333,333.

Is the agreement logical? Would the agitation for a uniform standard be worth while? An unqualified, affirmative is the only answer.

To suggest the means by which this reform might be accomplished, probably the first step would be the establishment of a Municipal Department in the government of each province, Such a department already exists in Saskatchewan, the commissioner in charge holding cabinet rank. This done, it would not be a difficult matter for the various governments to hold a conference, and arrange such a basis as would best serve the interests of the people.

The work of such government departments would not end with the settlement of the question which has here been discussed. Scarcely will it have been begun. There is much work for them to do. Let it be done. We have been too prone in Canada in the past to treat municipal affairs as a pastime, reserving our batteries of thought and energy for the more spectacular arena of national politics.

MR. STRATTON SUGGESTS A COMMISSION ON RECIPROCITY

To Enquire Into All Phases---Situation is Complicated by Existing Industries Under Protection, and British Preference and Care is Needed.

Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P., yesterday expressed himself to The Toronto Star on the subject of reciprocity as follows:

Our experience of the past with reciprocity proved that it was beneficial to Canada. I do not think that will be disputed.

When the United States put an end to the first treaty, it was felt by many Canadians to be a severe blow to our trade and national interests. But, as we all know, it was a blessing in disguise. Canada was thrown back upon her own resources, and with our native energy we sought out and found new markets, and the anxiety we once showed by repeated proposals to renew reciprocity was not only repressed by repeated rebuffs, but replaced by the feeling that under the new conditions of trade we had secured we could afford to be, as, in fact we became, indifferent.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier correctly voiced the feeling of Canadians when he declared that if any overtures of reciprocity came they must come from the United States.

Our neighbours having held out the olive branch and shown a desire to consider negotiations, it is our duty, if no more than as a matter of courtesy, to take an interest in them.

Preference Must Stand.

But before anything definite can be effected, there is much thinking to be done. By the British preference and otherwise we have secured a good footing in the British market, our natural market, from an imperial, if not from a geographical point of view. In any negotiations this preference must hold first place, and no arrangement should be made that would impair one iota of its integrity or violate one of the principles on which it is based, or injure one interest, Home or Canadian, it promotes.

We are now doing very well under a combination of tariff for revenue and for protection. Under the protective tariff Canada adopted in 1878, certain interests have grown up. By a modification of that tariff in 1897, these interests have been greatly advanced in prosperity, and we have to now consider what hearing reciprocity would have on them, what modifications in tariff might be made that would promote free trade, with our neighbours without injuring established interests.

Some protected interests may not be adapted to Canadian conditions and not much worth while protecting, some interests may still need protection and might be injured by modifications in the direction of reciprocity.

It is necessary to gain a good deal of knowledge of conditions before we can act intelligently, either for or against reciprocity.

Commission Should Enquire.

Cabinet Ministers have not the time to spare from the routine of departmental and Parliamentary duties to gain the information on a multitude of subjects upon which to advantageously conclude or even negotiate a reciprocity treaty.

I believe that a commission should be created with power to make and procure exhaustive investigation upon all matters that should be taken into account in the readjustment or retention of our present tariff.

Incidentally, the information would be gathered necessary to protect Canadian interests in the negotiation or conclusion of a reciprocity treaty.

From a Canadian point of view, there is neither necessity nor wisdom in going into the matter rashly. We are doing very well as we are, and the very anxiety for reciprocity, shown by many of our neighbours, should be a hint to us to hasten gently. This anxiety does not arise from any special desire to benefit Canada or Canadian trade. It must be due to a feeling or belief that reciprocity would benefit the United States, and our care must be that no reciprocity shall be entered upon on any but fair terms to Canada. We must insist that there shall be no jug-handled arrangement—we must see that to the most slender extent Canada is not made a scapegoat for any political sins, that have created or contributed to the present political troubles of our neighbours.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

That the city girls mean to take advantage of the opportunities offered by the Y. W. C. A. gymnasium for physical development, was demonstrated Tuesday evening, when, in spite of heavy rain, some fifty girls, with an ardour, which could not be dampened, met for their first class lesson. All entered most enthusiastically into the work, under the capable leadership of Miss Coventry, ably assisted by Miss Rannie, piano accompanist. And many, on account of the inclemency of the weather, were unable to attend the open class session last night. The invitation is repeated to all city girls to attend the class next Tuesday evening.

All school girls are asked to join their gymnasium class on Monday afternoon at 4.30.

A large junior class was formed last Saturday morning, but there is room for many more and all little girls will be welcome on Saturday at 10 o'clock.

"THE PILLAR OF LIGHT"

By Louis Tracy, (Copyrighted)

Mr. Traill rose and paced slowly to the window. Pyne stared into the fire. There was no need for either of them to conjure up the heart-rending scene as the sharp prow of the sailing ship cleft through the seas and spurned the despairing hands clutching at her back walls.

Too often had the older man pictured that horrific vision. It had darkened many hours, blurred many a forgetful moment of pleasure with a quick rush of pain.

Even now, as he looked out into the starlit street, he fancied he could

He passed a hand over his eyes, and gazed again at the moonlit roadway. From the black shadows opposite a policeman crossed towards the hotel, and he heard a bell ring. These trivial tidings restored his wandering thoughts. How the discovery of his lost child had brought back a flood of buried memories!

"It is easy to understand that I should be fanciful to-night," he said, returning to the cheery glow of the fire and the brightness of the room. "The whole story of the disaster centred in the narratives of the sailors and the negro. They all declared that both boats went down. The crew of the barque, who ran to starboard, as the leading boat was swamped and sank on that side, imagined they heard cries to port. But though they lowered a boat, and cruised about the locality for hours, they found nothing but wreckage. You, Charlie, when I went to St John's, five weeks later, could only tell me that you had felt very cold and wet. That is all I ever knew of the fate of the Esmeralda until, in God's good time, I met Stanhope on board the Falcon."

"Then the manner of Enid's rescue is conjectural?"

"Absolutely. But Stanhope, who is a sailor, and two men named Spence and Jones, who were Brand's colleagues on the Gulf Rock at that time, have helped me in building up a complete theory. It is quite clear that the second boat did not sink, as was reported by the captain of the John S. She was damaged, and had her mast broken, by the collision. In the darkness and confusion she would be readily carried past the barque, which was probably travelling four knots an hour. The two sailors, in springing from her gunwale into the lee-boat, would certainly cast her considerable, and at that instant my poor wife either threw her child into the boat with a last frenzied effort, or someone caught the baby from her as she sank. The boat was seen by Brand floating in with the tide on the morning of the 30th of July. She had been nine days at sea. Some survivor must have given the little one nourishment in that time, as a twelve-months'-old child could not possibly have lived. In all likelihood, the bank of fog clung to the surface of the sea and followed the tides, as there was little or no wind on the days following the loss of the yacht. Again, there were provisions in the boat, but no water. Why? Either the water casks had started their staves when the smash took place, or a careless steward had failed to fill them. The next thing is the identity of the boat. By the stupidity of a sailor, one of the Esmeralda's lifeboats was burnt to the water's edge in Norway. He used a tin of petroleum whilst he was opening it, and a lighted match did the remainder. Indeed, he and another man at the oars narrowly escaped death. A boat was purchased, but accident or mischance prevented the Esmeralda's name being painted on it. There was a Norwegian port number on the stern-board, and this was smashed away by the falling mast. As the sail was trailing in the water when the boat was found by Brand, it is assumed that the survivor or survivors, who paid some heed to the child, suffered from injuries which prevented him or them from hauling it in. One man's body was found on board and he had been dead many days. Finally, we have the evidence of the child's clothing."

"The girls told me something of the story on the rock," said Pyne. "Gee whiz! I little dreamed that Enid, or Edith, I mean, was my first cousin."

"You know that her garments were marked E. T. and that a little shawl was pinned about her with a gold brooch set with emeralds arranged as a four-leafed shamrock?"

"No. I fancy that they were hindered in their yarn. Believe me, there was always enough to do in that wonderful place. Besides, I knew about the brooch. Had they mentioned it, I guess the gray matter at the back of my head would have become agitated by thought."

"Yes, of course. I am talking to you as if you were hearing this sad history for the first time."

"It is new enough. It has a fresh point of view, which is everything. Now, about that brooch?"

"I bought it in Bergen. I remember your poor father laughing about it. It was odd to find an Irish emblem in that out-of-the-way little town. I have not seen it yet, but it is ludicrous to think that so many coincidences can affect two different children cast adrift about the same time in open boats at the junction of the St. George's Channel and the North Atlantic."

"It's the kind of thing that doesn't occur with monotonous regularity," agreed Pyne. "By the way, I have just made an interesting discovery on my own account."

"What is it?"

"It might easily have happened that not Enid—sorry. I mean Edith but I should have been the youngster cast adrift in that boat."

"Yes, that is so, of course."

"And I would have grown up as Constance's brother. Guess things have panned out all right as it is."

It was on the tip of his uncle's tongue to ask for some explanation of the very gratified tone in which Master Charles made this remark, but the head waiter entered, solemnly, with the air of respectful and discreet decorum which only an English family butler or a head waiter can assume with burlesque.

"Beg pardon, gentlemen," he said, "but I thought you would like to know about the lady in No. 11, Mrs. Vansittart."

"Yes, what of her?" demanded Mr. Traill, whilst Pyne found himself murmuring that which caused his heart to beat more rapidly than even the fight for life in the saloon of the Chinook.

"She went out, sir, about an hour ago, and—"

"Has she not returned?"

"No, sir. A policeman has just called to say that she was taken ill, and is now bein' cared for at Mr. Brand's house."

Uncle and nephew glared at each other as men do when they call the gods to witness that no madder words could be spoken. Before the waiter, they perforce restrained themselves.

But Pyne shouted:

"Where is the policeman?"

"He is down below, sir. Shall I bring him up?"

Sergeant Jenkins, however, was too loyal in his friendship to Brand to tell them exactly how it came about that Mrs. Vansittart was sheltered in Laburnum Cottage. He admitted that he directed the lady to the house in the first instance, and that Mr Brand told him subsequently to convey the stated message to the hotel.

Nevertheless, he was the richer for a sovereign as he went out.

Mr. Traill helped himself to a whiskey and soda.

"Here's to the reconciliation of Brand and his wife," he said, with a lighter tone and more cheerful manner than he would have deemed possible five minutes earlier.

Pyne followed his example.

"Say, uncle," he cried, "there's a queer item. When I first met Constance I spoke of Mrs. Vansittart and I called her my prospective stepaunt."

"A d—d silly name, too."

"Constance seemed to think that, or its feminine equivalent. She corrected me, 'You mean your fiancee's aunt,' she said."

"Oh, did she?"

"Yes, and here's to her being my fiancee's mother."

* * * * * *

With the morning came doubt. A maid, who was given charge of the two children, told Pyne that Mrs. Vansittart had been greatly upset the previous evening. The girl was sure that the lady had passed nearly an hour in tears kneeling by the side of her bed. Then, having regained control of herself to some extent, she rang for the maid and asked at what time the first train left for London next day. She ordered her breakfast at an hour which seemed to indicate her intention to depart by that train, said that she would leave instructions with Mr. Pyne concerning the children, and gave the maid two letters which she had written. These were to be delivered at nine o'clock. It was now nine o'clock. What was to be done with the letters?

As they were addressed to Pyne and his uncle respectively, he soon settled that point.

His letter read:

"Dear Mr. Pyne—I am leaving for London quite early, so I will not see you again in Penzance. I have supplied the little girls with all the garments they will need during the next few days. If, on inquiry, you discover that they have no relatives anxious, not merely willing, to take charge of them, I shall be most pleased to assume that responsibility. In that event, kindly write to me, care of my bankers.

Yours very sincerely,
E. VANSITTART."

The communication to his uncle was equally brief. Mr. Traill read it to him. It ran:

"Dear Mr. Traill—I cannot marry you. Please forgive me. I did not realize, when you honoured me with your proposal, that an insuperable obstacle existed. That is all—a lame explanation—but complete so far as it goes. A woman who has wrecked her life finds it hard to choose her words. Your sincere friend,
E. VANSITTART."

They discussed these curt notes during breakfast.

"I do not like their tone," said Mr. Traill, gravely. "They impress me as the hurried resolutions of a woman driven to extremities. Were it not for her request about the children, I should think what you thought last night, Charlie, when that policeman turned up."

"I must have telephoned my ideas to you mighty quick," was the retort.

"My dear boy, even at this moment we don't know what she intended to do. Why did she go out? What is the nature of her sudden illness? How comes it that she is at Brand's house?"

"I may be mistaken, but I think we will be given answers to all your questions in due time. Nothing really serious can be amiss, or we should have heard of it from Brand himself. Now, will you remain on guard here whilst I go out with Elsie and Marie?' The one thing that matters in their little lives this morning is that I shall hurry up and go doll-hunting with them."

"I will hold the fort until you return. You will not be long?"

"Perhaps half an hour. Whilst I am out I will make some inquiries as to the condition of our other friends of the Chinook."

"By the way, many of them must be destitute. It is my desire, Charlie, to pay the expenses of any such to their destination, and equip them properly for the journey."

"You are a first-rater, uncle, but it'll make your arm tired if you O. K. the bill all the time. Now, here's a fair offer. Let me go halves."

"Be off, you rascal. You are keeping two ladies waiting."

With seeming anxiety to atone for the excesses of the week, the weather that morning justified the claim of Cornwall to be the summer land of England. The sun shone from a blue sky flecked with white clouds. The waters of Mount's Bay sparkled and danced in miniature wavelets. The air was so mild, the temperature so equable, that it was hard to credit sea and wind with the havoc of the preceding days.

The Gulf Rock disaster did not stand alone in the records of the hurricane. Even the day's papers contained belated accounts of casualties on the coasts of Normandy, Holland, and far-off Denmark. But nowhere else had there been such loss of life, whilst renewed interest was evoked by the final relief of all the survivors.

Pyne's appearance outside the sitting-room was hailed with a yell. Notwithstanding her own perplexities, Mrs. Vansittart had taken good care that the children were well provided for. They were beautifully dressed, and the smiling maid who freed them from control when the door opened said that they might go out without jackets, the day was so fine.

Bilious Headache

COMES FROM LIVER DERANGEMENTS WHICH ARE THOROUGHLY OVERCOME BY

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Headache is said to be the most useful pain in the world. It is a sort of fire alarm that warns you of something wrong with some organ of the body.

Most frequently the trouble is indigestion and torpid liver and the pain arises from the poisoned blood passing through the arteries of the brain and head.

There is no cure for bilious headache, torpid liver and indigestion that can be compared to Dr Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills for prompt and certain results. This has been proven by so many thousands of letters published from time to time that everybody should know it by this time.

Mr. Fred Hinz, Bradhagen, Perth Co., Ont., writes: "I don't like to have my name in the papers, but feel out of justice to suffering humanity I should tell others of the good I obtained from Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills and Ointment.

"For years I was troubled a great deal with sick headaches and was often so bad that I could not work. Being advised to try Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills I did so and can say they have brought about a complete cure. From the first I found that one pill cured my headache quickly every time. I was also a victim of itching piles and found Dr. Chase's Ointment the most satisfactory treatment I ever used. It brought relief almost instantly."

You won't be satisfied with mere temporary relief when you know your headache can be completely cured by using Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. One pill a dose, 25 cts. a box, all dealers; or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

WHAT CAUSES DANDRUFF.

Greatest, European Authority on Skin Diseases, Says It's a Germ.

The old idea that dandruff is scales of skin thrown off, through a feverish condition of the scalp is exploded. Prof. Unna, Hamburg, Germany, European authority on skin diseases, says dandruff is a germ disease. The germ burrows under the scalp, throwing up little scales of cuticle, and sapping the vitality of the hair at the root. The only hair preparation that kills dandruff germs is Newbro's "Herpicide." "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Not only cures dandruff, but stops falling hair and permits a luxuriant growth. Delightful hair dressing. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

For sale by McDermid and Jury, druggists; also Payne's drug store. $1 bottles guaranteed.

A GREAT BAG

Mr. Cyril Hill Distinguishes Himself With Shot Gun

Mr. Cyril Hill, a day or two ago, met with a great accident, or made a splendid shot, and bagged a big quarry in Indian River. In the marsh between Sugar Island and Keene, he shot, with one discharge of his gun, a Pandion Haliætus, Fish Hawk, Osprey, Fish Eagle, Fish Kite, for by all these names, scientific and popular, is the first hawk known. The kind shot by Mr. Hill was a beauty, with a wing spread of 5 feet, 2 inches from tip to tip.

As sporting men know, the fish hawk is one of our greatest predatory birds. It is noted for the length and strength of its pinions, and its graceful soar, as it poises over the place where it sees a fish, only to suddenly dart downward and disappear for a moment under the water, to rise dripping with, if its strike were true, a fish in its strong talons. Its claws are sometimes driven with such force into the fish, that they are with difficulty withdrawn; and, if the fish is a large one, the hawk, as naturalists tell us, is sometimes drawn under and drowned.

Being a good sport the fish hawk would not, perhaps complain, even if it had a chance, at being the victim of a good shot.

WORK FOR YEARS ON CHINESE BIBLE

Examiner Special.

TOKIO, OCT. 1.—The final revised edition of the New Testament, together with the first completed book of the Old Testament and the Psalms of David, is now being issued from the press in the Chinese language, and great numbers of this new book are at present being shipped to the remotest corners of China, says the Japan Advertiser. The special committee of translators are gathered together at Chefoo in their annual conference regarding this work, which they hope will be to China what the authorized version of the gospel is to the English-speaking world.

The number of years consumed in preparing the work is not considered long, in view of the methods employed in securing the most accurate and simplest renderings possible. The project was inaugurated in 1890 at a conference of all the missionary bodies at work in China, and is being consummated at the expense of the Bible societies of the world.

A committee of six Europeans and Americans having an excellent knowledge of Chinese have had charge of the work. Each of these men called to his assistance one or more Chinese scholars having a thorough knowledge of English. Each chapter of the Bible was taken up separately and in turn and translated first in each case by one of the committee in charge, with the aid of his Chinese interpreter, on sheets ruled with five or more perpendicular lines, the first translation being placed in the first column, and the paper then being sent to the next translator and his assistant.

The second man then, with the advice of his Chinese aid, would set in the second column any lines upon which he was able to improve the first translator's work. The translation sheets were then passed to the third, fourth, fifth, and sixth members of the committee in turn, each improving and correcting wherever it was possible.

At the end of each winter's work the committee meets at some designated city and agrees upon the final draft of each translation sheet, which is then put upon the press as a "tentative" edition and circulated throughout the country. On each succeeding year the final "standard" translation, with all the improvements it might derive from its twelvemonth's test circulation embodied in it, was turned out from the press.

A "chook" or more is added each year and it is estimated that the whole volume will be entirely completed in 1935, after twenty-five years of arduous and painstaking labour.

A SPLENDID WINDOW

Mr. Russell Wotten, formerly of Peterborough and of the staff of A. W. Cressman's store is now employed in Oshawa and has evidently made a most favourable impression, judging from the following which is taken from the Oshawa Vindicator.

The Place of Beauty.

A surprise that was unexpected awaited the ladies of Oshawa, who were out in force to the millinery openings. It seems the Arcade, who do not have the pleasure of catering to millinery wants, planned an opening for the fall and winter display. It was very seasonable in decorations the blending of the autumn foliage with the rich qualities of the merchandise was a pleasure to the eye. The windows and interior decorations were worthy of the largest city store, and under the management and direction of the new decorator, Mr. Russell Wotten, were certainly a credit to any city. To add to the pleasure of the visiting ladies the Piano you are voting for was on exhibition, and, under the supervision of Miss Ethel Sharpe, proved an attraction and harmonized with the general surroundings. Messrs. T. Miller & Sons say it was the most satisfactory event that has ever taken place in the Arcade.

A STRANGE AFFECTION

Examiner Special.

ST. LOUIS, OCT. 1. Miss Augusta Zohner, seventeen years old, is wondering what kind of a fall she will take next. She has rolled down all the staircases at her home, No. 1,332 Salisbury Street, and has tumbled besides over the railing of a second-storey porch to a brick-paved yard beneath. On each occasion she escaped with slight injuries, but she believes that an accident hoodoo is on her trail.

Miss Zohner was leaning over the railing of the porch, trying to coax a neighbor's horse, loose in the yard, to come near for sugar. The railing broke and Miss Zohner turned a somersault in the air before alighting on the brick court, twenty feet below. Three feet from the horse, with nine feet of railing clattering about her.

She picked herself up and climbed the stairs, finding herself suffering only slight bruises.

"The hoodoo nearly got me that time," she said. "But I guess it will catch me yet."

Two weeks ago the hoodoo tripped her at the top of her front stairs at her home and she fell to the bottom. She was only scratched. A month ago the hoodoo caught her foot at the top of the rear stairs and she tumbled down eighteen steps to the yard, ending her fall upon the bricks. Her right arm was slightly wrenched.

ADDRESS BY MR. WALFORD HATTON

The Non-Coms. of the 57th Regiment held their regular meeting Tuesday evening. Sergeant R. Cottrill presided and among other business transacted a vote was put through donating a generous sum to the Chimes Fund. The event of the evening was the address given by Mr. Walford Hatton, a former sergeant of the regiment, on his return trip to the Old Country with the Queen's Own. He told in a soldierly fashion his experiences while in camp and the greatest interest was evidenced, many questions being asked by those present. A vote of thanks was afterwards passed Mr. Hatton. The Chaplain of the regiment, Rev. Canon Davidson, came in during the meeting and received a pleasant surprise in the handsome donation from the Non-Coms. He thanked them very kindly in a few well chosen remarks.

That business is good in Peterborough and that our merchants look forward to the future with buoyant confidence is indicated by the tremendous volume of advertising which appears in the Examiner.

Indications of the high esteem in which the Examiner is held by Peterborough advertisers is daily afforded. Advertisements placed in the Examiner are like seed sown in good soil: a crop is sure.

Radiant And Luxuriant Hair For Every Woman

Any woman can have beautiful and luxuriant hair by using Parisian Sage, the most efficient hair tonic and dandruff cure.

Parisian Sage is the favourite hair dressing of refined people, and since its introduction into America it has met with wonderful success.

If you want beautiful, lustrous hair that will be the envy of your friends get to the drug store of Wm. Madill to-day and get a 50 cent bottle of Parisian Sage and use it for a week.

If at the end of a week you are not satisfied that Parisian Sage is the most delightful and refreshing hair invigorator you ever used, take it back and get your money.

Parisian Sage now has an immense sale all over Canada because it is guaranteed to stop falling hair, itching scalp and splitting hair; or money back.

It is without question of a doubt the only preparation that penetrates into the hair bulbs and kills the dandruff germs in a week.

Parisian Sage will not grow hair on bald heads, but it will prevent baldness by strengthening and nourishing the hair roots.

Fifty cents the large t bottle for the money and the best tonic for the money, and bear in mind the girl with auburn hair is on every package.

"I have used various hair tonics and can say that Parisian Sage gave my hair a good, healthy, silky, appearance, rid the head of dandruff, and kept the scalp clean. I recommend Parisian Sage as being the for the hair and far ahead of any other tonic I ever used."—Miss Emma Foess, 520 Adams Street, Oswego, Mich., December 9, 1908.

For sale by leading druggists everywhere, and by Wm. Madill. Mail orders filled, all charges prepaid by the Canadian makers, Giroux Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont.

VAGRANT WITH A BAD RECORD IS SENTENCED

Witnesses Testified to Seeing Him Begging on the Streets and Magistrate Dumble Sentenced Him to Six Months.

COURT CASES TO-DAY

There was a busy session at the police court this morning when several cases came up before Magistrate Dumble.

The first case was that of William Reddie. He pleaded guilty to the charge of being drunk and was fined $2.00.

Ira McMullen, a blacklister, was the next. He pleaded guilty to getting whiskey and being drunk while on the black list, and had to pay the usual fine of $10.00. His Worship concluded that the prisoner must have been a boiler maker, owing to the apparent difficulty he had in hearing.

Michael Ryan, alias William Flood, was charged with vagrancy. Arthur W. Beal, city fireman, gave evidence against the prisoner. He stated that a few evenings ago he was walking out Hunter street and saw the prisoner. The prisoner and another man were walking along together and when he came along, the man who was with Ryan, came up to him and asked him for money, and when he declined he asked him for cigarette papers and tobacco, which he also declined to give him. In the meantime Ryan had stopped another man and was apparently plying him with similar requests. Mr. Beal stated that within the next fifteen minutes he saw the two men stop at least a dozen men. When Ryan was charged with going under an assumed name, he said that he was going under his mother's name, his own name being William Flood. After considering the evidence and circumstances His Honour, Mr. Dumble, thought that six months in the Central Prison would keep him quiet for a while, and accordingly imposed the sentence. The prisoner is evidently an old soldier at the job and has a very bad record at Cobourg, which is as follows:

Sept 10th, 1897, drunk—fined.
Oct. 12, 1898, assault—fined.
Nov. 14, 1898, drunk and disorderly, fined.
Jan. 25th, 1899, theft—committed for trial.
Dec. 27th, 1900, vagrancy—3 months in gaol.
May 10th, 1901, assault—six months.
Dec. 4th, 1901, drunk and disorderly—20 days in gaol.
Nov. 20th, 1902, assisted prisoner to escape—Committed for trial.
July 27th, 1904—Vagrancy, six months.
April 19th, 1906—Escaped gaol, one month.
Jan. 25, 1906, begging—Ordered to leave town.
March 23rd, 1906—Vagrancy, two months.
July 14, 1908, vagrancy—Remanded and jumped bail.
Jan. 25, 1909—Burglary, 9 months in gaol.

Other charges were withdrawn and dismissed. But those in the above list form his record, only for the present Judge's term at Cobourg, and he may have had as many more before that time.

SHOT THE GIRL THAT HE COULD NOT WED

Desperate Suitor Kills Woman Who Refuses to Marry Him ---Then Reloads, Revolver and Shoots and Kills Himself---She Was Trying to Avoid Him.

CHICAGO, OCT. 4. The love affair of William Simon, a young farmer of Schoolhill, Wis., and Emma Brandt, daughter of a neighbor living near Elkhart Lake, Wis., was brought to a tragic close last night by a murder and suicide at the residence of Lawrence Simon, 550 Forty-eighth Avenue north.

Miss Brandt, under orders from her father, was fleeing to St. Louis to escape the attentions of the lover, whose excess of affection had brought on three revolver scrapes in the last two weeks. She missed train connections in Chicago and went to the residence of a cousin of the murderer, who had been a neighbor in Wisconsin.

This seemed to have been anticipated by her suitor, for he appeared there shortly before she and her sisters were to leave. Getting his sweetheart alone for a few minutes' conversation, he shot her and himself.

Simon emptied his revolver and was forced to refill it before he succeeded in committing suicide.

Simon long had been a suitor for Miss Brandt's hand, but her father had objected. About two weeks ago the two of them disappeared and it was supposed they had eloped. The girl's father found them at Stevens Point, Wis., two days later. They had a marriage license which was not good. Simon threatened the father with a pistol and was arrested and fined for carrying concealed weapons. The girl said he had forced her to accompany him at the point of a revolver, and she dared not protest. She was 21 and he 23 years old.

Brandt returned with his daughter a week ago on Thursday and Simon followed two days later. Last Sunday he appeared at the Brandt residence demanding to see Emma and flourishing a revolver. Brandt went out and met him and after a tussle took the weapon away from him. He then secured a warrant for him and had him placed in jail at Sheboygan.

Arrangements were then made to send the girl to visit a married sister in St. Louis. She was accompanied on the trip by three older sisters, Tillie, Laura and Bertha. They took the steamer Virginia from Milwaukee, arriving in Chicago at 10:50 yesterday morning, and missing the 10 o'clock train they had expected to take to St. Louis.

They went to the Simon house, as they had known him in Wisconsin. Here they learned that "Will" had come to Chicago on his release from jail at Sheboygan, that he was aware of their intended trip to St. Louis, and was determined to make trouble. He appeared at the Simon place last Wednesday with a revolver and made threats to kill himself and "some one else." His cousin got the gun away from him and kept it, but he evidently bought another.

He arrived at the house in Moreland a little after 6 o'clock in the evening. Besides Lawrence Simon and his wife and the four Brandt girls, there were in the house several other girls and another cousin, Alvin Simon. As "Will" was seen approaching the women fled in terror to the rear of the little frame cottage, and Emma begged that he be excluded.

When his knocks were unheeded, however, he opened the door, which was not locked, and walked in. He seemed to be in good humor, greeted every one pleasantly, and the scare was soon over. He behaved in an ordinary normal manner through the supper and afterwards until the Brandt girls began to prepare for their departure, intending to take a late train for St. Louis. This seemed to enrage him, and while the rest of the party were engaged he drew Emma aside into the kitchen.

A few minutes later a scream was heard, probably when he drew his revolver, and then a shot was heard. Other shots followed rapidly, smashing glass and furniture. Emma was heard to fall at the first shot.

The murderer hurried out on the back porch, but only to reload his revolver. He returned to the kitchen, where he met Miss Tillie Brandt. He shot at her, wounding her in the hand, then stood over the body of the girl he had killed and shot himself.

Both died instantly, according to Dr. F. L. Glenn.

Confirmation At Downeyville Celebrated On Sunday

An interesting and impressive ceremony took place in the parish at Downeyville on Sunday last when His Lordship, Rt. Rev. R. A. O'Connor, Bishop of Peterborough, administered the sacrament of Confirmation to sixty-nine candidates. The children went to Holy Communion at the Bishop's mass at 8 o'clock, many of them receiving communion for the first time. There were large congregations in attendance and His Lordship preached most inspiring and instructive sermons at both masses. At four o'clock in the afternoon the Bishop addressed the members of the C.M.B.A. in the school house, urging them to be faithful members of the Association, to use their best efforts in getting more members of the congregation to join the C.M.B.A. and pointing out the benefits that were to be derived financially, socially and religiously from the Association.

On Monday His Lordship, accompanied by the parish priest, Rev. Father McGuire, visited the schools and also many of the ill and old of the parish.

See Our New MILLINERY

Again we bid you view the new Millinery styles approved by Fashion. Hundreds have already attended our exhibition, but we want every woman in this vicinity to view these superb hats at leisure so that she may become thoroughly acquainted with the season's approved styles.

Fashion has decreed and her decisions are here awaiting you. Original, yes, daring, yes—but so wide and so free has her favor been distributed, that no woman need worry about securing a becoming hat, that is also stylish.

The dashing and the unconventional, are both included. This same liberality of thought is shown in the trimming for here also great latitude is permitted, velvets, feathers and plumes being impartially used.

Our hats are made by the best designers, thus assuring their correctness of style and your approval. No greater exponents of the Millinery art are to be found in Canada.

We invite you to our present showing of Fall Hats with the firm belief that you will find it the greatest display ever seen in this vicinity. This impressive exhibition proves again Hall's is the style and value centre of Peterboro.

TWO COMPANIES TO DRILL FOR NATURAL GAS AND WANT TO GET A FRANCHISE FROM THE CITY

Lundy Shovel and Tool Company Will Bore For Gas on Their Own Property First — Local People Claim American Syndicate's Application Was Result of Their Operations.

COMMITTEE MET

It seems that the probability of natural gas being within or around Peterborough is attracting considerable attention from more than one quarter.

About a week ago Mr. J. H. Carew representing an American syndicate, waited upon two or three of the City's Manufacturers' Committee and agred to the terms of an agreement, under which his people could have a ten years' exclusive franchise of the streets for laying pipes for conveying natural gas to consumers. Mr. Carew said his company was prepared to spend $6,000 in two years in drilling for gas, and agreed to pay for a by-law being submitted to the ratepayers. Mr. Carew agreed to start drilling on or before March first next year.

At Monday's Council meeting the Lundy Shovel and Tool Company had a letter before the city fathers, also asking an exclusive street franchise for the conveyance of natural gas. Both applications were then referred to the Manufacturers' Committee, which met last night. There were present at this meeting Mr. T. P. Clarkson, manager of the Lundy Tool and Shovel Company, and Messrs. Davidson and Rudkins, also members of the company. Mr. Clarkson explained that a drilling plant was already on the Shovel and Tool Company's property with which to bore for gas to supply their own factory. If the results are favourable, they would be prepared to go into the natural gas business in as large a scale as conditions warranted; hence their application for an exclusive franchise. They propose to commence drilling this week or next.

In reply to questions submitted by the aldermen present, Mr. Clarkson said his company would drill on their own property, but as to guaranteeing to drill elsewhere, that would depend on indications. He certainly could not guarantee to spend $6,000 in drilling for gas in order to get a franchise, and it looks as though Mr. Carew's application for a franchise had resulted from their operations. Mr. Carew's proposition seemed to justify the conclusion that the local syndicate were to do the drilling and the American people reap the benefit in the way of a franchise should the Peterborough firm's enterprise prove successful.

The Mayor thought a franchise should be given to all comers who were prepared to put up sufficient guarantee of good faith. Peterborough wanted natural gas.

When Mr. Carew was in town last week a Manufacturers' Committee meeting was called, but not enough members turned up to form a quorum. With those present, however, Mr. Carew accepted the same agreement drawn up for Mr. Dittman in Mayor Rush's period of office, and which will be forfeited unless drilling is resumed, and the terms of the agreement complied with by the end of 1910.

Ald. Bradburn offered that good faith should be kept with Mr. Carew, who had offered to spend $6,000 drilling for gas in return for a street franchise. The Lundy people were not prepared to guarantee any such expenditure on such a venture.

The committee was anxious, as a whole, to act fairly in the interests of both parties, and the city generally, and to offer no impediment to any effort proposed to secure natural gas. With these ends in view they somewhat amended the proposed agreement with Mr. Carew as follows:

No franchise is to be given till after January 1st, when a by-law will be submitted to the ratepayers. Whoever holds such franchise must, if gas is found in one year have a plant in operation for consumers' benefit the second year. Should boring for gas be stopped for two consecutive months, then the franchise is to be forfeited. The cost of submitting a by-law is to be borne by the holder of franchise.

A copy of the amendment will be forwarded to Mr. Carew for approval. If satisfactory to his people they will commence drilling for gas about next March. In the meantime the Lundy Shovel and Tool Company will at once start boring on their property for their own purposes, and if the results are sufficiently encouraging, Mr. Clarkson said his people will be satisfied to enter into a similar agreement for a franchise, as that to be submitted to Mr. Carew should his syndicate decline operations.

No franchise can be given until January next. The Lundy Company are going to commence drilling any way this week, and the results of their early operations may possibly deter the American people from entering the field, in which event our local people may take up the franchise. Or, both concerns may find gas in quantities sufficient to justify operations under two franchises. Then, again one concern might absorb any natural gas rights the other may acquire. And last, but not least, natural gas this time may prove as elusive as in other attempts at its discovery.

RAIN DID NOT INTERFERE WITH THE SUCCESS OF THE KEENE FAIR

Big Crowd in Attendance at the Annual Event Yesterday—More Entries Than in Past Years —Horse Races the Feature of the Day.

A GRAND CONCERT

KEENE, OCT. 5.—That the rain does not interfere with the success of the annual Fair of the Otonabee Agricultural Society held here to-day, was evidenced by the large attendance and the interest shown by all present. This annual exhibition was characterized as among the most successful ever held, and the officers of the society are highly gratified with the result. While the weather was not the best possible, the heavy downpour of rain did not come until the people were leaving, and it did not interfere with the races, which were practically the event of the afternoon. The crowd was representative of the village, and the surrounding farming community. Many were present also from Peterborough and the two steamers "Monarch" and "Rainbow" brought big contingents from Rice Lake points. Secretary Shearer informed the Examiner that the number of entries this year far exceeded those of former fairs. All classes were filled up, and particularly in the various exhibits of horses and ladies' fancy work, were the entries extremely numerous. The main building was crowded with exhibits, and they were viewed with admiring interest by the throngs of people that attended. The display of roots, grains flowers and vegetables was a splendid one, and reflects credit on the farmers of the community.

The donation of several special prizes was a stimulus to the farmers to take particular care with their stock in order that they might show the best. Hon. Mr. Stratton donated substantial money prizes for the best lady drivers, the first prize being won by Mrs. Harry Gibbs of Peterborough and the second prize was carried away by Miss Shearer of Keene. For the best herd of cattle a prize of ten dollars was donated by Mr. James Thompson, M.P.P., of Havelock. The first prize was won by Mr. Wm. Kemp with Durham cattle, and the second by Mr. Edgar Wood with Holsteins. Mr. J. A. Sexsmith, M.P., member for West Peterborough, was among the donors, giving five dollars for the best herd of sheep. It was won by Mr. W. J. Westington of Plainsville. Mr. T. F. Matthews' prizes for the best bacon hogs were won by Mr. Thos. Beatty and Mr. Edgar Wood.

A special prize of five dollars was also donated by Mr. Ed. Elliott, County Clerk, for the best two-year-old gelding.

The Horse Races.

The horse races were the feature of the day and were watched with great interest by the big crowd. The events were all keenly contested and provided good sport. They were run off on the third of a mile track. Mr. Jack Clancy acted as starter and Messrs. R. Leary, R. J. Munro and H. C. Winch were judges. The summary of the races is as follows:

The one mile foot race was won by Wm. Edwards, of Keene with Ym. Snow, of Hiawatha, a close second. There were four entries in this event.

A Grand Concert.

In the evening a grand concert was given in the village hall, in which several Peterborough people took part. Their various numbers were well received and encores were demanded. The programme was as follows:

"THEY'RE BOUND TO GET ME SOME TIME" SAID MAN KILLED BY BLACK HAND

Frank Julien, Found Murdered at Revelstoke, Had Assisted Provincial and Dominion Police in Running Down Members of Black Hand at Rossland, Fernie and Trail.

SECRET SERVICE MAN

Special to The Examiner.

REVELSTOKE, OCT. 6.—Another victim to the long list of crimes credited to the Black Hand organization in Canada has been added to by the murder of Mr. Frank Julien on Wednesday morning. The body was found in the thick underbrush along the Illecillwaet river.

On Tuesday three Italians, apparently laborers, came to town and struck up an acquaintance with Mr. Julien, who had recently purchased an acre of land south of the Arrowhead railway track, and near the railway bridge. The strange Italians told Mr. Julien they were here to get possession of land on which to settle. Having no work in sight they suggested to Julien if he could furnish axes they would give a few days' work on the land free.

In the evening the three strangers called at Julien's house, but were not seen by the members of the household, Mr. Julien meeting them personally and discussing work for the following day. On Wednesday morning Mr. Julien left home about 8.30 o'clock for the scene of operations, where he was met by the three strangers, who proceeded with him through the bush for the purpose of showing the land. No attention was paid to the strangers, who were seen by the family at a distance only.

About 10.30 Mr. Julien's daughter, Mrs. Dancer, noticed the three men who had been with her father returning up Second Street with bundles of blankets on their shoulders apparently bound for the depot. She paid no attention to them, as deceased when he left home informed his daughter he would not return till evening. When evening came the family thought Mr. Julien stayed with friends.

FINDING OF BODY

On Thursday night, anxious at his long absence, they started to look for him at houses of different neighbors. No one had seen him. His son-in-law, Mr. Mamoer, and others searched till dark and resumed on Friday morning at daylight. The finding of the body by L. Cashato was reported to the police. Where the murder was committed is well concealed, being a few hundred yards off the main road.

It is supposed that Mr. Julien was following the surveyors' line through the bush, and when he came where the brush was high and thick a man behind dealt him a blow on the top of the head with an axe, crushing the skull. The body fell forward into a hole, where it was struck by the blade of the axe in the left side of the neck. The head was nearly severed. The assailants placed brush and grass over the body. The axe was found 20 feet away.

Mr. Julien was an old-timer in this district and a terror to the Black Hand gang in British Columbia. He did more than any man in the province to expose and unearth the gang and its work. Many times, it was stated, his friends expected him to be caught by the gang.

STARTLING COINCIDENCE

In connection with this murder is a startling story dating over a year back, which may or may not be responsible for the crime. The story opens at a late hour on a Saturday night in June, 1909, in the Italian quarter in Revelstoke. Mr. Julien, one of the leading men of the colony, had been entertaining some friends at his home, among whom was his son-in-law, Fred Orsetti. Orsetti left the house shortly before midnight, and no sooner had he gained the sidewalk than two or three figures sprang out of the darkness and one man seized him by the coat collar while another slashed his throat with a knife or razor, he was never sure which. His cry of alarm brought the others rushing out of the house and his assailants scurried away, but he was able to recognize two of them, particularly one Frank Shildo, whom he took to be the man who held him while the other did the cutting.

Fortunately the razor blade had struck on the bony portion of Orsetti's windpipe and this saved his life. A diligent pursuit was started after Shildo, who disappeared for about two weeks. The late Mr. Julien was one of his most indefatigable pursuers. He traced Shildo to Calgary, followed him, recognized him and told the police of his whereabouts, but when they went after him Shildo had disappeared.

Housekeeper's Hit At Men Glances Off On Her Sisters

(By a Housekeeper.)

And now it is our housekeepers and prolonged holiday that is the topic of man's complaint. Why should women not be entitled to a whole effort attending to her social (not domestic) duties? After giving time to the important particulars of social duties what energy or inclination has woman to give to such commonplace things as canning vegetables and fruits and trying to live with comfort on a small income and still have a margin for old age?

It is a common fact that women try to imitate the qualities that men admire most in their sex. At the present time man shows by his words and actions that he regards as almost worthless the little particulars that go toward the establishment of a good substantial home. He boasts of his cleverness in making money until women have come to look upon them as a sort of cash register, waiting to supply them with money.

We hear of weekly lectures given by men to women on "Ambulance and First Aid" work, also "Nursing in the Home." Ambulance work is all right, but does not apply to women in general. Surely the importance of canning, baking, bread, pies, etc., which come into the lives of almost all women would be a more suitable subject for a lecture. The gymnasium is a secondary place for exercise compared with the home. Domestic duties when properly performed develop a more beautiful figure and have the ennoblement of the mind as an additional advantage. Surely a lecture on how to avoid as much as possible any need of nursing in the home would be more commendable. If housekeepers were more enlightened on such subjects as "bathing," "ventilation," "transmission of disease by house flies" and the necessity of avoiding dirt that is dangerous less nursing would suffice in the home or anywhere else. Without the assistance of a lecturer or conversation of a physician mothers have nursed their families through serious cases of sickness.

Between the drawing room and the kitchen there is a "great gulf fixed" which can be bridged. J. J. Hill has wisely said that the people who are doing the important work of the world are the people who are living quiet, simple lives, at home. If women continue to look upon home work as "drudgery" what future is there for the home?

NOT HOME AT NINE

In Inquest Into Death of Lizzie Anderson at Goderich, Jardine's Story of His Movements on Night of the Murder Are Badly Riddled—Doctors Present the Result of the Postmortem Yesterday.

Goderich, Oct. 6.—Last night's session of the inquest into the murder of 16-year-old Lizzie Anderson, whose nude body, with throat cut, was found in the cellar of a vacant house last Sunday week, after she had been missing since the previous Tuesday, brought out some startling evidence.

A dozen or so witnesses were called to disprove young Edward Jardine's statements that he was at home on the evening of Sept. 20 at two minutes past nine. At various times, ranging from 8:30 till five minutes to ten that evening, he was seen in company with the murdered girl, according to last night's testimony. Even little girls and small boys came forward to tell Coroner Holmes and the jury that they had seen the two together. Inspector Greer promises a material witness along the same line from out of town.

Edward Jardine, and a younger brother were both put on the stand for a moment so that the witnesses could tell whether or not they were mistaken as to their identity.

The regular court room could not begin to contain the curious crowds and the Town Hall had to be brought into commission, and this was packed to suffocation in a few minutes after the doors were opened. People sat around and atop the jurors, mounted the box stove, and perched in the window ledges. Several of the long benches were crushed flat by the crush.

When the session began, Edward Jardine was at once asked by Crown Attorney Seager what clothes he had on the night of the tragedy.

"The clothes I have on now."

"And what hat?"

"The hat that my brother Thomas is holding for me now."

Turning to a constable, the crown attorney demanded that the hat be produced.

"Put it on," he directed. It was a soft round felt affair. "That's the hat you wore that night?"

"Yes."

"And did you carry your stick?"

"Yes."

"Call Thomas Jardine," called Mr. Seager, and when Thomas stepped into the box, the crown asked, "Is that the suit of clothes you had on that night?"

"Yes."

"And hat?"

"Yes, sir. Thomas was wearing a dinged brown derby."

"That will do," he said, and witness stepped down, seemingly bewildered at the abruptness of it all.

Mrs. Tideman was called. She did not know Edward Jardine, but she knew Frank Jardine, aged 16, and had seen him at Goderich Fair on the Tuesday night in question, about 8:30, with Lizzie Anderson and another young man who very much resembled Edward Jardine. Witness had never seen him before that night, nor again until now, but she added "he looked the same to me." She fixed the time by having passed the Salvation Army barracks as the clock was striking eight, and the distance she had walked before meeting the three young people.

Mr. Tideman corroborated his wife's statements, and added that Lizzie Anderson wore a white hat with a blue ribbon around it, and a light suit with a stripe in it. He was pretty certain it would be about 8:30.

Positive evidence that Edward Jardine and the Anderson girl were together about eight o'clock was given by 13-year-old Reggie Love, a playmate of Frankie Jardine. He and Frankie had met Edward and the girl in the chicken show building.

"Are you quite sure it was Edward Jardine?"

"Yes."

"And Lizzie Anderson?"

"Yes, sir."

"Anyone with them?"

"No, they were standing together alone until Frankie met them," said the boy.

There was a murmur of surprise as Ray Steele boldly asserted that he had seen Edward and Lizzie together on the fair grounds at 9:30 that night. Steele had been working in a refreshment booth.

"You are quite positive you saw them?"

"Yes."

He fixed the time from the fact that the band stopped playing a few minutes afterwards. They were on the south side of the grand stand, and close to the picket fence.

"Could it possibly have been earlier?" he was asked.

"No, it could not have been any earlier," was the positive reply. "Fifteen or twenty minutes later they were gone," witness said. The crowds were moving away, and he took notice that they were not beside the fence. "They must have gone some place," he added. Just before the crowds started to disperse he saw Albert Jardine, a brother, with two women in a rig.

Mrs. Adam McDonald further startled the court by testifying that Edward Jardine and the Anderson girl were seen beside the fence outside the pavilion at five minutes to ten, as nearly as she could judge. A few minutes after the band stopped playing her little daughter Catharine and little Maggie Leonard came to her to go home. Both girls say they saw the young couple before they came to meet her. Catharine told her that Edward Jardine was resting his elbow on the picket fence, between the pavilion and the peanut stand. He was not looking at the girl, but she was looking up at his face.

Both little girls were called by the crown, and each swore she had seen Edward and Lizzie, as Mrs. McDonald had said.

"You are sure," insisted Mr. Seager, and each answered a positive "Yes."

By way of fixing the hour the band had stopped playing, Capt. Alex McLeod and his wife were called. Mrs. McLeod had asked her husband, when the music ceased, what time it was, and he had replied, "Ten minutes to ten."

Dr. Sallow read the post-mortem report, which showed that the girl had died as a result of a three-inch gash from right to left of her throat. It looked as though made by a large jackknife, from the nature of the initial stab. There were abrasions on the back and at the back of the arms, apparently caused after death. Also, there were clots on the forehead, indicating that a blow or blows had been struck before death. Drs. Macklin and Gunn testified to the correctness of the report.

Evidence that cries were heard in the vicinity of the vacant house where the body lay, was given by Mrs. Margaret Ross and Mrs. Daniel Buchanan. The latter lives three doors away. She declared that she was awakened from her sleep by hearing a man talking loudly. Then came a cry, followed by a man's laugh. Then there was some more loud talking and a weaker cry. She listened breathlessly, but heard nothing more. The sounds seemed to come from the southwest corner of the fair grounds, right opposite her house. This would be in the direction of the vacant house. Mrs. Buchanan had no way of fixing the time, but fancied it was about one o'clock.

Balfour Has Misgivings.

London, Oct. 6.—Arthur Balfour, leader of the opposition, concluding a speech at Edinburgh, referred to the subject of colonial preference. He looked forward, he said, with real misgivings to the meeting together of another colonial conference with the Government, which would meet it with the same disregard and obstinacy as before. He looked forward, however, with increasing hope to the prospect of great reform in our fiscal system.

Boulevard for Montreal.

Montreal, Oct. 6.—A proposition was made to the Board of Control by J. H. Maher, the well-known local contractor, who offers the city the land for a boulevard extending four miles from the St. Catherine road to the Back River, near Bordeau. The boulevard is to be 125 feet wide, with double track space and double driveway, and is to be given to the city free of charge, provided they undertake to make the boulevard.

Recipe for 16 Ounces of Cough Syrup

No Better Remedy at any Price. Fully Guaranteed.

Make a plain syrup by mixing two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of warm water and stir for two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of pure Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16 oz. bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup. This gives you a family supply of the best cough syrup at a saving of $2. It never spoils. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

The effectiveness of this simple remedy is surprising. It seems to take hold instantly, and will usually stop the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. It tones up the jaded appetite and is just laxative enough to be helpful in a cough, and has a pleasing taste. Also excellent for bronchial trouble, throat tickle, sore lungs and asthma, and an unequalled remedy for whooping cough.

This recipe for making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup (or strained honey) is a prime favorite in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada. The plan has been imitated, though never successfully. If you try it, use only genuine Pinex, which is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guiacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this recipe.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

THE BULLET FITS RIFLE

Several Witnesses Tell of Parker's Rage Against His Neighbor and Frequent Declarations That He Would "Fix" Him—Seen With His Gun on Day of Murder — Empty Shell Is Found by Constable.

Belleville, Oct. 6.—Murderer or innocent man, Robert Parker, accused of killing William Masters April 8 last, certainly advertised his enmity for the deceased in a thorough manner. Most of the crown witnesses appearing for the prosecution at the continuation of the trial here yesterday in the court house had been told by Parker that if he ever caught any of Masters' family meddling with his traps, there would be trouble. In a number of cases he declared, according to witnesses, that he would shoot if he found one of the "tribe," as he described them, stealing his traps.

Fred. Hinds, a clerk in a feed store, swore that Parker had told him that he would shoot Masters. When asked which one, Parker had said, "Bill, that old man. I'd shoot him like a dog." The conversation had taken place in the store witness worked in, about two months before the murder. Witness recollected that Parker had described the Masters' family as "dirty trash" and a "pack of thieves." After being told of the killing of Masters, Parker had advanced the conjecture that long range rifles were responsible for it.

Parker himself does not impress one as being a man who would cold-bloodedly shoot down a neighbor. During the proceedings he has taken a quiet interest in what was going on. His physiognomy does not show weakness or cowardice, but a certain grimness. But there is humor in his expression which offsets the grimness. There is a wrinkle on either side of his firm mouth running down his face, which seems to indicate that he could tell a good story or enjoy a joke with anybody. At times during the trial he exhibited nervousness, but only in a slight degree. When anybody went out or came in he would turn his head and watch them, but usually he was motionless, except for his eyes, which would rove from counsel to witness or judge.

Constable Benjamin Sedore brought to light what may prove to be an important point. On the second visit to the residence of the accused, shortly after the crime, he found three cartridge shells. One was not discolored, but the other two were. Witness said that he had noticed in his experience that it took some time for cartridges to become discolored after being discharged.

The bullet that had passed through the body of the deceased, and the rifle found in the home of the prisoner were produced. The base of the bullet fitted the mouth of the rifle snugly. The top of the bullet had become mushroomed in passage. Rifle experts from Toronto will give evidence, probably to-day, and may throw more light on the matter.

Mrs. W. Woodcock said that Parker had declared that he would shoot one of the Masters' family "like a black snake."

George Lane swore that accused told him that if he met Masters in the woods he would shoot him. "You had not better do that," said Lane. "I would if I had the chance," was the reply.

Parker had drawn his savings, $100, out of the bank on the day of the murder. Andrew Wilson, constable, said that Parker had said that he had drawn it in order to buy out Masters, but that "the old —— would not sell."

Mrs. Maggie Caull testified that in driving to Tweed on the morning Masters was killed, at Chapman's Corners bridge, she met Mr. Parker. He was carrying a shotgun over his right shoulder. Parker then crossed over the road and climbed over a fence, which was the last she saw of him.

Young Monarch Now at Small Town Near Lisbon and Revolutionaries Are Said to Be In Control—Theophile Braga Is Chosen President—The Brazilian President-Elect Delays His Return.

Lisbon, Oct. 6.—A provisional Government has been formed, with Theophile Braga as President. The new national flag is flying over all public buildings.

A report was circulated late last night that the revolutionists had been checked and were retiring in the direction of Mosanto.

President-elect of Brazil, Marshal [illegible] Fonseca, has delayed his departure and remains in Lisbon.

British Minister's Report.

London, Oct. 6.—The telegram of British Minister Sir F. H. Villiers to the Foreign Office follows:

"A serious disturbance broke out here (Lisbon) Monday night, when some troops of the garrison declared themselves Republicans. Fighting occurred throughout yesterday afternoon. Troops loyal to the royalists went over to the revolutionists and a republic was proclaimed.

"Great excitement prevails. The proclamation of a republic was received enthusiastically by the people.

"I believe that a provisional Government is being formed. King Manuel is said to be at Mafra (18 miles northwest of Lisbon), at the royal palace with the Queen Mother and the Prince Royal, but I have no precise news."

The News Via Madrid.

Madrid, Oct. 6. Advices received here last night from Lisbon are to the effect that King Manuel and Queen Mother Amelie have left Portugal on a warship for England; that the revolutionists have triumphed and that a republic has been proclaimed amid the widest enthusiasm.

Rumors have reached this city that 8,000 armed peasants have entered the Portuguese capital. It is reported that the Republican flags are not floating over the royal palace at Lisbon, but only on the Portuguese warships in the Tagus River.

How Manuel Departed.

Berlin, Oct. 6. A thrilling story of the night flight of King Manuel through the streets of a riot-riven city and across a fog-stranded bay, to safety on board the Brazilian warship Sao Paulo, is published by The Lokal Anzeiger.

When the rebellion burst forth in its fury, and the Portuguese warships in the harbor trained their heavy guns and began bombarding the palace, King Manuel, his mother, Queen Amelie, and other members of the royal household took refuge in a cellar, where they were safe from the shells of the Republicans.

Toward nightfall the commander of the Brazilian cruiser got in touch with the palace with the tacit consent and full knowledge of the republican leaders. Brazilian officers warned the King that his life was in danger, and offered him refuge on board the Sao Paulo, which was then anchored out of the line of fire in the harbor.

The Brazilian officers found the boy ruler endeavoring to comfort his mother, but Amelie, who had seen husband and eldest son shot to death and now faced the fear that her other son would be slain, refused to be comforted. At first Manuel steadfastly declined to seek safety in flight, but the tears of his mother and the statement of the Brazilian officers that he could not hope to win, caused him to agree to the proposal.

Wearing the full uniform and with head erect, the youth walked through a line of those troops who had remained loyal. He proceeded to a quay in a secluded portion of the city, where a ship's pinnace from the Sao Paulo was in waiting. The sailors saluted with their oars as Manuel, with great dignity, took his seat in the stern. A few moments later, the oars dipped in the bay, and the little boat made its dangerous way toward the Sao Paulo. As Manuel came up over the side of the vessel the marines manned the rail and saluted the dethroned monarch.

PANDORA RANGE

for Coal or Wood

WOULD you like to know the reasons for the wonderful baking powers of the Pandora oven?

One reason why the Pandora oven excels as a baker is because the Fire-Box is amply large enough to provide all the heat the oven requires. Another is because the Sheet Steel Walls of the oven are uniform in thickness. This, together with the Special Flue Construction which carries the heat around the oven twice, assures absolutely uniform distribution of heat in the oven. Still another is because the main bottom of range is protected with a heavy coating of Fire Clay which prevents cold drafts, passing underneath the range, from cooling the oven.

Why the Oven is such an Excellent Baker

Look at a batch of bread baked in the Pandora oven. The crust on each and every loaf is exactly alike. The Pandora oven is the sure-working, uniform oven that you've long desired. And it's in a range that's guaranteed to satisfy you in every particular.

Go and see the Pandora at our agent's in your locality.

Saturday's Rugby Game Will Be Hard Contest

The weather conditions during the past few days have not been very suitable for rugby, but in spite of the rain the Collegiate team have been working out faithfully in preparation for their game at Riverside Park on Saturday with the fast Trinity College School team of Port Hope. The game is attracting considerable interest on account of the interesting contests between the two teams last season. A report from Port Hope says that the T. C. S. team is the strongest fourteen that has worn the school colours in some years and is already being looked upon as a championship possibility in the School League. They will certainly take a lot of beating and there will undoubtedly be a good crowd on hand to see the battle. The local students have a strong, well-balanced fourteen and expect to uphold the traditions of the Collegiate. The game is called for 3 o'clock sharp.

Lindsay's O. R. F. U. Team What About Peterborough?

Lindsay is to have a junior O.R.F.U. team this season and want Peterborough to organize a club and form a district with them. Manager Simpson, of the Lindsay team, called up Dr. MacPherson yesterday to find out what was doing in rugby circles here. Surely Peterborough has enough material to form a good junior team Peterborough has not been without a team in the O.R.F.U. for a dozen years. Why not get together and discuss the matter anyway. It seems a shame to let the season go by default.

A New Record Made In The Collegiate Jumps

Despite the unfavourable weather yesterday afternoon the Collegiate Institute Athletic Society managed to get the slate cleared of a couple of jumps in readiness for the annual field day at Riverside Park to-morrow. The programme on field day is usually so long that it has been the custom to get the jumping events out of the way in advance, and this practice is being carried out this year.

The feature yesterday was the setting up of a new record in the junior standing broad jump, in which event Meredith Huycke "lepped," as they say in Ireland, four inches further than the best previous mark in this contest.

The results of yesterday's events were as follows:

Standing broad jump, senior—1, Vivian Fessenden, 8 feet, 9 inches; 2, A. Gilbert, 8 ft. 4½ in.; 3, C. Bartlett, 8 ft. 2½ in.

Standing broad jump, Junior—1, M. Huycke, 7 ft. 8 in., new record, (former mark 7 ft. 4 in.); 2, M. Carlisle, 7 ft. 2 in.; 3, McIntyre, 6 ft. 3 in.

Difference Between The Managers In Big Series

PHILADELPHIA, OCT. 4. — The coming world's series between the Philadelphia and Chicago teams is now the all absorbing topic in baseballdom. The fans scattered throughout the country are busily engaged in comparing the strength of the two teams, the individual merits of the men, etc. In discussing the capabilities of the men the first who come naturally to one's mind are the two managers, Chance, of the Cubs, and Mack, of the Athletics. The former is a playing manager, or will be in this series, and the latter directs his club from the bench. Both are admittedly "wise" baseball men, and the records of the pair as leaders are uniformly good. Both always manage to have their teams well up in the race. Both know how to handle men. Both have the baseball instinct, and both use the best of judgment in making changes of pitchers, selecting pitchers, etc. Of course Chance will be a more conspicuous figure in the games, as he will be taking an active part in them. While Chance and Mack are two of the greatest managers in the game, their methods of handling a ball team are exactly opposite. Mack is a great believer in himself and is the absolute director of affairs under his own roof. His players must play his game—be in perfect unison with him on all his principles. When the Athletics go into the field to do battle there are nine Connie Macks arrayed against the opposition. Chance is of different calibre. He is a typical exponent of the playing-manager. From the initial corner Frank is a master hand at driving his hurlers. When Chance took hold of the team he wanted and secured a line up of fighters, and the result is that every time that Cub brigade wanders out on a diamond there are nine self-confident fighting warriors in action—the never say die kind, who must fight to win, even if they fight with themselves. That is the Chance combination.

CAN COME BACK

KANSAS CITY, OCT. 5.—The gymnasium of the Kansas City Athletic Club is now resounding with the thud of the punching bag against the ceiling, for Battling Nelson is in training again. The Battler will fight Monte Dale, a Western chamois pusher, at the Grand Avenue A. C., here October 10th, and says that after cleaning him up in fine style he is going out for all the others, especially Wolgast.

"They say 'they never come back'," said Nelson to-day. "Most of them don't, I acknowledge. But there is one case where one good sport did come back—the prodigal son. I am not a "prod" but am coming back."

STAR TWIRLERS

Russell Ford is now Bender's nearest rival for pitching honours in the American League. The New Yorker's spitter has enabled him to win twenty-four games, while it has failed him but six times. Bender has won twenty-two games and lost five, which gives him a margin of just fifteen points on Ford. Jack Coombs won one game last week but was passed by Ford nevertheless.

Three excellent pitching feats were brought to a focus last week, the principals of which were Coombs, Johnson and Mitchell. Chicago broke Coombs' record by scoring one run after the Philadelphian had held the opposing team runless for fifty-three innings. Johnson's feat set a new strike-out record for the big leagues. Up to date the speedy National flinger has fanned 301 batters this season, which eclipses the former record of 301 made by Waddell in 1903. Willie Mitchell, the Naps' port side hurler, won his ninth straight game. While this is not a record it is a mighty creditable performance and an unusual occurrence.

WAGNER COMING

Sherwood Magee travelled on high speed last week and passed all other National League stickers. Magee has only one point on Vincent Campbell, however. Snodgrass and Crandall are even at .329, Wagner has .330. The figures show the best batters to be pretty well bunched.

Wagner still has an excellent chance for the leadership. With only five points to overcome, the great Dutchman should be able to get across before October 16th. Magee seems to be the man he will have to beat out this year.

As well as leading hitter, Magee is likewise, the ground slugger of the league. In this respect he far eclipses everybody. He has swatted for 249 bases and eighty-six extra bases. His average for long distance colliding is .497.

Brooklyn is one point ahead of the Phillies in team fielding and Pittsburg excels Chicago in team hitting and long hits.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES AT PARK ST. CHURCH

By far the best meeting in connection with Dr. Sam Luttrell's mission at Park Street Baptist church, was held last night.

The Doctor spoke about the soul's eternal exchange, and took for his text Mark 8, 36-37: "What shall a man give in exchange for his soul?" The soul is the most valuable commodity in the world, worth more than all the wealth of ten thousand worlds Young woman, beware of marrying a man for his money. In graphic language, pathetic in manner, but convincing in its import and deliverance, the doctor portrayed the end of the woman who bartered her soul on the world's market for money, and one man who sells his life for gold. Marry for love or don't marry at all. Know the man you are going to marry. It was a strong appeal, especially to the young. The effectiveness of the message was seen, by the many who responded to the Evangelist's invitation to "Come over the line to Jesus." The pastor of Park Street, Rev. W. A. Riddiford, and the doctor make a good team.

The meetings are growing in interest. There will be a special mass meeting for men next Sunday in the Park Street Baptist church at 3 p. m. The doctor will give a manly talk to men. Come and hear him. Meeting to-night at 8 p.m.

SPLENDID ATTRACTIONS SECURED FOR GRAND

The present month will be an important one in the history of the Grand Opera House and probably never was there such a splendid array of attractions at the Grand in one month, since the house was opened "The Vulture" will be seen here on Saturday night, and on Monday the old favourite minstrel troupe, "Guy Brothers" will be here. On Thursday October 13, Weedon Grossmith, the world-famous English comedian, comes to the Grand, in his celebrated farce "Mr. Preedy and the Countess" direct from a two-year run at the Criterion Theatre, London, and en route to a season's engagement in New York On Monday, the 17th, the new musical comedy, "A Winning Miss," a very funny offering crammed full of tuneful music, will be the attraction. The famous comic opera, "The Alaskan," will be seen here on Wednesday, the 25th. "The Naked Truth," the English farce, in which Charles Hawtrey, is creating a furore in London, and which made its American debut in Toronto on Monday night with Henry Dixey in the leading role, will play a Peterborough engagement on Tuesday, Oct. 25. The play is crowding the Royal Alexandra in Toronto this week. The month's big list of engagements is brought to a fitting close on Thursday, Oct. 27, when the biggest musical comedy on the road "The Midnight Sons" will be the attraction.

FRAGARIAN FREAKS OF CITY AND COUNTRY GARDEN PLOTS

Mr. Samuel Edwards, of Douro, near the city, is the possessor of some very enterprising strawberry vines. He has left at the Examiner office several sprigs of strawberry plant with the leaves as green as June and some of the second helping of fruit almost matured. One berry of the lot was nearly an inch in diameter. Strawberries ripening in the open in the first week of October is a circumstance that should be called to the attention of Kipling, to make him further ashamed of libelling Canada, as "Our Lady of the Snows."

But, while Mr. Edwards' strawberries are a credit to the quality of his soil and the geniality of the Canadian climate, Mr. Wm. Miles, 547 Weller street, "takes the (strawberry) cake." Mr. Miles is an expert and experimental gardener. He is the first at the Examiner sanctum each year with new potatoes; he grows potatoes from slips of vines, cut off and trust into the soil, grafts tomatoes on potato vines and performs other horticultural "stunts" that testify to his skill and heart in his work. In his latest achievement he has surpassed himself. To-day, Oct. 6, Mr. Miles laid on "our table" a cluster of strawberries with a history. They were pretty well ripened, of good size and were borne on plants grown from seed taken from strawberries that ripened earlier in the present summer. In this case, the inquiry, "who can beat it?" loses its triteness. When Mr. Miles is created the Duke of Horticulture, the strawberry leaf would partly be adopted as the cognizance of the new dynasty.

INDIGESTION GOES IN FIVE MINUTES

Heartburn, Dyspepsia, Gas and Other Stomach Misery Vanishes

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch Gas and Eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of Dizziness, Heartburn, Fulness, Nausea, Bad taste in mouth and stomach, headache—this is Indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents and will thoroughly cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave, sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or Indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases, then you will understand why Dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or Indigestion in five minutes. Diapepsin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for Biliousness or Constipation.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them; but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for Indigestion or Gastritis or any Stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of Stomach Trouble and Indigestion.

WEDDING BELLS

COLLINS—LOGAN.

On Wednesday, Sept. 28th, the St. Paul's church, Norwood, was the scene of a very pretty wedding when Hannah Josephine Logan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Logan, became the life partner of Mr. Patrick Collins, of Kinmount. Rev. Father Kelly, pastor of the church, officiated.

The bride looked charming in a handsome costume of cream Minon de Soie with trimmings of Irish lace and satin ribbon. They were attended by Miss Nora Collins, sister of the groom, and Mr. John Logan, brother of the bride. Miss Collins wore a tailored suit of Marine blue, trimmed with Duchess satin and picture hat to match.

After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of the bride's parents, which was artistically decorated for the occasion and after congratulations had been tendered a dainty dejeuner was served. Only the immediate friends of the contracting parties were present. During the evening, guests to the number of about one hundred, assembled and spent a very pleasant night until the bride and groom took their departure on the early train to spend a short visit at Toronto and Buffalo.

The bride travelled in a suit of monoplane chiffon broadcloth with hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Collins were the recipients of many beautiful and costly gifts, which served to show the esteem in which the bride was held by her many friends and acquaintances.

The groom's gift to the bride was a magnificent opal sunburst, to the bridesmaid a pearl ring and to the groomsman a set of gold cuff links.

Mr. and Mrs. Collins will take up their residence in Mr. Collins' new house near Kinmount.

SANDS—SMITH.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Dixon, 516 Bolivar street, at 7.30 last evening, when Miss Jane Smith, who recently came from Greenock, Scotland, and Mr. Samuel Sands, of this city, were united in the bonds of holy matrimony. The bridesmaid was Miss Ella Warne, while Mr. Burnham assisted the groom.

After the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. H. J. Keith, a sumptuous wedding supper was served. Only a few immediate friends were guests.

The happy young couple will reside at 242 Simcoe street.

OBITUARY

MARY KILLEN.

The death occurred yesterday at the House of Providence, of Mark Killen, at the age of 47. The remains were shipped to Lindsay on the G. T. R. train this morning for interment.

FUNERAL TO-DAY

Remains of Mrs. (Dr.) O'Sullivan Were Laid in Last Resting Place

The funeral of the late Mrs. (Dr.) O'Sullivan took place this morning at nine o'clock. It was largely attended. The pall bearers were Dr. Halliday, Dr. McGrath, Dr. McNulty, Dr. Morgan, Dr. McCulloch, and Dr. McPherson. Three priests officiated. Rev. Father Toner was Deacon, Rev. Father O'Brien was Sub-deacon and Rev. Father Casey said Mass. Father O'Brien officiated at the grave.

ATTRACTIVE WINDOWS

The windows of the Cressman store to-day contain a display that is of peculiar interest to men and that is as well an unique proof of the skill and artistic taste of the window dresser of the establishment, Mr. Edwards. The centre window contains a particularly appropriate autumn scene in which birds and animals are used very effectively. The window is attracting considerable attention.

THRESHER SLIPPED

A rather expensive accident occurred yesterday in the Grand Trunk railway yard, when a gang of men were unloading a threshing machine. When they had it half way down the gangway, they let it slip and the force with which it struck the bottom broke the rear axle off close by the machine. It is a new machine and considerable trouble and expense will be experienced before the machine will be repaired. No fault can be attached to the Grand Trunk Company or the place of unloading.

AN APPEAL TO REASON
TWELVE months ago, after prolonged investigation and experiment, we pinned our faith to the Knight motor as the greatest improvement of the decade in automobile construction.
Many believed us, bought cars and are to-day congratulating themselves on their judgment.
There were doubters then, perhaps there are to-day, but we hear less of them.
THEY SAID—The engine was an experiment forgetting that it had stood the greatest engine test on record before the Royal Automobile Club of Great Britain and Ireland.
THEY SAID—It will not stand up on Canadian roads, although they knew a challenge of $1,250 was open to anyone who wished to measure his motor against the Knight for reliability.
THEY SAID—That it would not be taken up in Europe, and that the Daimler Company were about to discard it. We knew at the time and anyone can verify it now that the leading concerns of six of the countries of Europe have adopted the Knight motor.
THEY SAID—No one in the United States would take it up. We know that over twenty of the largest concerns in the United States have from time to time applied for consideration in the American rights. And we know to-day that leading United States firms will announce 1912 models with Knight motors in another twelve months despite the fact that the agents of some of these concerns profess great skepticism about the Knight motor to-day.
We seldom refer to or bother about the suggestions of interested opponents. We want, however, to repeat our conviction, formed a year ago, and confirmed by twelve months' of experience in the factory, on the road, and in the users' hands:
That the Knight motor far surpasses the old valve type, and that it is only a question of time before it entirely supersedes it in all high-grade cars. Get a car that will be up-to-date the longest.
Our 1911 model is out, but our 1910 users can smile, for their car is up-to-date still. 1911 is only a refinement in details on 1910.
The same motor. The same body lines, with high front doors, now pretty universally copied.
Is not this the type of car to buy?

"THE PILLAR OF LIGHT"

By Louis Tracy, (Copyrighted)

He descended the stairs with a cigar in his mouth and a delighted youngster clinging to each hand.

In the hall he encountered a dozen journalists waiting to devour him. They had failed to penetrate the strategic screen interposed by the head waiter. Now the enemy was unmasked and they advanced to the attack.

Pyne was ready for them. He had already outlined his defence.

"Will one of you gentlemen, representing all, kindly give me a word in private?" he asked.

This was readily agreed to.

"Now, this is the deal I will make,' he said, when the two were isolated, "I will meet you all here in an hour's time. I will be interviewed, sketched, snap-shotted, give you locks of my hair, my autograph, my views on the Far East, the next Presidential election, and the fiscal question, if you bind yourself to one thing."

"And that is?"

"Among the passengers saved from the Chinook is a Mrs. Vansittart. She is very ill, and is being cared for by Mr. Brand and his daughters. Make no reference to her in any way whatever beyond including her name in the published lists. Promise me that and I'll talk a page."

"I am sure I can agree without consulting my colleagues," said the surprised reporter.

"Come along, kids,' 'said Pyne. "I am delivered bound to the torture."

He passed out into the street, when Elsie's sharp eyes, searching for a shop, suddenly caught sight of Enid hurrying towards the hotel.

The child ran to meet her and Enid, flushed with excitement, began to explain that Mrs. Vansittart was in bed, suffering from collapse and in a feverish state. The doctor's verdict was that she was in some danger, but would recover if carefully tended and kept in absolute quiet.

"Is Constance with her" asked Pyne.

"Yes."

"And where is Mr. Brand?"

"He will be here soon. He asked me to call—and tell you—and Mr. Traill—what had happened."

Enid's speech was not prone to trip. Pyne's eyes gleamed into hers.

"Mr. Brand asked you to see my uncle" he said cautiously."

"Yes," she faltered.

"Did he say anything else?"

"Yes—cousin.'

"Let me take you right in. I guess it would make a sensation if I—here, Mamie, just hug Miss Enid good and hard for me, will you?"

Whilst the children waited in the hall, he accompanied the girl up the stairs and threw open the door of the sitting-room.

"Here is somebody you want to see uncle:" he cried, and rejoined the little ones.

"Hoorroosh!" he yelped. "Now, let's buy a toy store."

Enid and her father faced each other for some seconds in silent bewilderment. Then Mr. Traill rose and came near to her. She did not know what to do or to say. This tall, stately man was one who should be dearer to her than anyone else in the world. She was his daughter, yet they were strangers one to the other.

"I—I ". How could she utter conventional words in such a moment? Her lips quivered and tears trembled in her eyes. Then he knew. The lace around her white neck was fastened with a little gold brooch bearing a four-leafed shamrock in emeralds. He looked at her with a profound reverence, and caught her by the shoulders.

"My dear," he murmured, "you are very like your mother."

"I am glad," she said, and kissed him.

CHAPTER XIX.

THE HOUSE THAT STOOD UPON A ROCK.

A week passed. In the fickle memory of the outer world the story of the Gulf Rock lighthouse was becoming mellow with age. Men now talked of war in Africa, of the Yellow Peril, of some baccarat squabble in a West-end club, but its vitality lingered in Penzance. There were side issues which Pyne's device had kept from the public ken, but which the town's folk pondered. Lady Margaret Stanhope, obeying her son's behests tantalized her friends by smiling serenely and telling them nothing when they pestered her with questions. That is to say, she spoke not one word about the lady who was being nursed back to health in the lighthouse-keeper's cottage but filled their souls with bitterness when she hinted at marvels concerning Constance and Enid.

In such a small place, where every man's affairs are canvassed by his neighbours, it was impossible to prevent an atmosphere of mystery from clinging to Mrs. Vansittart. Again, the gossips were greatly concerned about Enid. For a young woman "in her position to be engaged to an officer in the Royal Navy and admitted to the sacred ranks of the aristocracy was a wonderful thing in itself. But that she should be on open terms of the greatest intimacy not alone with the elderly Mr. Traill, but with his good-looking nephew, even calling the latter "Charlie" and treating him as a near relative, was an amazing circumstance only surpassed by the complacency with which Lady Margaret and her son regarded it.

The actors in this comedy seemed to be sublimely indifferent to public opinion. That was the worst of it. Enid was escorted about the town by each and all of the men at all hours. Now she was at the hospital, cheering Bates and Jackson, or the injured people from the wreck, now arranging for the departure of some of the poorer survivors when they were able to travel, now flitting over to Marazion to see Jim Spence, and once actually visiting Mr. Jones, the innkeeper.

At last a part of the secret leaked out. Enid went with her father to ask how Mr. Emmett, the sick chief officer, was getting on. They found him smoking in the front garden of the house in which Brand had lodged him.

He started when he saw them approaching, and his weather-beaten face wore the puzzled look with which he regarded Enid one night on the lighthouse stairs.

Traill noticed the sailor's covert glances at Enid, so he said:

"By the way Mr. Emmett you were on the Britannic when my wife and I, her sister, and two children, came to England before the Esmeralda was lost?"

"Yes, sir." He paused.

During many an Atlantic crossing he and Mr. Traill had talked of that last joyous journey, when he, a boy who had just joined the service, sat at their table, as was the custom of junior officers in those years.

Mr. Traill smiled. He knew what was in the other man's mind.

"Do you see a likeness in this young lady to anyone you have ever known?" he asked.

"Well, sir, I hope it will not hurt your feelings, and it's a good many years ago now, but I could have sworn—well, I must out with it. She is the living image of your wife."

"Her daughter! Your daughter!" gasped Emmett.

A small serving-maid with the ears of a rabbit, was listening spell-bound at the open window. Here, indeed, was a choice tit-bit for the milkman, and the post-man, and the butcher's boys. From this lower current the stream of talk flowed upwards until it reached the august drawing-room of Mrs. Taylor-Smith.

She drove in frantic haste to Lady Margaret's villa, and fired questions broadside.

"Oh, yes," said Jack's mother, suavely. "It is quite true. Of course I have known it from the first. According to present arrangements the marriage will take place in the spring. Enid's marriage settlement will be nearly quarter of a million."

Like most women, she loved that word. A million, even in fractions, is so glib, yet so unattainable.

The only person who was slightly dissatisfied with the progress of events was Pyne. Constance never appeared. She shared with Mrs. Sheppard the care of her mother. Enid, blithe and guileless in the public eye, did the house-keeping and represented the household.

Brand, too, save for a couple of visits to the hotel, remained invisible. He did not mention Mrs. Vansittart's name. He was pale and worn, a man at war with himself. The young Philadelphian—for Pyne's family home was in the Quaker City, though his estate lay principally in New York—was not pleased by the slight signs perceptible behind the screen of Brand's reserve.

"Constance takes after her father," he told himself. "There may be trouble about her mother. In the scurry I may get left. I must think this out."

At last came a day of warm sunshine, when Enid announced that the invalid, by the doctor's orders, was carried downstairs.

"Has Mr. Brand seen her yet?" asked Pyne.

"No," replied Enid, with a little cloud on her fair face. "He never mentions her. And how we wish he would. He is suffering, but keeps silent, and neither Constance nor I can make any suggestion."

"But what will be the outcome?"

"How can I tell? That night after we left the hotel—he told us the story of his married life. It did not seem to be utterly impossible to straighten matters, but we knew nothing of her career during so many years. Was she married again? I have asked my father. He believes she was, but is not certain."

"Father" was Mr. Traill; Brand remained "dad." Thus did Enid solve the difficulty.

"Is she aware that Constance knows she is her mother?"

"We think so. Indeed, we are sure. She has been so ill, and is yet so fragile, that we dare not excite her in the least degree. So Constance has been very careful, but every look, every syllable, shows that her mother is in no doubt on that point."

"It's a pretty hard nut to crack," said Pyne. He blew cigar smoke into rings. Seemingly the operation aided reflection.

"Say, Enid," he went on, "if the weather is fine to-morrow, do you think Connie would come out for a drive?"

"I don't know. Certainly she needs some fresh air. What between her anxiety and her mother's illness, they are beginning to look like sisters."

"Just mention to Connie, in her father's presence, that is the sun shines at eleven, I will be along in a dog-cart: Mrs. Vansittart will be downstairs by that time?"

"Yes."

"And if Connie comes out with me you just find an errand in town. Rope Jack into the scheme, or any old dodge of that sort. Take care Mr. Brand knows of it. By the way, send Mrs. Sheppard out, too."

"What in the world—"

"You're just too pretty to think hard, Enid. It causes wrinkles. Do as I ask, there's a good girl."

Enid was delighted to find that Brand strongly supported the suggestion that Constance should take the drive. Pyne, sharp on time, drew up a smart pony in front of the cottage, and did not twitch a muscle when Constance, veiled and gloved, ran down the pathway.

"Excuse me getting down," said Pyne. "I dispensed with a groom. I guess you know the roads round here."

She climbed to the seat beside him.

"It is very good of you to take this trouble," she said, and when he looked at her a slight colour was visible through the veil.

"How is your mother?" he asked, abruptly.

He felt, rather than saw, her start of surprise.

She did not expect the relationship to be acknowledged with such sudden candour.

"She is much better," she assured him.

"That's all right," he announced, as if a load were off his mind. And then, somewhat to her mystification, he entertained her with the news.

Elsie and Mamie had quitted Penzance the previous evening, an aunt having travelled from Boston as soon as the first tidings of the wreck reached her.

"She was a young, nice-looking aunt, too," he said, cheerfully. "And I was powerful fond of those two kiddies."

"The association of ideas might prove helpful," she suggested, with a touch of her old manner.

"That is what struck Elsie," he admitted. "She said she didn't know why I couldn't marry Aunt Louisa right off, and then we could all live together sociably."

"Oh! And what did the lady say?"

"She thought it was a great joke, until I said that unfortunately I had made other arrangements. Then she guessed her nieces had got a bit out of hand."

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

The Prince's Pearl

A Short Story.

"If you are not engaged to him you had no right to accept such a gift."

Lorraine smiled slightly, aggravatingly, and lifted her supple, expressive shoulders in a way that intimated it was none of Mr. Maxon's business what she accepted from a certain party.

"Doesn't it seem glorious to see dear old New York lift out of the mist again?" she said, leaning over the rail as the liner slipped leisurely up the bay after she passed the Narows.

"I shouldn't think you'd care much about it, or any other share of your native land," retorted Maxon bitterly. "You're ready and willing enough to throw up the whole thing and live abroad the rest of your life in some miserable, deserted, moldly old castle in Hungary that's as decrepit and played out as the princely line you will belong to. Lorraine——"

"Do be quiet. There comes the custom house people."

"What of it?"

Lorraine hesitated and laughed.

"I hardly think that mamma has the cash to pay the duty on the prince's pearls," she said. "Won't it be a tragedy if they take them away from me?"

"I hope they do." Jack Maxon's lips set in a close line. He stood just behind Lorraine, his hands folded, his cap pulled well over his dark eyes, and watched the arrival of the customs people and health officers.

"Where are they?" asked Mrs. Ellison's voice behind them. She did not look worried at all, merely interested and alert.

Lorraine answered without looking up from the dancing, churning waters about the prow.

"Around my throat."

"Beneath your gown?"

Lorraine nodded and smiled, and Mrs. Ellison said no more, but smiled out at New York city's outline complacently.

"Jack, my dear, won't you fetch my binoculars?" she said tactfully. "Marie will give them to you. No. 11, you know, outside to your left. So sweet of you."

As Jack strode haughtily away out of hearing she leaned over Lorraine. "Somebody has told that you are wearing the prince's pearls. The newspaper men, I think. One tried to talk to me just now."

"How would they know?" Lorraine's tone was curiously disinterested. She was thinking of all Jack Maxon had dared to tell her since they first sighted Sandy Hook that morning. The slender, corseted form of the prince faded almost into obscurity beside Jack's stalwart Americanism, and Lorraine was thinking of many other things besides the pearls.

Yet she had told the simple truth. She wore them, the entire five-strand necklace of exquisitely matched sea treasure, beneath her travelling gown of gray serge. And rumor over in Rome and Paris had more than hinted that the pearls were worth close to half a million dollars. The centre, pear-shaped pendant alone had come from the turban of the Nadir of Afghanistan once upon a time, and had cost the house of Ravanelli over $200,000. Yet the prince who had purchased it had hung it on the forehead of his Tuscan bride and vowed it too poor an ornament matched against the splendor of her flashing eyes. The present prince had mentioned something of the same sentiment when he had sent the necklace to the Ellison's hotel the day before they sailed for home And there had been trouble.

"I will never accept such a gift from a man whom I dislike," Lorraine had said passionately.

"If you are fool enough to refuse them," said Mrs. Ellison, thoughtfully examining the strands, "I shall accept them for you. You are not engaged yet, dear, and under no obligation. These pearls might be a mere philopena present."

"Yes, they might, mamma, they might!" Lorraine's tone of scorn had been indescribable. But the pearls had not been sent back. First, because the prince himself had left for Hungary on a shooting expedition with the crown prince of some little principality, and the pearls remained around Lorraine's throat as the safest place for such a treasure.

One mistake she made. She had worne them openly at the ship's concert. Not that anyone on board had known their history, but Jack Maxon had seen them and noted them, and he alone of their fellow passengers knew that the Ellison's did not have cash or credit enough in the world to buy the smallest pearl on the prince's necklace, not the smallest one, large as a hazel nut, and flawless, and worth ten theusand on the market at Ceylon. Jack had been her faithful adorer and comrade ever since they had built sand tunnels together at Atlantic City years ago.

Sometimes, in spite of Mrs. Ellison's careful training, Lorraine would look at Jack and speculate on several points not down in her mother's code of worldly welfare.

He was such a splendid pleader. All the way over he had begged and scolded and made love to her and stormed, and Lorraine had kept silent. And always while she listened to Jack Maxon's pleading she felt the slender strands of pearls press like lead about her throat. Sometimes it seemed as if they would choke her.

Mrs. Ellison kept close to her as they landed and went to the custom officers. She had declared everything except the prince's pearls. Jack stood with Lorraine, talking earnestly, while the trunks were gone through, and Mrs. Ellison answered questions for both in the superbly disinterested, tactful way she had. But all at once Lorraine's quick glances saw what was happening. A young chap had entered quietly and caught her eye. He went to the official who was conducting the appraisal and whispered to him, and that worthy went past Mrs. Ellison straight to Lorraine's side.

"You are wearing pearls undeclared, Miss." His tone reached Lorraine from afar off. Mer mother had turned swiftly to the rescue, but already Lorraine had smiled slightly, and nodded her pretty head.

"Do you wish to see them?" she asked, and, taking off her gloves, she deliberately unclasped her lace collar and reached back for the gold catch that held the necklace in place. The next instant everyone in reach was crowding forward to ra look at the famous Ravanelli pearls. There they lay, in all their delicate, ravishing loveliness on the palm of the customs officer. Even he was impressed, and hesitated. Then he gave orders.

They followed him to the office and waited.

"Jack, you could save them," implored Mrs. Ellison tearfully. "It means so much for our darling girl. It is almost her wedding present from the prince. It is worth a king's ransom. Your father would come to our relief, I know, Jack."

"Do you want me to save them, Lorraine?" asked Jack, bending over her, and Lorraine shoo kher head.

Suddenly the official came toward them with a pleasant smile of relief. There was no duty on the pearls, he explained, returning them, for the good and simple reason that the pearls were a clever imitation, very, very clever, but an imitation, and worth about $500 at the outside, if that.

They took the ferry back to the railroad station on the Jersey side. Lorraine was weary and wanted to go straight to Lakewood without stopping in New York, and Mrs. Ellison was oddly quiet. She retired to the cabin and left the two out on deck to talk without demur.

And while Jack laid plans for their wedding day a month hence, Lorraine bent over the rail and laughingly let the prince's pearls slip through her fingers down into the green waters of the Hudson.

Nervous Headache

AND MUSCULAR RHEUMATISM DISAPPEARED WHEN THE NERVES WERE RESTOR-ED BY

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

Feeble, wasted, starved nerves often make their condition known by nervous headaches. This was one of the first and most marked symptoms.

If you are at all subject to rheumatism you have noticed how much worse it gets when the system gets run down.

Both nervous headache and muscular rheumatism disappear when Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is used to rebuild and revitalize the wasted and weakened body.

Mr. James Riley, moulder for the Waterous Engine Co., 46 Jarvis St., Brantford, Ont., writes: "I suffered for years with muscular rheumatism and as I also had frequent and severe attacks of nervous headache I concluded that the trouble came from the nerves and began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. As I continued this treatment the rheumatism was gradually driven out of the system, my nerves got stronger and steadier and the headaches disappeared. I consider Dr. Chase's Nerve Food a splendid nerve regulator and health builder."

You cannot possibly make a mistake in using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food when the nervous system gets run down, for, by forming new, rich, blood this great food cure builds up the nerve cells as nothing else can.

When you have made up your mind to test this treatment, go at it in earnest and keep at it regularly until you feel again the joy of health and vigour.

EIGHTY YEARS OF AGE SUFFERED 20 YEARS

Then Cured by Gin Pills

Remember, right at the start, that Gin Pills are not a "cure-all". If you have Small-Pox, Typhoid Fever or Consumption, there is no use in your taking Gin Pills because they probably would not do you any special good.

Gin Pills are not a "hit-or-miss" remedy. They are a scientific preparation for the Kidneys and Bladder—for Rheumatism, Lumbago and Lame Back, and are made and guaranteed by the largest wholesale drug house in Canada.

Annapolis, N. S., May 14th, 1909.

"I wish to give testimony to the benefits I have received from the use of Gin Pills. I am over eighty years of age and have been suffering from Kidney and Bladder Trouble for about fifteen years. I took doctors' medicines but got no help.

I want to thank you for sending me the sample box of Gin Pills which I took, and found it helped me.

I have taken six boxes of Gin Pills, but got relief before I had taken near that amount. I used to get up some nights every fifteen minutes and had to use an instrument before I could urinate. Now, I can lie in bed four or five hours without getting up. I can truthfully say that I am nearly cured and am still taking Gin Pills and shall always keep a box in the house." W. H. PIERCE.

If you are suffering with your Kidneys—with sharp, shooting pains through back and hips—if your Bladder is weak—if you are all crippled up with Rheumatism or Lumbago—Gin Pills will do you good. We give you a chance to test them. Write National Drug & Chem. Co. Limited Dept. B. Toronto, for free sample box and you will receive it by return mail. Regular size boxes are sold by dealers at 50c., 6 for $2.50. 23

PRIZES FOR THE WARSAW RIFLE ASSOCIATION

Have Been Received—Annual Rifle Matches Will Be Held in a Short Time.

OTHER NEWS ITEMS

Examiner Special.

WARSAW, OCT. 5.—The prizes given by the Canadian Rifle League and won by the local team at the annual matches in June and July last have arrived and have been given out to the members. The trophies were in the form of sterling silver sugar shells of handsome design. Following are the members of the team in sequence of standing: David Miller, W. J. Selkirk, Arthur Hudson, Albert Hendren, Nathan Payne, Stuart Miller, Rufus Payne, Stephen Miller, Wm. Miller, F. Morgan.

The annual matches of the Warsaw Rifle Association will be held on Thursday and Friday of this week. Considerable interest is being taken in the competition for the cup presented last year by Mr. A. F. Choate. The conditions were that in order to gain possession of the silverware a member had to have the highest standing for two consecutive years. The cup was held by Mr. Nathan Payne last year.

The regular monthly meeting of Court Warsaw, No. 220 Canadian Order of Foresters, was held on Tuesday evening.

An enjoyable event of last week was the social evening and conundrum supper given in the hall by the choir of the Presbyterian church. The admission fee was much in favour of the small of stature, it being at the rate of 3c. per foot according to the height. The following was the menu:

Spring offering.
Chinese delight.
No grounds for complaint.
Poor man's stuff.
What should be remembered.
What babes and lovdes get.
Fit for the Gods.
Condensed curd.
Night and day.
A woman of grit.
Home-made chips.

The proceeds amounted to over $21.

Mr. Robt. Tedford is at Coe Hill for a few weeks.

Misses Alice Donnell and Julia Choate, of Peterborough, spent Sunday in the village.

Miss Beatrice Selkirk and Master Clifford Selkirk returned from Detroit, Mich., where they spent the past few weeks, on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kidd, of Indian River, were in town on Thursday.

Mr. O. A. Kidd spent Saturday and Sunday, a guest of Mr. E. Snider.

Mr. A. F. Choate is in Toronto for a few days on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Payne returned from Sarnia and other western points, where they spent the past three weeks.

LEAVING FOR ENGLAND

Mr. Chas. M. Downs, of the Brinton Company, who has been closely connected with St. John's A.Y.P.A., was given a good send-off to England this morning from the C.P.R. station in the hope that a few months at his home will restore him to health. Mr. R. J. Devey, on behalf of St. John's A.Y.P.A., presented Mr. Downs with a useful souvenir gift, many Peterborough friends green for which will keep the kindly feeling of a long time

That Charley Downs will come back restored to health is the wish of all his friends, in church work, as a gentlemanly tennis player, and in every way a man it has always been a pleasure to meet.

Regular Habits

An Absolute Necessity For Good Health

You might as well expect to find a man or woman healthy with constipated bowels as to find a city healthy when its sewers are blocked with refuse.

Nature demands that the indigestible food and waste matter which collects in the lower bowels shall be got rid of at least once in twenty-four hours. If this is not done it decomposes, filling the bowels with poison, which is taken up into the blood and carried all through the body.

Literally millions of people suffer these results of constipation without realizing the cause, or doing anything to remove it. Yet it can be removed, easily and with certainty, by using Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Take, for example, the case of Mr. George Andrews, Halifax, N.S., as he himself describes it:

"For many years I have been troubled with chronic constipation. This ailment never comes single handed, and I have been a victim to the many illnesses that constipation brings in its train. Medicine after medicine I have taken in order to find relief, but one and all left me in the same hopeless condition. At last I read about these Indian Root Pills. That was indeed a lucky day for me, for I was so impressed by the statements contained therein that I determined to give them a fair trial. They have regulated my stomach and bowels. I am cured of constipation and claim they have no equal as a medicine."

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills were first taken to cure constipation nearly a hundred years ago, and during the last half century they have been very extensively and very successfully used throughout the world. They are entirely vegetable in composition and do not sicken, weaken or gripe like mineral purgatives.

ANALYSIS OF

St. Lawrence Sugar

THE STANDARD OF PURITY

Laboratory of Provincial Government Analyst.

MONTREAL, 22nd February, 1909.

I HEREBY CERTIFY that I have drawn by my own hand ten samples of the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Co's EXTRA STANDARD GRANULATED SUGAR, indiscriminately taken from four lots of about 150 barrels each and six lots of about 450 bags each. I have analyzed same and find them uniformly to contain 99-99/100 to 100 per cent of pure cane sugar, with no impurities whatever.

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Mlle. Chenal is famed as the most beautiful woman on the French operatic stage.

Mrs. Margaret H. Park, probation officer in Brooklyn, is employed by the Women's club of Brooklyn to do probation work among women and children.

It is only a matter of months since a woman was first allowed to practice law in Switzerland. It was to Fraulein Brustlein, the daughter of a Swiss judge, that this privilege was accorded.

Miss Edith N. Buckingham of Boston, A. B., A. M., Radcliffe, is said to be the first woman to receive the doctorate in zoology at Radcliffe. She has recently been doing research work under Dr. Mark, curator of the Harvard zoological museum.

American musicians interested in the compositions of Miss Ethel Smith will be interested to note that the University of Durham recently conferred the degree of musical doctor, honoris causa, upon this "able, serious and ambitious musician."

Mrs. William Moore, who for a number of years has had the entry of the highest circles of society in Paris, is becoming famous for the amusement her malapropisms in French are giving those circles. Some are so obvious Mrs. Moore is suspected of having some quiet fun at the expense of her French friends. She formerly was Kate Robinson of New York.

Fly Catches.

Ex-Pitcher Bill Dineen is umpiring better than several arbitrators who have been in the business for years.

No matter how great a pitcher may be, there is always some team that he is never successful against. The New York team, for instance, seems to be Walter Johnson's Jonah.

"Ginger" Beaumont, the Chicago National's pinch hitter, is certainly the season's Colonel Pinch. He has won many a game for Chance's team when he has been sent in to break it up or clinch it for the Cubs.

Harvard plans to engage Fred Tenney as professional baseball coach next year. The position, it is said, will be worth as much as $3,000 a year to the former Giant star. Besides, Tenney in his spare moments would be provided with remunerative work.

Tales of Cities.

New York real estate has more than doubled in value since the formation of the greater city, according to the assessors' figures.

The city of Galveston is spending $1,500,000 on a protected roadway, a concrete arch bridge and a lift drawbridge to connect it with the Texas mainland.

Boston may well pride itself on being the world's leading shoe and leather mart. While comparatively small quantities of either leather or shoes are manufactured in Boston itself, it is the great buying, selling, distributing and financial center of the industry and has been such for many years.

Healthograms.

Dry dusting moves dust; it doesn't remove it.

Closed windows are open avenues to consumption.

Long hours of labor mean short hours of life.

So called chest protectors are targets for colds and coughs.

Spitting in public places sows disease and creates a harvest for the "grim reaper."

Overwork and fatigue stunt growth, invite disease; cause individual and social degeneration.

The more you expand your chest the less you will contract colds.—Bulletin of Chicago Health Department.

English Etchings.

The use of autos saves the British postal service $300,000 a year.

About one in four of the deaths in the British navy are due to drowning.

Hats can be bought in England for little more than half their cost in this country.

As it requires 3,000,000 tons of coal a year to keep Britain's navy going, the admiralty is investigating the world's principal oil sources with a view to a gradual turn to that fuel.

The Cookbook.

A chicken loaf is sometimes garnished with stuffed olives and parsley.

A pinch of salt and soda added to the water in which tough meat or vegetables are boiled will make them more tender.

A housewife who likes poached eggs says that to get them round and even she first salts the water and stirs it briskly until a "whirlpool" is formed; then before the whirl loses its shape she carefully drops the egg into the very center of it.

Would You Enjoy Vigorous Old Age?

Then use Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. It brings health and strength to everyone, along life's pathway. It aids digestion, stimulates and enriches the blood, invigorates the brain, builds nerve tissue, tones up the heart, fortifies the system against disease germs, makes the old feel young and prolongs life.

Mr. A. H. Jordan, of Cuba, N.Y., has lived a strenuous life, but he is strong, vigorous and active at 84 years of age. Recently he wrote: "I use Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey regularly, and think there is no better medicine for old people in their declining age. A few months ago there was published a little history of my early life as the oldest man now living in the town of Cuba, N.Y. I have lived a strenuous life, in earlier days following the river on lumber to Pittsburg and Cincinnati and hunting all over the northern part of Pennsylvania."

All druggists, grocers and liquor merchants, or direct $1.25 per large bottle. Write for free medical booklet and doctor's advice.

F. R. J. Mitchell, 418 George street, or The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N.Y.

Aviation.

The way in which aerial records are being broken re-enforces the old saying that there is always room at the top.—St. Louis Times.

The airship has developed far enough to make the question of safety appliances more interesting than that of speed.—Washington Star.

It may be noted that no flying machine builders have gone out of business because of the numerous fatal accidents in the use of aeroplanes.—Cleveland Leader.

Used to It.

After the usual greeting by Mephisto the couple are ushered to their apartment in Hades.

"I can't see," grumbled the husband, "that this place is any cooler than anywhere else we ever spent the summer."

"Well," argues his wife, "I suppose you would rather poke off to some mudhole somewhere where there is no society at all."—Life.

Knew Him.

"I'll have to ask you to pay fare for that little gentleman, sir," said the conductor.

"Pay for him?" exclaimed the florid face man. "Pay for that kid? Why, you could put him in your coat pocket!"

"That's all right. I happen to know who he is. He's Major General Molecule, the smallest man on earth, and he's twenty-six years old. If you want him to travel free you'll have to put him in knickerbockers and a boy's jacket. Fare, please."—Chicago Tribune.

Extraordinary.

"That's funny. There's a lapse of two years between the acts"—

"Well?"

"And they've got the same help."—Lippincott's.

The Substitute.

"I scream if you dare kiss me, sir!"
"Nay, not of such act dream."
The swain, resourceful, said "the kiss
Let's follow with ice cream."
—Boston Advertiser.

Raisins.

Containing but 13 per cent of moisture and the balance almost wholly grape sugar (carbohydrates) the raisin is on a par with the date and the dried fig as an energy producer in the system.

Arizona.

In natural wonders Arizona is one of the most attractive parts of the United States. Its Grand Canyon of the Colorado river, a mile deep, its silicified trees or fossil forests, its vast panoramas of desert and sterile mountains that rise to a height of more than 12,000 feet above sea level, afford splendid visions for the sightseer.

Eli Terry's Clocks.

The first attempt to manufacture watches or clocks on a large scale in America was made by Eli Terry, a Connecticut Yankee, who invented wooden wheels for his clocks.

Coerced Domicile.

Italy retains a special form of banishment introduced under the Roman emperors known as coerced domicile. This punishment corresponds to the Roman deportation to an island and like it consists in criminals being confined to an island for a definite time and enjoying within its limits personal freedom.

WELCOME WORDS TO WOMEN

Women who suffer with disorders peculiar to their sex should write to Dr. Pierce and receive free the advice of a physician of over 40 years' experience—a skilled and successful specialist in the diseases of women. Every letter of this sort has the most careful consideration and is regarded as sacredly confidential. Many sensitively modest women write fully to Dr. Pierce what they would shrink from telling to their local physician. The local physician is pretty sure to say that he cannot do anything without "an examination." Dr. Pierce holds that these distasteful examinations are generally needless, and that no woman, except in rare cases, should submit to them.

Dr. Pierce's treatment will cure you right in the privacy of your own home. His "Favorite Prescription" has cured hundreds of thousands, some of them the worst of cases.

It is the only medicine of its kind that is the product of a regularly graduated physician. The only one good enough that its makers dare to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper. There's no secrecy. It will bear examination. No alcohol and no habit-forming drugs are found in it. Some unscrupulous medicine dealers may offer you a substitute. Don't take it. Don't trifle with your health. Write to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y., — take the advice received and be well.

REVENGE

Mother—Now, sit still, Tommy, or I'll punish you when we get home.

Tommy—Mamma, if you punish me I shall tell the conductor my real age, and then you will have to pay full fare.

GROWING OLDER

Brown was fond of spinning yarns but he took a tremendous long time to unwind them. Buttonholing Smith one afternoon about one o'clock he mumbled and gurgled a gag with so many side turnings that the point did not make its exit until 1.30. Then it apparently emerged into a blind alley.

"Why don't you laugh?" demanded Brown. "Is it a chestnut?"

"Well," replied Smith, slowly, "it wasn't when you started it."

A MEAN TRICK

"Toddler is a mean man."

"Why, what has he done to you?"

"Bet me five dollars I could not hit a barn door with a revolver at twenty feet. After I put up the money, he set the door up edgewise."

ALL ALIKE

She—And do you believe that "there is honor among thieves?"

He—No; thieves are just as bad as any other people.

WILLIE WANTED TO KNOW

Willie (aged six) and Jessie (aged four) were sitting at the table, and their mother was just about to serve them their dinners. She had placed Jessie's plate before her first, and this caused Willie, who was very hungry, to grumble.

"Mamma," he said, "why do you always give our Jessie her dinner before you give me mine?"

"Because ladies should always come first," replied mamma.

"Then why was it that I was born before our Jessie?" asked Willie.

THE ONE AND ONLY

She had a figure like twenty elephants in one. And a voice fit to command the British Army.

"William," she shouted, "take yous feet off the parlor table this instant!"

"Margaret," he responded in a voice charged with manly determination, "I want you to know that there is but one person whom I will allow to address me in that name."

"And who is that, sir, may I ask?" she roared, towering above him.

He cast one furtive glance at her, and made up his mind. "Why, dear," he answered, as he gently removed his feet from the table, "you, of course."

Disguised.

I stand before a mirror long,
But o'er my looks I do not rave.
If you could see you would be shocked,
For I am lathered for a shave.
—Buffalo Express.

When Meat Is High.

"What do you call this?" demanded the irate patron in the rush lunchroom.

"Dat, sah, am a hamburg steak," responded the polite waiter.

"Hamburg steak? H'm! From the size of it I should say it was a humbug steak."—Chicago News.

The Summer Widower.

Her husband writes her every day,
Attentive lad,

A Pension Scheme to Cover Misfortune

The Government Leaders are at Work on Great Social Reforms

London, Oct. 1.—Although the old age pension system is but a little more than two years old, the government leaders are already at work planning even greater social reforms, prominent among which is a bill that will provide pensions for laboring men who break down before they reach the old age pension limit.

Mr. Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, has announced that he will lay a measure of this kind before Parliament at its next session as well as one providing for the insurance against unemployment in the trades most liable to unemployment. Both measures will provide for contributions by the state.

The scheme providing for insurance of laborers who are compelled to leave work through sickness, infirmity and misfortune before they have reached the old age pension limit, has not yet been fully worked out. At the present time trade unions refuse to allow their members to accept less than the standard wage. The result is that the maximum wage is given to men in the prime of life and no wage at all to those who have passed their prime. Unless, therefore, some system of wage graduation according to age is adopted, it is likely that men who have passed their prime will in the future find it hard to keep themselves in continuous employment. Thus, the years between the withdrawal from wage-earning and the pension age of seventy presents a problem of serious difficulty. This situation would be greatly relieved by the passage of a measure providing insurance for persons who have not reached the old age pension limit and are unable to work. Mr. Lloyd-George considers that the proportion to be contributed by the state need not be very heavy nor cast any undue strain on the resources of the nation.

The scheme providing for insurance against unemployment has already been worked out, and will be presented at the next session of Parliament. The main features are:—

1st. Both workmen and employers to contribute.

2nd. These contributions to be supplemented by a substantial state subvention.

3rd. The system to be one of insurance by trades.

4th. To be compulsory upon all within the specified trades, unionists and non-unionists, workmen and employers alike.

The benefits to be paid are somewhat lower, both in amount and duration, than those paid by the strong trade unions, but that it affords a substantial weekly payment over a period covering more than the average period of unemployment in the insured trades. Each man would be assessed about five or six cents per week. The trades to which the scheme applies are: house building and works of construction engineering, machine and tool making, ship and boat building, vehicles and sawyers.

THE LATEST PORTRAIT OF VISCOUNT KITCHENER, OF EGYPT, SOUTH AFRICA, THE COLONIES, AND NOW OF THE GOVERNMENTAL DUSTBIN

Lord Kitchener, whose strength, wisdom and experience seem to be unheeded by a Government whose army scheme is, according to Lord Esher, tumbling about their ears, and whose War Office, according to some authorities, is in sad need of reorganisation, has now just bought the historic house and estate of Broome Park, near Canterbury. We hope for the sake of England that the quiet joys of coun try life will not lull his restless energy or rust his sword.—The Tatler.

IMPROVING A STREET

A Famous Thoroughfare in Paris is to Be Cleared of Encumbrances

Paris, Oct. 1.—After years of waiting one of the most important thoroughfares in the French capital the Place de l'Opera—is soon to be cleared of encumbrances and relief afforded to the congested condition of traffic there. Many a visitor as well as resident will effect a large saving in taxicab fares as a result of the forthcoming improvement. Instead of having to wind around and about and back again in one's vehicle in order to reach a desired point, sometimes consuming half an hour to travel only a couple of blocks, it will be possible to attain the desired goal without delay.

A COMFORTABLE CORSET

It Is Now Possible to Have a Stylish Figure and Still Suffer Little

Paris, Oct. 1.—Never perhaps in the history of fashion has the corset played so important a part in woman's dress. We are coming more and more to rely on the lines of the corset to produce a chic effect. For the prevailing style the first requisite is not so much a good figure as a good corset. A happy relief has come by the ingenious methods known only to the Paris corset maker. While the lines remain . ng and the waist well in its place, one can, with the winter corset, really sit down quite comfortably, while it is possible to pick up one's handkerchief without sidling and all the other subterfuges women are wont to resort to in order not to appear ridiculous when bending, or, rather, making an attempt to do so.

A SCRUPULOUS MASTER

Berlin, Oct. 1.—Herr Dernburg, the ex-Colonial Minister, who is now touring in Korea and Manchuria as the guest of the Japanese Government, has brought an action against a cook, Fraulein Anna Dietrich, formerly in his household, for corrupt practices in the kitchen. When Frau Dernburg recently examined her books she found that the cook had made a mistake in the addition in her own favor, involving $70. The cook also, it is alleged, collected from her mistress various sums for the payment of tradesmen who in reality are still waiting for their money, while $1.50 advanced by Frau Dernburg is altogether unaccounted for.

According to the notice posted up at the Charlottenburg police courts, when Herr Dernburg's case against the cook comes up for hearing on November 11, the ex-Minister not only demands the amount she misappropriated, but 4 per cent. interest besides, dating from the time she left his service.

ROBBED A GOVERNMENT

A Clever Fraud Practised Upon the Italian Post Office Department

Milan, Oct. 1.—Astounding jewel frauds running into many thousands of pounds have been perpetrated upon leading Italian firms by a Messina postal clerk named Marullo. The Italian post office has adopted a system whereby goods can be ordered at a distance payable upon delivery. Marullo, who is employed in this department, tampered so cleverly with the detachable coupons that his colossal misappropriations at the expense of the Government have gone on unsuspected for two years.

Meanwhile he is alleged to have been keeping Eva Messeri, a young Messina woman of 20, who was installed in an aristocratic villa in the environs of Messina, with servants, a carriage, and every kind of luxury. As soon as official suspicions had been aroused Marullo sent her to Florence, where she was arrested at a first-class hotel.

The police on opening the baggage disclosed to view a quantity of stolen jewels to the value of $25,000, also bulky packets of bank notes. Marullo has also been arrested. The frauds are said to reach a total of $200,000.

When Beards are Fashionable

London Men are Following the King's Lead in Wearing a Point Beard

London, Oct. 1.—Beards are at present the order of the day among London's fashionable men. In remarking about the prevalence of facial hirsute adornments, a prominent hair dresser said:

"One would not have thought that the coming of King George to the throne would have made much difference to the fashion of current hairdressing, in view of the fact that his father wore a beard for so many years, but I can assure you that it has, and a very great difference at that.

"In all probability the present fashion of the point beard is due in a great measure to so young a man affecting one. I have been told that there was a great rage for a beard among men-about-town when King Edward first grew a beard many years ago."

The style of beard King George wears is appropriately named the "Torpedo" in the navy, and since the King's accession many of the younger men in the service have started to grow them.

AN ALPINE TRAGEDY

A Mountain Climber Perishes from Cold at the Side of His Comrade

London, Oct. 1.—Mont Blanc is responsible for another alpine tragedy. Three men, two of them artists at Geneva, and a third a teacher in St. Maurice, intended to climb to the top of Mont Blanc without guides. They had not gone very far, and were within a comparatively short distance of shelter, when two of them became exhausted and found it impossible to continue. The third, who was a little stronger, tried to reach the shelter and to procure assistance, but he was unable to do so. Four guides with a party of tourists saw their predicament from another part of the mountain, and also tried to reach them, but failed. Meantime one of the climbers, M. Reymont, was overcome by the cold, and died in a short time under the eyes of his comrade, who was unable to help him, and who spent the whole night at his side. The latter was only able to get down the mountain on the following morning. A party of guides went up the mountain and brought the corpse down after much difficulty.

NEW STATUS IN ROME

A More Satisfactory Understanding May Be Reached Between Vatican and Quirinal

London, Oct. 1.—For some time past there have been insistent rumors of negotiations proceeding between the Vatican and the Italian Government, with the object of arriving at a proper official "reconciliation" between the religious and civil powers in Italy. It is a fact that the relations of the Holy See with the Quirinal and the Italian Government have never been so good as they are now, and it may be said that there is at present an extremely cordial "modus vivendi" existing between the two courts, though, of course, there are no official relations.

It is rumored that an interesting proposition has been put forward in this connection. According to the report it would in the first place be necessary that the Pope should definitely abandon the claim to temporal power, but this renunciation would be limited in effect to the city of Rome, and by way of compensation His Holiness would receive the absolute sovereignty of the Vatican territory and of a fixed portion of Rome extending to the Tiber.

It is understood that Signor Luzzatti has charged a distinguished Italian official to inquire into the possibility of bringing forward a proposition which might form the basis of negotiations. If the Pope should accept some such suggestion on the part of the Italian Government a bill would be presented to the Chamber to fix a civil list for His Holiness and to acknowledge the right of Italian Cardinals to seats in the Senate.

A DEMOCRATIC KING

Montenegro's Ruler Has No Love of Pomp and Spends Little of His Modest Income

Berlin, Oct. 1.—Although the little country of Montenegro is now a monarchy and its democratic ruler has had his title changed from a Prince to that of a King, it has made no radical change in his style of living. King Nicholas still remains the same good-natured ruler he has always been. His court is the most primitive in Europe and his civil list falls short of the ordinary income of a moderately wealthy person, being but $50,000 a year. Of this amount the King saves more than one-third, for he travels rarely, and it is impossible for him to spend it all within his territory. His inclination to the simple life makes even his modest residence at Cettinge too elaborate for his tastes. The manners of his old comrades-in-arms do not always comport with court etiquette, but he is loth to part with them. His favorite residence is a five-room building in the clearing of the mountain forest of Lovtchen. Sheds are provided for the servants and a portable tent is shipped to the coolest spots for the King during the day.

He delights to dress like the mass of his subjects and will make no distinction between them and himself in any particular. No man will grudge Nicholas his well-earned crown of royalty. He has won his territory more by force of arms than by descent, but has won it fairly.

WANT MIGUEL BACK

The Banished Portuguese Prince May Return to His Native Country

London, Oct. 1.—It is stated that negotiations may be set on foot for the return to Portugal of Prince Miguel, who was banished to Austria.

It is stated that the clerical party will make a strong representation to Parliament expressing their desire for the return of the Prince on th eground that King Manuel would have a good adviser.

It must be remembered that in the event of the death of King Manuel and the Duke of Oporto, Prince Miguel is the rightful successor to the Portuguese throne. After the assassination of King Carlos and the Crown Prince, Dom Miguel propesed to return, renouncing his rights as pretender to the throne, but retaining his rights to the succession as Prince of Braganza. The royal family willingly consented, but the Progressist Government then in power, fearing that such a step might lead to internal strife, refused to allow the Prince's return. The Miguel party is very strong in Portugal, especially among the nobility.

A CACHE OF CASH

A Frenchman's Horde Fortunately Fell Into Honest Hands

Paris, Oct. 1.—A gentleman living in Colombes, and the happy possessor of a fortune of about $8,000, was distrustful of banks, and therefore kept his certificates at home prudently concealed in a hole in the wall, out of the reach of burglars and fire.

Recently, however, the hiding place was unwittingly discovered by a mason who was taking measurements in connection with a house that is to be built next door. Fortunately he was honest, and took the precious certificates off to the police station, under the impression that he had found some buried treasure.

The owner in the meantime discovered the disappearance of his fortune, and went off hastily to the same police station to lay a complaint against the thief. His delight on learning the truth can be imagined.

A PARISIAN MYSTERY

An Investigation Will Be Made Into the Supposed Suicide of a Wealthy Nobleman

Paris, Oct. 1.—In spite of careful inquiry, nothing has been discovered by the police to throw any light on the death of Count Danilоff who, three months ago, was found dead in a Paris flat with a bullet wound in his head.

The Count died at the residence of Mlle. Doudene, a music-hall actress, with whom he had been friendly for seven years. The actress declared at *the time that the Count had shot him*self in a paroxysm of grief, and the medical investigation showed that the case was apparently one of suicide.

The day before the Count's death his wife discovered the address of his second establishment. She called there and, as she found her husband there in company with his woman friend, there was a terrible domestic scene. The injured wife upbraided her faithless husband and his companion in unmeasured terms, and told the Count he would have to choose between her and the other woman. She also taunted him with having, through his brutality and heartlessness, caused the death of their daughter two years before.

Mdlle. Danilоff was a charming and accomplished girl, passionately devoted to her father. The Count was equally attached to his child, but paternal love was not proof against his infatuation for the actress. The Count, who was very wealthy, rented a magnificent house in the Avenue Henri Martin, and for some time before the appearance on the scene of the actress, the family had lived there very happily. Count Danilоff, however, on making the acquaintance of Mdlle. Doudenne, neglected his family, and was but rarely seen in his own home.

The terrible truth ultimately came to the knowledge of his daughter, the shame and sorrow proved too much for her delicate constitution, and she pined away and died, in reality of a broken heart. The countess, repeatedly implored the Count to abandon the woman, but he was deaf to her pleadings.

The Count was very much affected by the terrible scene with his wife when she found her way unannounced into the actress's apartment. He was crushed by her bitter reproaches and her allusions to the death of their daughter, and a friend who saw him the same evening, declared that he was in a state of nervous collapse. He told this friend that he was weary of it all, and the only thing left for him to do was to blow out his brains. On the following evening he was found shot in the lodgings of his actress friend with a revolver grasped in his hand.

Now, after the lapse of nearly three months, the Countess asserts that her husband did not die by his own hand, and at her request a fresh investigation is being made. Without furnishing any tangible proof, the Countess accuses a third person of having assassinated the Count.

On the day before his death Count Danilоff drew a large sum of money from a Paris bank. He gave a portion of this to Mlle. Doudenne, and it is said the remainder was found on the body after his death.

Mlle. Doudenne was examined. She explained at some length her friendship with the Count, who, she said, was in the habit of drinking to excess. On the evening of his death he appeared to be in a very excited state, and about 8 o'clock went into an adjoining chamber, placed himself before a looking-glass, drew a revolver from his pocket, and before I could move, pressed the muzzle of the revolver to his temple and fired.

The magistrate decided to summon to Paris Countess Danilоff, who, after the death of her husband, returned to Siberia.

GUARDING THE BOOKS

The British Museum Will Endeavor to Prevent the Filching of its Volumes

London, Oct. 1.—The authorities of the British Museum have under consideration a set of new rules regarding the Reading Room.

It has been found that occasionally frequenters of the room take home with them books which they have perused up to the closing hour, returning them on the following morning.

This is contrary to the regulations, which forbid the removal of books from the Reading Room.

Now and then, according to one of the officials, the borrowers omit to take back the volumes.

Therefore, one of the new proposals is that all handbags, "despatch cases," and similar articles in to which books might be slipped, shall be left with the attendants outside the doors of the room.

So far as regards handbags this precaution has been enforced for some time, but the most professional-looking despatch boxes and cases are allowed to be taken in by readers.

The Reading Room attendants keep a sharp but unobtrusive watch upon the students and literary workers. If at the closing hour or subsequently a book should be missing, immediate steps are taken to trace it.

An average of 720 readers use the room daily, and in the course of a year they are supplied with close upon 1,500,000 volumes.

THE CZARINA BETTER

The Consort of Emperor Nicholas Worries for Her Children

London, Oct. 1.—As a result of taking the bath cure at Nauheim the physical condition of the Czarina of Russia is slightly improved, although it is doubtful if she will ever be a well woman. The Czarina's condition is primarily the result of her unconquerable fear for the safety of the lives of her children, principally the heir-apparent.

The Millions of India

Some Interesting Figures Shown by the Census Book—Appalling Loss of Life by Snakes and Beasts

London, Oct. 1.—Over twenty-one thousand lives—that is the toll of the jungle and forest in India for a single year.

These figures of sudden death are set out coldly, in tabular form, in the Blue-book, issued recently, which deals with the statistics of the Indian Empire, under the heading, "Number of Persons and Cattle Killed in India by Wild Animals and Snakes."

The list goes into detail. Thus we learn that in the year under review, 1908, no fewer than 909 people fell victims to tigers, 302 to leopards, while wolves claimed 269 as their prey. "Other animals" killed 686.

But the ravages of the man-eater were as nothing compared to those of the snakes, for the poisoned fangs of the latter put an end to 19,738 lives.

To cattle, leopards were by far the most destructive. Their kill was 42,-427 head of a total of 98,307. Tigers claimed as their quarry 28,268, and wolves about 10,000.

Snakes, it would seem, are far less fatal to cattle than to humankind, for during the year they only killed 10,-000, a small proportion of the total. But the war was not one-sided. Seventeen thousand nine hundred and twenty-six of the denizens of the jungle fell before the rifle and gun, and 70,498 snakes—roughly, four for every person killed—were destroyed. Bounties for their destruction amounted to $75,170.

The total population is nearly three hundred millions—according to the 1901 census,—and they inhabit 55,-841,315 houses. Two-thirds of the inhabitants are Hindus, 62,000,000 Mohamedans, and but 3,000,000 Christians.

The average Indian does not indulge in over-much letter-writing. Altogether the Post Office dealt with 375,-255,823 letters, postcards and parcels —an average of about three per head of the population; but this seems less curious when it is remembered that all but 15,000,000 of India's 300,000,000 people are described as illiterate. These later figures explain, too, how letter-writing may be a lucrative employment.

Very interesting, in the light of recent sedition trials, are some of the crime statistics. Thus, 12,411 offenses against the States and public tranquility were reported, and 4,797 convictions, while dacoities political and others, numbered 2,984, with 659 convictions.

As might perhaps be expected in a land so closely populated as India, physical and mental infirmity is by no means rare, and altogether the total population afflicted is 584,498.

Lepers, male and female, numbered 107,340, blind over 350,000, and deaf mutes about 150,000. The insane population was about 65,000.

One of the greatest campaigns waged in India is that against plague, but, despite vaccination and all the resources of modern knowledge, the mortality remains terribly heavy.

Thus in 1909 plague claimed 174,874 victims, a high figure, but one that pales into insignificance before the total of 1,315,829 in 1907. The death-roll for the last eleven years was 6,364,212.

Thus we find that 1,023,932 persons were engaged in "barbering" and shampooing others, while clothes were washed by 600,000 men and about 500,000 women.

Priests and others engaged in religion numbered 1,150,575.

But perhaps the most amazing entry under this head of "Occupations" is "Mendicants (non-religious)." The begging profession had 2,433,115 exponents, and the total supported by begging (non-religious was over four million.

Albert (gallantly giving way): "Yours, partner."

Coast Defences to be Strengthened

The Dutch People do Not Think Britain Contemplates an Invasion

Paris, Oct. 1.—The Hague correspondent of Le Temps states that the most important bill among those which have been brought in by the Dutch Government recently is the law providing $165,665,000 for the defence of the Dutch coast, three-fifths of this sum being set aside for the improvement of the existing forts and for the building of new ones, and the remainder for the Fleet.

The bill is rather coldly received in Holland, where it is generally believed that neither the Army or the Navy is strong enough to resist foreign invasion. People are asking whether the new bill is not the result of foreign pressure, and there is thought to be a connection between the measures proposed and the summons tendered to the Dutch Government some time ago by the Kaiser.

The Liberal organ Vaderland observes that the bill denotes a revolution in the Dutch system of defence. Hitherto it was generally admitted that danger was to be feared rather from the east than from the west, whereas the bill allows it to be understood that it is against Britain that Holland must above all be armed. The Vaderland differs from this view and holds that instead of $10,415,000 being spent on forts as a safeguard in the very improbable event of a British invasion, national defence would e better assured by a good torpedo-boat flotilla and a net-work of mines and by the improvement of the whole fighting forces. Unlike forts, they could be used against an enemy either from the east or west, observes The Vaderland.

A CEREMONIAL TRIP

The Duke of Connaught's Opening of the South African Parliament

London, Oct. 1.—One week from to-morrow the Duke and Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia will sail for South Africa on the liner Balmoral Castle, where the Duke will open the Union Parliament. The royal party will be accompanied by Sir Francis Hopwood of the Colonial Office and Captain Bulkeley, Equerry in attendance. The vessel will be escorted by the cruiser Defence.

The Duke will travel in royal state. Royal carriages are to be dispatched for his use with royal servants. When he opens the Union Parliament he will wear a Field Marshall's uniform.

Mr. Fisher, Prime Minister of Australia, will represent the Australian Government at the opening of the Parliament, and Mr. Lemieux, the Post Master-General, will attend on behalf of Canada.

THE UNTUTORED MIND

The Savage Soon Learns to Imitate Ways of His More Civilized Brother

London, Oct. 1.—That civilization does not always come as a blessing to the savage is illustrated by the Colonial Office report on Somaliland. The Somalis, it is stated, are degenerating in consequence of the imitation of habits and fashions learned from the white man.

For instance, the umbrella, an anomaly alongside a camel caravan, is coming into general use, although the Somali traveller, to avoid public ridicule, unfurls it only after leaving the precincts of the town. Blankets are now a necessity, whereas formerly the hard ground, with the sleeper's robe wrapped around his body, were considered adequate comfort and protection against any weather. To ignite a fire the friction of two sticks formerly sufficed, but in these days the nomad requires kerosene oil and matches for the purpose.

NATIONAL AERO CORPS

Britain Will Organize the Owners of Air Machines for War

London, Oct. 1.—Active preparations are under way by the promoters of aeronautics for the "World's First Aerial Exhibition," which will be held at the Crystal Palace during December and January. This exhibition is to comprise everything that pertains to the navigation of the air, whether it be the old-fashioned balloon or the dirigible or multifarious makes of modern flying machines. There will be in all sixteen departments, including every sort of engine, motors, frames, propellors, and other accessories. There will be a special warfare department showing the conveyance of guns and ammunition, and there will be displayed a mimic aerial warfare both over land and over a supposed sea.

One of the main features in connection with the exhibition will be the establishment of the National Aero Corps. This will be inaugurated on the opening day. It is intended that this corps shall be composed of "those persons, units, or divisions, that have at command, or propose to purchase as their personal or collective property, one or more aeroplane, balloon, or other man-carrying or ammunition-carrying machines they are capable of controlling and can be used in case of war or other national emergencies requiring their aid."

HAVELOCK ITEMS

HAVELOCK, OCT. 6.—Mr. Wm. Cochrane left last week for Banff, Alta., where he hopes to regain his health.

Mesdames Holcombe, Roche and Bryans spent Friday last in Norwood.

Mr. Geo. Matheson left on Friday last for Gull Lake, Sask., where he took up land last spring. His many friends wish him success in the west.

Mr. and Mrs. Bates and Miss Dorothy, of Pittsburg, and Miss Margaret Morrow, of Philadelphia, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Squire last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Herrick Roche spent Sunday and Monday at the former's home at Wilbur, the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Roche.

The Canadian Jubilee Singers, which appeared in the Opera House on Friday night last under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church, was greeted with a very large attendance.

Commencing on Saturday last at 7.30 p.m., Mr. T. E. Dinien will inaugurate a moving picture show in the Town Hall here. Mr. P. J. Exley, of Toronto, has been engaged to sing illustrated songs, and the picture service will be the best that can be procured. In the week's following—Two nights a week, Friday and Saturday, with two performances a night, the first to commence at 7.30 to 9 and from 9 o'clock to 10.30. Mr. Dinien expects also to go to Marmora and Norwood two nights ever yweek.

Thanksgiving services were held in St. John's Church on Sunday last. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion, and special music, rendered by the choir, taking for their anthem at the evening service, "Send out Thy Light." Holy communion was administered at the close of the morning service, and Prof. T. Herbert Cotton, of Wycliffe College, Toronto, was the special preacher on the occasion, delivering most interesting and much appreciated sermons at both services.

A congregational meeting was held at the residence of Mrs. Wm. Webb on Tuesday night last, when many of the church parishioners were present to extend a farewell to Miss Lancaster previous to her departure for Belville, where she will reside. During the evening a presentation of a beautiful hall mirror was made her, accompanied by an address testifying to the esteem in which that young lady is held by the congregation, and wishing her much joy and happiness in her new home at Belleville. Her brother, Mr. T. P. Lancaster, responded, thanking them one and all. Rural Dean Warren, of Lakefield, was present and made a short address, also Mr. C. A. Ghent, of town, made a few complimentary remarkks to the honoured guest. Refreshments were then served by the members of the Girls' Guild.

Mr. Ward Barlow, formerly of town, and lately employed at North Bay, has been promoted to the position of yardmaster in Sudbury.

Miss Paquet, of Perth, is the guest of Miss Lena Robson.

1.—The Tot is in her Kangaroom, the Tad he stands outside;
"Come on in," cries the tiny Tot, "I'll take you for a ride."

2.—Then up the tail the Tad he climbs and on a ride they go,
Till all at once they stop again, because the Tot says "Whoa!"

3.—"And here's my garden," says the Tot, "step out and walk with me;
We'll pick sweet apricottages that grow upon my tree."

4.—The Taddie lingers with the Tot, until it's almost night.
But when she says she must retire he sees a funny sight.

5.—"This is my Cariboudoir, where I have my little bed:
"Good-night, good-night!" the Tottie cries, the Tad he nods his head.

OUTLAW IS CORNERED BY POSSE IN CABIN

Plan to Train Machine Gun on His Refuge---A Climax to an Old Feud---Fugitive Surrounded in House With His Wife and Children.

Special to The Examiner.

WINTER, WIS., OCT. 5.—With armed deputies guarding this town and scores of woodsmen surrounding the log cabin of John Deitz, the outlaw of Cameron Dam, fighting and possible bloodshed was expected today in the long-standing feud between the authorities and Deitz.

Myra Deitz, the 23-year-old daughter of the outlaw, is at the point of death in a hospital at Ashland, the result of a gunshot wound inflicted by deputies when the girl and two of her brothers were ambushed last Saturday. One of the brothers is held in the Winter jail, wounded. The other escaped and joined his father at the cabin.

Following the ambush Deitz sent word to Winter that he would visit the town and slay every man responsible for the shooting, but the warfare is being pushed into his territory. Thomas Whitten, Chairman of the County Board, said to-day that he might ask the state authorities for a machine gun in driving the outlaw into the open. With Deitz in the cabin are his wife and three children.

Deitz first ran afoul of the authorities several years ago when he became involved in a controversy with a lumber syndicate. He claimed the homestead on which his cabin stands and the lumber company sought the aid of the law in dislodging him.

LACK NERVE TO SERVE WARRANT

Deitz has the Sheriff and his deputies "bluffed," and some feeling has been manifested over the methods used in attempting to dislodge him. Deputies have talked with Deitz and travelled with him, but none has had the nerve to serve one of the numerous warrants they carry.

Chairman Whitten advocates taking a megaphone to a hill some distance from the cabin and calling to Deitz to surrender. Upon a refusal, he would shell the house with the machine gun.

The daughter, Myra, after being shot through the back, was bundled into a wagon and driven five miles to Winter before medical aid was secured. She was then placed in the baggage car of a train and started for a Hayward hospital. William Deitz, an uncle, boarded the train on which Myra was being guarded at Birchwood. He was confronted by six deputies with levelled rifles.

Deitz, a physical giant, brushed aside the guns, knelt beside the girl, kissed her and burst in tolears. The deputies told Deitz that they were taking the girl to Hayward. He said he had decided to take her to Ashland, and to Ashland she went.

CHICAGO MAN SHOT AND KILLED BY DRESSMAKER

Had Dispute With Woman About a Suit and She Seized Her Husband's Revolver and Killed Him.

WIFE WANTS REVENGE

Examiner Special.

CHICAGO, OCT. 5.—A tragedy plunging two families in grief developed yesterday from a dispute over a trivial bill in a south side dressmaking shop. Walter Robertsen, 745 East Forty-sixth Street, is dead at the Chicago Hospital with a bullet in his brain, and Mrs. Inez Barton, a dressmaker, is locked up in the Hyde Park police station, charged with murder.

The wife of the dead man is prostrated from the shock and Mrs. Barton's two small children are left without mother care. She was overcome with grief at the fatal result of her deed.

A revolver in her hands was the cause of the tragedy. She conducted a cleaning and pressing business in addition to her dressmaking establishment at 4,823 Cottage Grove Avenue. The dispute with Robertson arose over a bill for $2.25 for pressing three suits.

Robertson refused to tender a denomination smaller than $50 in payment of the account. Mrs. Barton could not change the bill. He insisted in taking away his clothes as the modiste could not receive the payment. A struggle ensued for the possession of the pasteboard box containing the garments.

Suddenly the woman snatched a revolver from a drawer and pulled the trigger. There was but one shell in the weapon, but it was enough. The bullet took effect over the man's left eye and he dropped to the floor. He died eight hours later.

"I never meant to kill him. I never thought of such a thing as killing any one," Mrs. Barton said at the police station. "I hardly knew what I was doing when I snatched up the weapon. I don't know anything about shooting fire arms.

"I wanted to make him pay me my money. I needed it. I am trying to make a little money and I needed my pay.

"What shall I do? I would give my own life to bring him back to life."

Mrs. Barton had become hysterical after the shooting and called for a policeman and was taken to the Hyde Park Station by Patrolman John Dwyer.

The Bartons have been residing since January at the Cottage Grove avenue address. According to the husband, who is a stenographer employed by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, it was Mrs. Barton's idea to take the store and live in the rooms behind it while she attempted to build up a dressmaking business.

"My wife believed she could make some money that way and we could put our incomes together and have more to raise the children," said Barton at night. "She is only 23 years old. It is not many wives who would volunteer to help their husbands like that."

Barton said that he sometimes had large sums of money to take care of for the railroad company on pay days and that he bought the revolver two months ago for his protection. It is a small, cheap weapon. He said he did not know his wife had it in her possession.

Robertson was 28 years old. He was a commercial traveller. He had been married a year and leaves a wife and child. Mrs. Robertson declared that she would leave no stone unturned to force punishment upon the slayer of her husband.

A circumstance that excited the comment of the police in connection with Robertson's refusal to make change or offer less than a $50 bill in payment of his account was that the sum of $1,301.95 was found in his pockets, the denominations of the bills ranging from tens to hundreds.

Two negroes who were canvassing in the storeroom where the shooting took place dropped their tools and ran at the sound of the shot. One of the men was examined by the Hyde Park police. He said the shot was fired while Mrs. Barton and Robertson had hold of the box.

FIGHTS TO DIE

Mother Tries to Prevent Son From Cutting His Throat

Special Wire to the Examiner.

NEW YORK, OCT. 5.—Dr. Hubert B. Gudger of Asheville, N.C., a young graduate of the University of Pennsylvania Medical School, killed himself in a room of the Grand Union hotel at Broadway and 42nd Street while his mother fought with him for possession of the razor with which he was cutting his throat.

Dr. Gudger was 24 years old, and was graduated from the medical school with the class of 1909. His father is J. M. Gudger, an attorney of Asheville.

The young physician undermined his health through hard study and on returning home it was decided that he remain quietly at his father's home, while every effort was made to restore him to health.

Symptoms of acute melancholia soon developed and on advice of physicians he was brought here by his parents to be placed in a sanatorium.

ABOUT FLOWERS

Some Timely Advice by the Canadian Horticulturist

October is the month to plant bulbs for winter flowering indoors. Bulbs should be planted so that the top of the bulb is just below the surface of the soil, and the surface of the soil half an inch below the top of the pot to allow room for watering. As soon as potted, the bulbs should be well watered so as to moisten all the soil. The pots should then be placed away in a dark room or cellar where the temperature is about 40 or 45 degrees.

It is well to bury the pots an inch deep in sand, light soil or coal ashes; sand is the best. This should be well packed around the pots and be given a good watering. Leave the pots covered in this way until a good root system is developed. According to The Canadian Horticulturist published at Peterboro, Ont., (a copy of which will be sent on request) it is important that there should be a good root system before the top growth commences. The pots can then be brought into the window or left in the sand in the cellar until the top growth is about two inches high when they should be taken out of the sand. Introduce the bulbs into the light and sunlight by degrees. See that they are kept well watered. They should not be allowed to become dry after they are once potted until through flowering.

Buy good bulbs from a reliable seed firm, and give them a reasonable amount of care and attention, and good results will follow. When the flowers are blooming in mid-winter you will feel many times repaid for the slight trouble and expense.

The Doctor's Question

Much Sickness Due to Bowel Disorders

A doctor's first question when consulted by a patient is, "Are your bowels regular?" He knows that 98 p.c. of illness is attended with inactive bowels and torpid liver, and that this condition must be removed gently and thoroughly before health can be restored.

Rexall Orderlies are a positive, pleasant and safe remedy for constipation and bowel disorders in general. We are so certain of their great curative value that we promise to return the purchaser's money in every case when they fail to produce entire satisfaction.

Rexall Orderlies are calm like candy, they act quickly, and have a soothing, strengthening, healing influence on the entire intestinal tract. They do not purge, gripe, cause nausea, flatulence, excessive looseness, diarrhoea or other annoying effect. They are especially good for children, weak persons or old folks. Two sizes, 25c and 50c. # PAID DETECTIVE TO GET THIEF WHO STOLE CHICKEN

YOUNGSTOWN, O., OCT. 4.—At an outlay of 50 cents Joseph Kazi of East Youngstown bought a likely looking pullet and brought it home to make a dinner for the Sunday following.

When he went to kill it he found it was gone. Search of the neighborhood failed to reveal it. This so angered Kazi that he telephoned to Lorain and engaged John M. Schotz of the Schotz Detective Agency of that city to discover the thief.

Three days later the detective found two yellow legs which Kazi identified as having belonged to his pullet in life. Shortly afterward Schotz walked into the office of Mayor Hamilton with the balance of a pullet neatly dressed for the pot and laid in toy Mrs. Angelo Donnia.

The woman was released on her own recognizance and will be given a hearing later.

Kazi had to pay the detective $10 a day and expenses.

THE SWEETHEART OF CONVICTED PICKPOCKET REMAINS TRUE TO PROMISE AND THEY ARE MARRIED

Knot is Tied With the Groom Handcuffed and the First Nuptial Embrace Takes Place After Shackles Are Removed.

A ROMANCE AT HULL

The Ottawa Free Press says:

"Love will find a way," and although Osias Millaire leaves Ottawa in a few days for Kingston, where he will spend five years in the penitentiary, the little winged god had him, and yesterday afternoon, in the presence of a few police and jail officials, he led his blushing bride to the altar and the two hearts were made to beat as one.

When the Magistrate pronounced the fateful words that were calculated to remove Millaire from the society of the world at large for five long years, Miss Josephine Serois, a young Hull woman, was in police court. She was affianced to the prisoner and although her sweetheart had been convicted of picking a farmer's pocket and marked as a criminal to the rest of the world, she remained true.

Woman's Prerogative.

Millaire offered to release her from the promise she made to marry him. Five years was a long time to wait. But no, she would marry him when he was released from jail, but yesterday she changed her mind, and wanted the ceremony performed right away. First going to Fr. Carriere, parish priest at Hull, she told him that she would use every effort to have Millaire brought over to Hull, so that the wedding could be solemnized in the church she had always attended. She asked permission to have Millaire brought over to Hull so that they might be married.

"Can't do it," was the reply. "Millaire is a prisoner in jail, and Hull is in the province of Quebec, out of the sheriff's jurisdiction."

Pleaded in Vain.

She pleaded with the authorities, but all in vain. Ontario's prisoner could not be taken to Hull or anywhere else in Quebec. Her tears and pleadings were of no avail.

It then developed into a case of if the mountain would not come to Mahomet. Mahomet must go to the mountain. She brought the parish priest over to Ottawa, and then going to the jail authorities again, asked if the prisoner could be brought out of jail as far as St. Joseph's church and be married there.

Handcuffed in Church.

"Yes, that can be done," she was told, "but Millaire is a prisoner, sentenced to five years and must be carefully guarded. He will have to be handcuffed during the ceremony."

Again came protests from Miss Serois. She did not want to be married under these conditions. She was again informed that Millaire was a prisoner, sentenced to five years in jail, and must be properly guarded, or the ceremony could not take place. Finally she consented.

In a cab, accompanied by Detective Ryan and Turnkey George Young, to whom he was handcuffed, a quick run was made from the jail to St. Joseph's church. In the vestry, the girl and the priest were awaiting. Walking up to where the priest was with his bride on one arm and George Young still handcuffed to him, on the other, the ceremony took place, probably one of the strangest of its kind that ever took place in Ottawa. Inspector Ryan was best man; the bride was unattended.

Embraced in Cell.

After the marriage, the bridal party returned to the jail. Millaire was conducted to his cell, and here relieved of his handcuffs. Then, and then only, the prisoner was able to embrace his wife, and the turnkey retreated a short distance until this affectionate scene was over. He returned, and the pair were separated. He will leave for Kingston and Mrs. Millaire will remain in Hull until after his release.

ONLY A WAITER

Examiner Special.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., OCT. 5.—Discovering that the man who had laid siege to her affections was merely a waiter, instead of the wealthy visitor as she supposed him, Miss Anna M. Howe, sister of Frank Howe, Philadelphia theatrical manager, cast herself into the sea here.

Her identity was a deep mystery until parts of her outer clothing wrapped around pathetic notes to her former lover were found on the beach here to-day. The corpse was later identified as that of Miss Howe by employees of the fashionable Hotel Windsor, of this city, where she was a guest when she decided to kill herself.

A sealed note was addressed to Walter Crampton, a hotel waiter, who declared to-night that he had not indulged in a love affair with the dead woman.

"Now, I find that you have lied to me," said part of the note. "You are not what you said; you are a waiter. Of course, I do not think that a man's work changes the color of his soul, but I hate to be deceived. To lie seems to me to be the lowest, the last resort. Try when you think of me to be truthful to other women and men. Do what you will, but don't lie."

MR. BELL'S RETIREMENT

From the Duties of Clerk of the Division Court Are Regretted By His Honour Judge Huycke, Who Refers to is Services To-day

SUCCESSOR WELCOMED

At the opening of Division Court this morning His Honour Judge Huycke took advantage of the opportunity to express his regrets at the retirement of Mr. Frank Bell, for many years Division Court clerk, and at the same time to welcome his successor, Col. J. W. Miller.

His Honour referred in terms of highest praise to Mr. Bell's services. Mr. Bell was held in the very highest regard by everyone, and it was a matter of regret that he was leaving his position. He had heard of Mr. Bell as one of the best Division Court clerks in the province and what he had seen of him since coming to Peterborough had fully borne out this reputation. He personally regretted the loss of Mr. Bell and hoped that his remaining years would be peaceful and happy.

In welcoming Col. Miller His Honour said that he was a gentleman who occupied the highest possible position in the respect of the community, and he wished him every success in his new position. He hoped that his relations with his duties would always be pleasant.

Special to The Examiner.

GIBRALTAR, OCT. 7. The United States cruiser, Des Moines," led foreign vessels past here with ships dressed and the Portugese flag flying and firing salutes in honour of King Manuel and his suite, taking refuge on their yacht in the harbour here. They remained on their vessel and didn't go to the residence of the British Governor, as reported.

A ROUGH VOYAGE

Examiner Special.

MONTREAL, OCT. 7.—Private advices received here, state that the steamer Royal George of the Canadian Northern line met fearfully rough weather on a trip from England arriving at Quebec yesterday. Coal shifted, causing heavy list to one side. Much uneasiness among the passengers was caused by a story circulated that the vessel was going down.

Of Toronto, Secretary of the Baptist Missionary Society, Who Will Speak at the Missionary Institute.

He Got Disorderly and the Police Had to be Called—Magistrate Considered His Conduct Worth About $8.75 to the City.

OTHER CASES TO-DAY

At the police court this morning Patrick Bard was charged with being drunk and disorderly. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $2.00 or 15 days in gaol. He could not pay the fine, so he will spend a vacation on the hill.

Wm. Ferrars was charged with assaulting his wife yesterday. He pleaded not guilty. Mrs. Ferrars stated that her husband consented to her going out for a walk in the evening and when she came back the door was locked and when her husband let her in he charged her with being at a house of ill-fame, and he grabbed her by the throat and struck her. When Mr. Ferrars was sput in the box he told a somewhat different story. He said that he caught hold of her arms and was in a passion, but did not strike her. His Worship, Magistrate Dumble advised them to go home and try and settle it, and if they found this impossible to come back.

A local young man was charged with being drunk and disorderly on George street last night. He and another young man had been going around the hotels looking for the former's brother, who was supposed to have been indulging in a diversion from the path of temperance and they were evidently getting in the same predicament on his track. The missing young man had been keeping company with a certain young lady on George street and the two boys, thinking that he might be there, called at the young lady's home. The defendant was rather drunk when she told him that his brother was not there and he refused to believe her and swearing at her, insisted that he was there. She called an officer who appeared on the scene later and arrested him. By the meantime the missing one turned up and he was not as drunk as those who were after him. He tried to get his brother down to the street again, and when they got there a rather offensive dialogue, which was attracting public attention, was in progress. Just then the officer appeared and assisted him to the cell. Two witnesses were called for the complainant and one for the defendant. Much evidence was heard on both sides, but the young man was convicted and was fined $8.75.

NO IDEA OF MARRIAGE

Michael Fraser Could Not Remember His Wedding—Thought He Met Miss Robertson Like a Milkmaid on the Roadside.

HAD HALLUCINATIONS

Examiner Special.

TORONTO, OCT. 7.—The scene of the recital of the marriage adventure of aged Michael Fraser, of Midland, worth eighty thousand dollars, changed this morning to the City Hall here, where Mr. Justice Britton sat to hear expert evidence regarding the man's sanity. Dr. A. J. Johnston, Chief Coroner of Toronto, said that when he examined Fraser he had no clear idea of his marriage with Miss Robertson. He thought he had met her on the roadside, like a milkmaid, in story books. He also had an hallucination that a nun named Monk was Governor-General and Premier of Canada.

HELD SMOKER LAST EVENING

Last evening the members of No. 8 Company of the 57th Regiment held a smoking concert in their armouries. In spite of the rough night a good number turned out. Capt. Dr. Macpherson was in the chair, and opened the proceedings with Major Denniston's old song, "Drill Ye Tarriers, Drill." Colour Sergeant Smith followed with an old South African ditty, "Oh, De Wet," the chorusus of which were joined in with fervour by the company present. The following contributed to the programme: Sergt. Joyes, Sergt. Playford, Sergt. Hanwell, Private Hutchinson, and Mr. Mackin, and others. A very enjoyable evening was spent and plans were laid for a series of such concerts during the winter months, with the idea of keeping the men in touch with one another and building up the Company and Regiment. Taking the enthusiasm of the members present as a criterion, No. 8 promises to be one of the best, if not the best, in the season of 1911. Capt. Macpherson provided refreshments and cigars. During the evening a memb suggested that No. 8 contribute to the 'Chimes Fund' which was immediately responded to by several members present. The Company Fund Secretary S. Taylor will receive ony from those members who were unable to be present and wish to contribute.

EXPRESSES THANKS

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Permit me, through the columns of your valuable journal to express my sincere thanks to all the friends of the Salvation Army, who have so cheerfully responded to my appeal in connection with our Harvest Festival Fund, just being closed. Although the total amount received was nearly $200.00 less than the figure aimed at, I nevertheless thank those who have responded, in many instances, very liberally. In no other city have I seen manifested a more kindly spirit towards our work than shown by the citizens of Peterborough and we thank them sincerely.

I also wish to thank the daily papers for their many favours in furtherance of our work. Their example is well worthy of emulation in other towns and cities.

It may be that there are still some of our friends who have either been overlooked by us in our appeal, or who may have allowed our appeal to be overlooked without responding thereto, and who will be willing to assist us in bringing the receipts up to the desired sum of $800.00. Further donations will be gratefully received and acknowledged.

Respectfully yours,
J. H. MERRETT, Ensign.

LONDON, ONT., OCT. 6.—As a result of an elevator accident at the biscuit factory of D. S. Perrin & Co., at 4 o'clock this afternoon, one young man was killed and three injured, two fatally.

Three Fatally Hurt.

Earl Barrett, aged 16, who lost his life, was putting in his first day's work at the factory. John R. Wellspring and Sam. Govier are in Victoria Hospital with fractured skulls and it is stated cannot live. Alex. Russell, also of this city, sustained a fractured shoulder and kneecap.

Truck Shoved Under Car.

Barrett was the elevator operator. He and the others were fooling, and someone shoved a truck under the car when it was going down. The elevator was blocked, the cable kept uncoiling, and when the truck was knocked out the car fell with all four. The weight snapped the cable and the boys dropped about six stories.

REPUBLIC OF PORTUGAL RECOGNIZED

Examiner Special.

LISBON, OCT. 7.—The British Ambassador, accompanied by the representatives of other foreign powers, called on Dr. Machado, foreign minister of the new Republican Government. This is taken to indicate official recognition of Portugal as a Republic. The capital was fairly quiet during the night. All the troops here and the entire navy in the harbour are now thoroughly Republican. On only one vessel was there any hesitancy at running up the Republican flag, and on that, when the loyal officers grouped themselves on the quarter deck, they were mown down by the machine guns, handled by their own sailors. The official proclamation of the exile Manuel, Queen Mother, Queen Dowager and the Duke of Oporto have gone forth, and if they again set foot in the country they are liable to imprisonment. In the meantime advices from the Spanish frontier indicate that inflammatory meetings are being held all over that country.

SPLENDID SHOWING AT THE DAYLIGHT STORE

Simultaneously with the coming of autumn weather each year comes the necessity upon the masculine element of the city to begin to think seriously about fall and winter clothing and naturally when these thoughts begin to crop up, the store of Mr. J. T. C. Lang comes to one's mind. The Daylight store is always to the front when men's clothing is under consideration. Just at the present time Mr. Lang is carrying one of the biggest and certainly the most up-to-date stock ever gathered together in Peterborough. He has a full line of men's and boys' clothing for fall and winter wear in which the styles are the latest and the prices the most reasonable. Anyone who needs an overcoat or suit should not purchase before visiting the Daylight store, where he is sure to be treated with every consideration.

A NATIONAL PERIL.

On this page will be found an article relating to the dreadful prevalence of infant mortality. Its careful perusal and study are commended to the reader. We spend thousands to supply one of the greatest needs of this country, population. Our immigration service costs a large sum annually, spent to bring in population; a considerable proportion of the incoming crowd, is, in spite of the greatest precaution, the greatest cure, bound to be undesirable. Yet, we pay little attention to, spend no money systematically upon, natural immigration, little attention to the retention of population, by attempting to preserve the potential population, consisting of infants and children, which are allowed to drift out of Canada by being allowed to drift out of the world—good citizens in the making, pillars of society and of the national fabric crushed in the bud. The conditions dealt with by the Ottawa Citizen, in the article reprinted in another column, should command the attention and excite the interest of all who have the welfare of Canada at heart. The prevalence of infant mortality, to a large extent, preventable, is a national and moral reproach; but its evil and regrettable features are intensified, when one considers that it is not the only evil of its kind—pre-natal infant mortality is a greater evil. Apart from its criminality it has a similar effect in decreasing our population and degrading its character. With infant mortality slaying its thousands, we have race suicide slaying its tens of thousands. The word race-suicide is a misnomer—race murder is the word that fits the crime. No state or country can become great, or remain great, that tends to produce a stationary or retrograde native-born population We hear a good deal, from time to time, from certain quarters, of the dangers of "French domination" of the alleged danger of our French-Canadian population soon outnumbering the English-speaking population. If there should be any probability of this and if there is anybody to blame, on whom does the blame rest? The answer is contained in a few words—the French Canadians, in the matter of children, have families, the English speaking people have funerals. Carry the latter part of this statement to its basic analysis and we have the cause of effect. The causes of infant mortality can be traced further back—to ill-consorted marriages—men and women unable to take care of themselves, bringing upon themselves the care of human lives—bound to share the mental infirmities and physical unsoundness of their progenitors. If the children of such parents survive the lack of care that comes from lack of knowledge they stand to become burdens to the state, and a malign influence in the integrity of physique, character and mental equipment of our population, and are, therefore, worse than no population at all. There is a wide field for the philanthropist in the problems presented for solution in the matter of increasing, preserving, and strengthening the home-born population of this province and the Dominion, and removing the national peril that hangs over us.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It will require a good deal of Manuel lobour to restore the Portuguese monarchy.

His ex-majesty, ex-King Manuel is safe. The British flag floats over him and the rock of Gibraltar is under his feet—two of the most powerful sublunary forms of protection known to history.

For the eight months ending with August, Great Britain imported more than $20,000,000 of cheese, of which nearly $12,000,000 came from Canada. The Canadian cow is a great money maker.

It's no wonder Winnipeg "feeds her oats." It leads the continental market in the matter of oats and all the cities of America in receipts of wheat, her total for the crop year ending Aug. 31, being 88,269,330 bushels. Minneapolis was next with 81,111,410 bushels.

"Erin to-day is the one dark spot in the British empire," affirmed Sir Wilfrid Laurier at the T. P. O'Connor meeting, Ottawa. "Why not give her the same liberties as Canada, the same privileges accorded to South Africa, where only ten years ago the Boers were fighting against the British.

The political enemies of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in default of anything in his record to condemn, have taken to imputing to him what they consider crimes. He is quoted in terms of condemnation as having spoken in favour of free trade at a Canadian Club banquet in Ottowa. Sir Wilfrid did not speak at all on the occasion referred to. No comment is needed.

If you are a political prophet, says the Ottawa Free Press, keep your eyes upon British Columbia, and when you ascertain which seat in the British Columbia Legislature Premier McBride relinquishes remember that the other will be the constituency which he will use when the time comes for him to come to Ottawa, and that may be sooner than most people expect.

AN EMPIRE BUILDER.

The Canadian Pacific Railway is likely to increase its dividend rate next year, it is to make the distributions quarterly instead of half-yearly and it is to place faster and finer ships on the Atlantic route. These announcements, made at the company's annual meeting, drive home the fact that in its 29th year the pioneer transcontinental road is still the country's greatest advertisement. The vast bulk of the corporation's securities being held in Great Britain and on the continent of Europe, every fresh success achieved by this brilliantly managed enterprise tends strongly to establish and reinforce Canada's credit abroad and to facilitate the successful flotation of other Canadian ventures in the old world. It must even be said that by teaching housekeeping Britons the value of the outer dominions, the Canadian Pacific has been a powerful factor in the upbuilding and establishment of the Empire.

These are brave words, and well deserved. But the News, if it does not so offend itself, stands by consenting like Saul, while the party it speaks for, through its organs and its orators denounces the construction of the Transcontinental railway, which has as great possibilities of contribution to the promotion of national and imperial interests, as the C. P. R. Party tunes that are not played in the key of true loyalty are vain as the "sounding brass and tinkling cymbol."

SEE THE COUNTRY.

(Ottawa Free Press

Inspired probably by the impression made upon its editor in chief during his tour of the West, the Toronto News proposes that the Government should organise a parliamentary excursion of members of both houses and of both parties to tour Western Canada.

The idea is not a new one. It has been made more than once by The Free Press, but to be the success which it ought to be it should go further than a mere trip to the West. What should be done is to organize a trip of the Maritime provinces for the men who live west of Lake Superior, and then follow it up with an excursion of eastern representatives to the West. In this way both sections of the country would get to know the other better.

The Government of Quebec might set the example by organizing an excursion of the more narrow-minded of the Ontario Protestant members, and show them that the people of Quebec are not, as Henri Bourassa and his followers would have us believe, enemies of English rule and opposed to a united Canadian policy.

The more Canadians get to know each other the better, and the sooner will racial and sectional prejudices disappear.

Protest Against Present Day Slaughter Of The Innocents

(Ottawa Citizen.)

The figures recently issued of the number of deaths in the United States during 1909 are of deepest significance. They reveal conditions that we in Canada may well look into, not only because they are largely similar to those in the Dominion, but because of the influences that are at the present time increasing the similarity.

Of the 732,538 deaths reported in a certain area, no less than 196,534, or 26 per cent., were of children under five years of age, and 140,067, or 19 in every five was of a baby under one year of age. In other words, one death in every five was of a baby under one year, and one death in every four of little children under five.

On first thought, it may seem that this fact and proportion of infant mortality are only natural and necessary. The passing away of a little helpless infant before it has got full grip of the power of life, seems not inconsistent with what might be expected under the circumstances.

As a matter of fact, there is seldom more than the least ripple of interest or concern when a baby dies. "Only an infant," we say, and think no more concerning it. It is only in the family circle, where the advent of the little life had given rise to new joy and expectation, that the loss is realized and adequately mourned.

A deeper consideration of the subject, however, reveals a significance and a social sin that we cannot conscientiously overlook. It is neither natural nor necessary that a little child should die. Such an event is wholly inconsistent with normal life, and discloses an abnormal condition which is to be continued only with danger to society.

It is no exaggeration to say that every child's death, not due to accident, may be considered as nothing more or less than a social crime. In more cases than are dreamed of by the average citizen infant mortality is sheer murder. The death of a child is unnatural, abnormal, abhorent. We may well regard it with uncomfortable concern. It is a social symptom of evil. It is always to some degree a social sin.

It is the right of a child to be well born. Coming into the world by no will of its own, it is barest justice that it should be given not only life, but opportunity to prolong life. Nothing can be more tragically grotesque than the forcing into life of that 140,000 babes, and then forcing them out again before their baby hands could lay hold of the joys and privilege of human existence.

For this fearful sacrifice of child life we are all socially responsible. Until the age of five, and much past it, the child is absolutely helpless. It is wholly dependent upon others, that is, upon society as a whole, for its very life. It can take only what is given to it, having no choice, meeting with the futile wail of baby protest the pronouncement of its death doom.

And its doom is the result of circumstances which every Canadian citizen may help to change and improve. Every man is society, and a vital factor in it and its influences. It is a vain excuse to put the blame upon the parents of the dead child. It is insufficient merit to point to the strong life of one's own children. We are all of us responsible for the conditions which find their most ghastly sequence in the modern slaughter of the innocents.

Death at seventy is not unnatural. When life's work has been finished, and one has passed through the varied experiences of existence, it is natural that a man should pass away, as a wheat stalk passes when it has yielded its full head of grain. But for a child, a bud of humanity, with life before it and wondrous possibilities in it and power and beauty waiting the command of life, to die is a curse and a crime from which we may not escape without some share of blame.

With proper conditions, dating back to the birth of the parents of the child, there is no good reason why a child should die. With right supervision of health conditions, and adequate opportunity for development, the environment so produced would give infinitely greater chance for the perpetuation of the child life born in it.

This, therefore, becomes our task. This, surely, is our very greatest task as citizens. The child is Canada, and with the death of thechild, the Canadian future die salso. If it is possible, by any method of reform or social supervision, to create larger chance for the child, that work commands us.

In England and other European countries much progress is being made in this direction. In the United States an organization for the Study and Prevention of Infant Mortality has very recently been formed. There are ample indications that at last is being recognized the superlative importance of the life of the child.

How shall we answer for our apathy and neglect when it is shown that most of the deaths of little ones might have been prevented? How shall we dare to look unmoved upon the white hearse that moves through our streets, past those whose wisdom and co-operation and social action might have changed it into a chariot of life instead?

Stage Snow in Spring.

In a play called "1812," in which Napoleon's crossing of a frozen river is shown with snow falling, the last act shows an old soldier's return home. It is springtime, there are roses climbing up the cottage walls, the fruit trees are in bloom, and the old hero sits in a chair in a cozy room with all the windows open. But much to the spectators' amusement, snow continued to fall not only outside the room, but inside it. The actor who played the old soldier noticed the audience's amusement, and to account for the snow he gagged. "Pay no attention to the snow," he said to his stage wife. "It's a habit I contracted in Russia."—London M.A.P.

Often Reported Dead.

Exactly how many times he has been reported dead it would be difficult for Dr. G. E. Morrison, the Pekin correspondent of The London Times, who has recently arrived in London, to say. For he is a man who delights to lose himself in unknown quarters of the globe. Amongst other journeys he has crossed Australia, China, and Manchuria on foot. On one occasion he was speared in New Guinea, the spear-head being left in his body until he came to Edinburgh for his medical degree. Another adventurous enterprise was his embarking as a common sailor on a South Sea recruiting vessel, in order to study at first hand the conditions of the traffic in coolies for the sugar plantations.

Cashier Gets Ten Years.

Auburn, N.Y., Oct. 7.—John Howard Lowery, former assistant cashier of the Utica City National Bank, who embezzled $124,000 of the funds of the institution, was yesterday afternoon sentenced to the federal prison for ten years by Judge Ray. He was sentenced on four counts of the indictment.

Lord Strathcona, the high commissioner for Canada, celebrated his ninetieth birthday by working hard in his office. He is in the best of health and says that he expects to be in fit condition for many years to work in the interests of Canada.

Professor Luther O. Emerson of Hyde Park, Mass., who wrote the music to William Cullen Bryant's "We Are Coming, Father Abraham," and who has just entered on his ninety-first year, has declared that he expected to live at least thirty years more.

Gustav Mahler is fifty years old. For thirty years he has been an orchestral conductor, and today Nikisch alone contests the first place with him in the concert hall. He is under engagement to conduct the Philharmonic concerts in Carnegie hall, New York, next winter.

R. B. Angus has been chosen to succeed the late Sir George A. Drummond, president of the Bank of Montreal, the highest position in Canada's financial world. Mr. Angus entered the employ of the bank in 1857 and has been closely associated with the institution ever since, though much of his time in recent years has been given to railroad management.

Recent Inventions.

For restaurant and hotel use an inventor has turned out a machine which will cut a pound of butter into twenty-four equal sized pieces in a single motion.

A new shoe salesman's stool is provided with small mirrors on each side of the foot rest to enable a customer to get side views of a shoe he is trying on and also to afford a degree of privacy.

A new pyrometer for measuring high temperatures consists of strips of two metals rolled together into a spiral. As heat rays strike it the spiral gradually unrolls owing to the difference between the two metals' coefficients of expansion.

Bank Notes.

Canada has twenty-nine banks, with about 2,000 branches. They are practically controlled by the Bankers' association, a legalized institution with certain definite functions.

The governor and two deputy governors of the Bank of France are appointed by the chief of state. The general policy of the Bank of France is directed by the governor of the bank.

Before discounting any paper the Bank of England requires at least two good British names, one of which must be the acceptor. It seldom holds over $180,000,000 in bills discounted and securities of all kinds [illegible]

Unafraid.

Who's afraid of a cow?
They're so gentle and kind
You can go up quite close and they none of 'em mind.
An' they like little girls, so I've heard people say.
But I wish, oh, I wish, they was furder away!

Pooh! Who's afraid?
They're as good as can be,
An' one's a child cow that is younger than me.
An' they give us good milk, an' there's nothing to fear.
But I wish, oh, I wish, that my daddy was here!

—Harper's Magazine.

An Economical Move

"Good morning!" said Mrs. Sunjay. "Pardon my calling so early, but I saw your advertisement for a cook"—

"But," interrupted Mrs. Hiram Offen, "surely you are not after the place?"

"Oh, no; I need a cook myself, and I thought you might send to me all the applicants you reject.—Catholic Standard and Times.

Right System.

A copyrighted his new drama, for he'd heard it stated
It was safer. And it was—the public never got a look!
B wrote a play, and B, he got his product vaccinated
Instead of copyrighted. And, by gosh, it took!

—Cleveland Leader.

Tactless.

"May has lost her chance to marry that rich young man."

"Is that so?"

"Yes; she hasn't any tact at all. He asked her the other evening if she objected to his smoking in the house, and she said she did."—Detroit Free Press.

A Pessimism.

This world is but a whirling thing
That rushes on through space;
It always travels in a ring
Back to the same old place.
And we who cling as best we may
Unto its fragile shell
Repeat experience day by day,
With nothing new to tell.

—Washington Star.

It Happens.

"How did your husband enjoy his vacation?"

"He is very much alarmed about it."

"How is that?"

"Why, he has come home with an appetite in excess of his income."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A Near View.

Her little feet beneath her bobbie skirt
Like little mice steal in and out.
She moves along as if it hurt
To even slowly get about.
And, oh, she dances such a way
That I these woes all good nature bear say
She simply is a sight!

—Chicago Record-Herald.

FALL ANNOUNCEMENT

of J.T.C. LANG & CO.

After months of preparation for our Fall and Winter trade we now take pleasure in announcing our New Season's Goods.

CLOTHING

SUITS

Men's Suits for Fall and Winter 1910-11 have materials somewhat rough in texture. Browns in several new shades are being introduced while Greys in a variety of shades in plain, striped and overchecked patterns will be decidedly strong. Lapels will be broad and details such as cuffs and pockets will be mostly plain.

OVERCOATS

In Overcoats while the ever popular black Chesterfield will again be in evidence, many fancy cloths in rough rather light effects—some with marked patterns will be worn.

FURNISHINGS

We wish we could call every man in the city to the phone and ask him to come to see our new Neckwear. The new Fall shapes are pretty. The silks are new and our Neckwear Department these days is a sort of BEAUTY SHOW.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

THE problem of how to go away to the country to recuperate and yet stay at home to save your purse, was recently solved by two young friends of mine in a rather interesting and suggestive way.

The young folks are a doctor and his wife. His wife was run down and needed country air. But the doctor's purse was also run down.

It was one of the hardest cases he ever ran up against. But he rose to its level with an ingenuity that ought to bring him as many patients as he can take care of.

Although they live in the heart of the town, there is a section of high, wooded land about two miles from them. It is a very beautiful spot and people continually remark on the purity and freshness of the air on this little pine-studded hill.

Mindful of this fact ,the doctor had driven his wife out there every morning before he went on his rounds all summer long.

He establishes her comfortably with book or sewing, a heap of pillows and a lunch, and then goes back to his work. Late in the afternoon he goes out and brings her home.

Has it really done her much good?

Well, I just wish I could publish a before-and-after picture of her.

Why isn't that a good idea for anyone whose purse and health are simultaneously out of gear?

Of course, not everyone has a carriage or just such an ideal spot, but I don't believe there are many people who couldn't manage to get themselves daily transported to some healthy spot, at a fairly reasonable rate, if they really made the effort.

• • •

Some weeks ago I wrote a little talk on the golden rule of lost articles. That is, the duty of everyone who finds any valuable article to do his best to get it back to his owner, just as he would like the person who finds his lost article to do for him.

I commented at the time on the lack of any system for dealing with lost articles in this country, and a traveller sends me this interesting item:

"Some time ago I lost a handbag and a few articles therein, in a London stage. Next morning I went to Scotland Yard, gave a description of my loss and in half a minute the bag and contents were before me. I paid ten per cent. of the value, about 85 cents, of which 12 cents the police put into their orphan fund, and the balance goes to the finder. Why not have the same system here?"

Why not, indeed?

Isn't this a bit of constructive reform that your women's clubs might well work to get introduced in this city?

• • •

Want to know how a few bits of coloured paper and a few inches of wooden stick can sometimes take the place, and set free the time, of a human being?

In amusing a baby.

Buy or make one of those little coloured paper windmills. Stick it up in baby's carriage when you put him out of doors and you will be surprised how long he will be contented to watch its revolutions in the breezes, instead of demanding that you amuse him.

Bazaar Under Auspices OF Knox Church Ladies' Aid Is Great Success

Despite the Unfavourable Weather There Was a Good Attendance at the Opening Banquet Last Night---An Attractive Array of Booths.

The Knox Church Bazaar was opened last evening at 6 o'clock An oyster supper was served, and despite the disagreeable evening a fair crowd turned out. The Charlotte Street curling rink, in which the bazaar is being held, is very prettily decorated for the occasion. Flags are hanging in profusion from cords across overhead, while the different departments for selling the articles are on either side of the rink. At the north end of the rink a stage has been erected, and on this the Salvation Army Band, which turned out in full force, played a number of very entertaining selections last night, which were greatly appreciated by the gathering. Along the front of the little rooms hanging above the counters are a number of decorations in the shape of maple branches, and grape vines, from which are hung some of the articles which are for sale.

The following is a list of the different departments and the sales ladies who have been chosen to attend to them:

Children's Ware—Mrs. Mead.
Fine Goods—Mrs. Robt. Mulligan.
Home-made Cake—Mrs. Coates.
Pickles and Canned Fruit—Mrs Gellis.
Handkerchiefs and Towelling—Mrs. Lake.
Fancy Aprons—Mrs. Pollock.
Colored Aprons—Mrs. Londerville.

In the southwest corner an apartment has been built called the "Fish Pond," from which articles are sold. The buyer never knows what he or she gets for the money until it is passed over the top of the partition—but it is always good value.

Grocery Booth—Mrs. W. J. Byers.
Soft Drink Booth—Mrs. Shurter.
Ice-cream Booth—Miss Penrose and Mrs Drake.

A pancake booth was also erected, and the very look of the smiling food would make one hungry—Mrs. Sherwood and Mrs. Preston attended this booth.

Fancy Work—Mrs. McKenzie.

In the centre of the building the Candy Booth was arranged, and was attended by—Misses Dunlop, Hamilton and Howden.

The people of Knox Church deserve credit for the work they have undertaken and carried out so well in the conducting of the bazaar. They spared neither time nor trouble in making things as comfortable as possible for those who patronize their bazaar, and if it does not prove a success there will be no blame to be laid against Mr. Keith or the committee, as all arrangements were perfect and have been carried out most successfully. But there is no question about its proving a success.

Even under the adverse conditions which prevailed last night, a large number were there, and although the outer world was rather gloomy, the inside was mirth and enjoyment. Visitors to the bazaar openly expressed their appreciation of the way things were arranged, also, of the sumptuous supper which was served. Special credit is due Mr. Keith for his untiring efforts in trying to make everything a success. If the next two days turn out fine, the Bazaar will be a great success as was evidenced by last night's success.

A FEW DOSES WILL REGULATE KIDNEYS

Most Severe Backache, Bladder and Urinary Misery Vanishes

The Blessed relief that follows the use of Pape's Diuretic is a revelation to sufferers from backache or kidney, bladder and urinary disorders.

The time to cure kidney trouble is while it is only trouble. Before it settles into Dropsy, Gravel, Diabetes or Bright's Disease.

Pape's Diuretic acts at once upon the kidneys, bladder and urinary system, cleanses, vitalizes, and regulates these organs, ducts and glands and completes the cure within a few days. The moment you suspect any kidney or urinary derangement, or feel a constant, dull backache or the urine is thick, cloudy, offensive or full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, you should begin taking Pape's Diuretic as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other remedy, at any price, made anywhere else in the world, which will effect so thorough and prompt a cure.

Misery in the back, sides or loins, sick headache, inflamed or puffy eyelids, nervousness, rheumatism and darting pains, heart palpitations, bilious stomach, Prostatic trouble, dizziness, sleeplessness, listless, weak, worn-out feeling and other symptoms caused by inactive, sluggish kidneys simply vanish. Uncontrollable urination (especially at night), smarting, discoloured water and all bladder misery ends.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker or any mercantile agency will vouch for the responsibility of Pape, Thompson & Pape of Cincinnati, Ohio, who prepare Pape's Diuretic — 50 cent treatment sold by every druggist in the world.

CLEARED OF MURDER

Special to The Examiner.

PITTSBURG, PA., OCT. 5.—Katherine Botts, thirteen years old, who slew her god-father with an axe and redhot poker, was cleared of the criminal charge late to-day on the ground that the murder was justifiable. Judge M. Swearingen, charging the jurors after two days' recital of testimony, plainly opened the way to acquittal. The girl had faced the trial with confidence that her act was warranted, and she went to her home this evening free, but to face motherhood soon.

Pasquale Volpe, who had boarded at her home in Wilmerding ever since the girl's infancy, and who acted as her god-father, was the victim. While she was in the cellar getting potatoes he is alleged to have assaulted her on August 11th last, following which she struck him unconscious with an axe and ran a poker through his body. She related the story on the stand. "He burned my heart," she said, "and I wanted to burn his."

A number of witnesses testified to the girl's good character in the neighborhood, to her studious habits of school and hard work at home helping her mother.

Although the girl had been indicted for first-degree murder, the prosecution merely urged that the child be placed in an institution, but the girl's counsel dramatically demanded liberty or death.

Judge Swearingen told the jury that if Volpe went to the cellar with express purpose to commit an abuse against the girl, the child had a right to kill him.

Mr. James Hall visited Warsaw on Wednesday.

The concert which was recently held in the Baptist Church was quite a success. The greater part of the programme was contributed by Miss Bryce, Miss Weir, and Mr. Weir, of Keene, who delighted the audience with their solos, duets and trios. Each number rendered was thoroughly enjoyed, and considered a treat by all who had the privilege of hearing them. The remainder of the programme, which was also much appreciated, was, with the exception of a recitation by Mr. Challis, of Warsaw, given by local talent. Refreshments were served.

Several of the village people attended Keene Fair on Wednesday.

Miss Jean Robson, of Norwood, spent Thursday in the village.

TELEPHONE DESPATCHERS

The Grand Trunk Railway System have recently placed in commission on their northern division, two telephone train despatching circuits, as follows: One circuit between North Parkdale Junction and Burlington Junction, via Allandale, a distance of 145 miles, and another circuit between Allandale and Nipissing Junction, a distance of 165 miles. Train despatchers on each of these circuits are located at Allandale.

On the circuit between North Parkdale Junction and Burlington Junction there are twenty-one way stations, and on the circuit between Allandale and Nipissing Junction twenty way stations. These circuits are constructed of No. 9 gauge hard drawn copper wire, composed at intervals of every half mile through the open country and as much more frequent as is necessary in the vicinity of high voltage power lines, in order to avoid inductive influences and to render the telephone circuits absolutely quiet. The station equipment is of the latest and most perfect type on the market and consists of a swinging arm transmitter and head band receiver for each way station, thus giving the operator the free use of his head, hands and body while using the telephone; the apparatus is swung to one side out of the way while not in use. The train despatching office is equipped with a selector system for calling offices and the duration of the ring in each way station is controlled by the despatcher, who plainly hears the ring through his receiver. Any office on the line can be signalled within eight seconds and as the signal bell in each office consists of a four inch gong, there is little doubt but what the operator will hear his call even though outside of the office and at a distance from it. The despatcher has absolute control of the circuits and way stations must obtain his cooperation when desiring to communicate with one another.

The telephone is considered as being superior to the telegraph as a medium for despatching trains both as a factor of safety and a saving of time. By telephone each station and numeral is first pronounced and then spelled out letter by letter, by the despatcher for verification when an order is issued, and repeated in like manner by the receiving operator, while by telegraph stations and numerals can only be spelled out in Morse characters.

During the past three years the telephone has made rapid strides on the Trunk Line Railways in the United States and Canada for train despatching purposes, and to-day over thirty thousand miles of railway is being so despatched. While the expense for constructing and equipping telephone circuits, greatly exceeds that of constructing telegraph lines, the railways have obtained so much better results with the telephone that they feel justified in spending the money.

We understand that it is the intention of the Grand Trunk railway system to extend the use of the telephone over its more important lines in the near future.

The new system has met with the immediate favour of the despatchers and operators, the transmission being so excellent that the work is transacted in fully fifty per cent. less time and in a more personal and satisfactory manner, than is possible with the telegraph.

The Evangelistic Campaign At Park Street Church

Dr Luttrell gave an excellent address last night at the Park street Baptist church, his subject being "Marked Men," and the foundation for his remarks were the words found in Galatians, 6-17, "I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus."

Everything has its mark; sin leaves its mark upon the faces of men; the drunkard has his mark; the miser has his mark; the criminal has his mark. The marks of sin are so evident that it needs no argument to convince a reasonable man of that. And what awful marks sin leaves, marks that nothing but the blood of Jesus Christ can take away. The only way of ridding ourselves from the marks of sin, is to allow Jesus Christ to put his marks upon them. The heart must be made regret, before we can bear the marks of the Lord Jesus.

It was a most inspiring address, and a fairaudience listened with rapt attention. The meeting to-night will be of special interest.

On Sunday afternoon Dr. Luttrell wil laddress a mass meeting for men at the Park street Baptist church at 3 p.m. This will be a most interesting meeting. All men will be made welcome. The Doctor has a message for all.

WEEDON GROSSMITH IS PROMINENT AMONG LEADING ARTISTS IN ENGLAND

Prominent among the most gifted artists of England, Mr. Weedon Grossmith takes a leading place as a comedian. Through the enterprise of the American managers, Messrs. Shubert and Daniel V. Arthur, this famous actor comes to this country for a brief American tour, bringing with him his entire London production and organization in "Mr Preedy and the Countess," the attraction to be seen at the Grand Theatre next Thursday evening.

Mr. Grossmith will appear in the larger cities of Canada, opening in New York October 24th, for an extended season, going there direct from Toronto, where he appears the week of Oct. 17th.

The supporting cast includes several well-known players, among them prominently is Miss Charlotte Granville, a great favourite abroad and a lady of rare gifts and handsome presence.

Missionary Institute October 10-12 Synopsis Of The Programme

"Impressions of the World's Missionary Conference" will be the subject of the address to be given by Rev. A. E. Armstrong, M.A., at the Missionary Institute in this city Oct. 10-12. He will give a report of this, the most widely representative Christian conference the world has ever seen, at the Wednesday afternoon session in George Street church. The public are asked to observe the programme as published in to-morrow's issue. The evening sessions will all be held in St. Paul's church, beginning at 8 o'clock. The opening address will be given by Rev. J. A. Rankin, D.D., of Toronto. Tuesday evening the speaker will be Rev. Canon Tucker, M.A., D.C.L., and on Wednesday evening the public will have an opportunity of hearing Mr. J. Lovell Murray, M.A., Educational Secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement.

Rev. J. G. Brown, D.D., Secretary of the Baptist Missionary Society, addresses the Institute on Tuesday afternoon, when it reassembles from the denominational rallies.

An important feature on Wednesday afternoon, besides Mr. Armstrong's address, will be an open conference on "Ways and Means" led by Mr. J. Lovell Murray.

The Bible Study and Mission Study classes meet Tuesday and Wednesday morning in St. Paul's church. All the sessions are open to the public.

Chinese Laundryman Has To Pay For Clothes That He Damaged

One of the Chinese laundry men of the city will have to make good the price of a man's suit of clothes which he took to wash and thereby rendered them unfit for further wear. The owner of the clothes did not intend to have them washed, but on morning left out his laundry for the Chinaman and his suit for one of the pressers and cleaners of the city. When the Chinaman called he took both laundry and suit, and washed everything. The washing, such as the Chinaman gave it, apparently did not agree with the suit of clothes, the result being that the cloth was pretty much shrunk. The young man sued the Chinese Laundryman this morning in the Division Court and received damages to the value of the suit of clothes.

New Star Has Been Discovered At Harvard College Observatory

Dr. Marsh has received information from Harvard College Observatory, Cambridge, Mass., notifying him that a new star has been discovered in the constellation Sagitarius. Its approximate position is right ascension, 17 hours, 62 mins. 15 secs. and the declination is minus 27 degrees, 32 mins. 9 secs. This new star was discovered by Mrs. Flemming on October 1st, 1910. Out of fifteen new stars discovered at the Harvard College Observatory, Mrs. Flemming has found eleven. The new star in magnitude is about eight and can be seen by the three inch 'elescope owned by the President of the local branch of the Royal Astronomical Society, although very faintly. As the star has only recently been discovered very little information is to hand in regard to it.

HANGING IS UNLIKELY

The Infliction of the Death Penalty on McNulty on the Evidence of an Accomplice Would Be Unique, Says George Tate Blackstock, K.C. — Mercy Will Probably Be Extended to the Girl.

Toronto, Oct. 7.—It is understood that it is not the intention of the crown to press for the carrying out of the death penalty in the cases of Mary Dolan and Thomas McNulty, sentenced at Barrie to be hanged on Dec. 14 for the murder of their illegitimate child.

Mr. George Tate Blackstock, K.C., crown counsel at the trial, was at the Parliament buildings yesterday afternoon in conference with Sir James Whitney and Hon. J. J. Foy, the Attorney-General. While Mr. Blackstock, when interviewed, declined to discuss the character or object of his mission, he intimated, in response to a query, that the death penalty on the two prisoners would probably be commuted.

"The matter," said he, "is now solely in the hands of the Minister of Justice, who recommends executive clemency or otherwise. The unfortunate pair have been convicted following fair trial.

"It is not likely, however, that the crown will urge the carrying out of the death penalty in either case. In that of the unfortunate girl, his lordship, in passing sentence, expressed his intention of joining in the jury's recommendation to mercy. In the case of the man, while conviction was to be desired in the interests of justice, and however much we may believe the evidence which convicted, it is, perhaps, a dangerous precedent to impose capital punishment in a case where conviction was obtained on the unsupported evidence of an accomplice. The man was convicted on the girl's absolute statement that he had written her a letter, unfortunately destroyed, urging her to do the murder."

Married In Handcuffs.

Ottawa, Oct. 7.—Handcuffed to a turnkey, Ozias Maillaire, a comely youth of 26, was, at St. Joseph's Church here, married to Miss Josephine Servant of Hull. Her going through the wedding ceremony just on the eve of her husband's leaving for Kingston to spend five years in the penitentiary there, affords what is probably the finest example of devotion ever witnessed in this city. The groom was sentenced here a day or two ago to five years for stealing $100 from Calixte Portelasse.

Smugglers Must Go to Jail.

New York, Oct. 7.—Jail sentences are to be imposed hereafter on travelers who seek to evade Uncle Sam's customs laws. Judge Hand in the U. S. Court yesterday, made this announcement on imposing a fine of $5,000 upon Mango Morganthau, a wealthy candy manufacturer, who pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with a failure to declare jewelry and wearing apparel worth $17,000.

Town Property Levied On.

Halifax, Oct. 7.—The mining town of Glace Bay, which has been the scene of many recent troubles, was again disturbed Wednesday night when it became known that the property of the town had been levied on by the high sheriff of the county at the instance of the municipality of Cape Breton. The warrant claims an amount of $16,000 due the county for the town's share of joint expenditure.

Publisher Cuts His Throat.

New York, Oct. 7.—Frank M. Lupton, president of the F. M. Lupton, Incorporated, publishers of The People's Home Journal, and a millionaire, committed suicide yesterday by cutting his throat in the bathroom of his home on St. Mark's avenue in Brooklyn. The publisher had been suffering from melancholia, following a series of operations.

Lockout Is Over.

Manchester, Eng., Oct. 7.—The trouble between the Federation of Master Cotton Spinners, which resulted in the lockout of 130,000 operatives, was settled yesterday, and the mills will be re-opened on Monday.

The operatives agreed to arbitrate the case of George Howe, whose discharge from the Fern Mill at Oldham precipitated a local strike, and resulted in a general lockout.

BULLET IS IMPERFECT

Son of the Accused In Murder Trial at Belleville Gives Expert Testimony on Guns In His Father's Behalf — Says It Was a Stray Bullet That Killed Masters— Toronto Gunsmith Disagrees.

Belleville, Oct. 7. Apparently trivial clues have often hanged men. Yesterday an imperfection in the mould used by old Robert Parker, on trial for the murder of Wm. Masters, was pointed out that may convict him. It was shown by the crown that the cutoff, used for trimming the bases of bullets after the lead had cooled, was loose. That looseness was the cause of the bullets being trimmed imperfectly. The hole in the cutoff through which the metal is poured is smaller than the base of the bullet. When the metal has set, the cutoff is hammered sideways and the surplus metal is taken with it. Instead of cutting off the lead level with the rest of the base, a little bit of the part that protruded stayed. That circular raised portion was on the bullet that killed Masters, and also on other bullets admitted to have been made by Parker.

Further, the bullet that killed Masters was found to bear marks from the reloading tool similar to the ones untired found in Parker's house.

Parker's son gave testimony in which he posed as a rifle expert. His evidence attempted to show that his father could not possibly have killed Masters, and that the bullet that caused the death was fired with no intent to harm Masters by a man nearly a mile away.

Parker jr., is 40 years of age. He thought the bullet that had killed Masters was made of softer metal than his father's bullets. He thought a bullet would lose from 15 to 30 grains in going through a man's body. Going through a man should not begin to stop it, he said. The bullet had stopped in the lining of the coat and he thought it had gone a long distance. The bullet would not have taken a downward but an upward course through the body of deceased had it been fired from the place pointed out by the crown.

Alfred Tomlin, gunsmith, of Toronto, examined the bullet for the crown. "It has marks of rifling on it, but I could not determine from what weapon it had been fired," he said.

Appearances tended to show that the bullet was a home-made one, not having been perfectly cast. The edges at the base were rounded and imperfect, instead of being sharp. The bullets had shrunken, owing to the chilling of the metal during moulding. Tomlin said the bullet would be lighter than one cast perfectly.

"Was it possible for that bullet to have been fired from that rifle?" asked Mr. White, counsel for the crown, pointing to the prisoner's weapon.

"Yes," said witness, "the calibre was a common one."

IS ARRESTED

Abolish Toll Gates.

Montreal, Oct 7. It is semi-officially announced that the toll gates will soon be a thing of the past in the Province of Quebec. Hon. Mr. Taschereau, Minister of Public Works, stated at the Tessier banquet at Three Rivers that this question would be settled at once, and, as the Government has just bought a bridge in the district of Quebec for $100,000, it is more than probable that the private interests in the Montreal and other sections will also be purchased by the Quebec authorities.

L. E. Rivet, M.P., also states that he does not believe that the Provinces of Quebec and the English provinces are further apart than they were forty years ago. On the contrary, the member for Hochelaga, who, by the way, will address the Canadian Club in St. Thomas on the race question Oct. 23, declared that there is a national feeling knitting the whole country together.

Ask Nothing In Return.

London, Oct. 7.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Postmaster-General Lemieux, in addressing the Sphinx Club, announced that Mr. Fielding's surplus this year will be $30,000,000. The main cause for the astounding prosperity was due to the British preference against all comers, and, he added, we ask nothing in return; we do it with loyalty and friendship because it has been the cause of prosperity in the Dominion. Whatever may be the result of reciprocity negotiations at Ottawa, British preference will remain as the cardinal principle of our success. Mr. Lemieux also expressed the hope that universal penny postage would be established.

New Grain Route.

Winnipeg, Oct. 7.—The Grand Trunk Pacific has arranged with the Canadian Northern to use five miles of the latter's tracks, through this city, for the purpose of connecting up with the National Transcontinental line to Superior Junction. The first train load of wheat over the new line between Winnipeg and Fort William went through last night, and four others will leave during the day. The new arrangements mean that the Grand Trunk Pacific may operate through trains from Edmonton to Fort William, a distance of about 1,400 miles.

Suing the Mayor.

Montreal, Oct. 7.— Germain Beaulia is suing Mayor Guerin for $2000, claiming that his worship asked him certain questions during the "Emancipation" enquiry that injured him in the eyes of the public.

A Centenarian.

Whitby, Oct. 7.—Thomas Wray, a resident of the county town for many years, yesterday celebrated the attainment of 100 years. He still enjoys wonderful health and vigor.

Mine on Fire.

Danville, Ill., Oct. 7.—Hartshorn's coal mine, near this city, is on fire. All of the miners were taken out safely shortly after 11 o'clock yesterday morning.

HAS NOT YET BEEN SETTLED

Young King and His Relatives Are at Gibraltar—Provisional Government Issues a Manifesto to the People and Begins on Its Work In a Business-Like Manner — Some of the Troops Are Still Out.

Lisbon, Oct. 7.—While the City of Lisbon is in the hands of the revolutionist, and a republic has been proclaimed, with Theophile Braga as provisional President, and other prominent Republicans constituting the Ministry, there are still many thousands in and around the capital who are loyal to the monarchy.

The monarchists include a portion of the Lisbon troops massed in entrenched camps about the city. These have refused so far to ally themselves with the revolutionists, and the provisional government is taking steps to enforce allegiance.

The people of Lisbon are ignorant of events in the provinces, and it is therefore not known whether the movement is broad enough to sweep the country. Nevertheless, the Republicans are proceeding as though transformation of the monarchy into a republic was an accomplished fact, to stand for all time.

Safe In Gibraltar.

Gibraltar, Oct. 7.—King Manuel of Portugal is now under British protection. The Portuguese royal yacht Amelie, having on board the King, the Queen Mother, the Dowager Queen, and the Duke of Oporto, entered this harbor at eleven o'clock last evening. Shortly afterwards the King and the Queen Mother came ashore and drove to the summer residence of the governor, Sir Frederick Forestier-Walker, at Europe Point.

President's Manifesto.

London, Oct. 7.—Theophile Braga, the provisional President of Portugal, is a poet and economist. He has been an avowed Republican for forty years, but only recently made his entry into politics. He is essentially a man of the people.

Bernadino Machado, who is the most profound politician of the Republican party, is a candidate for the Presidency of the new republic. Costa is a professor of law and a brilliant orator.

The other members of the Government are lawyers or professors of ability.

A Times' correspondent, who has just returned to London from Lisbon, remarks that a strong loyalist spirit was shown by the populace and army during the festivities in connection with the celebration of the centenary of the battle of Busaco, and says that if the king escaped, and his entourage shows resolution, it is almost certain that they will be able to make a fight against the Republicans, who really only dominate Lisbon. All depends on the officers in charge of the forces outside of Lisbon. Civil war, the correspondent adds, between the capital and the country is a very probable outcome of the present situation, and if it should occur, there is sound reason why the Republicans, backed by a Lisbon mob, should be able to dominate the rest of the country.

On Wednesday afternoon the following proclamation was issued by the Provisional Government to the Portuguese people: "The people, army and navy, have succeeded in proclaiming a republic. The Braganza dynasty, mischievous and disturbing to social peace, has been forever exiled from Portugal.

"This rare event, representing the pride of an untamable race and the salvation of a country whose bravery is proverbial, fills with enthusiastic joy the hearts of patriots, and finally ends our country's bondage.

"Our aspiration for a regime of liberty stands revealed bright in its virgin innocence.

"Citizens, the present moment redeems and recompenses for all struggles and the sorrowful apprehensions we endured. This moment must be the beginning of a period of austere morality and immaculate justice, in order that the glorious communion of principles shall make of our sacrifices for our country, the base of our political program and our generosity towards the vanquished, and the base of our moral program.

"Citizens, let interest for our beloved country animate you and a single desire — that to be great — unite. The republic has confidence in the people for the maintenance of social order, respect for justice and devotion to the common cause of liberty. Consolidate with your love and sacrifice the works which springs from the Portuguese republic."

Maple Syrup Adulterated.

Ottawa, Oct. 7.—An inspection of 138 samples of maple syrup by the chief analyst of the inland revenue department shows 12 per cent. adulteration; 117 samples were found to be genuine, although in many cases there were indications of manipulation.

Closer Trade Relations.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 7.—At the Republican State Convention here yesterday, Governor Eben Draper was elected by acclamation for a third term. Louis A. Frothingham of Boston was nominated for Lieutenant-Governor.

The platform adopted, besides favoring a permanent tariff board and revision by schedule when conditions warrant, strongly approves the administration of President Taft, and favor the conservation of natural resources and closer trade relations with Canada.

Town Threatened by Bush Fires.

Winnipeg, Oct. 7. Word was received here yesterday that the town of Williams, Minn., is threatened by bush fires, the inhabitants, numbering between three and four hundred, having left on flat cars and taken refuge in Beaudette and Roosevelt, Minn. The mayor and all able-bodied men are remaining in an effort to save the town. Twelve houses were burned in Graceton.

Not Subsidy for West Indies Service.

London, Oct. 7.—It is reported that the Government has informed the West Indies that they are unable to recommend a subsidy for a transatlantic mail service.

PERSECUTION IS ALLEGED

Kingston, Oct. 7.—John Marshall, now of Weyburn, Sask., yesterday telegraphed a statem nt regarding his resignation from the staff of Queen's. He says he did so because he had no desire to have a repetation of last winter's persecution.

He claims that from the time his article on the navy appeared in the press there was a concerted effort to make his position intolerable. He says that Principal Gordon was consulted as to his exclusion from the quarterly, and his conversation with The Kingston Standard was thrown in his teeth. He also claims he was taken to task for giving an address before the Kingston Trades and Labor Council, and was told that professors should not associate with riff-raff. Members of the British group at the college refused to speak to him all winter. He was thrown off the senate committee and dropped from the editorial staff of The Queen's Quarterly.

He found it impossible to work with Prof. Cappon, the head of his department. The latter, he says, told the registrar, G. Y. Chown, that he (Marshall) was "too damned independent."

In addition Prof. Marshall says: "Two professors in their classes denounced my navy article, and it was thought to intimidate me by having it stated that Sir James Whitney was reported to have said that he would make no grant to Queen's while a 'damned Radical' was on the staff. I am not saying Sir James said this, for I hold him in high regard; but that is how they thought to frighten me."

BRIEFS FROM WIRES

The Technical Education Commission is meeting in Hamilton.

A young German coal trimmer from the steamer Moltke is ill with cholera at New York.

John MacFarlane got into trouble at Montreal with some Italians, and one of them stabbed him in the side. The wound is dangerous.

R. L. Borden laid the cornerstone of the new $130,000 Y.M.C.A. building at Halifax in the presence of a large gathering. Mr. Borden said the Y.M.C.A. had a claim on all right thinking men.

Fire last night destroyed the fine shed on the wharf belonging to the Elder-Dempster Line at Montreal. It was the most serious fire on the water front this season, and a large quantity of farming machinery at Montreal.

Residents of the Counties of Addington and Frontenac, where land was flooded by the drainage of the Napanee River, will hold a conference with Premier Whitney and Hon. Dr. Reaume in an effort to secure damages.

A concrete move towards the union of Port Arthur and Fort William is the arrangement of a banquet to be held in Fort William about Oct. 19, to which one hundred leading citizens of both cities will be invited and the union discussed.

George H. Munroe Arrested.

New York, Oct. 7.—The alleged misappropriation of millions of dollars, secured by an illegal use of the mails for five years, in offering for sale stock of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co., was brought to light yesterday by the arrest and arraignment before U. S. Commissioner Shields of George H. Munroe of Monroe & Monroe, 27 Williams street.

It is charged that Monroe, without any authorization from the Marconi Company, took money from prospective purchasers, gave them certificates of purchase, and failed later to deliver the stock. The sales are all alleged to have been illegal in that Monroe could not deliver the stocks he thus "sold."

Monroe surrendered himself to U. S. Marshall Henkel yesterday afternoon and was later released in $2,000 bail.

It is estimated about the Federal Building that one of the biggest financial scandals of years will follow the arrest.

George H. Monroe is well-known in Toronto, where for several months he did business as a prospector. He left town after he was "written up" by a local newspaper.

Tried to Blow Up Banker.

New York, Oct. 7.—A bomb was exploded in the home of Paul Vitale, an Italian banker, at Bath Beach yesterday, which set fire to the building and destroyed it. The banker, with his wife and six children had a narrow escape. Vitale conducted a private bank, which recently suspended, and he has received numbers of threatening letters.

Used Their Fists.

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 7.—A dispute over the Federal patronage brought the Minister of Inland Revenue, Hon. Wm. Templeman and John Jardine of Esquimalt, one of two Liberal members in the Provincial Legislature, into a stand-up fight in which fists were freely used. The pummeling has become the sensation of the coast.

Died From Shock.

Kenora, Oct. 7.—Thomas Francis, an Englishman, fell between two cars of an eastbound Canadian Pacific passenger train at Vermilion Bay. His right leg was crushed under the wheels. He was brought to the hospital here and died.

Half a Million for Schools.

Calgary, Oct. 7.—The Calgary School Board has voted to expend $500,000 on three new schools, an addition to the high school, and three sites for new schools, being necessitated by the extraordinary increase in school population.

Protest From Council.

Sandwich, Oct. 7.—The Sandwich Town Council passed a strong resolution protesting to the Provincial Government against the suspension of Provincial Detectives Charles Mahoney and A. F. Campeau.

Succumbed to Paralysis.

Exeter, Oct. 7.—Reeve Wm. Bawden of Exeter is dead. He succumbed to a stroke of paralysis, sustained while driving on Main street.

LITTLE NEW EVIDENCE

Goderich, Oct. 7. On the statement of two little girls, that a young man living in the neighborhood of the house in which Lizzie Anderson was murdered, had given them 15 cents each to wash some stains from his clothing in the early morning after the girl was missed, Inspector Greer and Detective Boyd made an investigation yesterday, and they learned that the said young man had been deporting himself rather queerly since the murder, but where it at first looked as though he had been out all night on the date of the crime, it is stated that it can be proved that he was at home early, and not much weight is attached to that clue, although it is to be further investigated.

It was on this account, and partly, too, because the authorities are waiting for a material witness from out of town, that the inquest was adjourned until 7 o'clock sharp to-night, after a session of only fifteen minutes yesterday.

Died From His Injuries.

Chatham, Oct. 7.—Suspicious circumstances are alleged in connection with the death of Lucius Turner of Dresden, who on Tuesday succumbed to injuries received, it is stated, while being ejected from a restaurant. Coroner J. I. Wiley empaneled a jury which, after viewing the body, adjourned till Saturday morning.

Moir Planing Escape?

London, Oct. 7. Chief Williams states that Moir is planning another escape, and says the authorities will do well to watch him very closely. The chief will not state what information he has, but says Moir will get away again unless guarded closely.

Agricultural College for Manitoba.

Winnipeg, Oct. 7. Hon. Robert Rogers yesterday confirmed the report of the purchase by the Government of six hundred acres in St. Vital for a site for a new agricultural college and technical college.

Pilot Was Drunk.

Quebec, Oct. 7. Pilot Trefle Delisle, who, it is alleged, on Aug. 15 last was incapacitated through liquor from assuming charge of the vessel Maud, has been condemned to a fine of $100 and costs.

$3,054 For Irish Cause.

Montreal, Oct. 7.—T. P. O'Connor spoke here last evening to a crowded house under the presidency of C. J. Doherty, M.P. The contribution to the Irish cause being $3,034.

Disapproves Sunday Funerals.

St. Catharines, Oct. 6. The St. Catharines Ministerial Association has passed a resolution strongly disapproving of Sunday funerals, except where absolutely necessary.

Governor Hughes Retires.

Albany, N.Y., Oct. 7. Governor Hughes retired at 3.45 o'clock yesterday and turned over his office to Lieutenant-Governor Horace White.

An Expensive Stamp.

London, Oct. 7. A shilling black 1851 Canadian stamp was sold yesterday for $280.

Making Perfect Garments

The final operation of examining garments for any imperfection in tailoring is a most important one, and, in the 20th Century Brand tailor shops, is done by a staff of eight competent and experienced examiners who are given plenty of time to do the work thoroughly. Their examination is a most critical one and the garment must measure up in every particular to the 20th Century Brand standard or back to the tailor shop it goes. When once the garment has been passed by the final examiners it is boxed and made ready for shipment. It is also ready to fit and ready to give entire satisfaction.

New York Dairy Market.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Butter, steady on fancy grades only; receipts, 9,911; creamery thirds to firsts, 24c to 28c.

Cheese—Firm on top grades; receipts, 4695; prices unchanged.

Eggs—Steady to firm; state Pennsylvania and nearby hennery, gathered, brown, 28c to 30c; fresh fathered, extra firsts, 26c to 27½c; seconds, 23c to 24c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

United States Exchanges Quiet, But Prices Hold Generally Firm.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—London and Liverpool cables quote American cattle steady at 13¼c to 14¾c per pound, dressed weight; refrigerator beef, unchanged, at 10¼c to 11c per pound.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Oct. 6.—The railways reported 137 carloads for Wednesday and Thursday, consisting of 1300 cattle, 3792 hogs, 3469 sheep and lambs, and 121 calves.

Fat Cattle.

Geo. Rowntree bought 460 cattle for the Harris Abattoir Co.: Butchers, $5 to $5.75; steers, 950 to 1200 lbs., $5.10 to $5.60; cows, $3.25 to $4.75; canners, $2.25 to $2.35 and $3; bulls, $2.25 to $4.50.

Stockers and Feeders.

The bulk of the stockers and feeders on sale during the week came from Manitoba and the northwest, and it not been so there certainly would have been a scarcity. The bulk of the offerings in these classes were of common to medium quality, and sold at 25c per cwt. lower than last week. Good quality feeders, 900 to 1000 lbs each, sold readily at steady to firm prices. For prices see the many sales of both stockers and feeders given below. Prospects are for lower prices, especially for the light stockers and medium to common feeders. There are several loads left unsold at the close of the market.

Milkers and Springers.

There was a moderate supply of milkers and springers, which sold at strong prices, ranging from $43 to $80 each. We call attention to the sales of 26 milkers and springers by the firm of Dunn & Levack, which is a fair showing of the general trend of the market.

Veal Calves.

Receipts of veal calves were light, only 121 for the two days. Prices ranged from $3.50 to $8 per cwt., and two or three extra choice reached $8.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Deliveries of lambs were large, which caused prices to decline. Sheep, ewes, sold at $4.50 to $4.85; rams, at $3 to $3.50; lambs for the two days sold at $5.75 to $6 per cwt., or an average of $5.95.

Hogs.

Hog prices are lower. Mr. Harris quotes selects fed and watered, at $8.50, and $8.15 to drovers, for hogs f.o.b. cars at country points.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

Veals—Receipts, 300 head; active and 25c higher, $6.50 to $10.75; heavy calves, not wanted.

Hogs—Receipts, 3000 head; active and 5c to 10c higher; heavy, $8.10 to $8.25; mixed, $8.25 to $8.40; yorkers, $8.20 to $8.40; pigs, $8.30; roughs, $7.75 to $8; stags, $6 to $7.25; dairies, $8.75 to $8.35.

Contestants are required to fill out the blanks in connection with whichever race they desire to enter and send in this coupon to the sporting editor of the Peterboro Examiner as soon as possible.

The Examiner Road Races On Thanksgiving Day

The annual road races under th auspices of the Peterborough Examiner wil lhave come to be looked upon as the biggest sporting event of the year in the Midland district, will be held as usual on Thanksgiving Day, Monday, Oct. 31st. From all indications the races thi syear promise to surpass in point of success all their predecessors as the entry list will be larger than ever. The prizes offered will be the finest that have yet been given by the Examiner and everything points to two grand races.

The conditions remain the same. In the first place all contestants must be bonafide amateurs and bona fide residents of the district named, and the juniors must be under eighteen years. The distance for the senior race is ten miles from Lakefield, to Peterborough, while the junior race is from 100 yards north of the fifth mile post on the Lakefield road to the Examiner, a distance of five miles.

The record for the two races since they were inaugurated, are as follows:

Senior Race.

1907 Ernest A. Wilson, Peterborough Y M.C.A., record 55 mins., 16 secs.
1908—J. H. Adams, Peterborough Y. M.C.A.
1909 Albert Smoke, Chemong, Ont.

Junior Race.

1907 Peter Wallace, Peterborough Y.M.C.A.
1908—Bertram Cross, Peterborough.
1909 Willie Edwards, Keene, Ont., record, 28 mins., 30 secs.

The Collegiate Line-up For To-morrow's Game

There should be a big crowd at Riverside Park to-morrow afternoon when the first rugby game of the season will be played, the contesting teams being the old rivals, Trinity College school team of Port Hope and the Peterborough Collegiate. The local team are playing splendid rugby and should give a good account of themselves against the speedy College team, despite the latter's advantage of daily and systematic practice. The Collegiate fourteen have been out in the rain tre las tthree afternoons and have put a lot of hard work under their belts, so that they should be in good shape for the hard battle to-morrow. If Peterborough is to have any senior material in the future it will have to come from the Collegiate and on that account alone the game should be well patronized. Leaving that out of consideration, the match will be well worth seeing on its own account. The teams broke even last year, each winning at home and Collegiate are anxious to better this record this season. The game is called for 3 o'clock sharp. The Collegiate team have announced the following line-up for to-morrow after yesterday's two hour workout:

Full back—Hayes.
Centre half Minorgan.
Right half—V. Craig.
Left half—Ray, capt.
Quarter—Matthews.
Scrimmage—Ingram or Fee, Hill, Harstone.
Right inside—Bartlett.
Right outside—Conroy.
Left middle—Eastwood.
Left outside—Gilbert.

CUBS FORTUNATE IN THEIR SUBSTITUTES

NEW YORK, OCT. 4.—No club ever furnished better proof of the old saying that a baseball or football team is no stronger than its substitutes than the Cubs. The Yankees are running well up in the American League because Stallings had the foresight to stock himself with capable second-string men. But in finding men to fill in for injured or ill regulars, the Cubs have them all faded.

There has been hardly a time all season that some substitute hasn't been working for Chance. The regular team has been in action only about one-third of the time. Captain Chance, himself, recognized as one of the greatest first basemen of modern times, has not played eighty games all year. Steinfeldt has been out for weeks at a stretch and Johnny Evers was unable to play for some time after his automobile went to the mat with a trolley car some months ago.

But no one has ever noticed that this interfered any with the working of the team. Once they got fairly started the Cubs have gone along winning their games no matter how many of the regulars were on the hospital list.

Just about the only effect all the mishaps the regular players have suffered has had on the team has been to uncover players who will undoubtedly take the places of the veterans as they go by the board. Jim Archer, canned by Detroit because Jennings didn't like his "squat throw" to the bases, filled in for Johnny Kling last year and was the sensation of the league.

Archer did most of the heavy work in the early stages of this campaign, but when Johnny Kling worked around into his old form, Archer was yanked from behind the bat and the old master went to work. Just as Kling got to working nicely, Frank Chance sprang a charley horse. As Del Howard, who used to substitute for Chance at first, was no longer with the club, Archer was called upon to fill in. He has done so well there that it is reliably stated that Chance will manage his club from the bench and coaching lines next year.

Chance and his chief lieutenant and partner in crime, Johnny Evers, have often been quoted as saying that a player manager has an immense advantage over a bench leader. However, Chance is known to be seriously thinking of keeping Archer permanently on first base.

Archer made just as big a hit as a first baseman as he did as a catcher.

KAUFMAN NEXT

Special to The Examiner.

If Langford whips Jeannette in Boston next week he will promptly issue a challenge to Al Kaufman to meet him in a twelve round bout at the same club some time in November. Langford still thinks he can put Kaufman away in a bout of that length and is anxious to accomplish the fea. before he goes to England to prepare for his prospective battle with Tommy Burns. If Kaufman declines the issue it will be for the reason that Defancy itn't anxious to try conclusions with the Tar Baby just yet.

GOLF

The draw for the first round in the club championship is as follows, to be played off on or before Saturday afternoon, the 8th inst:

R. Neill vs. A. Mowat; Rev. Henderson vs. F. D. Mulholland; A. H. Stratton vs. T. F. Matthews; W. H. Denham vs. Dr. Gowan; H. D. Burnett vs. Ross Cameron; S. Ray vs. G. Ferguson; H. Ritchie vs. Cyril Hill; S. T. Medd vs. G. C. Wainwright

Local Boy Wins Many Prizes In Norwood High School Field Day

(Norwood Register)

The students of the High and Public Schools instituted last Tuesday an annual day for field sports. The programme of events, which consisted of races, jumping and target contests, and a baseball match, was held on the exhibition grounds. Owing to the inclemency of the weather, the attendance, outside of school pupils, was small. Nevertheless, the enthusiasm with which the students entered into the sports more than made up for any unfavourableness in the weather or lack of attendance. All the races were sharply contested and proved quite interesting to the spectators.

The judges were Rev. Father Kelly, Dr. N. F. Sutton and Mr. C. W. Waters, while Principal Lawlor acted as starter and recorder.

The following is a list of the contests and the prize winners:

100 yards race—1st, Egbert Kelly; 2nd, William Shepherdson; 3rd, Keith Waters.

High jump—1st, Egbert Kelly; 2nd, Charlie Brackenridge.

Long jump (running)—1st, Egbert Kelly; 2nd, Wm. Shepherdson; 3rd, Keith Waters.

Hop, step and jump—1st, Egbert Kelly; 2nd, Alex. Fleming; 3rd, Keith Waters.

Relay race—1st, Second Form team, E. Kelly, K. Waters, W. Shepherdson and A. Searight; 2nd, Third Form, team: R. Tudhope, A. Fleming, H. Calder and C. Brackenridge; 3, First Form team: M. McNaughton, T. Burgess, L. Waters and V. Kelly.

Girls' target contest — 1st, Ruby Comstock; 2nd, Isobel Meikle; 3rd, Josephine McNichol.

Half mile race (seniors)—1st, Egbert Kelly; 2nd, Wm. Shepherdson; 3rd, Dan Sheehan.

Half-mile race, (juniors)—Theodore Burgess.

Egg race—1st, Arthur Searight; 2, Leslie Waters, 3rd, Earl Laing.

The girls' baseball match was quite a novelty. Miss Florence Williamson acted as captain of the Reds and Miss Ruby Comstock as captain of the Greens. The Reds won by a score of 16 to 4.

Owing to the heavy downfall of rain several of the events were not called. These will be held in the near future and consist of a sack race; girls' nail driving contest, tug-of-war Second Form vs. First Form; also a football match, Second Form vs. First and Third Forms.

FRED WHITCROFT IS HEARD FROM AGAIN

The Ottawa Journal says:

Fred Whitcroft, miner, explorer, aeroplanist, railroad contractor, big ball leaguer and hockeyist, who is said to have shied at a $3,000 offer to act as publicity agent for the town of Peterborough, is at it again. "Whitty" is sojourning near Edmonton and during his idle moments he calls the village scribes together and talks hockey. Fred could talk of his favourite pastime were his house on fire.

Whitty, after declaring that Edmonton will certainly be down to give the Stanley Cup another dinge, sends his best regards to "Cyclone" Taylor, Alf. Smith and Bill O'Brien, and goes on to say that there will be nothing to it next winter but Renfrew.

"Renfrew will have the best team that ever laced on skates," says the modest, unassuming young rancher, who would probably have discovered the North Pole had old Doc Cook not beaten him at it. "The Wanderers came back all right last season, but it looked like a last kick and they will not find themselves able to repeat. The Ottawas are also going back and will not be anywhere near the top. L. N. Bate was the whole thing in Ottawa and he got so much Renfrew last winter that he will probably retire. Renfrew will have all of last year's players, excepting Lalonde, who will be back with the Nationals of Montreal."

Whitty reiterates his intention to fyle on behalf of Edmonton, another challenge for easy money, or, in other words, a series of Stanley cup games.

ED. WALSH SAYS CUBS

Big White Sox Twirler Says Chance Has a Better Team Than Connie Mack

GIVES HIS REASONS

Ed Walsh, one of the star pitchers of the American league, picks the Cubs to win the world's series. Although he is strong for the organization with which he is connected, he does not think that Connie Mack's great team is the equal of the men that Chance will lead in the coming contest for the highest honours in the baseball world.

Walsh should know better than any one what the Cubs are capable of doing and what the Athletics are able to do.

He has faced both teams and has won and lost to them. "The Athletics will not win because they are not as good a team as the Cubs," said Walsh.

"I am not saying that the Athletics are not a great team when I say that, for I know that Connie Mack has a very strong combination. There is one department of the Athletics that can be regarded as stronger than that of the Cubs, but there is not enough advantage for the Athletics in the pitching staff to balance the strength of the Cubs as an all-round team. The great experience of the National leaguers and their nerve in the pinches will win for them even if their pitchers are not as good.

"Connie is making a mistake in working Jack Coombs as hard as he is, it seems to me. I really think that Coombs is weaker now than he was earlier in the season, because he is being worked too hard. He did not seem to have the endurance when he pitched last Sunday that he has had in the games I have seen him in earlier in the season. Eddie Collins is a grand player, without a doubt, and he may be able to do some things that Johnny Evers cannot do at times. But Evers is a better ball player because of his head work and his vast experience. Harry is faster than Tinker is, perhaps, but Joe has been through so many of these exciting series and knows what to do under all kinds of conditions, and will be steadier when it comes to a show-down, I believe. The Cubs' infield is stronger than that of the Athletics. There is no question about that, and when Sheckard, Schulte and Hoffman hit the ball they hit it so that it counts. The Cubs have the experience, and that is what tells in a series like the world's championship.

"When you consider what the Cubs have behind the bat and what the Athletics have the comparison between the two teams is more and more in favor of the Cubs. A man like Kling is invaluable to a pitcher. He can steady them when they are going bad and can tell them just what to do when they are in doubt just what to put up. Of course the Athletics' catchers can do that too, but there is a vast difference in judgments. In picking the Cubs to win the series I am just giving my own candid opinion."

RUGBY

The Canadian General Electric Rugby team wish to issue a challenge to a team picked from any combination of local factories for a game of Rugby, the proceeds to be given to charity. Teams wishing to arrange a game may do so with W. Milburn, manager of the C.G.E. team.

FIGHT PICTURES

Special to The Examiner.

The London Times is credited with being the most conservative old dame of journalism in the world, but apparently she did get a bit excited over the moving pictures of the fight, for here are some of the things the venerable old lady says (weekly edition):

"The much-discussed pictures of the Reno glove fight, in all 6,000 feet of films, were shown on Monday afternoon at the National Sporting Club. The many pictures of Reno and its vast and excited population in the days preceding the contest were vivacious in the extreme. The fight itself was rather dull, and not at all like the highly colored word paintings of it. The truth is that the cinematograph leaves out all the adjectives. There was more wrestling than boxing. A very harmless show and anyone who would be demoralized by seeing it would certainly lose all his morality if he saw a cab accident."

ORDERED OFF GROUNDS

Matty McIntyre, Detroit outfielder, was ordered off Shibe Park in Philadelphia by Umpire Tommy Connolly. The usual reason, "for disputing the umpire's decision," was given. Here is what occurred: Bush was at bat and McIntyre was standing near the plate. Bender shot one past Bush's face. "Strike," yelled Connolly. Bush turned, looked at Connolly, but said nothing. McIntyre took up the kid's cause. "You ought to have soaked that one, Denie. It was right past your eyes. You couldn't help see it." Batter and catcher laughed. Connolly didn't. The umpire turned to McIntyre. He thought for a minute, and then it flashed through his mind. "Get off the grounds," roared Tommy.

Struck Over Head by Employes.

Brantford, Oct. 7.—Frank Simons, an employe on the Holmedale sewer construction, is lying here in a critical condition as a result of being struck in a row with two Armenian employes Tuesday afternoon.

Simons was struck across the face and head with dinner pails and has not since regained consciousness. Two local Armenians are under arrest.

Crew Were Saved.

Kingston, Oct. 7.—Members of the crew of the steamer Phoenix, which sank on Saturday above South Bay Point, have reached Kingston. They say the tow line holding the barge Sherman was cut as the steamer sprang a leak and was filling fast. The boat sank after a race for shore, and the crew was saved.

Want Amendment to Marks Act.

Ottawa, Oct. 7.—W. K. McNaught, M.P.P., and E. M. Trowern, of Toronto, met Sir Wilfrid and Hon. Sydney Fisher yesterday morning and asked for certain amendments to the Gold and Silver Marks Act, so as to more effectually prevent the importation of wrongly marked goods.

Charged With Burglary.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 7.—Simon Bolitho arrested yesterday afternoon, is believed by the city police to have burglarized B. H. Cole's liquor store Wednesday night, and secured two dozen bottles of liquor and 1,000 cigars, by breaking the plate glass window of the store.

Boarders For the "Chateau Hanna."

Guelph, Oct. 7.—There is talk among the members of the County Council of doing away with Wellington County jail at Guelph, and making arrangements with the Ontario Government to accommodate the prisoners at the new provincial reformatory.

Memorial to Champlain.

Burlington, Vt., Oct. 7.—At a meeting of the members of the memorial committees of the Lake Champlain tercentenary commission of the states of New York and Vermont, it has been decided to make the $75,000 permanent memorial to Samuel de Champlain a lighthouse, instead of a colossal statue of the discoverer, as had been proposed.

LADIES' AID OF KNOX CHURCH BAZAAR—The Salvation Army Band will play at the Curling Rink to-night. Admission free.

A Rough Passage.

Quebec, Oct. 7.—The steamer Royal Edward, carrying 107 first, 313 second and 444 third-class passengers, had a very rough passage, the worst in the history of the ship. The equinoctial gales blew for five days steady and the seas were from fifty to sixty feet deep. The boat behaved well and the officers were pleased with the manner it took the waves. The average speed was 17 1-2 knots. W. J. Redfick, stoker, has his right leg broken, and two others were injured. There were minor casualties among the passengers.

TO SET ASIDE

Special to The Examiner.

SANTA ROSA, OCT. 3. In an attempt to set aside an interlocutory and final decree of divorce so that she may participate in the distribution of the estate of the late Adolph Weske, a well-to-do resident of Windsor, his former wife, Mrs. Eloise Weske, of San Francisco, has filed an action in the Superior Court here containing some sensational charges against her former spouse.

The couple were married July 23, 1873. Within about a year after their marriage, it is charged by Mrs. Weske, her husband offered her $100,000 if she would permit him to secure a divorce, but this she refused to do. He then gave her a list of "ten commandments," rules for her personal conduct, worded as follows:

First—I want you to love and respect me, and avoid everything which might wound or hurt my feelings.

Second—I want you to obey me in everything I may require of you, whether you think me right or wrong, without any opposition.

Third—I want you to take the best of care of all you possess, in clothing or otherwise, and not wasting the money foolishly, paying out every dollar you spend for some good purpose.

Fourth—I want you to give up everybody, mother and sister included, for me, without any complaint.

Fifth—I want you to keep everything in good order, not letting things go to rags when a stitch or two might save it, and at the same time keeping everything in proper place and perfect order.

Sixth—I want you to be pleasant and entertaining in company, no matter whether you are pleased with their visit or not. It is rude to treat people coldly and indifferently in your own home. It is also rude to go to your home and play sick when company is pleasant. A person who is on his feet all day is never so sick that he can excuse himself before company of his illness, showing them the proper respect we owe to everybody.

Seventh—I want you to give up all your former acquaintances, except I approve of their company, the same I forbid you to ever write another letter to any one of your former friends, male or female, without my consent or knowledge. I will set a watch over you at all times, and if ever again I shall find you untrue to me, in any way whatever, I shall claim a divorce from you without another word.

Eighth—You will not buy any clothing I think improper for you to wear, complying with my tastes and wishes every time.

Ninth—You shall not go visiting or otherwise unless you tell me beforehand where you are going and to whom you are going.

Tenth—I don't want you to ever again complain or speak to any living soul about our domestic affairs, or even hint the least thing to any one, in any shape or form whatever. They are to be kept secret in every family. Every one has his own troubles. Besides that, no one can advise you right, as no one knows your affairs as well as you do yourself. It is your duty to uphold your husband in everything and hiding the faults he may have before everybody. It does not do you a particle of good to expose them to the world, and may do him much harm. It is your duty as a woman, to make your husband's life pleasant and comfortable, and if he is a man he will appreciate you for it.

Read this carefully and prove yourself if you can comply with the rules. If not, don't attempt it.

The Uses of the Sword.

The uses to which the sword has been put seem to have been almost as varied as its appearance when we recall the anecdote told of Charlemagne, who said as he used the pommel of his sword to put his stamp on treaties "I sign them with this end, and with the other I will take care that they are kept."

Bamboo Pens.

Bamboo pens have been used in India for over a hundred years. They are made like the ordinary quill pen and for a few hours' writing are said to be very serviceable.

Smallest Book.

The smallest book in the world was made in Italy. It is the text of a letter written by the inventor of the pendulum clock in 1615. Although it is fourtenths of an inch long and a quarter of an inch wide, it contains 208 pages, each with nine lines and from ninety-five to a hundred letters.

Alaska's Fisheries.

Apart from its fur wealth, the greatest fishing waters in the world are probably those of the Alaska seas and her tidal streams.

Dates and Cream Cheese.

Whiting.

All whitings are made from chalk. The more common preparations sometimes contain considerable gritty matter, which scratches highly polished surfaces. These coarse particles may be removed in this manner: Mix the whiting with water to a paste and then add water until it is very thin. Strain through cheesecloth and let the strained mixture settle. Pour off the water and dry the whiting.

An East Indian Custom.

An odd custom prevails in India. A native visitor never takes his departure of his own accord. Etiquette requires the host to dismiss him, which he does in a polite way, not by saying, "Go," but by saying hospitably: "Pray, come again. The sooner we see your face the better we shall be pleased."

Java's Flying Frog.

The flying frog of Java is usually a beautiful green in color, white underneath, with orange yellow soaring membranes between the fingers, and it changes color like the chameleon. This frog feeds on insects, remains quiet in bushes by day and when disturbed glides away to quite a distance.

Broken Celluloid.

Broken celluloid articles can be mended by softening the broken edges in ether, applying collodion liberally and holding the pieces together under a thoroughly warmed iron weight.

The King's English.

The origin of the term "the king's English" seems to be a little shady, but there is no doubt as to what it meant and means. It dates back to the days when the king of England came as near to being educated as was anybody in the kingdom, and if he couldn't speak correctly there was no use in anybody trying.

The Plantain.

The plantain differs from the banana not only in color and flavor, but in the way of growing. The fruit points upward, while that of the banana points downward on the stem.

"THE PILLAR OF LIGHT"

By Louis Tracy, (Copyrighted)

"Have you seen the poor fellow whose arm was broken? Enid has not had a moment to give me details of events since we landed."

From that point their conversation dealt with generalities. Soon the girl perceived his intent. His sole desire was to place her at ease, to make her realize that no matter what troubles life held they could be vanquished if faced with a smile. She responded to his mood, and enlivened the drive with comments on the people they met and the houses and villages they passed. For two hours the world went well because it was forgotten.

Enid, the conspirator, waited until the pair in the dog-cart were out of sight. Then she went to the little room at the back of the cottage where Brand pretended to be busily engaged in compiling a scientific account of his auriscope.

"I am going out, dad," she said, trying to appear unconcerned.

"All right," he answered, laying down his pipe.

"I only came to tell you because Mrs. Sheppard is out, too."

Obviously Enid was determined that if Pyne's calculations were worth anything they should fair play.

"Oh," he murmured.

"Oh," he commented sharply, "but the maid is in?"

"Yes. She is such a stupid girl in some things. If—if our guest rings you will hear her. Would you mind asking Mary what it is in case she gets muddled?"

He glanced at her. She was pulling on her gloves, and vastly bothered by a refractory button.

"If I hear the bell, I will inquire," he said, and she escaped, feeling quite wicked.

When he was alone, he did not resume his task. In the next room, separated from him only by a brick wall, was his wife. A wall! Why should there be a wall between them? It was not of his building. Had she made it impassable during the long come, now that Constance was in years? And what would be the outdaily communion with her mother? The doctor, in kindly ignorance, had told him that Mrs Vansittart was convalescent and would be able to travel in a few days. In response to a question, the doctor added that the lady herself asked when she might be moved.

What was her plan? Mr. Traill, that day, had written him a sympathetic letter, mentioning the fact that Mrs. Vansittart had voluntarily rescinded her promise to marry him, and, indeed, judged by the light of present knowledge, had determined on that course since she first knew that her former husband was living.

Suddenly Brand pushed back his chair from the desk at which he sat.

"The young dog!" he growled. He had in fact followed the exact mental process which Pyne mapped out for him. The letter, the drive, Mrs. Sheppard's absence, Enid's uneasy wriggling at the door, were all parts of an ordered plan. He was to be given an opportunity of seeing his wife and disentangling the twisted strands of twenty years. He rose impatiently, and paced the room, quietly withal, lest the woman in the next room should hear him. A decision had been forced on him. He could shirk it no longer.

"Pyne has contrived this," he muttered. "He thinks he can see more clearly into the future than a man twice his age. Enid is in the plot, too. And Connie! No, not Connie. Dear heart! She is worn with anxiety, yet she has never once mentioned her mother to me since she carried her into the house like an ailing child."

Back and forth he walked, wrestling with the problem. See his wife he must, and before she quitted Cornwall. Was it advisable, in her present state of health, to take her by surprise? Pyne evidently thought so. And the doctor? Good Heavens, was the doctor in the thing, too?

At last, he tugged at the bell.

"Mary," he said, "ask Mrs. Vansittart if she feels able to see Mr. Brand.

There; it was done.

Mary, rosy-cheeked and soft of speech, dreading only Mrs Sheppard's matronly eye, knocked at the door of the sitting-room. He heard her deliver his message. There was no audible answer. He was lamenting his folly, hoping against hope that no ill results might be forthcoming to the invalid thus taken by surprise, when he caught Mary's formal "Yes'm," and the girl came to him.

"Please, sir," she said, "the lady says she is anxious to see you."

He walked firmly to the door, opened it and entered. He had made up his mind what to say and how to say it. It would be best to ask his wife to discuss matters in a friendly spirit, and, for their daughter's sake, agree to some arrangement whereby Constance could see her occasionally. There need be no tears, no recrimination, no painful raking through the dust-heaps of the vanished years. The passion, the agony, of the old days was dead. Their secret had been well kept. It was known only to those whom they could trust, and they might part without heart-burnings, whilst Constance would be spared the suffering of knowing that her mother and she were separated forever.

These things were well ordered in his brain when he looked at his wife. She was seated near the window, and her beautiful eyes, brilliant as ever, were fixed on his with harrowing intensity. They shone with the dumb pain of a wounded animal.

He walked towards her and held out his hand. Her illness had brought out certain resemblances to Constance. She looked younger, as some women do look after illness. Surely he could not, even had he harboured the thought, use cruel words to this wan, stricken woman, the wife whom he had loved and for whom he had suffered.

"Nanette," he said, with utmost gentleness, "do not be distressed. Indeed, there is reason why our meeting should be painful. It is better that we should have a quiet talk than that we should part again in anger and bitterness."

She caught his hand in both of hers. Still she said nothing. Her large eyes gazed up at him as if she sought to read in his face the thoughts he might not utter, the memories he might not recall. Her lips distended. He saw her mouth twitching at the corners.

"Nanette," he said again, though his voice was not well under control, and something rose in his throat and stifled him. "I appeal to you not to give way to—to emotion. You may—become ill again—and I would never forgive myself."

Still clinging to his hand, she sank on her knees by his side. But there was no wild burst of tears; her sorrow was too deep for such kindly aid.

"Stephen," she whispered, faintly, "I cannot ask you to forget, but you have spoken of forgiveness. Can you forgive?"

He bent over her and would have raised her; she clung to him with such energy that he desisted.

"My poor wife!" he murmured, "who am I that I should deny that which I hope to obtain from my Creator."

"But—" she panted, in that unnerving whisper. "I treated you so vilely. I left you to join the man you had fought to to save me. I deserted my husband and my child for the sake of the money he bequeathed to me. In the lust of wealth I strove to crush you out of my heart. And now that God has humbled me I must humble myself, Stephen. I am not your wife. I obtained a divorce."

"Nanette," he cried, "I cannot bear to see you kneeling at my feet. I ask no revelations. I forgive you any wrong you may have done me, fully and freely, as I hope to be forgiven."

She yielded to his pleading and allowed him to raise her. For an instant she was clasped to his breast.

"It would be happiness to die in your arms, Stephen," she said wildly. "I do not deserve it, I know, but Heaven is merciful."

The dreadful idea possessed him that in her weak state this passionate wish might be granted.

"Nanette!" he cried, "you must control yourself. If you will not promise to sit down and talk quietly I will leave you."

She obeyed him instantly.

"I don't care how much you scold me," she said, "but you must not go away. I meant to see you before I left Penzance. I came here that night. I looked through the window. I saw my daughter and her adopted sister listening to you and weeping because of a mother's shame. Then I must have lost my senses. I ran away. I remember nothing else until I woke up to find Constance caring for me—in your house."

He tired to break in upon the trend of her thought. This was by no means the line he had intended to pursue. His hope was to soothe and calm her, to part from her in amity and without giving her cause to deplore a loss of dignity.

"I am only too pleased that when illness overtook you you were committed to my care and to Constance. Poor girl! She thought you were dead."

"Did you tell her that?"

"No, but I allowed it to be assumed which is the same thing."

"When did she know the truth?"

"In the hotel—after you left the room. I had to say something. It was—better for you—that I should say you were my wife."

"So, even in that trying moment, you strove to shield me from unjust suspicions. Stephen, how could I have acted towards you as I did?"

Again he endeavoured to lead her to talk of the future rather than the past.

"There is one great surprise in store for you," he said. "But it is a pleasant one in every way. Enid is Mr. Traill's daughter."

"I am glad," she said simply. "I do not understand, but you must tell me another time. Just now, I can think only of you, and of myself. You must listen, Stephen. I will do all that you demand, hide myself anywhere, but you must know everything. When we parted, when I deserted you to nurse a dying man, I was foolish and wilful, but not wholly abandoned. Nor have I ever been. I was rich enough to gratify my whims and, for a time, I lived in Paris, on the Riviera, in Florence and in Biarritz. But I was always meeting people who knew you, and, although my wealth, and perhaps my good looks, kept me in a certain set, I felt that our friends invariably took your side and despised me. That embittered me the more. At last your father died, and I saw some vague reference to your disappearance from society. I employed agents to trace you. They failed. Then I went to America and lived on a ranch in Nebraska, where I retained a distance from you on the ground of desertion. Desertion, Stephen! That was the plea I raised."

She gave a mocking little laugh. Brand, thinking it best to fall in with her mood, sat in silence on a chair, which he had drawn close to the window. From his house he could see the wide sweep of Mount's Bay. The Trinity tender was steaming out from the harbour. It struck him as an extraordinary fact that this was the day of his relief had he served his full two months on the rock.

To-day, by his own design, the second era of his checkered career would have come to a peaceful close. Within a little while he would have taken Constance, and Enid, if unmarried, on that long-contemplated Continental tour. But the hurricane came, when "the blast of the terrible ones is as a storm," and the pillar the refuge of his distress, became the centre of influences destined to mould his life afresh.

What did it all mean? He bowed his face into his hands. He heard his wife's low, sweet voice continue:

"I lived there nearly six years. Then my manager died. He was an Englishman named Vansittart. Within a month his wife died. There was some fever about the place, and I became frightened. A longing for the old life sea[illegible] and I went East, but not as Mrs. Traill, the name which I always bore in Nebraska. I had done with it and with you, as I thought. Constance never entered my mind save as a feeble memory—so I became Mrs. Etta Vansittart."

Brand raised his head and looked at her again. She was speaking now in a curiously subdued tone. She was giving evidence against herself, and giving it truly.

WOMAN'S HEALTH WHEN FORTY-FIVE

A Critical Period When Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Are a Real Blessing

Dr. William's Pink Pills are absolutely the finest medicine that ever a woman took. At special periods a woman needs a medicine to regulate her blood supply or her life will be a round of pain and suffering. It is at such times that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are worth their weight in gold, for they make new, rich blood, that banish the secret symptoms of distress that only women and growing girls know. They strengthen every vital organ for its special task and bring rosy cheeks and shapely forms that tell of womanly healthy and happiness. Mrs. Richard Lobb, Red Deer, Alta., says—"At that critical period in my life known as the change I suffered so much that I hardly hoped to pull through. I doctored for months, but did not get any relief, and I grew so weak that I could hardly walk about and it was impossible for me to do my housework. Only women who have suffered similarly can tell how much I endured of the constant misery, the dragged out feeling and the terrible backaches that beset me. No woman could have been in a more wretched condition than I was at this time, and it was then that my attention was directed to Dr Williams' Pink Pills. I got a half dozen boxes and before they were all gone there was a good improvement in my condition. Then I got six more boxes and before I had used them all I felt like a new woman and was enjoying better health than I have done for years. Not only have Dr. Williams' Pink Pills proved a blessing to me, but they also worked a great change in the case of my daughter, who was in a very miserable condition after childbirth. I know also of two young girls who I believe would have been in their graves now but for the use of Dr Williams' Pink Pills. Considering what they have done for me and what I have seen them do for others, I am justified in my enthusiasm for this medicine and I never lose an opportunity to recommend it.

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

AFTER SUFFERING YEARS

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fox Creek, N.B.—"I have always had pains in the loins and a weakness there, and often after my meals my food would distress me and cause soreness. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me much good. I am stronger, digestion is better, and I can walk with ambition. I have encouraged many mothers of families to take it, as it is the best remedy in the world. You can publish this in the papers." — Mrs. WILLIAM BOURQUE, Fox Creek, N.B., Canada.

The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which prove beyond a doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure these obstinate diseases of women after all other means have failed, and that every such suffering woman owes it to herself to at least give Lydia E. # Good Form

Every housekeeper should realize that the appearance of the maids in her house is an indication of her good taste and management. They, in a measure, set the standard of your establishment from the moment the front door is opened. It need not be a matter of expense to have them neatly and properly dressed; it is largely a matter of judgment on your part in providing the correct things to wear on different occasions and of your carefulness in seeing that everything is neat and clean.

For the morning a neat percale dress of pale pink or blue always looks well, or one of a gray blue and white stripe. With this dress is worn an plain white apron, usually without a bib or bretelles, a white linen collar and a three cornered swiss muslin cap with a ruching around it. Before luncheon the waitress or parlormaid should change this dress for a simply made black one or one made of a pretty shade of gray. These are, of course, made of some woolen material. Gray dresses are an innovation and are not so serviceable as the black. With this dress is worn a plain white linen collar and turnover stiff linen cuffs. The apron should be quite small and made of thin lawn, batiste, swiss or muslin or fine linen with a frill or embroidered scallop around the edge. Instead of a cap the maid may wear a bow of fine muslin or a plaited small frill on which is sewed a black ribbon or black velvet bow.

Duties of a Hostess.

In asking a friend to visit her the hostess should always state clearly how long the guest is expected to stay. This makes it much simpler and more comfortable for all persons concerned. The guest to be knows just what luggage to bring and how to make her plans accordingly. At the end of the visit it is simple for the hostess, if she wishes, to ask her friend to prolong her stay.

A well bred hostess never shows that her guest's visit is a burden to her. She keeps her household duties in the background as much as possible, never consults her servants before her guests and never embarrasses her by discussions of household finances. She makes her feel at every moment that she is a welcome addition to the household and that her presence is a real pleasure. On the other hand, she is not too attentive, leaves her friend to herself for an hour or two and gives her an opportunity to rest or read. She never obtrudes family troubles on her, never corrects the servants in her presence or permits family differences, which often amount to quarrels unimportant perhaps to the persons concerned, but exceedingly uncomfortable for the visitor.

A good hostess is careful to make her guest comfortable. The guest chamber in many homes is a special apartment, furnished with the best and choicest belongings of the family, but if the guest finds a vase of flowers and books and magazines on the table, she feels somehow that she is really most welcome in the household.

Traveling Etiquette.

A woman who is traveling alone should remember that it is not good form—

To pull up a window shade in a car where this will throw the sunlight into her neighbor's eye or pull it down in such a way as to deprive him of light when he is reading.

To put her feet on the seats.

To open a window in a railroad car without asking those who are sitting within reach of the draft whether they object to it.

To move up and down the aisle an unnecessary number of times.

To turn and stare at passengers seated behind her.

To rearrange her belongings many times in a half hour.

The lone traveler will find that courtesy to subordinates will win her attention and service more quickly than the sharp, short, almost peremptory manner sometimes assumed by well meaning but misguided persons.

It is the woman with a sense of humor who gets the most out of a journey, while the woman who is given to worrying over trifles cannot enjoy the finest trip that ever was planned.

Good Breeding on Tennis Court.

Good breeding clearly shows itself while on the tennis court. If a man has a woman for a partner and it is her serve, he should pick up and hand her the balls before each service if no attendant is about. He should also

WHAT CAN I DO FOR MY SKIN-TORTURED BABY?

Is the Despairing Cry of Thousands of Mothers. A Scotchwoman Tells How Her Child was Cured.

"What can I do for my skin-tortured baby?" How many worried, worn-out mothers, whose children are suffering with eczema, tetter or other torturing, disfiguring humor, have asked themselves this question! Through neglect or improper treatment, some minor eruption has developed into a distressing and unsightly affliction. Simple treatments fail, and stronger ones are tried, sometimes so harsh that the suffering is increased rather than allayed. Even professional aid has proven useless, and the fear is ever-present that the skin disease will become chronic, turning the child's future into a nightmare of physical and mental misery.

Such mothers, who have witnessed their children's suffering and who have undergone the long, sleepless nights and distracting anxiety which they alone can realize, will understand the gratitude that prompted this letter from Mrs John Ewan, 5, Victoria St., Inverurie, Scotland, and will read it with keenest interest:

"I use Cuticura Soap steadily for my baby's skin. She had the eczema when she was three months old. She was in an awful mess all over her body. We never thought she would get over it. We sat with her night and day for about a month, expecting every minute to see her die. The doctor gave me an ointment to rub her with but it did her no good. My mother was home from America and she told me to try Cuticura Ointment and to wash her with Cuticura Soap. There was a great difference when I used the first box. It seemed to soothe her and she slept. I used three boxes of Cuticura Ointment and she was quite cured. She has the purest skin and is the fattest baby now! She is a miracle, the doctor declares. I am glad to tell anybody about it."

And that the success of the Cuticura Remedies is not confined to the treatment of eczema, is amply proven by Mrs. M. A. Schwein, 674 Springwells Ave., Detroit, Mich., who writes:

"When my little Vivian was about six months old, her papa had a boil on his forehead. At that time the child was covered with prickly heat and I suppose in scratching it her own head became infected, for it broke out in boils, one after another. She had about sixty in all and I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment which cured her of them entirely. We do not think any one can praise Cuticura Remedies too highly."

That mothers may test the efficacy and economy of the Cuticura Remedies for themselves, the Potter Drug and Chem. Corp., 129 Columbus Ave., Boston, Mass., will send free on application, a generous trial box of Cuticura Ointment, sufficient to afford immediate relief in the most distressing forms of eczemas, rashes, itchings and scalings of the skin and scalp. Under the influence of Cuticura Ointment, the itching and burning stop, the child falls into a refreshing sleep, the mother rests, and for the first time, perhaps, in many weeks, peace falls on a distracted household. The Cuticura Remedies are sold by druggists everywhere.

second her more carefully than if she were a man and take charge of the extra balls for her.

If a man's opponent is a woman he should consider her by recognizing her lesser strength and serve gently.

In double service a man should not serve the second ball until the woman has recovered her position from pursuing the first. The choice of rackets should be the woman's, and any work, such as putting up the nets, hunting the lost ball, and so on, is done by the man.

English Etchings.

Brine springs flow under the town of Norwich, England. They have been there for centuries and were used for the production of salt long before the Christian era.

The Derby for 1912 has closed with 364 entries, including twenty-seven made in New York. The Oaks for the same year has secured 269 entrants, including twelve made in New York.

A woman of Carnarvonshire, England, called "Miriam of the Cave," has celebrated her ninety-second year, most of which time she lived in a cave by the sea, where she raised thirteen children.

State Lines.

Over 4,000 potato diggers are used in the state of Maine alone to harvest the crop. If these were all hooked together with a team of horses to each it would make a procession fifteen miles in length.

The state of Texas alone could give to every man, woman and child in the whole world a building lot 20 by 140 feet and then, allowing for public highways, have over one-third of the area of the state left for the production of food supplies.

The aviator may beat the carrier pigeon once in awhile, but for steady work it will be safer to depend on the pigeons.—Indianapolis News.

Train and Track.

The south China railway system will probably be completed this year.

An automatic coupler for air and steam hose on railroad trains has been invented.

The Mecca railway has taken the place of thousands of camels formerly used in transporting pilgrims.

The pan-Americanization of the Guatemalan railway lines, which is now being proposed, aims also at the inclusion of the same system of the railways in Salvador.

A Remarkable Shower.

A shower of a remarkable character occurred in Sicily on April 24, 1781. On the morning of that day every exposed place within an extensive district was found covered with a gray water, which being evaporated left a deposit nearly a quarter of an inch in thickness. It was determined that this solid matter must have come from Mount Etna.

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Miss Rose Cleveland is giving much time to genealogical research.

Boston is justly proud of the record made by a fifteen-year-old girl, Rose Pitonof, who swam from Charlestown bridge to Boston light, covering close to twelve miles in a little short of seven hours.

The sportswomen of France, led by Mme. Camille du Gast and Mlle. Marie Durand, have entered a protest against the campaign against permitting women to take part in sporting contests which is being carried on by Henri Rochefort, the editor.

Dorothea Smith, a schoolgirl living in Brooklyn, has received notice of a bequest of $12,000 left in trust for her by Henry Peyser of Brussels, Belgium. She is thirteen years old and will enter the girls' high school this fall. Peyser, a glove manufacturer in business with Dorothea's father, Charles E. Smith, died recently in Brussels.

Mrs. Champ Clark, wife of the Democratic leader of the house of representatives, returned recently from Edinburgh, where she was a delegate to the world's missionary conference and wrote for the Edinburgh Herald a report of the conference from an American woman's viewpoint. Mrs. Clark and her daughter then toured the continent.

Base Hits.

Four triple plays have been made in the National league this season.

Manager Connie Mack of the Athletics cuts in for a quarter of the profits of the Philadelphia club.

Jake Daubert of Brooklyn is about the niftiest first sacker in the National league and is as game as they make 'em.

Elberfeld of the Washington Americans considers himself the lightest player in the major leagues. He weighs only 135 pounds.

Ping Bodie, the heavy hitting right fielder of the San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast league, has eclipsed every record made in league baseball for home runs thus far this season. He has been putting the ball over the fences throughout the circuit with great regularity.

Tales of Cities.

In Honan city, distant only two days by rail from Peking, lump silver, the same cumbrous currency that has been used for centuries, is still employed.

Spokane has put a coating of oil on ten miles of streets and is congratulating itself on the prospect of freedom from dust and the increased attractiveness of the city as a place to homes.

No business whatever can now be done on Sundays in the Mexican city of Mazatlan. Heretofore all places of business have been open from 8 till 12 on Sundays, allowing only one-half holiday to employees in the whole week.

Cheerful Blunders.

Liverpool children are credited with the following cheerful blunders in examinations:

The horse is as tall as a middle aged man.

The pig has been the goose that lays the golden eggs to many people.

Many Americans would not be millionaires without the falsely blamed pig.

The pig is a native of China, and it can go into houses and sit down like a Christian.

The horse consists of fetlocks, joints, flank, upper arm and hock. Without these the graceful animal could not live.

Music fills the present moment more decisively than anything else.—Goethe.

No art is more closely connected with the inner life of man than music.—Dr. F. L. Ritter.

Music is the art of the prophets, the only art which can calm the agitations of the soul.—Luther.

Music in the works of its greatest masters is more marvelous, more mysterious, than poetry.—H. Giles.

Music is the only one of the fine arts in which not only man, but all other animals, have a common property.—Jean Paul Richter.

The Age of Forty.

Forty is the age at which a man is supposed to be in his prime.

Forty is old to a man of thirty and young to a man of fifty.

At forty some men quit sowing wild oats and others begin.

Some men are forty at twenty and some at sixty.

At forty a man is supposed to have reached years of discretion, and generally he has unless some woman wills it otherwise.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Waves of Water.

Slow rivers are those which flow at the rate of three to seven miles per hour.

The largest gulf in the world is the gulf of Mexico—800,000 square miles—almost twice as big as the bay of Bengal.

Investigation shows that the waves of the Atlantic are probably larger than those of any other body of water, reaching forty-two feet. Waves of this size look much higher from the deck of a vessel.

JERSEY CREAM SODAS

Established in 1858 by T. McCormick in a very small shop, about 12 by 18 feet.

Now, look at the picture of the largest biscuit and candy factory in Canada, owned and managed by his three sons.

The factory is also the most modern on this continent—is thoroughly ventilated and kept scrupulously clean.

A wonderful business growth—won solely on the High Quality of McCormick's Products.

McCormick's Biscuits are Exclusive in Quality and Preeminently the Best.

They are made from Best Blended Flour, First Quality June Creamery Butter, Fresh, Sweet, Whole Milk, Pure Sugar, etc.

All materials are analyzed by an expert chemist and thereby McCormick's are in a position to guarantee the Purity and Quality of their biscuits.

No other Biscuit Factory in Canada employs a chemist to insure wholesomeness of its biscuits.

To perfect in the manufacturing system that McCormick's Biscuits are baked, packed, labeled, sealed and ready for shipment in about one hour from the time the dough leaves the mixing room. This, coupled with an enormous daily output, insures daily delivery of fresh, crisp biscuits to all parts of Canada.

To produce biscuits like McCormick's has taken a life time of study by expert bakers and large expenditures in experimenting.

A CONTINENTAL REPUTATION.

Great numbers of discriminating American women-visitors to Canada have pronounced McCormick's Jersey Cream Sodas vastly superior to the American crackers. They have even insisted on the factory shipping a supply to their grocers, stating that they were willing to pay the duty if, by so doing, they could enjoy such a luxury.

Now, why don't you try McCormick's Jersey Cream Sodas and prove their superiority?

Ask your grocer for 3-lb. tin—or a 10-cent package.

An Encouraging Message

I have a message of hope and good cheer of encouragement and inspiration to every sufferer who will [illegible] the trouble due to female ills [illegible] despondency and worry. I among almost [illegible] of despair, and I have been restored from this condition to a state of vigorous health, and to the happy, [illegible] ing frame of mind which enables [illegible] ladies blissful well being. This change has been brought about wholly by the use of ORANGE LILY.

In addition I have had the experience and pleasure of telling [illegible] ing multitudes of other [illegible] ering women to give ORANGE LILY a trial, and [illegible] and thousands of the [illegible] acknowledgments of the benefits it has brought them. The following is a sample:

Truro, N. S., April 5, 1910.

Dear Mrs. Currah,—Your very kind letter was [illegible] received yesterday. In reply to your question [illegible] my health. I am thankful to say that I am very well. As I have never given you a statement of my case you may be interested in it.

For several years I have suffered [illegible] agony. This suffering was continuous, but I would have violent attacks [illegible] few weeks, each attack lasting several days. The last Sunday in November, I felt the pain beginning and so did not go to prayers. The rest of the family [illegible] and soon after the [illegible] pains seized me and I had to remain on the floor until their return. I was in great pain all night and was very sick for a whole week.

Then Mrs. L. came to see me and told me of your wonderful medicine. I got my husband to send for it right away, as I was too sick to write myself, after he could do nothing for me. I have used 5 bottles of ORANGE LILY, have had three months of good rest, and am now well, never better in my life. I have no [illegible] and I often ask my husband if it is myself that is going around and doing my own work. I can scarcely believe it. It brings tears of joy to my eyes. I could shout it to all the world. I cannot speak enough in its praise.

Your friend, MRS. E. H. C.

Receiving, as I do, dozens of such reports each day, I feel impelled to make known to my suffering sisters the merits of ORANGE LILY. It differs from other so-called remedies in that it is not taken internally. It is a strictly local treatment, and is applied directly to the affected organs. Its curative elements are absorbed into the congested tissues, expelling the stagnant foreign matter which has been breathing the membrane and oppressing the nerves, and a growing feeling of physical and mental relief is noticeable almost from the start. It is a positive, scientific remedy, and even if you use no more than the Free Trial treatment you will be very materially benefited.

FREE TRIAL OFFER

I want every reader of this, who suffers in any way from painful periods, irregularities, leucorrhoea, inflammation or congestion of the womb, pains in the back, etc., to send me their address, and I will forward at once, without charge, 10 days' treatment. If your case is not far advanced it may entirely cure you, and in any event it will do you much good. I am so earnest in making this statement, and so positive that it is true, that I trust every sufferer who reads this notice will take advantage of my offer and get cured at home, without a doctor's bill. Address, enclosing 3 stamps, MRS. FRANCES E. CURRAH, Windsor, Ont. 9

Milady's Mirror

Instead of wasting time weeping in front of your mirror, my lady ugly duckling, try the beauty cure from within.

Learn how to smile, how to have a happy disposition. You have no idea how it will transform your face, how it will wipe out all the dull, stupid, sagging lines.

Watch the women singing at a concert and understand the principle of it. One may have a lovely voice and sing very difficult music in a charming manner, but her solemn bearing and the lack of animation in her face will hopelessly repel you.

Another singer may not have half as cultivated a voice, but her charmingly smiling face and her sparkling eyes will attract twice the applause the other gets.

And it is so in life. Train the lines of your face to curve upward, not downward, and you can only do this by keeping smiling thoughts in your mind. Don't allow yourself to think blue, ugly thoughts, and your smile will be bright, spontaneous and ever present.

A cheerful disposition makes the eyes bright. It makes the skin smooth. It rejuvenates a woman as nothing else will.

Massage is fine for the complexion—keep it up—but be sure to massage your disposition as well.

Care of Hands.

Undoubtedly warm weather brings strong temptation to go barehanded, and the girl who does will not have white hands. For the skin will freckle, if it does not brown, and either will make it coarse. Gloves must be worn. One might as well accept this, however uncomfortable covering the hands may be, if the flesh is to be kept fine.

In point of fact, gloves are not half as uncomfortable as many girls fancy. To begin with, all gloves worn in summer should be at least half a size larger than those for winter. This additional space permits circulation of air, so the fingers do not become warm. Of the kinds of gloves chamois are more than protective. They are refining to the skin, softening and whitening it. As they wash easily, simply by squeezing them in soapy water and rinsing afterward, they are not to be considered extravagant.

A girl who is much out of doors, yet whose hands are white and fine, wears chamois all winter, and when she knows she will not remove her gloves before returning home she puts on a certain pair which she always wears when she has previously treated her hands with cream. This treatment consists of rubbing the backs of her hands and the fingers lightly with sweet almond oil, then dusting them thickly with powdered chalk. After that the gloves are drawn on. The chalk prevents the grease from going through the leather, and the skin is under treatment all the time the gloves are on. Such a method should be followed always by a girl who plays tennis or is out of doors much in warm weather.

If gloves seem to interfere with holding golf sticks or tennis bats cut off the finger tips; then the fingers will be free while the skin is protected. Gloves once cut do not wear as long as when whole, but those worn for recreation may be taken from the stock which is too old to wear when visiting or shopping.

If the backs of the hands burn or tan easily a mixture of lemon and sweet almond oil will act as a bleach. Lemon juice and powdered magnesia should be mixed into a thick mass; then enough almond oil must be added to reduce it to a paste. A drop of bitter almond oil to a tablespoonful of the paste improves its bleaching qualities. This mixture must be spread over the skin before gloves are drawn on and may be used during the day or at night.

The Forbidden City.

Peking has been a city for something like 3,000 years, first as the capital of a small state, then destroyed, again rebuilt and finally molded into the form in which we now know it, with its Chinese, Tartar, Imperial and Forbidden cities, each with its inclosing wall. Nobody has ever yet attempted to tell the full tale of its intrigues, its cabals, plots and counterplots. Few know anything about them. No one person knows them all. If only the bricks that form the walls could find a tongue, if only the pavilions on the Coal Hill could produce the sights and sounds that have fallen to their lot to see and hear, there would doubtless be a tale to tell which might vie in interest and dramatic force with anything that ancient Rome or Babylon has given, even through the medium of fiction.—Shanghai Mercury.

Napoleon and Waterloo.

There is nothing in the result of the Waterloo campaign to show any decline in Napoleon's powers of mind. The plan of the campaign as laid down by the emperor was a most brilliant one, and had it not rained on the night of the 17th of June Napoleon would in all likelihood have kept his throne. Had it not rained and made the land miry he would have had his artillery in position four hours before he actually did, and Wellington would have been disposed of long before Blucher's arrival. Even as it was, the Iron Duke was pretty well used up when the Prussian came up on his left. Napoleon's genius never shone more brilliantly than it did in his last campaign. He was defeated by the elements and by the unaccountable stupidity of some of his lieutenants.—New York American.

The Tenant's Reward.

A certain landlord called on a tenant one day and said:

"Jones, I'm going to raise your rent."

"What for?" Jones asked anxiously. "Have taxes gone up?"

"No, not at all," the landlord answered, "but I see you've painted the house and put in a new range and bathtub. That, of course, ought to make it bring me more rent."—Philadelphia Record.

The Meeting.

SAYS HE.

'Twas a long way and lone way, Mavourneen,
But it's millions av miles, as he knows,
That a hungerin', wanderin' sunbeam goes
To be gettin' a kiss
No warmer than this
From the lips av no sweeter a rose!

SAYS SHE.

'Tis a long way ye've thraveled, me thrue love;
'Tis a long thrip ye've made on the sea
For the sake av a shlip av a gurl loike me,
For a bit av a kiss
No better than this—
'Tis a long road ye've thraveled, Machree!
—Success Magazine.

Sister's Beau.

Mr. Binks—Is that you, Johnnie? Tell your sister there's no hurry. We have plenty of time.

Johnnie—Can't stop now, Mr. Binks. Sister was washing her hair today an' left it hangin' on th' line, an' the wind just now blew it over the fence, an' I'm hurryin' so's I can get there before the bull pup chews it!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

But He's Dead Now.

He painted the woodwork tastily
For the fair trust magnate's daughter,
And he pencilled a sketch of the raging sea,
Did this artist chap who taught her,
"For I am a hue-er of wood," said he,

HECLA FURNACE

Shows A Saving in Fuel of 13½%

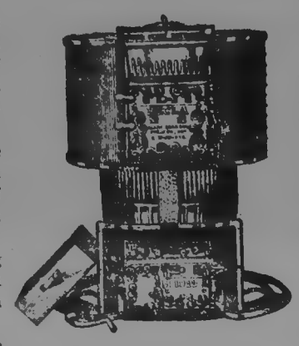
It is not what a furnace should do, nor what it is said to do—but what it has actually done for others and will do for you—that should hold your consideration.

"Hecla" Furnace is truly economical—in first cost and operation.



"Hecla" Furnace has a steel ribbed Firepot. By adapting the principle of Fused Joints to the firepot, we fuse Steel Ribs on the outer surface of the "Hecla" firepot, thus getting three times the radiating surface of any other firepot of the same size. The radiating surface of the firepot is the most efficient part of the furnace because it is in closest contact with the fire. And the greater the radiating surface, the greater the amount of air that can be heated by a given amount of fuel.

By a careful, accurate three years test, these Steel Ribbed Firepots made an actual saving in fuel of 13¼%. And remember, that the air from the "Hecla" is never hot.

The perfect radiation of heat brings warm air—fresh and invigorating—into the house, because "Hecla" firepot never becomes red hot. And a firepot that never becomes red hot won't burn out.

We make the firepot in two pieces which prevents cracking. This Steel Ribbed Firepot is only one of many improvements perfected by the old reliable firm who have 59 years heating experience to guide them.

Send us a rough diagram of your house—and we will plan the heating arrangements, giving you the cost of installing the right "Hecla" Furnace to heat your home right. We make no charge for this service. 102

NEW FRESCOES GRACE HALLS OF PARLIAMENT

8 Beautiful Paintings Added to Corridor Outside House of Commons.

STORIC SCENES, GIFTS OF LORDS

(Special Dispatch.)

London, Saturday.

WHEN Parliament reassembles in November those radicals who are keen on the destruction of the House of Lords will find that the lower house, or entrance to it, has been greatly beautified and rendered more interesting by a sextet of those noble lords whom they would gladly see unseated. The Peers' Corridor, and the corridor leading to the Commons' Lobby form one of the main "sights" of the Houses of Parliament, as there are to be seen there sixteen magnificent frescoes illustrative of historic scenes in the age of the Stuarts. During the Parliamentary vacation there have been placed in the corridor immediately opposite St. Stephen's Hall more beautiful frescoes by eminent artists, the gifts of Lord Beauchamp, the Earl of Carlisle, Lord Airedale of Gledhow, Lord Stanmore, Lord Wandsworth and Lord Winterstoke of Blagdon, illustrative of another period in English history.

Mr. J. Byam Shaw, R. I., is the painter of a picture illustrating the entry of Queen Mary with Princess Elisabeth into London. The scene portrayed is set at the gate of the Lions' Tower of the Tower of London. Mr. Frank O. Salisbury, R. B. A., has told the story of Henry VIII. and Catherine of Arragon, in the scene where Catherine is seen in court pleading with the King, who stands embarrassed, puzzled, struggling with himself. Mr. E. Board has for his subject Cranmer, the supple divine, whom Henry made an Archbishop, and Mr. Denis Eden's panel illustrates Cabot receiving the charter from Henry VII. Erasmus and Thomas More visiting the children of Henry VII. at Greenwich is the subject painted by Mr. Frank Cadogan, A. R. A. Here you see Prince Henry meeting for the first time the man whom for years he delighted to honor and whose head he cut off at last; and Mr. H. Pavn is the painter of a fine picture illustrating the historic plucking of the red and white roses in the Temple Gardens by representatives of the York and Lancaster houses as their distinctive badges.

MONOCLES FOR WOMEN.

Rumor has it that the monocle is to be the real smart thing this winter for the woman of fashion. This single glass is to be mounted on a long handle, much after the fashion of lorgnettes. The effect, it is held, will be to emphasize the fact that any human target which comes within range is under a state of maximum impertinence. There are a number of prominent London women, including Lady Doreen Long and the Hon. Mrs. Brassey, who have worn monocles for years, but these have been of the kind that caught under the lid of the eye. The projected type will be as deadly as a range-finder to a gatling gun.

The system of radio-telegraphy which has been adopted for use in submarines has, it is reported, proved the incalculable value of this form of communication between one submarine and another or with its parent ship. In a series of experiments carried on off Torbay the cruiser Bonaventure established wireless communication with the boats running submerged, and the submarine was able to return answers from below to the surface, the apparatus being submerged as far as the periscope, which reached about half way up the mast. The possibility thus proved of directing the operations of submarines while under water is therefore considered to largely increase their tactical value.

SOME LONDON FARMS.

Some surprise has been occasioned by the discovery that London has farmers of its own who beat their rivals in the rural districts by the produce they gain from their acres. According to the latest official calculation, London has 8,611 acres devoted to agriculture," as compared with 12,500 in 1899. Each year, however, marks the slow absorption of this acreage into building land.

By this same calculation the metropolis has 300 acres under corn. Ten years ago 600 acres had been so planted. The acres under clover and grass in rotation are placed at forty-seven, as against 150 in 1899. The big city retains more than six thousand acres of permanent pasture or grass, a decrease of 2,000 in the ten year period, while small fruit farms account for 200 acres more, and there are 1,600 acres devoted to what are described as "other crops." Also London can claim 600 horses used solely for agricultural purposes, 3,741 head of cattle, 1,400 sheep and 2,600 swine.

The metropolitan farmer gets the blue ribbon when it comes to understanding his business. He gets an average yield of 32 bushels of wheat to the acre, whereas the best the up-countryman can do is 31.10 bushels. The latter, too, gets but 32 bushels of barley to the acre, while the Londoner runs his average up to 36. ## King George and Queen Mary Leave Balmoral, Returning to Windsor with the Court for the Winter

Duke and Duchess of Connaught About to Depart for South Africa.

PRINCE OF WALES GROUSE SHOOTING

(Special Dispatch.)

London, Saturday.

KING GEORGE and Queen Mary's holiday at Balmoral has come to a close. They have returned to London for a few days, before going on to Windsor with their Court for the winter. During their Majesties' absence workmen have been very busy at the castle carrying out some needed alterations, and they have had all they could do to get them finished in time. The work has not been by any means on so extended a scale as that undertaken at Buckingham Palace, where a deal of reconstruction is needed in order to provide for the royal children; but at Windsor King George has been having prepared much more spacious accommodation for his automobiles, a work in which he has taken much interest and about which he has been very particular. Both the King and Queen are very fond of Windsor, the Queen especially, because of the river. Her early life was passed near the Thames, of course, and she has never failed to appreciate its beauties.

While in London their Majesties will take leave of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught on their departure to South Africa on the Union liner Balmoral Castle, which is now in the hands of the Admiralty. No great internal structural alterations have been made on the vessel, but it has been very elaborately fitted up for the voyage to the Cape and back, and has been painted the well known naval gray, while it will be manned by 450 bluejackets drawn from the various naval stations. Meanwhile King George has been having some excellent deer stalking, and it is said his Majesty is particularly delighted at the excellent promise which the Prince of Wales has shown at his recent initiation into the mysteries of grouse shooting and deer stalking. Indeed, it is said that there is every promise of the young Prince being in a few years as wonderful a shot as his father, who is one of the finest shots in England. The question as to title, investiture and career of the Prince of Wales having now been satisfactorily settled, it is expected that an announcement of shortly be made as to the formal raising to the peerage of Prince Albert, the second son of the King. Prince Albert is eighteen months younger than the Prince of Wales, and will not, therefore, attain his majority for another two years. He is, however, already well started on his naval career, and is to accompany his brother on his tour around the world, so it is thought probable that the title of Duke of York will be bestowed on his Royal Highness at an early date.

King George is contemplating the discontinuance of a practice which, if carried out, will be an immense relief to the leader of the House of Commons. That is the historic system of receiving from the Prime Minister a written report of the proceedings in Parliament. This parliamentary duty is to be thrown in future on the shoulders of Mr. Gladstone. Nor did Disraeli care for it either, but, as a great smoker, he used to alleviate the task as much as possible with, at least on one occasion an amusing sequel. He had despatched his letter overnight. Next afternoon he received a note from Queen Victoria's secretary expressing her Majesty's thanks and there was added the query, never. Her Majesty was much amused by the communication. There was nothing amusing in the matter and the puzzled leader of the House could not make it out until he had a personal interview with the secretary, who explained that the letter contained a most disappointing report of the debate. The explanation was that the old custom was suspended of late known as when King Edward had shown a kindly consideration for Sir [illegible] Commencing during that statesman's illness, King George will, in addition to receive the official report which is issued to members, as he regards the leader's private summary as superfluous.

Already, in view of the coronation next year, ermine and red velvet have gone up in price, coats of the former being now quite within the reach of those women of the musical comedy choruses who also own automobiles, so, at any rate, report says. Very busy, too, are those unofficials around Bond street into whose safe keeping baubles such as coronets, silver vases, antique family jewels, and the like are given over in times of stress. It was the wife of the then Russian Ambassador to England, who, writing about the accession of Queen Victoria, described the English crown to have no diamonds such as had disappeared during the Cromwellian era, and most of those that remained were the property of Queen Adelaide and came to her from her mother, who had bequeathed them to the Crown of Hanover.

It is to a very different state of affairs that Queen Mary now succeeds. Her Majesty herself has a magnificent collection of jewels. As the bride of the son of the then apparent next of her thousands of wedding presents consisted of jewelry, and, thanks to the passion of Queen Victoria for the acquirement of precious stones the British crown jewels rank now among the finest in the world.

It is becoming generally known now that Queen Alexandra does not greatly care for the title of Queen-Mother, which was chosen and officially announced after the death of King Edward. She feels that so many institutions are associated with her own name that it is desirable that she should still be known by it, although officially her position is that of Queen-Mother. There is no gainsaying the people prefer the retention of the name by which she was known during the late King's reign. In the House Circular during the last week or two it has been noted that she has been referred to as Queen Alexandra, and private intimation has been received in certain quarters that Her Majesty wishes to be addressed by that title.

CREWLESS WAR SHIP MADE IN GERMANY

Vessel Can Be Directed, Bells Rung and Guns Fired by Wireless Apparatus.

(Special Dispatch.)

London, Saturday.

Great Britain, eager to catch up every story as to Germany's naval programme, again has its eyes turned across the North Sea. For the latest report has it that two Germans—Herr Christopher Wirth, an electrical engineer, and Herr Christopher Heck, a manufacturer have invented a "crewless" war ship whose engines can be started or stopped and whose helm can be controlled by electrical waves communicated without wires to a receiving apparatus aboard the mysterious vessel by a sending apparatus from shore similar to that utilized in wireless telegraphy. Further, so the report has it, by means of these electrical waves guns on the crewless vessel can be controlled and fired, while signals can be transmitted either by bells or flashlight, and all these wonders are possible within a radius of eighteen miles from the wireless station which transmits the controlling force.

An eye witness who has observed exhaustive experiments conducted with a motor boat model on the Dutzendteich, a large expanse of water near Nuremberg has affirmed the stories of this wonderful method of control.

"I have seen the interesting trial trips of a large unmanned motor boat," said this observer in a statement which has been published in London, "which was controlled and steered from the bank of the lake by means of wireless telegraphy. I also saw guns being fired on board the unmanned vessel, and a bell being rung on the deck, and also flashlight signals being given in the same way with the help of electrical waves. When I first arrived the motor boat Prinz Ludwig was lying motionless in the middle of the lake. No one was on board. Suddenly a gun was fired on the deck, and I saw the screw begin to revolve and drive the boat forward.

"Then I saw the boat follow a zigzag course, steered by some unseen power. There were ordinary rowing boats on the lake, and when the unmanned vessel approached them she gave the signal by means of a bell to indicate whether she intended to go to port or starboard, and the indicated course was carried out with absolute accuracy. I watched the manoeuvres of the unmanned boat for a whole hour during the daytime and again in the evening, when the signals were not given by means of bells, but by flashlights. At the end of these tests the unmanned vessel was brought to her anchorage by the same unseen forces. These forces were emitted from a sending station on shore to a receiving apparatus on the boat. These Hertzian waves sent from the shore started and stopped the engine and controlled the helm of the vessel. The will of the man who controls the electrical waves on shore thus exercises absolute command over the unmanned vessel."

ENMITY TOWARD AMERICA TAUGHT BY THE JAPANESE

Hostility Aroused by Inspired Methods on Plan Followed Before War with Russia.

UNITED STATES NAVAL POWER IS FLOUTED

Misrepresentation of the Policy of America Exemplified by Writer in an Important Review.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.)

TOKIO, September 5, 1910. To the current crusade of America-baiting in which Japanese publicists and publications seem just now to be endeavoring to outvie one another, the editor of the Chuo Koron, or Central Review, contributes a series of articles whose particular interest lies in their revelation of the view of things American held by a very large section, perhaps the majority, of the Mikado's subjects. The argument of this particular writer contains some important points, the significance of which cannot be overlooked. One of these is the pessimistic picture drawn of the capabilities of the navy of the United States.

United States Misrepresented.

Through the whole of this campaign misrepresentation of the American policy is the high note. While this may at first glance seem nothing but the effusion of ignorance, those who have knowledge of the methods adopted to shape public sentiment in Japan believe they see in it studied, and perhaps inspired, effort to instil into the minds of the people that the United States entertains sinister designs against Japan.

In form and substance this anti-American crusade follows the same lines as the crusade against "the northern enemy," Russia, during the long period of preparation for the conflict that followed. The only difference is one of detail; Russia was pictured as lured by determination to dominate the continent of Asia to Japan's detriment, the United States is pictured as lured by determination to dominate the Pacific also to Japan's detriment.

After discussing at length the effect of the Russo-Japanese convention, dwelling especially on the assumption that this leaves Japan's hands free for other things than watching Russia, the Chuo Koron contends that Japan must take advantage of this free hand to build up a navy far stronger than ever heretofore contemplated.

"What makes us feel the need of a larger navy," the writer explains, "is nothing but Japan's present great policy of a southern march. The proper sphere in which Japan has a right to expand is the vast Pacific Ocean.

Rivals of the Japanese.

"We cannot but regard the Americans as our first and foremost rival. Let us have done playing with those soft sounding lies with the semblance of truth which hypocrites love to give utterance to. America herself wishes to make the Pacific a sort of pond in her back garden, and believes that Japan stands in the way of her realizing this scheme. When she builds more battle ships she plainly talks about a Japanese-American war.

"It occurs to us that the American arguments in favor of a larger navy are somewhat boasting and vainglorious. Although America possesses a population of a hundred million souls it is composed of multitudinous masses of European stock, with a [illegible] index of a million immigrants from the Old World. These virile [illegible] qualities, if left unassimilated, [illegible] ing for uniform national environment and so in the opinion of some Americans the best results can be achieved by picking out some foreign country as the enemy, and sounding the tocsin loudly on the score of national peril. In this state America might be able to utilise Japan-American war talk for the solidification of the main internal elements.

"In America the wealthy classes rule and [illegible] the political organs, newspapers, &c., and the rich shipbuilders are said to have caused politicians and journalists to scatter broadcast talk of a war with Japan in order to fatten their own purses by building more battle ships. Of course we do not think that naval arguments based upon such flimsy foundations can amount to much, and yet we must give thought to the fact that a lamentable state of affairs will be created when America sends ships built under such pretexts to the Pacific and tries to run amuck.

Pious America's Wars.

"Since the cornerstone of the State was laid, America has never gone into a war that could be called a real war; she has always obtained much at the cost of little exertion. When she fought with Mexico she took a big strip of land in the South as well as on the Pacific coast. When she beat Spain she was fortunate enough to get Cuba and the Philippines as a prize. Thus she has come to think that she will win wherever she goes, and in this mood of self-glorification she estimates that with the biggest navy in the Pacific she can smite a little island empire like Japan.

"For us there can be no more dangerous news than this under the sun. The blood which now flows through America's veins is not the blood of Washington and Lincoln. She has rejected the Monroe doctrine and has stretched out her hands to the other side of the Pacific. Her baseness of mind may be clearly known by the butchery of negroes simply because a negro pugilist got the better of a white man. To make such people as these fear something is to make them uneasy about opening hostilities, and will, therefore, be the best guarantee of peace. It is now our duty, as indicated by the divine will, to uphold our navy to a point not inferior to that of America, and float it on the Pacific. Is not this the best way [illegible] peace?"

Annexation of Corea Awakens China to Realization of Fate That Menaces Her

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.)

Pekin, Sept. 5, 1910.

After Corea Manchuria. After Manchuria Pekin!

The first step in Japan's career of continental conquest has now been written across the map of Asia for all the world to read. The second is as sure as fate itself. That it has been concretely provided for in secret agreement between Japan and Russia, no Chinese who understands the trend of international events for a moment doubts.

That Japan did not destroy Corea's nationality without first coming to satisfactory understanding with Russia whose whole Siberian possession would otherwise be menaced by this extension of Japan's sovereignty to the continent of Asia, is certain. The quid pro quo will be revealed in due time. The partition of Manchuria, peacefully if possible, by force if necessary, Russia being permitted to have her own way in Mongolia, while Japan turns further south—these are high points of the Motono-Iswolsky agreement which, for reasons that require no explanation, have so far been concealed from the world.

Provides for Further Advance.

If temporary removal of the menace of immediate Japanese absorption of her Asiatic possessions means any gain to Russia, the gain to Japan is infinitely greater, since not only is the one possible obstacle to her continental advance removed, but the next step in that advance is specifically provided for. As to succeeding steps, Russia may be satisfied with the pledges of friendship and co-operation given by Japan—though the value of Japanese promises and pledges would seem, in the light of Corea's experience, considerably below par.

Absorption of Corea was in no sense necessary to Japan's interests in Corea. The government of that country and of its people was as completely in Japan's hands before annexation as it is now, or as it ever could be. Annexation, then, can mean but one thing that this expansion of Japan to the continent of Asia is but the first step in that greater continental expansion which has long been the dream of Japan—an expansion that can only come at the expense of the Empire of China.

Realization of Japan's plans and purposes has come, belatedly but none the less certainly, to the Chinese people in China's sovereignty in Manchuria.

No other country has Japan's absorption of Corea made so deep an impression as Europe and America have, apparently, given hardly passing thought to an event that changes mightily the map of Asia and must inevitably exert vast influence upon the future of half the human race.

Was Shock to Chinese.

Even among China's officials those who have realized the inevitability of Japan's wiping out Corean nationality in response to the demands of her expansion programme have been few. In the councils of the government their words of prophetic warning have carried little weight in the face of confident expressions of conviction by the pro-Japanese party that Japan would never break her solemn pledges to respect and uphold the independence of the Hermit Kingdom.

The awakening has come with a shock. For the first time Chinese public thought is beginning to realise what it means for China to have this aggressive, essentially military nation as her neighbor upon the mainland of Asia. The Chinese press is speaking its mind with a virility not often manifested in its discussions of foreign affairs. While there is some lamentation over the fate of Corea and much criticism of Japan, the most hopeful phase of this press comment is its frank recognition that Corea's experience is the handwriting on the wall to China unless China puts her own house in order.

Where China's Peril Lies.

In its failure to grasp the needs of the situation, to bring about reforms of government and development of resources which alone can make China strong, a blind and reactionary officialdom is being ably assisted by the intriguing diplomacy of the two nations whose plans for China's absorption would be frustrated by China's strength.

In discussing Japan's official attitude toward China, surcharged as it is with protestations of friendship, the Chinese press reviews at length the attitude of Japan toward Corea. To the minds of these Chinese critics it is highly significant that the excuses Japan has given the world for each step of her aggression in Corea [illegible] aggression are exactly the same excuses she gives for her aggressions against less certainly, to the Chinese people in China's sovereignty in Manchuria.

The fact that some cry or other is constantly raised by the Japanese against China's administration of her Manchurian provinces is construed by the Chinese press as highly significant, especially in view of Count Hayashi's declaration that "Corea's fate is a warning to China" and more especially in view of the conviction that the agreement between Japan and Russia contains provision for mutual absorption of their respective Manchurian "spheres," and all that is thereto attached, at some date in the future.

It is announced by the officially inspired Japanese press that, with Corea's absorption in a consummated fact, the decks have been cleared for the next important step—expansion over Manchuria. All responsibility of officialdom, we are told, is engaged in working out this programme. Japan's diplomatic policy toward China is to be more aggressive than it has been to the end, apparently, of creating excuse for trouble. Another move, and one covered in the agreement with Russia, is that Japan is not to surrender her lease hold on Port Arthur and its environment, and that China is not to be permitted to buy back the Manchurian railways at the date, about fifteen years hence, when the concession under which the railway rights were granted provides that China may purchase them.

Fullest corroboration of the existence of this agreement is furnished by Japan's most noted international jurist, Dr. Ariga. In an article he has contributed to a leading Japanese magazine, the Nihonjin. There can be no question that Dr. Ariga is speaking from inside knowledge. Discussing the recent Russo-Japanese agreement, Dr. Ariga first makes the interesting admission that the two governments have secret agreements covering many important matters not mentioned in the text made public, recalling and giving credence to the report that there are no less than fourteen secret clauses.

"We cannot foretell," says Dr. Ariga, "what will happen exactly at the expiration of Japan's lease in the Kwantung peninsula, but this much is certain, that her application to continue the lease will be backed by Russia, and at the same time Japan will have to stand by Russia when the latter declines the proposal of China to buy back the Manchurian railroads at the end of the thirty years of construction provided for in the terms of the Russo-Chinese Bank contract. China, of course, is not bound to grant the demands of these countries, but in that case she must be prepared to meet the united pressure of Russia and Japan."

This is what Corea's passing from the ranks of nations means to China. That Japan's birth as a continental Power contains for her dire menace there can be [illegible] and for the commencing of that policy of aggression

Festival of Empire A Great Spectacle

Elaborate Preparations of the Big Imperial Event in the Crystal Palace Next Spring

London, Oct. 8.—New plans are being announced almost daily for the festival of Empire which is to be held at the Crystal Palace next spring, and, from present indications, this promises to be the greatest spectacle of its kind ever held in England. Owing to the fact that the coronation will be held at the same time enormous crowds are expected, and arrangements are already under way to care for the visitors.

All Colonies Represented

The Festival was originally planned for last May, but had to be postponed owing to the death of King Edward. D spite the great financial loss the promoters stuck together, and not only kept their original plans intact, but greatly widened the scope of the celebration. Owing to the national character of the movement the government has given it recognition and patronage. Though it does not imply financial aid this is a valuable assistance and is very rarely granted. The Prime Minister, Sir Edward Grey, and the Earl of Crewe, have become Vice-Presidents, while among others who have accepted that title are the Viceroy of India, the Governor-Generals of Canada and Australia, the Governor of New Zealand, and the High Commissioner of South Africa. As previously announced in these columns all the colonies of the British Empire will be represented by replicas of their Parliament Buildings, which will be erected on the grounds of the Crystal Palace, some of which will be two-thirds of the actual size of the buildings.

Imperial Sports

Arrangements are now under way by the Sports Committee, of which Lord Desborough is chairman, for holding an Imperial sports meeting. This has the support of the athletic clubs in England, and athletes from all over the British Empire are expected to compete. For the Festival itself the arrangements made last spring will hold good. The Hospitality Committee, under the presidency of the Duke of Norfolk, have arranged a varied series of entertainments and receptions for visitors from over-seas. The weekly concerts at which the musicians and music from all parts of the Empire will be heard, will take place under the committee of prominent British musicians, with the Earl of Shaftesbury as chairman. Lectures on Imperial topics are to be given in the various Parliament buildings of the Dominions, and in the Central Hall other lectures, arranged by acommittee, of which Lord Avebury is chairman, will suggest the serious side of the Festival.

15,000 Amateurs

The Pageant of London, on the beautiful amphitheatre which has been designed by Sir Aston Webb, is chief among the entertainments, and will show the history of London from its progress as the Roman Colonial centre to its present position of the heart of the British Empire. In the final scene, "The Masque Imperial, an allegory of the advantages of Empire," which has been written by Mr. Francis Hartman Markoe, there will be a great gathering of representatives from all parts of the Empire. Some 15,000 amateur performers who will take part in the Pageant have been recruited from all parts of London under the honorary presidency of Princess Louise, the Duchess of Argyll.

WAR ON GOSSIPS

The Drastic Order Issued by a Hesse Burgomaster

London, Oct. 8.—The thriving town of Hattersheim, in Hesse, has declared war on women gossips. Scandal-mongering women have played such havoc with the connubial bliss of the community that the burgomaster has resorted to the drastic extreme of issuing a municipal proclamation designed to check the garrulousness of the feminine population. The following is the text of his homily on the evils of gossip: "Prosecutions for libel and slander have recently attained widespread dimensions in a certain section of our community. The consequences are bitter enmities and heavy financial sacrifices in the shape of litigation costs. The cause is usually the same. While the men folk are hard at work the women fritter away their time in gossiping and quarrelling. The training of the children is neglected and the household suffers from their lack of care. When the bread-winner comes home at night the day's events are untruthfully related to him. Then he must betake himself as the protector of his angry wife to the police, to a solicitor or to an arbitration court. Such is the family life of many who seek vainly for true domestic happiness. All teachings that woman should busy herself at her own fireside, drive scandal-mongers out of her house, and provide a comfortable home for her husband and children are lost on such persons. This is to make known that poor relief will henceforth be given only in exceptional cases to people who involve themselves in scandal prosecutions. The police have also been instructed to compile a list of these persons and warn landlords and tenants against them."

The Royal library at Windsor contains about 20,000 volumes, many of which would fetch enormous prices.

TUNNEL THE ALPS

Fifth Boring for a Railway Will Cost $10,000,000

London, Oct. 8.—The Loetschberg tunnel—the fifth great boring through the Alps, which will provide a new railway approach to the Simplon tunnel, will, it is expected, be completely pierced next spring. The north portal is at Kandersteg, and the south at Goppenstein in the Loetsch Valley, the distance between these points being eight and a half miles. When the line is finished the journey between London and Milan, via the east of France, Belfort and Berne, will be shortened by about four or five hours. Owing to the number of accidents which have occurred, the new boring has been known among the workmen as the "tunnel of tragedies." Twenty-five men were drowned in the tunnel about two years ago and twelve were killed by an avalanche. There is still about a mile and a half of granite separating the boring parties, says a correspondent of the London Evening News, who has been shown over the works. The first two miles are practically complete. It is nearly 27 feet wide by 19½ feet high. For this distance there is already a double line laid so that trains can pass. Beyond that point progress was difficult for the visitors. "Most of the time," writes the correspondent, "we were drenched by the water coming from above, sometimes in positive bursts. When we could go no farther by train we descended into a pool of water; for about a mile and a quarter we walked mostly through streams of mud. It was a weird and strange experience." The cost of the tunnel will be about $10,000,000.

Directors of physical culture say that heavy dumb-bells do more harm than good, as they strain the heart and lungs, as well as the muscles they are supposed to benefit.

AT WAR WITH CREDITORS

Balzac is Dead But His Estate is Threatened

Paris, Oct. 8.—Ill-luck in money matters seems to pursue Balzac beyond the grave. The impecunious and improvident great man spent his life in contests with creditors, and there were months and even years during which he never ventured out of doors by daylight for fear of bailiffs. His abode was often unknown to all but two intimate friends, and the most complicated devices were resorted to for the safe delivery of his correspondence. Balzac himself being dead, bailiffs now threaten the Balzac Museum. The Treasury claims $90 for rates and taxes for 1909, and $92 for 1910, the assessment having, for some unexplained reason, been increased. The tax collector threatens to put the bailiffs in for the total amount of $182 immediately if the sum be not forthcoming. The president of the Society of the Friends of Balzac writes indignantly and sarcastically to the responsible authorities, claiming that, as an establishment of national interest, the Balzac Museum is legally exempt from taxation, and that, should the Treasury persist in its threats, it will incur odium and possibly some ridicule.

VISCOUNTESS INGESTRE, Wife of Lord Shrewsbury's Heir

Viscountess Ingestre, in the ordinary course of events, will one day be Countess of Shrewsbury and Talbot, for her husband is heir to that peerage. She is a daughter of the late Lord Alexander Victor Paget. Her marriage took place in 1901. She has one child, a daughter, who is three years old.—Sketch.

PLOT OF THE TAXIES

How They Propose to Demonstrate the Effect of Benzol

Paris, Oct. 8.—The secretary of the syndicate of Taxicab Drivers in Paris has given some amusing details of the manner in which the men intend to demonstrate in the streets of Paris if satisfaction is not given to them in the matter of burning benzol instead of petrol.

"Quite by accident," says the secretary, "between six and seven o'clock one evening when Parisians are hurrying home to dinner, from 1,500 to 1,800 taxicabs will be massed on the boulevards between the Rue Montmarter and the Madeleine.

"By the same curious accident, every one of them will have something the matter with its motor at the same moment, and the cab will be unable to move on. It is just possible that this may cause a little inconvenience."

It is not easy to imagine what steps the police will take to prevent this demonstration, unless they can contrive to prevent the massing of the cabs on the boulevards.

AFTER THE LOST GOLD

London, Oct. 8.—Salvage operations at the spot where the Tuscany galleon Florencia is supposed to have been lost, in Tobermory Bay, have led to such important finds during the past fortnight that those in charge of the operations have decided to charter a powerful suction dredger, capable of clearing the area where the majority of the undoubted relics of the Florencia have been found.

In the list of treasures carried on the Florencia were included a crown of gold, with many jewels, and the admiral's sword. The diver on Wednesday came upon the richly adorned basket-hilt of a sixteenth century rapier.

The finding of one of the huge tong-like grapplers used by the Swedes for tugging at the planks of the galleon, affords the clearest proof of the divers' being on the right spot. The Swedes actually saw the vessel, with its charred timbers sticking above the water in places, and tore at its deck in order to reach at the wealth beneath.

FINISH THE SENTENCE

"Mr. Coldcash, I have come to ask for the hand of your daughter."

"My daughter, sir?"

"Yes; I can't live without her."

"Well, sir, finish your sentence."

"Finish my sentence?"

"Yes! you were about to say you could not live without her income. Let us be candid."

AN APPEAL TO REASON

TWELVE months ago, after prolonged investigation and experiment, we pinned our faith to the Knight motor as the greatest improvement of the decade in automobile construction.

Many believed us, bought cars and are to-day congratulating themselves on their judgment.

There were croakers then, perhaps there are to-day, but we hear less of them.

THEY SAID—The engine was an experiment, forgetting that it had stood the greatest engine test on record before the Royal Automobile Club of Great Britain and Ireland.

THEY SAID It will not stand up on Canadian roads, although they knew a challenge of $1,250 was open to anyone who wished to measure his motor against the Knight for reliability.

THEY SAID That it would not be taken up in Europe, and that the Daimler Company were about to discard it. We know at the time and anyone can verify it now, that the leading concerns of six of the countries of Europe have adopted the Knight motor.

THEY SAID—No one in the United States would take it up. We know that over twenty of the largest concerns in the United States have from time to time applied for consideration in the American rights. And we know to-day that leading United states firms will announce 1912 models with Knight motors in another twelve months despite the fact that the agents of some of these concerns profess great skepticism about the Knight motor to-day.

We seldom refer to or bother about the suggestions of interested opponents. We want, however, to repeat our conviction, formed a year ago, and confirmed by twelve months of experience in the factory, on the road, and in the users' hands—

That the Knight motor far surpasses the old valve type, and that it is only a question of time before it entirely supersedes it in all high-grade cars. Get a car that will be up to-date the longest.

Our 1911 model is out, but our 1910 users can smile, for their car is up to-date still. 1911 is only a refinement in details on 1910.

The same motor. The same body lines, with high front doors, now pretty universally copied.

Dropsy—

Given up by Doctor

"I had dropsy, and was told by my family physician that there was no chance for me. My family also gave me up. My limbs and body were swollen one-third larger than natural, water collected around my heart and I had to be propped up in bed to keep from smothering. I took Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy until I was entirely cured. This was in 1902, and I am now able to do any kind of work on my farm. My cure was certainly marvelous."

Making Perfect Garments

The final operation of examining garments for any imperfection in tailoring is a most important one, and, in the 20th Century Brand tailor shops, is done by a staff of eight competent and experienced examiners who are given plenty of time to do the work thoroughly. Their examination is a most critical one and the garment must measure up in every particular to the 20th Century Brand standard or back to the tailor shop it goes. When once the garment has been passed by the final examiners it is boxed and made ready for shipment. It is also ready to fit and ready to give entire satisfaction.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

With The Q. O. R. In England
Mr. Wilfrid Huycke's Letter

Although the Queen's Own regiment have returned from their trip to England, an account of their visit will be of interest to many, and His Honour Judge Huycke has very kindly handed the Examiner another letter written by his son, Wilfred, who was with the Q. O. R. It is as follows:

S.S Megantic,
Monday, Sept. 12th.

Dear Mother. I got your combined letter of about Sept 1st yesterday (Sunday) afternoon. The things you talked about seemed to have happened an awful long time ago for instance, our reception at Liverpool and Aldershot. I wrote you all a letter when we were at Baddesley, but was not able to post it for over a day, as we were out in the field [illegible] then. We left our camp at Baddesley on Friday morning, and then marched back through part of the country we came through the day before, but by different roads. After marching about 17 miles we came into action about noon or a little after. We skirmished into shelter of a hill and then lay there for a couple of hours, while the artillery kept on firing. After a while our company advanced through some open fields, lying down at intervals. Our line stretched right across a large field about from Lovers' Lane to Division Street, and as we advanced we would beat up a number of rabbits in front of us. They would run across the whole line and now and again dash through an open space and then into the space behind. They were great big fellows and could run rather fast. We also passed a number of pheasants and grouse (that's what we took them for). After a long wait in the field (as our section formed the reserve) we advanced and came in sight of the enemy. We stayed there for shelter, and at last fired three or four rounds, and then an armistice was called. We then started out for camp, which our major said was three miles off. It must have been about five or six, for it took us about an hour and a half to march it, and we started out at a pretty fast clip.

All that day we subsisted on a piece of cheese and three small biscuits. Then we had a little water in our bottles to drink, but not much. When we got into camp we had, after a little wait, some fresh stew, and it certainly tasted fine. Then we bivouacked out all night, but not around blazing camp fires. There was one fire lit after I got to sleep to warm the chaps who couldn't sleep; but I didn't get the benefit of that. We all slept fairly well, as we had a blanket, rubber sheet, and, of course, our overcoat. Our stuff was rather wet in the morning from the dew.

That morning I got stuck on baggage guard, and expected to have rather a snap of it, as the day before the baggage guard all rode on the transport wagon, but that day they made us all march. We did have rather a snap, because we marched straight to the camp, arriving there about noon. After the tents were pitched I was fortunate enough to get a shave and a wash, both of which I badly needed. The rest of the afternoon we did nothing but loaf around until the troops came in. I stood and saw them all come in and there were quite a few of them. The Grenadier, Coldstream, Scots and Irish Guards were all there, and they certainly were a fine lot great, big, strong fellows. Most of our fellows had stuck the day out pretty well, and I guess it was pretty hard, marching and fighting a lot. They were a pretty tired bunch when they got in camp. At present we are camped near Basingstoke, where we have been since Saturday. We had a good rest on Sunday, which we needed. Some of the fellows went down to the town, but others stayed around the camp, reading magazines and eating when the time came. I got stuck for mess orderly, and was glad my turn came on a Sunday, as it is no joke after you have come in from a long march to get up and serve dinner.

The troops here are a great bunch. Crowds of them come over to our lines trying to sell their shirts, belts, boots and everything else. They also sell their hat and shoulder badges, but are putting up their prices so the fellows are not buying much from them. We have not been doing anything this morning, as the generals have been discussing the plan of operations for to-night and to-morrow. I hear there is an all-night march and all kinds of fighting. After that we leave for London to-morrow.

London, Friday, Sept. 16th.

Quite a delay has elapsed since this letter started. I did not get a chance to post it on the march, and I have been too busy in London to write at all. As I said on the last page, we had our all-night march. We struck half of the tents in the early part of the evening so a to lighten the work of the baggage guard in the morning. Some of the fellows got singing songs around a fire on the ground, and then about 20 or 30 bunched in our tent, completely filling it up. As all the guy ropes had been let down except the four corner ones, half of us were half outside. It was rather cold, too, as we had no blankets and our great coats were rolled. After waiting around we fell in about 11.30 with strict instructions not to smoke, talk or straggle on the march. We started out and got on all right. We would stop every hour or so, and then the fellows would flop right down in the road or on the side and go to sleep. In five or ten minutes the whistle would blow and then on we went again. It was funny to see the fellows walking along half asleep, and when the whistle blew for him to butt his head against the rifle of the man in front. We put our greatcoats on and not many suffered from cold. We marched all night and then came into action about 2.45.

That evening we went to London, and a bunch of us went down to the Palace Theatre for the show. The Palace is one of the theatres which is issuing a number of complimentary tickets to the Q. O. R. The morning of the next day was spent in issuing us our greep uniforms and busbies. In the afternoon several of us went over to the British Museum and looked round there. They have everything there, from Greek and Roman architecture to North American Indian weapons. There was any amount of Egyptian mummies, Assyrian and Babylonian works and all kinds of other things. We also saw letters written by Charles V. of Germany, Louis XIV. of France, and lots of other kings and queens. We saw the original Magna Charta, one of the only two autographs of Shakespeare, proof sheets of Gibbon, Gray's writing of his Ode in a Country Churchyard, Milton's writing, and old Greek and Roman writing of the Middle Ages, besides the works of the Church fathers, Bede, Jerome, Gregory, etc. Besides this there were the seals of all the English kings, mediaeval watches, etc., etc. Then we went out to the Japan-British Exhibition, and saw lots of interesting things out there. We saw Japanese embroidery, porcelain and other work. There were also models of British ships of war from the earliest times down to ships to be built next year. There were also copies of the bills imposing the Tea Tax on the American colonies, the abolition of the slave trade, besides acts and charters of early Saxon kings, Edgar, Edward, and Cnut. We also saw charts showthumb and finger prints, and were just coming to peep sights of beauty spots in Japan, and others illustrating the Japanese-Russian war, when the lights went out. We then walked through a long Japanese park, with Japanese scenery all around, and then we took the Lane and walked through Hyde Park. Next day we went to St. Paul's and heard part of the divine service. We saw all we could at St. Paul's and then went on to the Tower. There we saw the White Tower, which was filled with old weapons and armour. Below it were the dungeons where the prisoners were kept. We saw where Sir Walter Raleigh and Guy Fawkes were confined. Fawkes was shut up in a little place where he could neither stand up or sit down. We saw the Traitors Gate, Bloody Tower, Beauchamp Tower, where the prisoners of state were kept. The walls had carvings on them done by prisoners in olden times. Just here one of our sergeants came up and said that I was on for guard for Saturday and this pencil work starts on Saturday when I am off guard. So here am I up at the old barracks, knocking around while the other fellows are all down town sight-seeing. We were supposed to fall in at 9.45, but it was 11 when the guard turned out, and I have been on, walking up and down like an animated donkey for two hours since then. This is their absolutely true leave while in London for everybody. The Militia is where you seem to find all the red tape officialism and double statements in creation. Saturday is the only day that the Parliament buildings are open. Most of the interesting places are closed on Sunday, so I see what I will see the rest of the time I am in London. Thursday evening, Sutcliffe, McLaughlin, and I went down to Drury Lane to see the "Whip." All the plan except some rather high seats was sold out, so we came around again and stood in line for about an hour. We got excellent seats in the pit and enjoyed the theatre fine. It has been running for about a year now, and is certainly a fine show. They brought automobiles, a pack of hounds, half a dozen horses on the stage, and brought an engine and a train of cars, too. It ended up with a horse race between half a dozen horses, the favorite winning and making the fortune of the second star, who had a bet of 20 to 1. Then, of course, the hero and the heroine were in a position to tread the primrose path of happiness. Several of the other theatres are giving free seats but our show was worth the whole lot of them.

On Friday we had our banquet at the Guild Hall. We were ordered out at 9 or a little after, and after waiting around were addressed by Mr. Haldane and Lord Roberts. Then, after forming fours and doing a few other stunts, we reached the Guild Hall. The streets were lined with people, but the police had ordered traffic to keep off the streets. We marched on, so we had lots of room. The march was not hard and we all arrived safely. We went inside and I got seated at a nice seat in the middle of the hall, where I could see all the speakers and everybody when along came our fussy sergeant-major and ordered several of us to go to a table at the very end of the hall, beneath the gallery, where we could see or hear nothing. The change was partially made up for by the fact that the mace bearer, the sword bearer and the crier of the city of London were sitting opposite and beside me, so there was I hobnobbing with aldermen and knights with gold chains around their necks. I did not get autographs, as they left early to go up to the gallery. They served up a pretty elaborate meal, but they shoved the different courses on so fast that we couldn't do full justice to it. The jelly they had was excellent and one of the aldermen said that it had been the secret of the Guild Hall cooks for years, and it was only rarely made. They were very free with their wines and some of the fellows drank more champagne in that meal than they will for the next few years, and it had a slight effect on some of them. I mailed the menu card home yesterday. It got slightly disfigured, as I had to carry it inside my coat on the way home. I also mailed a souvenir of the tower home to have to look at in Canada. In the evening we went to Madame Tussaud's to see the wax works and then after that we went and saw the closing scene in another theatre close by. We had complimentary tickets to both. We saw the chamber of horrors at Madame's, full of life size figures of notorious murderers. They also had the kings of England from William I down, with a lot of their queens, and of course other notable men, among them being Dr. Cook, Peary and other famous personages. There was also a Napoleon room, full of things that belonged to Napoleon when he flourished. There was also a series of tableaux, showing Gordon's last stand at Khartoum Alfred's cakes burning, the death of Nelson, etc, etc.

I am enclosing a programme of the "Whip." Put it aside for me as a remembrance of London. What did you do with that little pen I sent home from Liverpool? Did you get it all right? I think we leave here Tuesday morning for Salisbury, and then we will probably only have Wednesday and Thursday in the open, as there is a swell reception in Liverpool on Friday and the boat leaves Saturday morning. With love to all.

Your loving son,
WILFRID.

Only Seamless Hosiery Fits Right!

You should wear Pen-Angle Hosiery, and no other kind. For this is the only Canadian-made hosiery that is seamless AND priced moderately AND guaranteed.

All three merits ought to be in your hosiery. Because no hosiery that is not SEAMLESS can be comfortable — and Pen-Angle machines are the only ones in Canada able to knit such hosiery, form-shaped to the leg and foot, instead of merely water-shrunk into shape.

Thus, though priced reasonably, Pen Angle Hosiery holds its shape indefinitely. And it is reinforced wherever wear falls.

To these merits add the GUARANTEE you read here—two pairs for one if Pen-Angle Hosiery disappoints.

Note next the modest price you need pay to get all this—and then remember name and trademark when next you need hosiery.

Golden Text—His Lord said unto him, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord." Matt. xxv.: 21.

Verse 14—Who does the "man" travelling into a far country represent?

Who do the "servants" stand for?

What do the "goods" here represent?

Verse 15—What is it which God divides among His servants, represented by "talents"?

What rule does God adopt in giving out His talents? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

What is the evidence which shows that God gives one or more talents to everybody?

Does God give any two men precisely the same gifts, either in kind or quantity? Give your reasons.

How many things are there in nature, mind or matter, precisely alike?

What rule and method does God adopt in giving men differing abilities?

The man in the parable went on a journey and left his servants, all alone, each to be his own master; to what extent does God treat men that way?

Verses 16-17—What do Christians have to do, to be equivalent to a man trading with his money?

About what per cent. of new opportunities are developed, when we are faithful to the original opportunities which God places right before us?

Verse 18—If a man with one talent, representing limited opportunities, had used it, what is the reason for believing that he would have doubled his original capital as did the others?

What sin was this man guilty of?

Why do men with one talent so often bury it as this man did?

Which class of men, as a rule, are the more faithful, those with two, or five talents, or those with only one? Give your reasons.

Verse 19—What evidence is there that there will be a reckoning day for every one of us?

How long before or when will the day of reckoning be?

Verses 20-23—What percentage of profit had they made, and which of the two men were deserving of the more praise?

Verses 24-27—How do you account for the fact that those who are unfaithful generally put the blame upon their opportunities, and their lack of ability, etc.?

In what way did this man add insult to injury?

Verses 28-29—Why did God create the law that those that have get more, and those that have not generally lose even that which they have?

Verse 30—What is the natural punishment which comes to men who have neglected their opportunities?

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts, a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

WIT AND HUMOUR

VERY FRENCH-S

He—Does yo' like to eat watah mifflin?
She—Nope. I always eats my cake wet.

A SWEET BOOK

Sue—I bought a lovely book on swimming to-day, and a very useful one too.
Lou—What is it like?
Sue—Well, if you ever find yourself drowning, by turning to pages 58 and 59 you find complete instructions for saving yourself.

YES SIREE! DURING THE WAR YOU BET YER GRANDPAP WAS WHERE THE SHOT WAS THICKEST!
AMMUNITION HOUSE
BATTLE NO MILES AWAY

THOSE EXAGGERATORS

WOR'E STILL

She—He's sorry now that he quarreled with his wife.
He—She's gone home to her mother, I suppose?
She—No, she's har her mother come home to her.

IT WAS NEEDED

"Now," said the fussy old gent, putting one of the biggest strawberries into his mouth and picking up another, "what is the sense of having that sign read 'Fresh strawberries for sale?' Don't you see that 'Fresh strawberries' would be enough? Don't you suppose that everybody knows they are for sale?"

"I don't know," answered the fruiterer's assistant sarcastically, "some people seem to think we're giving them away!"

A LARGE ORDER

A Frenchman was teaching in a large school where he had a reputation among the pupils for making some queer mistakes. One hot day he was taking a class which was rather disorderly. What with the heat and the troublesome boys, he was very snappish. Having punished several boys, and sent one to the bottom of the form, he at last shouted out in a passion: "Ze whole class go to ze bottom!"

A "SOFT" ANSWER

"Pa," said Willie thoughtfully "I think I know what the minister meant when he said it is more blessed to give than to receive."

"Yes," replied his papa. "Well, what did he mean?"

"Castor oil," replied the young hopeful.

AN UNHEARD-OF THING

It was a fearfully cold day, and so the weather continued till the afternoon, when it took a most sudden and unaccountable turn from cold to warmth. The subject was mooted as usual, and a gentleman described it as "most extraordinary."

"Yes," replied his friend, "it's a most unheard-of thing; we've jumped from winter into summer without a spring."

A BIG DIFFERENCE

A certain horse-dealer is the proud father of a promising son. The boy was once unexpectedly called upon by his father to mount a horse and exhibit its paces. As he settled himself in the saddle the lad, in order to regulate the horse's gait accordingly, bent down and whispered: "Father, are you buying or selling?"

SHE HAD TRIED IT

Mistress—"Would you care to have this last season's hat of mine, Mary?"

Mary—"Oh, thank you so much, mum. It's just the one my young man likes me in best."

HOW TO MAKE PIPES

"How do you make those pipes?" asked the new apprentice in the foundry.

"Shure," said the Irish moulder to whom the question was addressed, "we just get a hole and cast some metal around it."

Could we afford to buy and give away hundreds of thousands of 50-cent bottles of Psychine (pronounced Sikeen) if we did not know from a third of a century's experience that it was the greatest vitality-builder of the age?

You know what it would mean to us were Psychine a preparation without a definite, beneficial action.

After the first bottle which we would buy, no more would be purchased.

And we would go out of business. But we're not going out of business, and our confidence that we're not is based upon our third of a century's experience with Psychine.

Ten years after Confederation we commenced compounding Psychine.

Since that time, we have sold many millions of bottles.

We have cured many hundreds of thousands of virulent and oftentimes fatal cases of diseases.

We have in our files many hundreds of thousands of unsolicited testimonials.

And we have grown from a small beginning to be one of the largest proprietary manufacturers in this country.

Here then is proof that we have in Psychine a preparation with abundant and demonstrated effectiveness, more so than any other preparation we, or anyone else, ever heard of.

Here then is the reason of our unalterable confidence in Psychine, that it is in fact the greatest preparation of its kind in the world.

Here then is why we have inaugurated a policy of actually buying hundreds of thousands of bottles of Psychine to give to those who should use.

To those who are blindly groping in the dark for relief from their misery, who may perhaps be using wrong methods to recover their health and their strength.

* * *

LAGRIPPE.

The greatest and most effective agents for the bodily health are the white corpuscles, phagocytes.

These white corpuscles eat any germ of disease that gains an entrance to the body, when they're in large enough numbers and sufficiently strong.

When they're not sufficiently strong, the disease germs devour them and disease holds the body.

* * *

For centuries almost, herbs, nature's own remedies, have been the most efficient foe to disease.

We have not known very definitely just how.

But now science tells us that certain of these herbs increase the number of the white corpuscles and their strength.

These certain herbs are incorporated in Psychine.

We go to the ends of the earth for these herbs—to Arabia, to South America, to China and to Japan.

They are compounded in the most costly chemical appliances in this country.

And the result is Psychine—for a third of a century the most effective vitality-builder the world has known.

| | |
|---|---|
| La Grippe | Bronchial Coughs |
| Bronchitis | Weak Lungs |
| Hemorrhages | Weak Voice |
| Sore Throat | Spring Weakness |
| Anaemia | Early Decline |
| Female Weakness | Catarrhal Affections |
| Indigestion | Catarrh of Stomach |
| Poor Appetite | Night Sweats |
| Chills and Fevers | Obstinate Coughs |
| Sleeplessness and Nervous Troubles | Laryngitis and Dyspepsia |
| After-effects of Pleurisy, Pneumonia and La Grippe | |

Now we don't ask you to take our word for the tremendously beneficial effect of Psychine. Fill out the coupon below, mail it to us and we'll give your druggist an order (for which we pay him the regular retail price) for a 50-cent bottle of Psychine to be given you free of cost.

We will undoubtedly buy and distribute in this manner hundreds of thousands of these 50-cent bottles of Psychine.

And we do that to show our entire confidence in this wonderful preparation.

A confidence that has been based on our 30 years' experience with this splendid preparation, with a full knowledge of the hundreds of thousands of cures it has made.

NO TIME TO LOSE

At a draper's shop in Leeds they employed a small boy to run errands. The other day while he was waiting in the shop a lady came in and asked the shop-assistant for a yard of silk. When it was placed in front of her she exclaimed:

"Oh, really, I must be mad. I want muslin."

On hearing this the boy rushed out of the shop, and, seeing a policeman across the way, ran up to him, shouting:

"Come over quick, there's a girl in our shop gone mad. She wants muzzling."

RUSHING THE GROWLER

"Pause, my good man, and think 'ere it is too late."

"Ain't got no time now, mate, it's nearly closing time."

HIS WEAKNESS

"Well," said he, anxious to patch up their quarrel, "aren't you curious to know what's in this parcel?"

"Not very," replied the still belligerent wife.

"Ah, I suppose it's those collars you said you needed."

REMAIN AT NINETEEN

Mrs. Desmythe: "Yes, my dear, I intend my daughters to be engaged when they are nineteen."

Mrs. Lajones: "But suppose they are not?"

Mrs. Desmythe: "Then they remain nineteen until they are!"

BE SERIOUS

A GOOD CATCH

Senator Johnson of Newark, N.J., and a party of friends spent a day fishing at Mosquito Bay, New Brunswick. They succeeded in catching five maskinonge which weighed on an average twenty-four pounds each. The members of the party were highly elated over their success.

DOUBLE RISK

"I want some insurance."

"Yes; fire or life?"

"Both—I've got a wooden leg."

THE OTHER KIND

Stranger—Little boy, where could I find a pair of cheap skates?

Kid—Why, right up at the corner there. All the guys up there are cheap skates.

THE FAMILY HEARTH

IN THE RAIN.

(A Reminiscence of the Philippines.)

As I swam across the river in the rain,
The rain drops rang a warning to my brain:
"There's a crooked knife for you,
And an ugly spear or two,
That'll make you wish you hadn't come again.
Go back!
Oh, a dead man won't look pretty in the rain!"

As I swam across the river in the rain,
The lurking lizards croaked a grim refrain:
"For a cheek of velvet brown
Shall a cayman drag you down,
Or a man-trap spit you on a pointed cane.
Go back!
Can't you see the jungle's slippery with the rain?"

As I swam across the river in the rain,
My blood beat up an answer very plain:
"Gold-black eyes as soft as night
Give a promise of delight,
And never was there pleasure without pain.
Go back?
Why, her hair will be all shinin' in the rain!"

— David Potter, in Lippincott's Magazine.

A Novel Gift.

Every girl who can afford it now owns one of the new blanket coats for tennis, golf or motoring. The white coat sweaters, which last summer were the highest ambition of the girl, who could not afford novelties, is now considered 'nice enough, but nothing like so smart as the blanket coat."

Unfortunately for the girl of limited income, the best looking models of this English polo coat are very expensive. Besides the original cost —as white is first favourite — the cleaning must be considered.

Blankets are Used.

One girl has just had two large, soft and very fine blankets made up by a good tailor into one of the best looking polo coats.

Such blankets, white, bordered or double-faced, can often be picked up at a bargain at this season, and any tailor can make them up.

The smart shape is a loose, double breasted ulster, three-quarter or full length, with outside patch pockets and belt of the material. Sometimes the blankets are shrunk before being made up, though thi sis only advisable when white ones are chosen.

Plain Ones Best.

Fringed blankets are used for such coats, but are not so stylish. While white ones are first choice, grays, tans and brown are also in favour, and much more serviceable.

While white blankets wash, every housekeeper knows it takes careful washing not to have them ruined. Best send coat to the cleaner's.

About Soap.

The woman who would scorn to use soap in a public washroom thinks nothing of using a family cake. This is not sanitary. Besides the fact of different soaps being needed by different skins, various members of the family may have undeveloped skin troubles that are contagious.

If possible ,each child should have her own cake of soap as much as her toothbrush, comb and towel.

A soap manufacturer says that fine toilet soaps need drying and ripening as much as coarse soaps. It is, therefore, economical to buy a number of cakes at once and let them dry by placing on a shelf. This should be in some room or closet where there is not much dust or soot.

Fine soap will last longer if it is drained off a minute before being put back in the soap dish, which should first be selected.

Children should be taught not to let soap lie in water. Besides being wasteful, it is bad for the skin to use too much even of good soap, and if not carefully rinsed it makes the skin shiny and clogged.

Some Frozen Dainties.

Frozen Lemons. — Frozen lemons should be served with a game course. Select the required number of even sized, fresh, nice looking lemons (one-half is generally used for each plate). If specked they must be well washed and rubbed to polish the skins. Cut in two lengthwise and remove the pulp carefully with a silver spoon. Take out any fibre remaining and keep the rinds either in ice cold water or in a packed freezer until wanted. This serves to make them firm. All seeds and fibre should be carefully taken out of the pulp, and to each quart of pulp and juice add one cupful of water. Freeze as an ice, and when frozen fill the rinds and pack until needed in an ice cave or freezer arranged as for biscuit glaces until ready to serve. They should be served on small plates garnished with green leaves.

Bitter Almond Sherbet.— Boil together for five minutes one quart of water and one-half of a pound of granulated sugar. When cold, flavour rather strongly with essence of bitter almond, and one gill of kirsch liquor, colour a faint pink and freeze. When half frozen stir into it the whites of three eggs beaten to a meringue with three tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. Freeze again until smooth, and just before serving stir in two tablespoonfuls of noyau.

Nougat Ice cream. — Shell and blanch one-half of a cupful of pistachio nuts and one-quarter o fa cupful of almonds. Chop very, very fine with one-half of a cupful of English walnuts. Make a rich vanilla cream and when nearly frozen beat in the nuts with a spoon, adding a few drops of pistachio extract.

Men are queer. Wouldn't there be a roar when they went home to their meals if they had to climb up on a high stool in front of a table on which there was no cloth, and eat their meals in that fashion. Yet the majority of men, when they go to a restaurant, will pick out the high stool and feed board with no cloth on it in preference to a comfortable chair with a cloth covered table. A man will borrow a chew of tobacco and most of them will set their teeth into the plug where some other man has gnawed off a chew. Offer him a piece of pie at home from which his wife or one of the children had taken a bite and he would holler his head off. At home he will not drink out of a glass cup from which one of the family has been drinking. Call him into the back stall of a livery barn, pull out a bottle and he will stick the neck of the bottle half way down his throat in order to get a swig, after half a dozen fellows have had the neck of the bottle in their mouths. Truly a man is a queer duck.

* * *

There is nothing aside from the milk of human kindness so necessary to the comfort of any family as the milk of a good cow. It is like oil poured upon the troubled water of family life; it is perfect food for the baby; it is an excellent beverage for the children; it furnishes cream for the coffee, butter for the bread, and cheese for the lunch. It shortens the pie crust and raises the johnny cake even the cats and dogs cry for it. With the farmer it goes still further. It raises the calf; it feeds the pig; it pleases the colt, and it delights the chickens. Yes, and if he will only give her a fair chance, the cow will clothe the children, buy comforts for the wife, pay the taxes and help lift the mortgage.

Now that the schools have begun their sessions, we must not forget that our children are still our children and the more interest we show in their school the more its efficiency is increased. There is no teacher worthy of the name who is not pleased with the judicious advice and assistance and sympathy from the parents. The gulf is too wide between the home and the school, and the more we help to bridge it over the more we are improving not only our own children, but the general tone of the school. If the children see that the parents appreciate their teacher, they are much more apt to appreciate her themselves, lend cheerful and willing obedience to her wishes, and have a certain pride in the success of the school.

No one can so inspire a man to noble purposes as a noble woman and no one so thoroughly degrades a man as a wife of unworthy tendencies.

A SWEET-MINDED WOMAN

So great is the influence of a sweet-minded woman on those around her that it is almost boundless. It is to her that friends come in seasons of sorrow and sickness for help and comfort! One soothing touch of her kindly hand works wonders in the feverish child: a few words let fall from her lips in the ear of a sorrow-stricken sister do much to raise the load of grief that is bowing its victim down to the dust in anguish. The husband comes home worn out with the pressure of business and feeling irritable with the world in general, but when he enters the cosy sitting-room and sees the blaze of the fire, and meets his wife's smiling face, he succumbs in a moment to the soothing influences which act as the balm of Gilead to his wounded spirits that are wearied by the stern realities of life. The rough school boy flies into a rage from the taunts of his companions to find solace in his mother's smile; the little one full of grief with her large trouble, finds a haven of rest on its mother's breast; and so one might go on with instance after instance of the influence that a sweet-minded woman has in social life with which she is connected.

Love makes living less difficult for men and women. It smooths the rugged road; it lightens the burdens; it shares disappointment and sorrows, and it doubles every joy. The love that is simple and kind and constant is the surest ally in the work-a-day world. The love that idealizes, that translates prose into poetry and lifts the heart of resistant song in the darkest hour, is the very glory of life and the man or woman is forever blessed and forever young who is gifted with the ecstacy of love. It is like the rose bloom on the young girl's cheek, you say it cannot outlive early youth. You are mistaken. Some are born with this fountain of eternal youth within them, rich, rare natures that live with head and heart in the full sunshine, however dark the clouds that drift about their feet.

EDWARD JOBE IS SENTENCED TO SEVEN YEARS IN THE PENITENTIARY

Peterborough Boy Who Pleaded Guilty to a List of Burglaries Committed Here in August Gets Heavy Punishment.

SENTENCED TO-DAY

Edward Jobe was this morning sentenced to seven years in the Kingston Penitentiary by Magistrate Dumble. Many curious people thronged the police court to hear him receive his sentence. The prisoner seemed to be composed and quite unconcerned about the proceedings, and, after the sentence was passed on him, he acted as if it was no worse than he expected. Before Magistrate Dumble passed the sentence, he asked the prisoner if he had anything to say. Jobe replied that he had not, so he was then ordered to be removed to the Kingston penitentiary. He was charged with three cases of burglary and two of theft. He was sentenced on the three former charges, but was exempted on the two latter ones. The sentence of 7 years in the other three are to run concurrently.

A rather serious charge was laid against a local lady tender. He was charged with selling liquor to a minor, and was fined $20 and costs, totalling $22.60. In default of which he would have to go down for 30 days. He paid the fine.

STOMACH DISTRESS IS ENDED FOREVER

Dyspepsia, Heartburn, Gas or Indigestion Vanish in Five Minutes

Take your sour, out-of-order stomach or maybe you call it Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 22-gram Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your former misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juices; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and fulness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, biliousness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness or many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is fickle and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas, or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself in five minutes that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a little Diapepsin.

MONKS RESISTED ATTACK OF REPUBLICAN FORCES

Met Soldiers With Rifle Fire That Left Many Gaps in the Ranks---Ultimately Had to Surrender---Monasteries All Over Portugal Will Put Up a Strong Resistance.

Special Wire to The Examiner.

LISBON, OCT. 8.—One of the most serious fights since the revolution started, occurred this morning when the monks in Braibo monastery resisted a body of Republican soldiers, who attempted to take possession of the place. The monks barricaded all entrances and received the soldiers with a rifle fire which made many gaps in the ranks. Then having siege to the monastery and entrenching themselves, the infantry awaited the arrival of artillery, whose bombardment brought the surrender of the monks in a couple of hours. It develops this morning that monasteries and convents all over the country are prepared to resent the attempts of the government to expel them from the country, and much bloodshed is feared in this way. This morning casualties were about seventy killed and some hundred wounded. Senor Costa, the Minister of Justice, has informed the foreign powers that the Republicans completely control the country and that the situation is normal. The story that Manuel attempted suicide and was prevented by his mother when making flight, is confirmed.

BANNER YEAR FOR LADIES' LITERARY SOCIETY PREDICTED BY REV. FATHER CASEY

Initial Meeting of the Ladies' Branch of St. Peter's Held Last Evening—Father Casey Will be Spiritual Adviser.

OFFICERS TO BE ELECTED

The initial meeting of the Ladies Literary Society of St. Peter's T.A.S., was held last night at the new St. Alphonsus Lyceum. Rev. Father McColl presided, and Rev. Father Casey, Spiritual Adviser to the Society was also present.

The meeting was called for the purpose of nominating the various officers and committees of the Society for the 1910-11 session.

Rev. Father McColl spoke briefly of the objects of the Society and urged the members to make it a success. He had asked Father Casey to look after its interests for the coming year and when the Rev. Father consented, he felt sure that they were in capable hands. Father Casey would be always at their service; he would be present at all their meetings, and he felt sure he would always feel at home with them, for matters literary had a very special attraction for their new Spiritual Director. He (Father McColl) promised to look in occasionally. His time was not always his own and it might be that he could turn up late, but nevertheless he would come expecting to hear and see much that was both entertaining and profitable at their meetings. Judging from past experience he had no fear that he would be disappointed. He appealed to them to make the Society a success. The should, one and all, have a general interest in it. They were not all writers, but they were all readers, and the educational value of their society could not be exaggerated. At the various meetings they would have an opportunity of meeting each other, in a social manner, and such intercourse must necessarily make them better morally, intellectually and physically, because a little healthy amusement was good for such a body.

Rev. Father Casey paid a warm tribute to Father McColl's work for the society. They would not accuse him (the speaker) of seeking to canvass Father McColl's good graces, because they knew Father McColl better than he did, and they recognized that it was principle, not words, that counted with him. He was a very busy man—as he himself said his time was not his own, yet he found time to be with them during the past year. Wherever there was work to be done for the people, Father McColl was there ready to do his share, and more than his share. He thereby felt that it was his duty to help him out in every way possible, and if he could be of any assistance to their society, they could count on him to be with them. But although he was to be their new director, they were not going to lose Father McColl. They wanted to see him at their meetings even though he did come late. (Laughter), and in everything that they did they would be guided by him. Rev. Fr. Casey promised the society every assistance in his power, but he reminded them that the success of the society lay with the members. They could make it and mar it. He felt sure they would enter into it heart and soul and not rest satisfied until every Catholic lady of Peterborough was a member of the Ladies' Literary Society of St. Peter's T.A.S. They should all work enthusiastically together so that the coming year would go down in history as the banner year of the society.

The meeting then proceeded to the nominations to the various offices.

The officers will be elected by ballot at the next meeting of the Society to be held at the Lyceum on Monday evening at 8 o'clock. As the efficiency of the Society depends almost entirely on the officers and executive committee, all the members and intending members are requested to attend on Monday evening, to ensure that the best possible will be elected. The choice of the Society is not necessarily confined to those already nominated. Members' cards will also be distributed at Monday's meeting.

Rev. Father Casey, the new Director, better known to many as "Columba" of the Catholic Record staff.

SENTENCE IS DEATH

Robert Parker, Convicted of Murdering His Neighbour William Masters, Must Pay Penalty For His Crime on December 3

JUDGE WAS OVERCOME

Special Wire to the Examiner.

BELLEVILLE, OCT. 8.—At four o'clock this morning Chief Justice Mulock sentenced to die on Dec. 3rd, Robt. Parker, aged 71, convicted of shooting and murdering his neighbour, Wm. Masters. There will be an appeal for executive clemency.

In sentencing the aged man, Chief Justice Mulock was overcome with emotion. His Lordship urged the condemned man not to expect too much from the recommendation for mercy, but to be prepared to meet the judge of all. Mr. Porter, K.C., the prisoner's counsel, moved for a reserved case, but it was refused.

ENTERED HOUSE

Examiner Special.

OTTAWA, OCT. 8.—Constables Charbonneau and Campeau of Hull were arrested, and bailed out, on a charge of forcibly entering a citizen's house when the wife was alone. Their plea is that they thought a burglar was in the house.

BRANTFORD BURGLARS

Special to The Examiner.

BRANTFORD, ONT., OCT. 8.—This city was visited by a gang of rather unsuccessful burglars last night, who attempted to get into several stores and residences, but made a get only at McCowan's grocery store, where tobacco, cake and canned goods were taken and the residence of Robert Hall, where a gold watch was secured.

At dinner, especially—as at any "meat meal"—Regal Lager proves a great help to weak digestions. It tones the stomach, and does the nerves good. Yet it is no mere stimulant, and certainly not an intoxicant.

UNCLE SAM'S MOVE

Special Wire to the Examiner.

OTTAWA, OCT. 8.—Mr. Fielding in touch with the Government declare that there's nothing in the stories that Canada is approaching Washington for reciprocity negotiations. It is stated that if the United States desire such negotiations they will have to come to Canada for them.

PITY THE BABIES.

All babies whose mothers do not know about Dr. Chase's Ointment are truly to be pitied. They are sure to have skin troubles of one kind or another, such as chafing, skin irritation, scald head, milk scall or baby eczema and nothing can bring them comfort so quickly as Dr. Chase's Ointment. It stops itching promptly and heals the skin beautifully.

TWO HUNDRED AND FORTY ONE PRISONERS RECEIVED AT COUNTY GAOL DURING YEAR

General Statistics From October First, 1909, Until September 30th, 1910---Daily Cost of Living Per Prisoner 8 3-8 Cents---Some Interesting Particulars.

The statistics of the Peterborough County gaol have been filed by Sheriff Hall and are considered very favourable by the officials in charge. With the growth and advancement of this city along industrial and commercial lines, the good morals of Peterborough have not deteriorated and the showing on the whole is not too bad. Two hundred and forty-one prisoners were received at the gaol during the year, twenty of which were females. This is five more than last year. The year closes on September 30th. The number of prisoners in the gaol at the first of the month was nineteen, ten of whom are awaiting trial and nineteen are serving short sentences. One is of unsound mind. During the year thirteen prisoners were sent to Central Prison and one was sent to the Penitentiary. The "thirty days" and "sixty days" and the "six months" terms were popular. Of the former there were thirty-three of the second one, twenty, and of the latter sixteen. One hundred and ninety-four were maintained by the county, the balance by the government. The number of days municipal prisoners were in custody was 4143. The work of the prisoners was cleaning the buildings and improving the grounds.

Prisoners' Nationality.

The records show the following representation of nationalities:

| | |
|---|---|
| Canadian | 177 |
| English | 27 |
| Irish | 12 |
| Scotch | 3 |
| United States | 9 |
| Other countries | 7 |

Prisoners' Religion.

The prisoners professed the following religions:

| | |
|---|---|
| Roman Catholic | 58 |
| Church of England | 53 |
| Presbyterian | 27 |
| Methodist | 73 |
| Other denominations | 24 |

The Expenditure.

| | |
|---|---|
| For food, clothing and fuel | $972.32 |
| Salaries | 1400.00 |
| Repairs | 6.38 |
| | $2378.70 |

The daily cost per prisoner was 8 3-8 cents. The number of cells in the gaol are 24, and the greatest number of prisoners incarcerated at one time was 22. The lowest number was six.

The King George Is One Of The Finest Hotels In The City

The new King George hotel, owned by Mr. J. B. Larocque, on Simcoe street, is now one of the finest hostelries in the city. Since Mr. Larocque took over this place in June, carpenters, paper hangers and decorators have been kept busy making repairs, with the result that the place has been completely renovated. A new front with attractive windows has been placed to the hotel and the whole building has been made very attractive. New furniture has also been purchased for every room, and there are twenty-two fine bedrooms. A splendid new system of heating has been installed, assuring the guests of every comfort. The dining room is a large and spacious one and has been prettily decorated and a new office and parcel room for the benefit of the farmers will be greatly appreciated. The general and travelling public is assured of the very best accommodation and of every convenience.

Capt. Carson Makes Big Haul In Lake Simcoe

BEAVERTON, OCT. 8.—(Special.)—Capt. Carson, of Peterborough, in command of the Government fishery patrol steamer, the "Naiad" made a big haul in Lake Simcoe a short distance from here this morning, when he arrested two men and captured fifteen hundred yards of net, which they had been using. Capt. Carson also seized their boats and a large quantity of salmon and white fish, which it is said had been illegally caught by them.

SIMPSON IN GAME

Played Against Ottawa Rough Riders at Hamilton To-day

When Ben Simpson was leaving Peterborough after spending the summer at his home here and at his Stony Lake cottage he remarked to the Sporting Editor of the Examiner that he did not intend to play Rugby this season unless Hamilton needed him. Evidently the Tigers felt the necessity of having the famous pedagogue on the back division as Ben is billed to play this afternoon against Ottawa.

WON THREE PRIZES

Mr. Herb. Stinson's Horse at the Millbrook Fair

At the Millbrook Fair yesterday, Mr. Herb. Stinson's horse carried off a number of prizes. It won first in the 15.2 hands and under class, in the Isaac Eastwood special for the best lady driver, and in the best gentleman's turnout. Miss Nellie Graham drove in the ladies' contest and Mr. M. Meany in the other classes.

Y. M. C. A. MEETING

Men's Gathering on Sunday Afternoon is Very Popular

One of the most popular events to take place on Sunday afternoon is the Men's Meeting at the Y.M.C.A.; that is it one can judge by attendance and interest.

Rev. I. Couch will speak to-morrow at 4.15 and the George Street Methodist Church Male Quartette will sing. That ought to draw a big crowd.

FUND INCREASING

This morning a cheque of twenty-five dollars was received by the Secretary of the Chimes Fund, from the members of Peterborough Lodge, 156, A. F. and A. M. The employees of the Wm. English Company made a donation of $2.50. Both of these generous donations are deeply appreciated, and bring the fund up to noon to-day to $4,651.17.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES

The very large crowd and the many who came out for Christ last night at the meeting conducted by Dr. Sam Luttrell was convincing proof of the power and force of the doctor's evangelistic gift, and above all the presence of God's wonderful saving power. The doctor endeavored to show to his listeners last night the difference between being in the church and in Christ. There was too much Church-anity and not enough Christ anity he said.

There is only way to be saved, that is in Christ.

The meetings will continue to-morrow and all next week.

Don't forget the Mass Meeting for men to-morrow at 3 o'clock in the Park Street Church.

Special address to men only: "The Man Who Wins."

All men made welcome. Mr. Mulligan has kindly consented to assist in the singing next week.

DELICATE BABIES NEED BABIES' OWN TABLETS

For the baby who is delicate, who suffers from constipation, stomach and bowel troubles, worms or difficult teething, nothing can equal Baby's Own Tablets. They are a positive cure for all the little ills of childhood and can be given to the new born baby with perfect safety. They are sold under an absolute guarantee of a Government analyst to contain no harmful drug. They cannot possibly do harm — they always do good. Mrs. Geo. A. Windover, Rockcroft, Ont., writes: "I would not be without Baby's Own Tablets. My baby was small and delicate and never grew till I began giving her the Tablets. She is nine months old now and thanks to the Tablets is well, fat and rosy. I will certainly recommend them whenever I get the opportunity." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BURNED TO DEATH

Postmaster in Quebec Met With Horrible Fate—Clothes Thought to Have Caught Fire From Matches

WAS WELL KNOWN

Special to The Examiner.

ST. JOHN, OCT. 8.—Dr. H. P. Reynolds, postmaster of L'Ereaux, was burned to death while alone in the house this morning. It is thought his clothes caught fire from lighting a match.

TO-DAY'S MARKET

Prices of everything were somewhat advanced at this morning's market. Potatoes have advanced from 15c to 20c per bag. Owing to the pleasant weather conditions prevailing a large crowd attended and all kinds of farm produce was up for sale in large quantities. Hay was in abundance to-day, five or six loads being for sale. But the great supply did not any more than meet the demand, so the prices did not decline at all.

The prices were as follows:

Cooking apples, 60c per bag.
Other variety apples, 75c per bag.
Potatoes, $1.10 per bag.
Onions, 25c per peck.
Pumpkins, 10c each.
Carrots, 5c bunch.
Citrons, 5 to 20c per bunch.
Live ducks, $2.50 per pair.
Dressed ducks, 60c each.
Butter, 27c lb.
Eggs, 28 to 30c doz.
Geese, $1.20, $1.10, $1.25 each.
Turkeys, 18c per lb.
Chickens, 75c and $1.00 per pair.
Hay, by the load, $14 and $15.
Baled hay, 90c per cwt.

Next week's prices for live hogs will be $8.40; no dressed hogs are being purchased yet.

Farmers' hides are selling at from 7 1-2 to 8c and butchers' at 8c.

ANNUAL MEETING

Of the Women's Art Association Will Be Held on Monday

The annual meeting of the Peterborough branch of the Women's Art Association will be held for the election of officers for the ensuing year, on Monday evening, Oct. 10, in the Y. W.C.A. All members of the Association and all who would like to join are cordially invited to attend Monday evening's meeting.

OCTOBER RASPBERRIES OF LUSCIOUS FLAVOUR

The second crop of raspberries is no rarity every year; but the present bland season has resulted in the production of second crops, unusually prolific. A lady left with the Examiner several raspberry tips laden with thick clusters of perfectly ripened fruit—found on th farm of Mr. W. B. Anderson, near Crawford's grove. The wild berries were as large as Cuthberts and of good flavour, not of the watery, insipid taste usually found in raspberries of aftermath character.

SHOOTING CONTESTS

Mr. Louis Yeates, proprietor of the George street shooting gallery has made arrangements to resume at once the series of shooting contests that were formerly so popular. A splendid list of prizes is offered and the crack shots of Peterborough should not fail to take advantage of the opportunity. Mr. Yeates, who is himself a fine shot and who has had the advantage of a year's soldiering in the Greek army, will give exhibitions of shooting. The splendid gallery which is equipped with up-to-date targets and rifles is situated at 339 George street, over the shoe shine parlour.

TO-NIGHT—See 'The Vulture' an entirely new Play, different from all others at the Grand Opera House. Prices, 25c, 35c and 50c, Box Seats 75c., Gallery 15c. 2d-8z

FIRE IN A SHED

The fire team got a call to the corner of Dublin and Union streets this afternoon at 1.46. The fire was started in an old shed at the back of an empty house by some little boys. The call was sent in from Box 42 by E. J. Kidd. The brigade made a fast run and was on the scene before the fire had gained any headway. No damage was done.

JUVENILE CRIME.

Rev. Dr. Symonds is as active in the promotion of altruistic work in Montreal as he was in Peterborough. He is a member of the committee of the Children's Aid Society of that city, charged with helping in the establishment of a court for the hearing and trial of offences charged against young persons. We need to make a good deal of progress in our treatment—at trial as well as subsequently—of juvenile offenders against the law. The lad, Henderson, who was hanged at Peterborough jail last June, was a typical example of one of the most serious faults of our punitive system. According to an autograph story of his life, written in the condemned cell, he was practically sentenced to death, as punishment of his first petty crime. He was sentenced to prison, and compelled to associate with hardened and professional criminals, who played on his tender youth—he was thirteen years old—to determine a life of criminality. Going to jail for petty theft was not Henderson's real and irrevocable starting point of a criminal career. With proper associations and proper guiding he might have been reclaimed and restored to good citizenship; but he was thrown into an atmosphere of vicious association, whose contaminating and depraving influence was irresistible; and he entered upon a career of vice, which ended on the gallows. In this sense Henderson was practically sentenced to death, when he was sent to jail a few weeks for petty theft and placed in the school of crime, represented by association with the vilest of criminals, the strongest possible illustration of the truth,—evil communication corrupt good manners.

THE RULING MOTIVE.

Toronto has difficulty in selecting a Medical Health officer; and the trouble seems to be that the question of professional qualification has less influence than considerations of the personnel of the prospective appointee and his relations to certain interests. Of course this is the wrong spirit with which to enter upon the matter of making so important a selection as a medical health officer. It is very obvious that his professional and administrative qualifications should be the main consideration. In the selection of a librarian for the new public library the question of all-round qualification should be the paramount consideration. The library board appointed, judging from its personnel, seems to be a good one, and fairly representative of the several interests it is appointed to serve. The selection of a librarian and assistant is a matter that should have reference only to securing the best all round qualifications. While the qualifications of a good librarian cannot very well be reduced to catalogue form, there are certain general qualifications obviously necessary. Good education, equivalent to scholarship, a wide range of reading, and familiarity with books, are indispensable, and the appointee should be qualified to be persona grata—possessed of courtesy and tact, as the official medium of access to the benefits of a public library for its beneficiaries, the public. In hardly any other appointment should qualification, in its widest sense, be the preeminently ruling motive, as in the selection of the librarian of a Public Library. Deference to any other considerations in making an appointment will injuriously affect the public in relation to full benefit of the advantages a Public Library should confer.

WE HAVE MUCH TO LEARN

In this new country, whose making we have, to a large extent, in our own hands, we should be able to avoid many of the undesirable conditions that obtain in the cramped area of European countries. With our wide spaces, our unlimited area, we should not have in our cities the congestion of population that piles the people of old-world cities in layers, like sardines in a box. Yet, it must come as a surprise that in the largest city of the world, situated in a country that could be placed two or three times on the surface of some of our provinces, and still leave a wide margin of area, there are fewer people to the acre than in some of the cities in Canada and the United States. In the City of London, with its 7,200,000 of citizens, the density of population is 16.3 to the acre. In Toronto, with a population of only 345,000 there are 20.6 persons to the acre. In Montreal, the number is 17.3 to the acre. In Boston, in the United States, the number of people to the acre is 48.3, greater than the most congested city of Europe—Berlin, with its 42.1 to the acre. We have always regarded London as the greatest hive of humanity in the world, and so it is, but the population is better distributed than in either Toronto or Montreal, which have room to spread in in a country nearly as large as the whole of Europe. And, not only is London's population more wisely distributed, but the sanitary conditions are so well looked after that, with its fog and smoke and grime and dirt, the death rate is lower than in any of the villages, towns, or cities, or rural districts of Ontario. We pride ourselves upon our wide-open spaces, our pure air and water; yet we cannot hold on to life as long as the dwellers in the kennels and slums of the modern Babylon. We have a great many things to learn from the old land yet, as to the best ways of living and the best ways of municipal administration. We pride ourselves on our ability to give homes, and not only homes, but farms, and estates to the teeming millions of the old land, yet we can give them less assurance of a low death rate than can the purlieus of Whitechapel and the malodourous precincts of Petticoat Lane. If the Municipal Government of Peterborough were as perfect as that of London we should have infinitely better conditions and that, too, without a tax rate of 22 mills on the dollar. We have a vast deal to learn from the Mother Country yet.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

There is a lively controversy on in Toronto between Inspector Hughes and Dr. Helen McMurchy, in regard to the medical inspection of schools. We have not heard the last word on the subject yet; but it is safe to say that the last word will come from the woman in the case.

Ward 1. Conservatives of Toronto, have declared in favour of party politics in municipal elections. They should be, and will be, sat upon by all Conservatives, not so blinded by partizan zeal, as to ignore the danger of one of the most vicious elements that can be introduced into the management of civic or municipal affairs.

A GREATER-THAN-EVER SURPLUS

(Toronto Star)

The announcement made by the Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux in England, that the Hon. W. S. Fielding may be expected to announce a £6,000,000 surplus for the year, is one which Canadians will note with some satisfaction. A $30,000,000 surplus would be the biggest, by a large margin, that Canada has ever known, the record year to date being 1908, when the balance on the right side was something less than $20,000,000. The significance of the sum mentioned by Mr. Lemieux is emphasized by comparing it with the aggregate surpluses of all years from Confederation down to 1896. The sum of these surpluses is less than $40,000,000, and when the deficits, which aggregated over $23,000,000, are deducted, it dwindles to less than $17,000,000. If the Postmaster-General is not astray is his prediction, the Laurier Government surpluses from 1898 to the end of the current year will add up to nearly $145,000,000.

The whole credit for the prosperity of Canada is not due to wise and progressive government at Ottawa. It is in part the inevitable result of the opening up and development of a country rich in natural resources and peopled by the sturdy races of the Homeland. But a Government actuated by the spirit of pessimism which seems to control the Ottawa Opposition would have hindered, rather than helped, the development which time has brought about. It was Providence which gave Canada to the Canadians, but it was Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues who awakened Canada and the world to a realization of the goodness of the gift. In so far as their careful administration has fostered the Dominion's progress, and in so far as their confidence in the country's future has helped Canada to come into its own, these statesmen may at least claim to have been the lieutenants of a Providence which did not seem to find much suitable material in the ranks of their predecessors.

New Quebec Bridge Compared With Its Only Rival, Forth Bridge

(Canadian Engineer.)

Tenders are now being called for the construction and erection of the new Quebec bridge, and tenders will close October 1st, 1910. The bridge which is to replace the one that collapsed in August 1907, while in course of erection, will still be the largest and heaviest in the world, although the centre span will be 42 feet shorter than the old one.

The design which has been completed by the Board of Engineers appointed by the Dominion Government, is of the cantilever type, single intersection trusses, and has a maximum span of 1,758 ft. 0 in. The trusses are 88 feet centre to centre, and have a maximum height centre to centre of pins over the main pier of 290 ft. 0 in. A clear headroom of 150 feet above highest water has been provided for a width of 600 feet under the centre of the bridge.

The contract for the masonry was let last year to Messrs. M. P. and J. T. Davis, who were also the contractors for the old bridge piers. Practically all the masonry will require to be reconstructed as the bridge is 21 feet wider than the old one and nearly twice as heavy. The north main pier will be entirely rebuilt and carried down to rock. The south main pier will be reconstructed and enlarged, the foundations only being used. The anchor piers will be torn down and rebuilt and the abutments enlarged.

The caisson for the north pier was launched July 7th, 1910, and the work will start at once. The caisson is 180 feet by 56 feet square and over 90 feet high, requiring approximately 3,000,000 feet of timber, 90 p.c. of which is 12 in. x 12 in. southn pine. Nearly 70 tons of bolt were required in its construction.

At the lower depths to which the caisson will be sunk the men are working under a pressure of about four atmospheres. At this depth men can only work for about two one-hour shifts in the twenty-four hours, for which they receive a full day's pay. Work will go on night and day and a force of some 2,000 men required.

Between 40,000 and 50,000 barrels of cement will be required in the construction of the north pier alone, and about 125,000 barrels for the entire work.

The caissons for the south pier will be constructed this winter.

It is interesting to compare a few of the principal features of the bridge with those of the Fifth of Forth bridge, at present the largest existing bridge in the world.

| | Quebec bridge. | Forth bridge. |
|---|---|---|
| Ttl. length cantilevers | 2,930 ft. | 5,349.5 ft. |
| No. channel spans | 1,758 ft. | 1,710 ft. |
| Length longest channel span | 1,728 ft. | 1,710 ft. |
| Roadways on bridge | 2 ry. trks. | |
| " " | 2 st ry. trks | |
| " " | 2 highways | 2 ry. trks |
| " " | 2 sidewalks | |
| Load per lineal ft. bridge is designed to carry exclusive of own weight | 13,340 lbs | 4.0 tons |
| Ttl. weight of bridge | 72,000 tons | 52.0 tons |
| Weight per lineal ft. for cantilever only | 49,150 lbs. | 21,360 lbs. |
| Greatest depth of piers below high water | 93 ft. | 87 ft. |

The weight per lineal foot of steel in the Quebec bridge is 2.30 times as great as that of the Forth bridge.

The load for which the Quebec bridge is designed is 2.08 times as great as that for which the Forth bridge was designed.

The Forth bridge has 4.77 lbs. of carbon steel for every pound of live load it is designed to carry.

Quebec bridge has 3.69 lbs. of nickel steel for every pound of live load it is designed to carry.

The prescribed test load for the Quebec bridge is 4 1-2 times heavier than that used for the Forth bridge.

Models of all the important members, both compression and tension, have been made and will be tested to destruction in order to learn as nearly as possible what the elastic limit and ultimate strength of such members are under approximately actual conditions. Some of these tests have already been made.

Test pieces of the compression chord of the old Quebec bridge broke at 26,850 lbs. per square inch.

Test pieces of similar chords for the new bridge broke at 56,800 lbs. per square inch.

The new chords are, therefore, more than twice as strong per square inch as the old ones.

The maximum section of the compression chords of the old bridge was 843 square inches; in the new bridge the maximum section is 2,037 square inches.

According to the tests the old chords would break under a pressure of 22,634,000 lbs. and the new ones under a pressure of 115,701,000 lbs.

The new chords are, therefore, more than five times as strong as the old ones, although the live load of the new bridge is only about twice as heavy as the live load of the old bridge.

SAVED FROM THE KNIFE

Appendicitis Cured By "Fruit-a-tives"

NEWBURGH ONT., Feb. 12th, 1910.

'Just about a year ago, our daughter Ella (fourteen years) was taken with terrible pains in the right side. The pain was so severe that we had to carry her to bed. We at once put her under the care of a first class doctor, who pronounced it a case of Appendicitis and advised an operation.

We took her to a hospital in Kingston where she was again examined by an eminent specialist. He said she had Appendicitis and must be operated on at once if we wanted to save her life. As we had taken her to Kingston to have this done we were ready but our daughter was afraid and cried and begged so pitifully, that we postponed it for that day. Luckily for us and for her an uncle came in with some 'Fruit-a-tives' and insisted on Ella taking them. Good results were apparent almost from the first dose, and the continuous treatment cured her.

'Fruit-a-tives' saved our daughter from the surgeon's knife and to-day she is enjoying the best of health."

J. W. FOX, (Father).
LILLIAN FOX, (Mother).

Words cannot express the gratitude of Mr and Mrs. Fox. And Miss Ella will always remember 'Fruit-a-tives'—the discovery of an eminent physician, and the only medicine in the world made of fruit. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box 25c. At dealers or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Lying began with the beginning of the human race. The Garden of Eden was not free from it; and as man has increased and multiplied lying has not decreased. It is a point of kinship in the race; black and white, yellow and red, savage and civilized all men are liars. There are sober nations, but there is no nation of truth-tellers. George Washington stands out as a signal example of a boy who could not tell a lie. But he was not grown up when the cherry tree came in the way of his new hatchet. He probably gained this universal power later in life.

Despite the common character of this moral disease "God and good men hate a liar." Indeed, detestation is not limited to good men. All men shun a liar. Is there no occasion on which a deviation from the truth is excusable? Aristotle says that there were lies and lies. His "noble lie" excuses a certain class. The keeper may speak falsely to soothe the dangerous lunatic. False signals are displayed by admirals and generals to gain an advantage over a foe. A scout or spy may have to lie in act and word to gain his end. But disease and war are abnormal conditions.

Like all sin lying has its origin in selfishness. Men desire wealth; they set out honestly to obtain it, but they listen to the voice of the tempter and adopt shady methods. Their first falsehoods may be harmless enough, but in the end they are dragged into a maelstrom of untruths. There are in America many stately fortunes that are but colossal monuments to the father of lies. It is the same in the search after power. The young politician begins his career with high ideals. He enters the arena as the champion of the rights of man. He finds factions in the state. The plutocracy and the democracy are ranged against each other. The methods adopted in the battle for power are similar to those in the battle for wealth. Lying is chief among them, and the politician who does not sooner or later take up the weapon he finds nearest at hand is as rare as a white crow. He soothes his soul with such excuses as that he is but fighting the devil with fire. It may be that as a leader he may scorn to deliberately lie or misrepresent, but he allows his campaign organizers, his stump orators and his pamphleteers to do it for him. Men gain wealth by lies; parties hold power by falsehoods. "There are liars and swearers enow," we have it in Shakespeare, "to beat the honest men and hang up them." This holds true in modern life. Trusts and corporations have been formed—the land pirates have banded together and the honest men are paying the piper. Are there no successful honest men? Yes, hundreds! but the plotters and schemers are still in the majority.

In ordinary trade lying is so common that all expect it. Evidently it was no better in Shakespeare's day. "It" (lying), he says, "becomes none but tradesmen". The buyer is generally quite as much to blame as the seller. In his selfishness he is looking for bargains, and prices are raised only to be lowered. False stamps are put on goods, food is adulterated, and all in order that the seller may be able to meet the buyer's craving for cheapness.

In every-day life the chief cause of lies is cowardice. The child commits an offence. He fears punishment; lying is such an easy way of escape. The merchant fears to lose a customer; a little equivocation on his part serves his turn. The wife fears the anger of her husband; the husband dreads hurting his wife's feelings. All lie to save themselves or others from suffering. In every instance the exercise of a little courage would have brought greater happiness, or if not happiness, blessedness, to use Carlyle's distinction. The world would be infinitely better and happier if men would follow George Herbert's advice:

"Dare to be true, nothing can need a lie;
A fault which needs it most grows
two thereby."

Nor does it stop at two; to conceal the first lie it is usually necessary to tell many. Lies are tremendous breeders of lies: they are as prolific as the Australian rabbit, but far more difficult to destroy. Nor are they exclusive, but find a home in the hearts of men, women, and children, of old and young.

The serious feature about lying is that it becomes habit. There are men and women who seem unable to tell the truth. They cause more trouble and pain in the world than drunkards and brawlers. They are the assassins of character, the thieves of good names, and deserve the whipping post and the stocks. The worst thing about the vice is that it increases with practice. Inimitable old Falstaff remarked: "Lord, how subject we old men are to the vice of lying." It is base in childhood, but is unspeakable in old age. It is bad enough under any circumstances, but "is worse in kings than in beggars." The greater the experience, the loftier the position, the more sternly should men be on their guard to avoid falsehood, with its "goodly outside" but "rotten heart."

Ordered to Hospital

FOR OPERATION FOR ACUTE INDIGESTION—DID NOT GO AND WAS CURED BY

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

The doctors seem to have made the common mistake of dosing the stomach when the real source of trouble was with the liver and kidneys. Anyway Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills made a complete cure and here is the record:

Mrs. F. O. Bacon, Baldwin's Mills, Que., writes: "I was very sick and the doctors said I must go to the hospital for a surgical operation. I had acute indigestion and the liver and kidneys did not act. I did not want to undergo an operation so I began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills and have used them ever since. I am feeling well now and doing my own work for a family of seven. I think there is no equal for acute indigestion and liver and kidney troubles such as I had and they and nothing else made me well again. There is no medicine I like half so well, for this did wonders for me."

The real serious cases of indigestion almost always have their location in the bowels and can only be reached by making the liver and kidneys active. No medicine regulates the liver, kidneys and bowels so nicely and so promptly as do Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers; or Edmanson Bates & Co., Toronto. Do not be satisfied with a substitute or you will be disappointed.

Distinguished Soldier Elected.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Sir Evelyn J. Ruggles-Brise, K.C.B., of London, was elected yesterday as president of the International Prison Congress, and London was chosen as the place of meeting in 1915.

Templeman Corrects.

Ottawa, Oct. 8.—Hon. Wm. Templeman denies the truth of the press reports of a fistic encounter between himself and Jardine, a member of the British Columbia Legislature. There was an altercation, but nothing of the kind suggested by the despatches, he says.

THE CRISIS IS PASSED

The Upheaval Had Been Expected For a Long Time and Most of the Inhabitants Are Glad the Trouble Is Over So Easily—Manuel Received With All Honors by the Warships—Sends a Message.

Lisbon, Oct. 8.—The establishment of republic in Portugal is an accomplished fact.

For a city that has just passed through the throes of a bloody revolution, and sustained a bombardment Lisbon to-day is in cloudless sunshine and wears a remarkable smiling aspect. The Republican flag floats on nearly every building, and from every vehicle, the streets are thronged with persons, with tourists who have their guides accompany them; business generally has resumed its former aspect.

The noticeable outward signs of the new Government are the presence everywhere of the green and red flags of the republic and the complete disappearance of King Manuel's portrait from public exhibitions. In fact, not a vestige is now seen of the postcard portraits of the King or of any member of the royal family.

The damage done to the city by the bombardment was surprisingly light. The total number of killed has not yet been definitely ascertained, but it has not exceeded 300. A couple of hotels near the scene bears marks of shells. There is no excitement.

The recent events are discussed by all classes with phlegmatic calm. The general feeling evidently is one of relief that a crisis, so long anticipated as inevitable, was surmounted so speedily with comparatively little violence and such a brief dislocation of the national life.

The most interesting man in Portugal at the present moment is the new President, Braga. A sidelight on the man is seen in that, Thursday night, after having been elected first President of Portugal, he returned, as usual, in a second class compartment of the train to his hotel in the suburbs.

This revolution was aimed to complete the realization of civil rights, he says. One of the means by which the late dynasty had endeavored to maintain its position, was to continually menace the people with British intervention, in order to crush popular sentiment.

President Braga added that he had every confidence in the national resources and was convinced that an honest administration would suffice, without adventious means, to put the finances of the country on a satisfactory footing.

As striking proof of the earnestness of the man, his declaration that the provinces were calmly awaiting the publication of the manifesto of the republic and that it was forthcoming seemed to satisfy the people.

The Government is about to order a revision of the voting lists, preliminary to holding elections for a constitution. The provisional Government will not remain in office beyond three months.

Religious Orders Expelled?

Frankfort-on-Main, Oct. 8.—The correspondent of The Frankfurter Zeitung at Lisbon says the new Government has decreed the dissolution of religious orders, the members of which, monks and nuns, must quit Portugal within 42 hours. Another decree, he says, calls on the clergy to abstain from writing clerical writings and wearing clerical raiment on the streets.

Message to the World.

New York, Oct. 8.—The Associated Press yesterday received direct from Lisbon a despatch from Senor Bernardo Machado, the Minister of Foreign Affairs in the newly-constituted provisional Government of Portugal, in which the Republican leader sets forth the purpose and aims of the present Government.

Senor Machado, who speaks of the request of and for Theophile Braga, the provisional President of the new republic, cabled as follows:

"The Republic of Portugal has been proclaimed by the army, the navy and the people.

"The maintenance of order is completely assured. There is general adhesion to the Government in the provinces. The enthusiasm of the public is unparalleled.

"The provisional Government has before it a great duty involving much work. It has in effect a country to make over. Concerning our program, I can say that we will endeavor to put in operation the programs of the Republican party. This includes a policy of decentralization, both in the local administration and in the government of the colonies.

"The financial budget is to be equalized in the general interests of the country, and it will be made up with honesty and fairness. The national wealth will be developed.

"All national alliances now existing will be respected and friendly relations with all other states are desired."

Manuel Honored.

Gibraltar, Oct. 8.—The royal family remained yesterday upon the imperial yacht Amelie, from the main mast of which flies a white burgee with a green cross.

Lieut.-Gen. Sir Archibald Hunter, British Governor-General of Gibraltar, accompanied by his official staff, boarded the yacht Amelie yesterday morning and formally welcomed King Manuel to British shores.

Admiral Frederick S. Phelan, superintendent of the British naval establishments here, with his staff, paid a visit to King Manuel yesterday afternoon.

Strict precautions have been taken to safeguard the Portuguese monarch. His Majesty's yacht is surrounded by patrol boats, and no other craft is permitted to approach it.

The American cruiser Des Moines and the fleet with ships dressed and flying the Portuguese flag at the mainmast, fired a royal salute at 9 o'clock yesterday morning in honor of the members of the Portuguese royal family, who have found refuge here. A royal salute was also fired by the Rock Battery.

Too Good to Be True.

Ottawa, Oct. 8.—The report published in certain papers that telegraph rates are to be reduced at the next session of Parliament is not credited. It is pointed out that no resolution of Parliament can reduce the rates of private companies. Two years ago all such concerns were put under the Railway Commissioners.

Two Arrests In Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Oct. 8.—Two men are under arrest in connection with the hunt for The Times Building dynamiters. They are Charles Mehr and Frank Russell. Mehr, according to the report tallied in by the arresting officers, declared that "unions have something also up their sleeves."

Died In Calgary.

Belleville, Oct. 8.—James H. Mills, aged 68, for many years a popular business man of this city, died suddenly Thursday evening at his home in Calgary, whither he moved in June last. Apoplexy was the cause of death.

Botha Will Get Seat.

Johannesburg, Oct. 8.—Gen. Botha will not be opposed in Lichtenberg.

Montreal Traveler Drops Dead.

Chatham, Oct. 8.—Harry Gillies, a traveler for Gault Bros. of Montreal, dropped dead last evening while on his way to his home on William street. Heart failure was the cause. Deceased was previously in the best of health. He is middle-aged and leaves a widow and family.

Only One Will Fly.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—Only one aviator, Eugene Ely, will make the attempt to fly from Chicago to New York for the $20,000 prize offered by The Chicago Evening Post and The New York Times. The managers at a meeting yesterday decided to delay Ely's start until to-morrow.

May Be an Enquiry.

Kingston, Oct. 8.—The Trades and Labor Council by resolution has expressed regret at its unwittingly being the cause, to a certain extent, of Prof. John Marshall being compelled to resign from Queen's. It also heartily endorsed the stand taken by Mr. Marshall as the only one open, to a man of his calibre.

It is understood that an investigation will be demanded by friends into the causes alleged to have necessitated the resignation.

MOTHERS SHOULD WATCH CLOSELY

Diseased Kidneys the Cause of Bed-Wetting

Wellesley, Ont., Oct. 7.—(Special.)—That all diseases of the bladder from bed-wetting to Gravel are the direct results of Kidney Disease, has been proved again and again by Dodd's Kidney Pills. They cure the Kidneys and the Bladder diseases speedily disappear. One of the latest proofs comes in the experience of Mr. George Strobel the well known harness-maker of this place.

"I was troubled with bed-wetting for many years," Mr. Strobel says. "The doctor could not give me relief and no one knows how I suffered. I tried many medicines, till in January, 1905, reading the experiences of others led me to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Nine boxes cured me so completely that I have never been troubled since."

Mothers should learn that when their children are addicted to bed-wetting it is time to look to the cause. The Kidneys are the cause. Cure the Kidneys by using Dodd's Kidney Pills, and not only stop bed-wetting, but ward off serious and dangerous diseases in after life.

HAVE BEEN SUCCESSFUL

Meetings Addressed by Rev. R. J. Zimmerman Have Been Well Attended

While the weather has not been very pleasant, yet a good number of people have been out almost every night to hear the messages given by Rev. R. J. Zimmerman and those who have were greatly blessed and helped by his ministry in the Word. Last night he spoke on the "Baptism of the Holy Spirit," with special reference to the indwelling of the Spirit for a life of victory over sin and communion and fellowship with God, and the Anointing of the Spirit for service. These special meetings will close to-morrow and all who can should hear these closing messages.

ALL MY PIMPLES GONE

Girl Tells How a Blotchy Skin Was Cleansed by a Simple Wash

"I was ashamed of my face," writes Miss Mamie Pickard of Altamahaw. "It was all full of pimples and scabs, but after using D. D. D. Prescription I can say that now there is no sign of that Eczema, and that was three years ago."

D. D. D. has become as famous as a cure and instant relief in eczema and all other serious skin diseases, that its value is sometimes overlooked in clearing up rash, pimples, blackheads and all other minor forms of skin impurities.

The fact is, that while D. D. D. is so penetrating that it strikes to the very root of eczema or any other serious trouble, the soothing Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients are so carefully compounded there is no wash for the skin made that can compare with this great household remedy for every kind of skin trouble.

D. D. D. is pleasant to use, perfectly harmless to the most delicate skin, and absolutely reliable. Write the D. D. D. Laboratories, Dept. P E 39 Colborne street, Toronto, for a free trial bottle and prove its wonderful effectiveness.

Sold by McDermid and Jury, druggists, also Payne's drug store.

WHAT THE MONTREAL HERALD SAYS OF "MR. PREEDY AND THE COUNTESS"

S. R. O. Sign Was Hung Out at the Initial Appearance of Mr. Weedon Grossmith at the Princess Theatre This Week---Loud in Its Praises of the Performance.

(Montreal Herald, Oct. 4.)

An audience which brought out the "S. R. O." sign went to the Princess theatre last evening expecting to laugh. Early in the evening they laughed in the uncertain manner of those who laugh largely because they are supposed to. Later they laughed from sheer merriment in the delightfully funny difficulties of Mr. Preedy as the embarrassed host of an eloping Countess.

Typically English though R. C. Carton's farce is, it is portrayed by that veteran of things humorous, Weedon Grossmith, and his capable company is so thoroughly humorous that it does not require an American audience to appreciate it. Indeed, it is largely the very fine handling of the piece by Mr. Grossmith and his well-chosen company that lifts it above the medium into which it might well fall in other hands, to the plane of a rather ordinary character, depending principally for strength on a number of almost impossible situations. It is the duty of Mr. Grossmith to render plausible these situations, and in doing this he displays his real merit, depending largely for the laugh-producing end on the bright lines and epigrammatic wit with which the farce abounds. In his interpretation, Mr. Grossmith receives from his company an exceedingly fine support for the most part, and a portrayal of characters that, while reeking of the Strand and Piccadilly from accent to sartorial effects, are up to the standard set by the chief comedian, in being sufficiently human to reach a Canadian audience.

MR. WEEDON GROSSMITH
Eminent English Comedian
Who Has Montreal Theatre-goers Convulsed With Laughter Over His Funny Impersonation of Mr. Preedy, in "Mr. Preedy and the Countess." He Will Appear at the Grand Next Thursday, Oct. 13th. Seat Sale Opens Tuesday.

But it was not the play, but Mr. Grossmith that the big audience went to the Princess to see. Incidentally, they enjoyed "Mr. Preedy and the Countess," but the warm welcome which greeted Mr. Grossmith on his first appearance, and the repeated and enthusiastic curtain calls, made it clear that the popular comedian was the main attraction. Perhaps the audience came in the hope of trapping Mr. Grossmith unawares into a revelation of the secret art by which he renews his youth, and the location of the fountain whose waters he utilizes to ward off the advance of the years. Mr. Grossmith finds himself in the role of a buoyant and at times worried young lover, and he does not have to force himself to play the part. Mr. Grossmith makes love in a delightfully deferential manner, he throws out vivid lovers in enthusiastic fashion; he entertains elopers; he denounces the "musty bounder," and all in a youthful and sprightly fashion which must give concern to Father Time.

It is not often in the average man's life that a Countess, eloping with a tea-selling gentleman, drops into his apartments, and calmly appropriates his bed and board while the other party of the elopement wanders off to see dying relatives. If they do, it is bound to make a certain amount of trouble and misunderstanding, especially for a recently engaged young man. It is not well to entertain eloping ladies in one's apartments, especially when one has for a rival a fastidiously moral dentist of dying habits.

The supporting company's efforts were, on the whole, well up to the standard set by Mr. Grossmith. The personality of Joanna, the eloping Countess of Rushmere, as portrayed by Miss Granville, made the role all most plausible, or as nearly so as anybody could make the story of a gilded lady boiling with a greengrocer, merely to annoy her husband, and taking quarters in the apartments of a hitherto unknown gentleman.

Mr. Grossmith has been thoroughly conscientious in the selection of his company. He showed good taste when he chose Mr. Arthur B. Murray to do the part of Bilson, the mute servant, for he did it excellently well. Neither did he make a mistake in choosing Cyril Ashford for the role of Reginald Saunders, dental surgeon, for as a character interpretation this part was well done. Pretty Miss Ethel Kirkham had comparatively few lines as Preedy's fiancee, but like Mrs. Sidgrave, Miss Lydia Rachell, and Harriet Rudgeon (Miss Lynn Fontaine), she did the part well. H. Hewston furnished an Earl of Rushmere sufficiently peppery. Herbert Maule was thoroughly respectable as Mr. Sidgrave and Edward Bofield was clever in the small part of the Hon. Robert.

ANNUAL MILLBROOK FAIR WAS A SPLENDID SUCCESS

In Spite of Bad Weather on Opening Day There Was a Splendid Showing in all Lines And The Attendance Yesterday Was Fully up to The Average—Boy Scouts And Horse Races.

MILLBROOK, OCT 8. The annual Central Exhibition held here today was a complete success from start to finish. Despite the cold rain which fell yesterday, the cattle, sheep hogs and poultry were numerous and of excellent stock. In the main building, a magnificent display of fancy work, art, and other similar exhibits were to be seen. In the agricultural line a lot of excellent roots and grains brought in by the surrounding farmers, were on exhibit, and reflected credit on the farmers who grew them. The excellent weather was favourable to the people and about 4,000 people were on the grounds. Peterborough was well represented. The special train of five cars, which left here for Peterborough at 7.20, was packed, besides a large number which left on the regular train. The main feature of the exhibit in the building were the numerous bouquets of flowers. They were greatly admired and the majority of them took prizes.

The afternoon's proceedings were begun by an exhibition of manoeuvres by the local Boy Scouts, under Capt. Winslow, Col. Young, D.A.A.G. of Kingston, inspected them, and was greatly pleased with the excellent manner in which they went through the manoeuvres. The local band supplied appropriate music for the occasion, and the boys won the admiration of the large crowd, which had gathered to watch them. At the close of the drill, about two o'clock the boys were drawn up in a square and the Colonel addressed them briefly, giving them due credit for their fine showing and wishing them every future success. The boys gave three cheers for Col. Young in response.

The judging of the heavy and light draught horses was then proceeded with. The animals were of a very high class and a large number were taken going out of the ring with the red ribbons waving from their heads. A large number of horses of every class was shown. The beef cattle were not numerous, but what were there were of first-class stock. Some excellent sheep and hogs were shown. In fact all the animals were of excellent stock.

The baby show was an interesting feature. First, second, and third prizes were offered. The winners were as follows:

First prize—Mrs. W. Sales, Millbrook.

Second prize—Mrs. Bell, Millbrook.

Third prize, Mrs. Robt. McNight, Millbrook.

The horse races were then run off on the third-mile track. They were warmly contested and were an interesting feature of the day. The 2.28 class was cancelled and only the 2.15 class ran. The judges were Messrs. Robert Munro and Leary, and Mr. John Clancy of Peterborough, was starter. Only three entries were made and three heats. The results are as follows:

"Patterson," Fred Jones, (Peterborough) ..... 1 1 1

"Harry Mack," D. H. McMahon, (Realboro) ..... 2 3 3

In the first heat Harry Mack trailed the other two until the last lap, when he shot past Lulu Chimes, dropping into second. In the second heat Hary Mack made a bad start, getting somewhat off his feet at the turn, and came in third place, and the same in the third heat. Patterson, the winner, had great speed, although Lulu Chimes chased him hard. A purse of $80 was the prize to be divided between the three.

In the evening, beginning at eight o'clock a concert was given in the town hall. The artists who appeared were specially engaged for the occasion from the Harry Rich concert and entertainment bureau, Toronto. The different numbers were greatly appreciated by a large crowd, and each item was greatly applauded. The programme was as follows:

Piano solo—Miss Clarry.

Comic song "The Postman"—Eddie Pigott.

Humorous monologue Mr. O'Toole at the Photographers—Mildred Walker.

Character Costume song "Call me up Some Rainy Afternoon"—Eva Cuthbert.

Comic song—"Tobermory"—Eddie Pigott.

Soprano solo—Creole Love Song—Mildred Walker.

Character song "Nicolini"—Eva Cuthbert.

Comic song—"Never Trust a Policeman"—Eddie Pigott.

Dramatic reading "How Salvator Won"—Mildred Walker.

Character song "I'm Running Up the Family"—Eva Cuthbert.

Comic song—"Rallybelle"—Eddie Pigott.

Humorous monologue, selected—Mildred Walker.

Character song, "I want Some One to Love Me"—Eva Cuthbert.

Vocal solo, selected, Mildred Walker.

Humorous duet, selected—Miss Cuthbert and Eddie Pigott.

Piano accompanist, Miss Clarry.

The concert was a success and everything seemed to work out just right.

The Examiner made arrangements to have a full report of the prize winners in every class, and the list will likely appear in Monday's paper.

Canalejas Is Determined.

Madrid, Oct. 8.—At a meeting of the Senate yesterday Premier Canalejas reiterated his intention to adhere to his anti-clerical program, including the "padlock bill." He criticized the Episcopate and the Reactionary elements for their attacks against him and declared that his defamers would be held responsible.

The Premier denied that discord existed in the Spanish Cabinet, adding: "We will win or die together."

New B. C. Railway.

Ottawa, Oct. 8.—The British Columbia and Alaska Railway Co. will apply to Parliament next session for incorporation. The proposed railway will run from Lytton, along the Fraser River, to Fort George, and follow the Stewart River to Port Conley, then following the valley of the Skeena River, the Stickeen and Teslin to Dawson.

The Quebec Railway, Light, Heat & Power Co. will ask Parliament for an extension of its charter to enable it to construct and run railways.

Cured in Three Days!

This is the Gatlin Institute's eleventh year. Thousands of men and women have taken the Gatlin treatment. There has been failure to cure in no case. The Gatlin treatment is administered under a plain, legal contract to cure any case satisfactorily in three days. Any expressed dissatisfaction on leaving the institute means that the full fee will be refunded.

No Hypodermic Injections, No Poisonous Drugs, Therefore No Bad After-Effects.

Hypodermic injections are dangerous—can and do cause blood poisoning, abscesses, paralysis and atrophy. There are no hypodermic injections with the Gatlin treatment, and only three days' time against 28 to 42 by injection methods.

Home Treatment The Gatlin Home treatment is for those who cannot come to the institute for three days. It is just as efficient as institute treatment if simple directions are followed. Call, telephone or write for particulars.

$400,000 to Philanthropic Purposes.

Albany, N.Y., Oct. 8.—The will of Horace B. Silliman of Cohoes, N.Y., a former textile manufacturer, which was admitted to probate yesterday, bequeaths the entire estate of over $400,000 to philanthropic purposes. One half of the estate goes to William R. Moody, son of the late Dwight Moody, the noted evangelist, to aid in conducting his institutions at Northfield, Mass. The other half is divided among a number of institutions; various Presbyterian funds receiving about $110,000, including $56,000 for foreign missions, and the international Y.M.C.A. $13,000.

Mr. Silliman contributed liberally to philanthropic undertakings previous to his death. He opened a school for boys in Manila, and gave $200,000 to the Presbyterian board of home and foreign missions in New York.

To Build New Steamer.

Collingwood, Oct. 8. The Collingwood Shipbuilding Co. has closed a contract for a steel passenger and freight steamer for Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence River to Quebec, with the Ontario and Quebec Navigation Co. of Picton. The steamer will cost $175,000.

Victim of Infant Paralysis.

Oshawa, Oct. 8. Fred Gibson, aged 21, night operator on the Grand Trunk, is dead after only twenty-four hours' illness from infant paralysis. His body will be taken to Napanee, his old home, for interment.

Fatal Boiler Explosion.

Cochrane, Ont., Oct. 8.—One man was killed and two injured by an explosion of a saw mill boiler Thursday at Frederick House, seven miles west of here.

The dead man was Otto Breise, and the injured were William Breise and Fred Breise, all members of the same family.

Otto Breise was about 46 years of age, and came to this country with the rest of the family from near Bracebridge, Muskoka district.

Newspaper Man Promoted.

Quebec, Oct. 8.—It is stated that Ulric Barthe, for many years an editorial writer on the staff of La Vigie, and the author of a number of articles on the Liberal party, including a book entitled "Sir Wilfrid Laurier on the Platform," will be appointed to the Legislative Council. Mr. Barthe is well known throughout the province as a conservative and well-meaning writer, and his appointment to the Legislative Council will give unqualified satisfaction.

Missionary a Suicide.

New York, Oct. 8.—Officials of the Methodist Episcopal Church received a cable from Foo Chow, China, yesterday, announcing the death by suicide of Ernest Linton Paige of Hamilton, N.Y., a missionary in China. The despatch stated that the act was due to serious mental trouble, brought on by overwork, and the heart. He had been in the missionary service but a year.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

Letters of a successful Business Woman to her niece.

V.

Dear Niece Joan:

A girl in an office not a mile from here just lost a corking good position because she didn't realize that a business office wasn't either a candy store or an afternoon tea.

The man she worked for was one of a dozen stenographers and very proud of the good tone of his office force. They are an exceptional lot of sensible and refined young business women, and he takes as much pride in their appearance and sensible clothes as he does in their work.

This girl was different. She was a good worker, too good at punctuation and spelling, and a neat and accurate stenographer, but there was one thing she didn't know the A, B, C of, and that was how to dress in a business office.

One day she would appear in a flamboyantly blouse with [illegible] red sailor's tie, the next she'd have on an alarmingly peekaboo waist with a very Dutch neck and a flat ribbon showing of blue ribbons, and the third she'd be found in a half-suited afternoon dress. She was the kind of girl who thinks about fancy buttons in the kitchen or the office.

Then, of course, she'd always get the trimmings to match her pumps and sweater stockings, her gloves, big showy hats, fancy neck chains that would get caught in the typewriter—and all that sort of thing.

The employer stood it for awhile. He thought the sight of the six other girls, who always looked both charming and business-like in regular business shirt waist suits and finished their whole wardrobe with a simple tailored suit would soon tone her down.

When it didn't he mildly suggested a more appropriate form of costume and she was vastly insulted and left in a huff.

Now, you're of course, I know that you aren't that kind; but it won't do any harm to be reminded to keep yourself plenty away from it.

That man was exceptionally fussy, I know, but I've heard a good many business men talk, and I know that, while they are flattered by the overdressed and all about looking pretty, they really admire and approve of the woman who comes in a business-like way for business.

Don't worry about looking dowdy. Most women look about as well in well tailored suit and well-fitting corset or simple blouse, as they do in the most elaborate costume.

The girl who goes in on the car in the mornings, who has a navy blue tailored suit and a stock of neckwear and always has fresh and perfectly kept gloves, is the one dozen men admire to every one that sample of [illegible] with branding [illegible] me as a sap. That last suit is awfully [illegible] think it looks ex[illegible]

No [illegible] cross with me, will [illegible] dear, it's only my [illegible] for edification.

THEY WANT POWER.

Manitoba Towns Want Government to Imitate Ontario.

Winnipeg, Oct. 8.—Representatives of various municipalities throughout the province interviewed the Provincial Government yesterday afternoon with a request that the Government should secure a power site, instal a plant, operate it and sell power to municipalities at cost. If the Government should be unwilling to do this, then the representatives of municipalities asked that the Government should investigate the question and guarantee the bonds of a strong company and secure from it a guarantee that it would supply power at a reasonable price.

The deputation went as a result of a meeting held in the City Hall at St. Boniface yesterday, called by the City Council of St. Boniface. The municipalities responding to the call were: Brandon, Portage, Carman, Morris, Stonewall, Emerson, Beausejour, and Selkirk.

It was stated that many propositions had been considered by the various municipalities of the province from the various companies. These propositions carried in merit, but none of the municipalities alone was able to take hold of the offers. It was now suggested that these municipalities should get together and consider the question, and if it seemed agreeable, that the Government should be approached. It was intimated that members of the Government had already been advised of steps which had been taken.

Injuries Prove Fatal.

Brantford, Oct. 8.—After a period of unconsciousness, from Tuesday evening last, Simons, employed by Contractor Reid on the Holmedale sewer construction gang, expired last night as a result of injuries received in a row with Armenian laborers employed on the same work. Coroner Fissett will open an inquest to-day.

Two Armenians are under arrest and will be charged with inflicting the injuries on Simons. They are Koran Copatan and Koran Magarian, and were arrested immediately after the fight. Simons was struck over the head with dinner pails, and was taken home in a state of paralysis from which he never awoke.

The Armenians state the dead man was the instigator of the fight. Simons, who leaves a wife and family, is well known locally.

Earl Grey's Important Mission.

Montreal, Oct. 8.—Three more letters were added yesterday to the long list which already trails after Earl Grey's name. Besides being Governor-General of Canada, His Excellency is now a Doctor of Civil Law. The degree was conferred on him at noon yesterday by the chancellor of the University of Bishop's College School, the English Church institution at Lennoxville near Sherbrooke.

In regard to his coming trip to the West Indies, it is understood Earl Grey is traveling, not under orders, but under the request of the British Government, and that he has been asked to report upon the advisability of opening negotiations with Denmark with a view to purchasing the Danish West India Islands of St. Thomas, St. Croix and St. John.

Appointment Recalled.

Montreal, Oct. 8.—There is no end of comment here over the case of the French-Canadian nomination to a seat on the I.C.R. Railway Commission. Some weeks ago the Government, upon the recommendation of Mr. Turgeon, M.P. for the County of Quebec, appointed Apollinaire Corriveau, a Quebec lawyer. No sooner was it announced, than a howl went up from all the other members from the district, and the Government has had to announce that the commission will not be issued.

Judge Lebeuf of the circuit was offered the position some weeks ago, and declined the honor.

A Laudable Object.

Ottawa, Oct. 8. Henri Bourassa, the Quebec Nationalist leader, having hinted that certain prominent French-Canadian directors of La Sauvegarde, a new French-Canadian insurance company, had ta' n practically the same grounds as Le Devoir, his paper, which advised French-Canadians to deposit their money in French-Canadian banks, Senator N. A. Belcourt makes the statement that La Sauvegarde was founded principally for the purpose of endeavoring to keep within Canada money which for years had been going to American insurance concerns.

Russian Aviator Killed.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 8.—Matievich, the Russian aviator, was killed yesterday in a fall from a bi-plane while at a height of 3,930 feet. He held the Russian altitude record of 3,937 feet, which he made in a Bleriot monoplane Oct. 3, and was trying yesterday to exceed this. Last Wednesday M. Stolypin, the Premier, made a ten minutes' flight with him.

Matievich had risen 3,930 feet, but decided to ascend. When at a height of 1,040 feet his machine suddenly upset and the aviator was thrown out and came hurling down like a plummet, reaching the ground before the biplane. All the principal bones of the body were broken except one arm. Loss of control of a lever is supposed to have been responsible for the accident.

Women shrieked and fainted and the wife of Matievitch became delirious, and it is feared she will be permanently insane.

On Trail of Galt Burglars.

Galt, Oct. 8.—A daring robbery was committed two weeks ago at Galt Rope Works, when $800 worth of goods was stolen. Yesterday Chief of Police Gorman recovered all the property, together with a lot of other stuff stolen from private residences in the past summer.

The identity of the thieves is known and the police are after them. They are two Americans, who have worked in local factories for months. They got away very cleverly after finding out the police were on their track.

Drawing the Line.

Mistress—Bridget, I want you to go to market with me this afternoon.

New Maid—I'll resign me job first, mum. I'll not walk down th' street wid a lady th't's carryin' a market basket.—Toledo Blade.

Lost Gold Mine Located Again.

Bisbee, Ariz., Oct. 8.—Mexican officials at Cananea announced the rediscovery of the old Santa Fe-Teresa Gold Mine, one of the few really "lost" mines of the south west, which was known to have been worth millions of dollars, and which has been lost for many years. The main shaft is well preserved.

Captain Bell's Body Found.

Berlin, Oct. 8.—A body was found yesterday on the Lake Erie shore at Tilbury East, about four miles from Merlin, known to be that of Captain Thomas J. Bell. A gold signet ring with initials "T.B." was found on the man's finger, and a letter found in his clothes from his wife, dated at Ogdensburg, N.Y., Nov. 1, 1909, care steamer Clarion, Detriot, Mich.

Railway Safety Appliances.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Definite standards of safety appliances to be attached to railway cars and locomotives finally have been agreed upon after a third of a century of effort.

It is estimated that the proposed changes in equipment will cost the railroads about $50,000,000.

Further Proof.

"He's as regular as a six day clock."

"I noticed that he always looks run down on Sundays."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Street Car Strike's Dray.

London, Ont., Oct. 8.—Patrick Hyland, expressman, 586 Hill street, is in a dying condition as a result of being thrown heavily to the pavement on Dundas street, early yesterday evening when an Ottawa avenue car struck his dray. S. Kelso Davidson, artist, 878 Richmond street, was riding with him and was terribly bruised. He may be injured internally.

Motorman Lang says something appeared to go wrong with the horse's harness when the rig was crossing the track.

New Lord of Appeal.

London, Oct. 8.—Attorney-General Sir W. S. Robson was yesterday appointed Lord of Appeal-in-Ordinary to succeed Lord Collins, resigned. Rufus Daniels becomes Attorney-General, and John A. Simon, Liberal member of the House of Commons for Walthamstow division of Essex, Solicitor-General.

Hundreds Drowned In India.

London, Oct. 8.—Hundreds of religious celebrants were drowned by a sudden overflow of the Ganges River near Agra, India, according to a despatch to Reuter's yesterday.

Thousands were encamped along the river for a religous festival, when the river rose suddenly, almost as though by a tidal wave.

Town Topics.

One might easily infer from the amount of preparation being made to dig for Kansas City's new union station that the task is several sizes larger than the Panama canal.—Kansas City Star.

Yes, little old New York is really a dizable town. Everything considered, we are proud of little old New York. It is destined to be for all time the metropolis of our Atlantic coast.—Chicago Tribune.

St. Louis claims that it would have 810,000 inhabitants if it would annex the thickly populated areas just outside the city limits, but it hasn't performed the annexation act as yet.—Galveston (Tex.) Tribune.

Household Hints.

A crust of bread is best to clean a sticky bread or cake pan. Never use a knife or anything that will scratch the surface and invite more sticking thereafter.

A cork full of thumb tacks kept in the workbasket will be found invaluable when cutting out garments, as the tacks hold the patterns securely and do not wrinkle the goods.

It is a good plan to keep two egg beaters on hand, one of ordinary size for common use and a larger one to use when an extra amount of cream or egg whites is to be beaten.

Tales of Cities.

New York police records show that 05 per cent of all persons accused of burglary go free.

The city of Hamilton, O., proposes to cover part of its main street with a glass canopy and illuminate the interior with powerful electric lights.

Although with its suburbs Glasgow has 1,000,000 inhabitants, there is no Great White Way in that city. In fact, electric signs are virtually not in use at all, there being scarcely a dozen in the whole city, and those are small and feeble.

The Hobble Skirt.

What a combination a hobble skirt and the man who rocks the boat would make!—Philadelphia Inquirer.

We imagine a woman with a hobble skirt on feels like a man does when his suspenders break in company.—Clayton (Ala.) Record.

According to a New York dispatch, the hobble skirt fad is "disappearing rapidly." It was not supposed anything in a hobble skirt could disappear rapidly.—Kansas City Star.

German Gleanings.

Germany exported nearly 2,000 tons of lead pencils in 1909.

Noiseless paper for theater programs is a German novelty.

The Berlin police recently gave the contestants in a boxing bout orders not to hit hard, and when one of the overzealous boxers scored a knockdown he was at once disqualified by the referee.

INQUEST ADJOURNS

Two Lines of Investigation Are Now Before the Officials In Charge of Anderson Murder Case, and Detective Greer Is Unwilling to Announce Along Which One the Enquiry Will Now Proceed.

Goderich, Oct. 8.—The community was again surprised last night when a further adjournment of a week was made in the inquest into the murder of Lizzie Anderson. The Town Hall was again filled at 7.30, but Coroner Holmes announced that a further adjournment was desired by the detectives.

This is in order that the evidence taken up to date may be forwarded to the Deputy Attorney-General for examination, and for further advice as to the future conduct of the enquiry, and whether or not to proceed along the lines taken on Wednesday night, when the whole effort was directed to the movements of Edward ("Punch") Jardine, or whether to follow up the alternative clue reported Thursday as to the queer conduct of a young man who paid two little girls to wash bloodstains from his clothing. The coroner also intimated that the department might consider it necessary to commission a special counsel to close the enquiry.

Inspector Greer was a calm so far as making an explanation of this surprising turn of affairs was concerned. "We adjourned, simply because we were not ready to go on," he said, and nothing more could be got out of him. Later he added: "If I were to tell you just what is in the wind, and it appeared in the papers, it might thwart the end we are trying to attain."

TWEED MAN IS GUILTY

Aged Farmer and Trapper Denies the Crime and Also That He Met Any of the Witnesses Who Said They Saw Him—Jury Takes Four and a Half Hours to Come to a Decision In the Matter.

Belleville, Oct. 8. At 1.35 this morning the jury in the case of Robert Parker, aged 71, charged with having shot and killed his still older neighbor, William Masters, near Tweed last April returned a verdict of guilty.

The jury had been out since nine o'clock, or 4 1-2 hours.

Chief Justice Mulock did not pronounce sentence.

The verdict was accompanied by a strong recommendation for mercy.

The feature of the day was the evidence given in his own behalf by the accused. He denied having threatened the deceased, and declared he had not fired the fatal shot.

The address of the presiding justice emphasized the necessity of being certain that they did not convict an innocent man.

Parker took the verdict unmoved, resting with his hands shading his eyes and looking away from the jury and toward the clerk.

All the evidence was in at four o'clock, and E. Guss Porter addressed the jury. If there was a single circumstance in favor of the prisoner, the law supposed that they had done their duty if they acquitted him. There were a series of alleged facts upon which the case for the crown depended. He attacked all the evidence that the crown produced.

"A reasonable doubt is not what the clever mind of a counsel can conjure up and display before you," said Mr. White for the crown. "Masters' blood might have been carried to Parker's door, but even then a doubt might have been conjured up. Some one else might have put it there. A reasonable doubt is one that a reasonable man may reasonably entertain and find a reason for." He explained that circumstantial evidence was not the absolute proving of every link. It was only necessary that there be a set of facts sufficiently to satisfy them that Parker was guilty.

Mr. White said he did not think Parker had gone out with the intention of killing Masters. He had noticed the activity of the old man, and had gone to investigate, taking his rifle, as was his habit. Then the opportunity to murder Masters had come and he was possessed by a rage on account of the wrongs he had imagined he suffered, was powerless to resist the temptation, and fired.

Mr. White reconstructed the crime and went over every step as he thought it had occurred. His tale was vivid and dramatic. During the narrative, not a sound but his voice was heard in the room. The prisoner clung on every word, watching Mr. White's gestures intently. Now and again he would swallow with difficulty.

Robert Parker gave his age as 71 and said he was rather broken down in health.

"Did you shoot Masters?" he was asked.

"I did not."

"Do you know anything of the shooting?"

"Only what I have heard of."

He had spent the morning in going to the postoffice, reading, and going to Tweed. He went to other places as well. Though several people had seen that they had seen Parker on the morning of the murder, he declared that he had not seen them.

The evidence of several witnesses, who swore he had made threats regarding the old man, was read by the stenographer, and Parker showed signs of distress. His voice trembled, and once he mopped the perspiration from his face with his handkerchief.

"A man may say things that he never thinks of after," he quavered, after declaring he remembered none of the statements sworn to by witnesses.

EXAMINER ROAD RACES ON THANKSGIVING DAY WILL BE THE BEST IN WHOLE LIST

The fifth annual senior road race for the championship of the Midland counties and the fourth annual junior race for the junior championship of the same district, under the auspices the Peterborough Examiner will be held, as usual, this year, on Thanksgiving Day, Oct. 31st. The policy adopted by the Examiner of offering the best possible prizes and of conducting the races upon the principle of fair play to everyone has resulted in these annual contests becoming the most popular and important sporting event of the year in the Midland district.

The Examiner senior race was inaugurated in 1907 and was so successful that it was decided in the following year to institute a junior event upon the same lines. The success of the senior event was repeated by the youngsters. At first the races were limited to the residents of Peterborough County, but last year the scope was extended to include the adjoining counties as well. Outside entries have always made a good showing in the big events, and last year both senior and junior championships were captured by outside runners, Albert Smoke of Chemong, winning the senior, and Willis Edwards, of Keene, the junior. Fair play is assured to every contestant, and there is no favouritism whatever. The prizes have not yet been announced, but the Examiner is making arrangements to secure even better awards than have been given in the past.

The distance for the senior event is ten miles, and for the juniors five miles. The seniors must be bona fide amateurs and residents of either Peterborough, Hearborton, Victoria, Northumberland or Durham counties, while the resident limit of the juniors is the same and entrants must be under eighteen years of age.

Senior, 1906—
1 R P. Best, Y.M.C.A. Harriers.
2 Ernie Wilson, Y.M.C.A. Harriers.
3 Fred Simpson, Hiawatha.
Time 59 minutes, 50 seconds.

Senior, 1907
1 Ernie Wilson, Y.M.C.A. Harriers.
2 Ben Howard, Hiawatha.
3 Charles Moss, Havelock.
Time 55 mins., 16 secs.

3 Bertram Cross, Peterborough.
Time, 29 mins., 30 secs

Juniors, 1908
1 Bertram Cross, Knox Church Boys' Club.
2 Garnet Tovey, P.C.I.
3 Jimmy McMartin, Otonabee A. C.
Time, 31 mins., 7 secs.

Juniors, 1909—
1 Willis Edwards, Keene.
2 Garnet Tovey, Peterborough.
3 Teddy Heard, Bobcaygeon.
Time, 28 mins., 30 secs.

For Peterborough entrants the entrance blanks in the Examiner may be used. Outside entries may send their names and addresses to the Sporting Editor of the Peterborough Examiner.

ANNUAL FIELD DAY OF THE COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE YESTERDAY A SUCCESS

Perfect Weather, an Interesting Programme in Which One Record Was Broken and Another Equalled, and a Good Attendance Were Features of the Meet.

With the weather conditions perfect, a lengthy programme of well-filled and well contested events, and a splendid attendance of the pupils, staff and friends of the school, the annual athletic meet of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, held yesterday afternoon at Riverside Park, scored a big success. The rainy weather for the greater part of the week had made the students rather dubious about the chances of holding their field day yesterday, but their fears were groundless. The clerk of the weather is evidently a friend of the garnet and gray, as a beautiful October day, with a bright sun, clear sky and just a tinge of autumn in the air that made ideal conditions for such an event, greeted the contestants. The track was in surprisingly good shape, considering that it had just come through a three days' steady rain. The events were warmly contested and many of the finishes were decidedly close. In fact the final of the junior hundred yards was a dead heat and had to be run over again, and in other events the finishes were almost as close. One record went by the boards during the day. Vivian Fessenden clipping two fifths of a second off the mark for the 220 yards sprint. He preceded this by equalling the record for the senior one hundred.

Owing to the fact that the wet weather throughout the week made it impossible to run off the jumps and that the length of yesterday's programme prevented them from being included in the events, the result of the senior and junior championships is still in doubt and will remain so until after Monday night, when the balance of the contests will take place.

Murray Carlisle has a good lead in the junior, but in the senior championship things are still in a very exciting state. Harold Hill, last year's junior winner, and Vivian Fessenden are tied with twenty-two points each and Clarence Fusie is only a point behind, so that everything depends upon the result of Monday's contests.

The Senior Events.

Vivian Fessenden showed his class in the 100 yards and 220 yards senior races, winning both handily. In the first heat of the 100 he was pooled with Nick Phelan and Art Gilbert and won without much opposition. There were only two starters in the second heat, which was a light hurdle for Harold Hill, who won from Ross Laing looking back. The final heat was a grand race. Fessenden got a bad start and had to come up from behind. Phelan led for sixty yards, but Fessenden came along like a whirlwind and breezed past in the last stages. Hill followed him through and just nosed out Phelan for second place. The heat was negotiated in 1.1-5, equalling the record.

Fessenden repeated by winning the 220 yards in clever fashion. He had too much speed for his field and had plenty in reserve. Phelan and Hill had a good battle for second, the latter annexing the place. Fessenden's time in this event creates a new record.

The 120 yards hurdles proved a good race. Nicky Phelan had little difficulty in winning the first heat, beating H Hill and A. Gilbert, and Fessenden had just as easy a time in the second heat, beating Ross Laing. Aband battle was expected in the finals, but the heat proved easy for Fessenden, with Phelan second and Hill third.

Clarence Fusee, the winner of the senior road race, showed that his victory on that occasion was merited by giving a grand performance in the quarter half and mile, all three of which he won without difficulty. The newcomer has a fine burst of speed, runs with judgment and is evidently full of endurance. The quarter was considered a little short for him, but he carried off the event without trouble. There were four starters, Hill, Fessenden and Phelan, being the others. Phelan took the lead at the start but Fusee soon overtook him and went out in front and was never challenged afterwards. He let loose with an extra sprint 150 yards from home and ran away from his field. Hill was second, and Phelan third.

The same story was told in the half mile. Ross Laing took the lead at the start and cut out a lively pace, but Fusee glued in behind him and the two went away from the other pair. Hill and Phelan. Fusee hung on until Laing showed signs of cracking up and then shot past him and won by himself, with Laing second and Phelan third.

The mile was even easier for Fusee. The same field as in the half contested this race, but there was nothing to it but the winner after the first lap. Laing and Phelan went out ahead for the first circuit, but Fusee refused to allow them to stay there, and as soon as he took the lead and began to draw away, the ex-leaders quit, leaving Hill the only other contestant. The latter stuck to the finish, but Fusee steadily drew away from him and won by a quarter of a lap.

The other senior event, the pole vault, was captured by Harold Hill after a hard fight with Claude Bartlett. They both cleared at 7 ft. 4 in., but could not get any higher and Hill finally won when they broke the tie by vaulting at a less height. The take off was very soft and uncertain and bothered the contestants.

The Junior Events.

The junior 100 yards was the hardest battle of the day. Meredith Huycke captured the first heat in handy fashion and Murray Carlisle breezed home in the second. The final, however, was a great struggle. Carlisle and Huycke fought every inch of the way and breasted the tape together in a dead heat. In the run-off, however, Carlisle had more left in him, and after running neck and neck for seventy-five yards he shot ahead and won by a yard in 12 1-5 seconds.

Carlisle also captured the 220 yards sprint, winning his heat and the final. Huycke won the first heat, but tired badly and dropped out of the final before the tape was reached.

The longer distance events uncovered a most promising youngster in Bill Morris, who carried off the quarter, half and mile in decisive style. The kid had a lot of speed and ran a handy race in all three events, using the best of judgment throughout. There was a large field in all three. The 4-40 was a race all the way, but Morris had the stretch speed and came away when necessary.

The half mile event was interesting. For over half the distance the seven youngsters bunched alternating in taking the lead, and it looked like a tight finish. As the bunch turned into the last lap, however, Morris cut loose with a splendid sprint that carried him right away from the field and he won as he pleased.

The mile was a hardier event, but Morris showed that he had the necessity staying power, with the speed at the finish. Dixon led for the first lap, but Morris took command in the second with Clare Stewart at his heels. The rest began to drop back but most of them were within reaching distance. Both leaders sprinted at the end of the fourth lap, thinking it was the finish, but the extra effort did not seem to hurt them as they negotiated the final lap in good time. As they swung into the stretch Stewart tried to shoot past Morris, but the latter uncorked an extra link and ran away from his challenger.

The junior hurdles developed an interesting finish. M. Huycke won the first heat, with Stewart second and Carlisle galloped home in the second in advance of Quinn. The final was exciting all the way. Carlisle led by a yard until the last hurdle, when he fell and the other three shot past him. Stewart and Huycke battled to the tape and the judges gave first place to Stewart, who won by an eyelash. Huycke was second and Quinn third.

The Girl's Races.

Miss Elsie Mowat easily cleaned up the championship among the girls, winning three out of four events. Miss Mowatt won the potato race, the needle race and the egg and spoon event, all three of which provided considerable amusement for the spectators as well as for the contestants. The potato race, in which each girl had to pick up six pounnes of tetre scattered around the swath and deposit them in a basket, was a close battle, but Miss Mowat displayed the most sequence.

The girls' baseball throwing event brought to light a star in this line in Miss M. Grady, who gave the lie to the tradition that a woman cannot throw, by hurling the Spalding a distance that made many of the boys open their eyes. She easily won the event.

The obstacle race for boys was a mirth provoking contest. There were so many entries that it had to be run in two preliminaries and a final. The contestants were required to crawl through barrels, wiggle through the rungs of a ladder, squirm under a net and repeat the process on the return trip. Ross Laing was the ultimate winner, winning his heat and the final. Chambers was the other heat winner.

The jockey race was a new one on the programme, but proved amusing. The conditions were that one of the team was to carry his partner on his shoulders seventy-five yards, reverse the mounts and return. Lees and Laing who were second in this event were unplaced by the judges for failure to comply with the conditions.

An interesting event was the Interform relay race, which closed the programme. Five forms were represented and the race was a handicap with Form 4 on scratch, Form 1B, the winners, and Form 2B, the second team, were given twenty-eight seconds' handicap and the lead could not be overcome.

The Collegiate Institute Athletic Society is indebted to H. S. Macdonald for the Macdonald Cup, to Mayor Morrow and Alex. Gibson, Esq., for the promise of medals, to the Board of Education for a donation of $30 and to the Y.M.C.A. for the kind loan of hurdles, vaulting poles, etc.

The list of events follows:

100 Yards, Senior (First Heat.)
1 V. Fessenden, 2 N. Phelan, 3 A Gilbert. Time 11 2-5. secs.

100 Yards, Senior (Second Heat.

St. John's Church.
1915 University Avenue, Des Moines, Iowa.

I am in a position to state that the Neal Institute does all that it claims for its patients. I am personally acquainted with three cases (two of whom I thought were beyond treatment) that took the treatment and are to-day a different type of men. It is beyond doubt a saving grace for poor fellows that wish to get rid of a slavish habit, but have not got the strength to do it themselves. I can safely recommend the Neal Institute and hope that all who have a desire to rid themselves of a vicious habit will give it a trial.

SHORT HISTORY OF THE PETERBOROUGH CREAMERY

The largest summer creamery in Peterboro, is the Peterboro Creamery, an illustration of which is reproduced herewith. This creamery was started some five years ago by the late Peter Downham; it was taken over in the early part of this season by Mr. G. A. Gilespie, of Peterboro. Extensive improvements have been made both inside and out. This creamery has been a success from the first. The make has constantly increased from year to year, this year reaching an average of 40,000 pounds a month from June to September.

The creamery building is 55 x 33 feet and is equipped with all modern appliances for making butter. The four cream vats have a capacity of 800 gallons. Electricity furnishes the power, steam being used only for heating. The boiler is located at the back of the make room. In the front is the cold storage and a small office. Through this office a large retail trade is carried on with city people in butter, cream and butter-milk. The greater part of the make is disposed of locally and in nearby towns. The creamery is under the management of A. E. Juby, the staff consisting of three men and one girl.

The milk produced in Peterboro Co., Ont., for the most part goes to cheese factories. The creamery illustrated herewith is the largest in the county. It is owned by G. A. Gillespie, of Peterboro.

STOVES AND CHIMNEYS.

Clean stoves thoroughly, inside and out, and rub well with kerosene or linseed oil those that are to be set away. This will prevent rust. If convenient, wrap paper or old sacks around them. It is an easy matter to clean a chimney, says one woman who has tried it. Just throw a piece of zinc into the fire — a piece ripped off your old washboard will do—and it will do the work, and do it well. This hint is worth remembering and passing along. A good polish to cleanse and brighten the nickel plating on stoves can be made as follows: Take equal parts of whiting and baking soda and mix to a thin paste with water. Apply with a soft rag, rub a little, wipe off with a clean, moist rag, and then rub dry with tissue or any other soft paper.

CLOSETS, CHESTS AND CUPBOARDS

Clean the closets thoroughly. Remove all contents and sort them. Remove to garret all that for which you have no possible use the coming season, clean all that need cleaning, replace what is wanted, after thoroughly washing, and disinfecting, if need be, all shelves and parts of the closet. If you find moth traces, sprinkle borax in all dark corners and spray some Persian insect powder into cracks and corners. Or use liberal quantities of borax mixed with a little powdered sugar to destroy insects.

When cleaning chests or closets where clothing is kept, heat a small piece of iron red hot, place it in a metal bucket, put it in the cupboard and pour over it a small cup of vinegar. Shut the door quickly and tightly and you will not be troubled with moths, as the steam permeates every crevice and kills everything. Of course, contents should first be removed from the closet.

SHADES AND CURTAINS.

Take the old shades off the rollers and with a long stitch hem the top ends on sewing machine. Put the sticks in the new hems and tack the old hems to the roller.

When your window curtains acquire that dingy, dust-stained appearance, so annoying to a neat housewife, try cleaning and freshening their surfaces with corn meal. Spread the shades flat on a large table, heat the meal thoroughly in oven, then rub the shades with the meal with a brisk circular motion of the hand, as though trying to rub it into them. Then, with a clean, dry cloth, remove all traces of the meal. You will note with pleasure that dirt and dust stain have disappeared with the meal dust.

To mend curtains, wash, starch and iron, or dry on frame in usual way. Then cut generous piece of some old curtain large enough to more than cover the torn or worn places. Dip these pieces in thin starch, lay over the holes, and iron dry. The pieces will adhere, and, skilfully done, the mending will not show.

SCREEN DOORS AND WINDOWS.

Clean and paint window and door screens during the winter, so they will be ready in time. Wash or scrub with soapy water, rinse and dry in sun and air. Paint with very thin, black or dark green paint. It is improved if mixed with a small part of varnish.

WINDOW WASHING

Don't forget the blinds. Brush the dust from all slats and corners, and wipe with a damp cloth. Dust sash and glass before washing. Have plenty of water, but don't slop. Wash sash first with borax water or soap suds, and dry with a soft, thick cloth. For the glass there are many good commercial, non-scratching and scouring soaps to be had. It is better not to use much soap. Put kerosene or ammonia in the water, or a emulsion of both, allowing 1 tablespoon of each to a quart of water. Dry with a soft cloth and polish with a lint-free cloth, or with tissue paper. Never wash windows when the sun is shining on them. Remove paint spots with clear ammonia, kerosene, turpentine, oxalic acid, or strong solutions of vinegar or salsoda, hot. Can also be rubbed off with corn.

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, one of the most prominent women lawyers of the country, is devoting most of her time to investigating child labor conditions for the government.

Miss Lilla Larshbough, a society girl of Fargo, N. D., won a $10,000 prize for a decoration to be used on the silver service of the new Dreadnought battleship North Dakota.

Mrs. Harriet Chalmers Adams has recently completed a journey which encircled the entire South American continent within three years and is the first white woman to set foot upon many points reached by her in her travels.

Mrs. Johanna Secrup, janitress of an apartment house, has received $70,000, her share of her mother's estate. She undoubtedly is the richest janitress in New York, for besides this legacy she has in bank the larger part of $20,000 she inherited from her father six years ago.

Mme. Georgette Leblanc Maeterlinck, wife of the Belgian dramatist and philosopher, has achieved distinction apart from that pertaining to her position as the wife of a famous writer. Mme. Maeterlinck is known as an opera singer, essayist, lecturer and as a suggestive commentator on her husband's works.

Base Hits.

Joe Evers, younger brother of the Cubs' famous second baseman, has signed as shortstop with the West End club of the Chicago City league.

The Boston Americans are delighted with the playing of Purtell at third base. This lad this season has played like a star, and moreover he is a team player rather than an individual performer.

Pitcher Ed Walsh of the Chicago White Sox says there is a hitch in his elbow which does not allow him to let himself out at top speed. Even with a sore arm pitchers of the Walsh type would be welcomed by any team.

The announcement by President Charles H. Ebbets of the Brooklyn team that "Bad Bill" Dahlen will manage the team again next year was a bit of welcome news to Brooklyn fans. Despite the fact that the Dodgers cannot finish better than sixth place this year Dahlen is given credit for skillful handling of the team.

Cheer Him.

The man who wins is always cheered,
So save your mite of loud applause
And give it to the brother who
Is fighting in an uphill cause.
—Detroit Free Press

Cradle Song.

Sailing in a cradle soft
To Lullaby Land, Lullaby Land,
The sandman steers us safe along
With steady hand, with steady hand.

Baby is the first to spy
The Lullaby shore, the Lullaby shore,
The sandman winks a knowing eye
And piles his oar, and piles his oar.

Now we've reached the Lullaby Land,
Where dream trees grow, where dream trees grow,
And shadow people, hand in hand,
Come and go, come and go—
Sh sh sh!
—Philadelphia North American.

Shopping Passion.

The new bride was telephoning to the iceman.

"How much do you want?" he asked.

"Oh," and she stopped to think, "a piece about ten inches long and four wide, just enough to keep this dear little steak till Archie comes home to lunch."—Buffalo Express.

A Mistake.

The little cares that fretted me,
I lost the other day
Among the waves of the sea,
Among the sands of play.
—Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

That is to say, I thought, you know,
That I had lost them then,
The girl was right though,
And they came back again.
—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Compromise.

"Sir," began Lord Brokedegh pompously, "I've called to request your daughter's hand in marriage."

"That's out of the question, my man," replied old Roxley. "However, I don't want to seem altogether uncharitable, so here's $5 for you."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Signs.

Signs in the heavens—
The storm flag's unfurled.
Trouble is coming
To worry the world.
Life such a riddle
But now it's a chance
To hunt up a fiddle
And—who cares to dance?
—Atlanta Constitution.

A Fair Ratio.

"We wish to arrange for an exchange of prisoners," announced the South American dictator.

"On what basis?" inquired the leader of the other side.

"The usual basis—eight generals for a good, husky private." — Louisville Courier-Journal.

CHEESE BOX FACTORY WAS TOTALLY DESTROYED BY A SPECTACULAR FIRE

Loss Is Divided Between Mann Lumber Co. and E. H. Mann & Company—Fire Had a Good Start and Brigade Had a Hard Fight to Save Rest of Plant.

THE CAUSE IS UNKNOWN

The cheese box factory on Dublin street, the building of which is owned by the Mann Lumber Company, was totally destroyed by a costly and spectacular fire, which broke out in the plant about 8.30 o'clock on Saturday night. The building itself was completely wiped out and the machinery was damaged to a considerable extent, while other sections of the plant, including the boiler house and the planing mill, were also affected to a lesser degree. The company is unable to give an estimate of the total amount of loss, although an official calculation places the figure at $3,000 made up of $2,000 to building and the balance to contents.

The blaze started in the boiler house, which is situated midway between the planing mill and the box factory. The exact cause of the conflagration is unknown. Mr. E. H. Mann stated to the Examiner that it may have been due to a defective wire or a spark from the boiler. In any event the fire had a good start before a couple of boys noticed flames breaking through the roof of the box factory and Mr. Mann, who lives opposite the factory was notified and turned in an alarm from Box 42 at the corner of George and Dublin streets at 8.35 o'clock.

When the brigade arrived on the scene Chief Howard saw at once that the box factory was doomed to destruction. Flames were shooting out everywhere, and fanned by a gentle southeast wind, were being driven towards the planing mill, which with several dwelling houses in the immediate neighbourhood were in danger of meeting the same fate as the box factory. It looked for a time at least as if the planing mill as well could not be saved, but the brigade devoted all their attention to keeping the flames away from it and the other buildings, and they were successful in their efforts after a stubborn fight. The blaze had gotten such a good start and was working on such inflammable material, that the brigade had a very awkward proposition on their hands, but they won out. Seven lines of hose were laid from hydrants on Dublin and George streets and poured tons of water upon the blaze, which was eventually put under control and extinguished. The box factory in which the chief fire was, was a wooden structure and with from hundred cheese boxes in the second storey, burned like a torch. The result was a most spectacular fire. The flames shot into the air for a distance of thirty feet above the roof and illuminated the city for blocks around its neighbourhood. When the brigade commenced to pour water into the flames a dense pall of heavy black smoke resulted in making an effective background for the lurid flames from the other part of the building.

An enormous crowd of people quickly gathered on the scene. The fire

REVOLUTION IN SPAIN MAY BE NEXT STEP

Circulars Widely Distributed Urge the Dethroning of Alphonso and the Formation of the Peninsula Into One Big Republic---Ex-King Manuel Will Live in England.

Examiner Special.

MADRID, SPAIN, OCT 10.—To immediately dethrone King Alfonso, unite with Portugal and form one great Republic of the Peninsula. This is the proposition that is being openly advanced in circulars and meetings with revolutionists flocking the country to-day. A crisis is momentarily expected. The authorities have made several arrests of the more talkative Republicans, but it is quite plain that the majority of the people favour a revolution. In all churches yesterday the priests made a determined attempt to stem the tide, but the great crowds on the streets heard nothing and would have cared nothing for this religious advice. Influences are bobll yat work in the army and navy and the rumour is that most of the men and hundreds of the officers have been won over to the side of the revolutionists. The Queen Mother has left the Royal Palace, but this does not appease the clamor for the dethroning of King Alfonso. Advices from Lisbon this morning indicate that the order exiling nuns and monks is being carried out, in some cases with gross unfeelige and celerity. From Bibraltar comes the new that the exiled King Manuel and his suite have practically decided to live in England. The boy king could he would have abdicated if Cortez ha dasked him to do so and saved bloodshed.

TERRIBLE SITUATION IN RAINY RIVER DISTRICT TOWN ITSELF IMPERILLED

Special Wire to the Examiner.

RAINY RIVER DISTRICT, OCT. 10.—Closer and closer the flames are advancing on this town, and in the opinion of many the only hope for salvation from the flames of unfortunate Minnesota towns and villages, is a rainstorm, snow or heavy frost, and there is no sign of either at present. However, the wind has decreased somewhat and this will give us a longer lease of life. Meanwhile every Canadian Northern train, freight and passenger, from the east, west and south, is bringing in hundreds of refugees, some with all their effects, others with not even an overcoat. The burning of several bridges on the railroad, stops the work of rescue immediately, and the fire fighters are handicapped. The estimates of the dead are merely probbunatic. They run from one hundred to six hundred. Seventy-five bodies already have been recovered. Doubtless there are many bodies of settlers in the depths of the burned woods which will never be found. The question of establishing refugee camps near here has not been decided, owing to the precarious condition of the town itself. Firemen from Winnipeg, Fort William, St. Paul and other cities have arrived, but it is questionable if they could be of any use. Looting has been rampant here in the excitement. A policeman is dying at the hospital as the result of being shot while defending a safe in a local store from shopbreakers. The town council is considering the advisability of asking for troops.

SCHOOL TEACHERS HEROINES OF FIRE

RAINY RIVER, OCT 10.—Myra Dirt and Minnie Shearer. These are names that will go down into history as heroines of this terrible fire. They were school teachers in the district south of the war road. Miss Dirt saw to it that all her children were safely out of the fire. Then she started herself for shelter, but was overcome and was found by rescuers with injuries which will likely be fatal. Minnie Shearer led her children to a box car on the relief train and fought off all adults until the babes were safely within. The latest despatches indicate that the fire is approaching the Manitoba Boundary line and the village of Longworth is burning.

PRISONERS ESCAPE

Special Wire to The Examiner.

CURACAO, CENTRAL AMERICA, OCT 10. Two hundred military and political prisoners in fortress here revolted and escaped, after murdering eight guards. The island is over run with these men, who are penniless, and the inhabitants are terror stricken.

IS IT IMMORAL?

MONTREAL, OCT 10.—Is the Yiddish Jewish Bible immoral? This was the question this morning before the Recorder's Court, when G. A. Woodman, a Bible security Colporteur, was brought in on a charge of peddling illegally. Judgment was reserved.

SCALDED TO DEATH

GUELPH, ONT., OCT. 10.—George Dempsey, aged 4 years, upset a pot of boiling soup over himself from the kitchen stove. He is terribly scalded and will die.

WHO IS THE REAL FRIEND?

The Mail and Empire asserts that Sir Wilfrid aLurier "has always been hostile to Canadian industry." Assuming that the Mail and Empire has not with an accident and stumbled upon the truth for once, the more of Sir Wilfrid's "hostility to Canadian industry" we have the better. Under a regime of Conservative "friendship" for Canadian industry," Canadian industry in all its manifestations, was in a moribund condition; we had dull times, dwindling revenue, accumulating debt, decreasing trade and discouraging conditions. The Conservative administration that was "friendly to Canadian industry" showed its friendship in so left-handed a manner that they forfeited public confidence, which was transferred to a Liberal leader "hostile" to Canadian industrial interests" What was the result? The Liberal party was pledged to reform the protective tariff which had not only brought into existence many industries, but had, under ineffective administration, developed many abuses, accompanied by widespread industrial paralysis. When under these circumstances, a party pledged to tariff reform, took the tiller, the party "friendly to Canadian industry"—on its own showing and claims- viewed with alarm, amounting in the case of Sir Charles Tupper and his school, to panic, the proposal to lay impious hands on the "N. P." What was done and what resulted? In the first place business was done. Hon. W. S. Fielding, whom Sir Wilfrid Laurier in a moment of inspiration made Finance Minister, made a tour of Canada, studying conditions at first hand and close range. He listened to what each manufacturer had to say, frankly and freely discussing the subject. He refused to be hoodwinked by the special pleading of special interests, and listened patiently to a fair presentation of the manufacturers' case. He left the impression, which was justified by later action, that the tariff would be readjusted with a view to justice to all classes and the preservation of legitimate interests. His first tariff removed the shackles from the manufacturing industry, swept away vexatious tariff anomolies and special privileges. He not only made the tariff an aid to manufacturing industry, but gave confidence to enterprise by making the tariff stable—and meted out even justice between consumer and producer. The result has been that Sir Wilfrid Laurier's "hostility to Canadian industries" has been attended by a prosperity, such as Canada never before experienced—not only industrial prosperity but prosperity and expansion in every department of national activity, commercial, financial, agricultural and developmental— and infinitely ahead of the stagnation and decrepitude that had come over Canada under the administration of the Conservative "friends of Canadian industry." Does the Mail and Empire take its readers for fools?

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. Geo. H. Perley, M.P., of Argentuil, has accepted the position of Chief Conservative whip in succession to the veteran, Mr. George Taylor, M.P., whose time limit of life leads me to seek relief. Mr. Perley takes a great interest in the suppression of a great national constitutional malady, and apart from his personal qualifications, should nturally take a large and effective interest in the political ailments of the rty for whom he acts.

THE WEST AND THE TARIFF.

(Ottawa Free Press)

The west is a great country, great in area, great in resources and great in the variety of its opinions, upon the tariff as upon other questions. There are staunch free traders, like Dr. Michael Clark, of Reed Deer; there are revenue tariff men, like Mr. Langley, whose opinions we have already quoted; and; and there are even high protectionists of the Gurney school. These men doubtless base their fiscal opinions upon some settled theories, but there are others who, in the desire to make political capital, will blow hot one day and cold the next. To the latter class belongs The Winnipeg Telegram, which believing that there was an opportunity to make some party capital out of the undoubted desire on the part of the farmers for a revision of the tariff downwards, demanded free trade in agricultural implements and endeavoured to do its little best to boom the low tariff sentiment. Now, however, it has seen fresh light and asserts with Mr. W. H. Rowley that there are no free traders in the West.

But, and it is a very important stipulation, The Telegram served warning upon the manufacturers that "if the abuses of the tariff are not remedied, if the people are to pay toll to one set of manufacturers as the price of reasonable protection to others, if exaction is to become so incorporated with protection as to be inseparable from it, if no scientific principle of national advantage is to be applied in the adjustment of the tariff but only the bestowal of political favours, then there will be an uprising, not indeed in favour of free trade, but for relief from an intolerable burden even if the price of free trade must be paid."

That is "going some" for a newspaper which has stood by the "adequate protection" plank of the Borden Halifax platform, but it is not all The Telegram serves warning upon the manufacturers in these words:

> There is no overwhelming difficulty in scientifically adjusting the tariff so that the purposes of protection shall be served. Many manufacturers, in making out their cost sheets solve to a fraction of a cent, as hard a problem every day. It is the element of human greed working through virtual bribery to the debauching of the consciences of the nation's representatives which has introduced, fosters and perpetuates the abuses of the tariff.
>
> It is as well that the manufacturers and the Manufacturers' Association should remember that if they intend to be the indiscriminating defenders of, and apologists for everything that is done in the name of protection and by means of the tariff, they will be responsible if the country takes the bit in his teeth and, running away, smashes the vehicle in which they are riding. To use another simile, when a nation starts in house-cleaning it recks little of how much damage is done in the process. In fact, in the end it often finds itself with a cleansed ruin instead of a dirty house. But do not let the manufacturers advance that as any excuse for a dirty house.

But would it not be better policy to treat the tariff as a business question? The situation does not call for bull in a china shop tactics, but for serious and careful consideration in the interests of the whole country, and of every part of the country.

Lieut.-Col. Tidswell Dead.

Hamilton, Oct 10.—Hamilton lost one of its finest and best-liked military men on Saturday afternoon in the death of Lieut.-Col. W. O. Tidswell, commander of the second bridge of the Canadian Artillery. He died at his home, 158 South James street, after a few minutes' illness, from heart failure. He complained of feeling ill, and laid down on a sofa. A few moments later he expired.

Woman Burned to Death.

Ottawa, Oct. 10.—While cooking at the kitchen stove at noon yesterday, Mrs. Dennis Murphy of 138 Clarence street set her apron on fire and rushed into the street. Her clothes caught, and she rushed back into the house. Her screams awoke her husband, who came down to find her fearfully burned. She died at 5 o'clock in the hospit.'

Victor Napoleon to Marry.

Brussels, Oct. 10.—The banns of the marriage of Prince Victor Napoleon and Princess Clementine of Belgium were published yesterday. The marriage will take place about the middle of November.

Lonesborough Returns to England.

Ottawa, Oct. 10.—The Earl of Lonesborough, military secretary to Earl Grey, returns to England at the end of the present month. His successor will be Mr. Malcolm of the Foreign office.

The Problem Of Reciprocity Embarrassing To Uncle Sam
